Army Reorganization Affects Local Centers

Three local Army agencies have been combined into one command, designated the U.S. Army Mobility Support Center as part of the Army's reorganization plan.

The new organization integrates the Army Engineer Maintenance Center, 52 Starling-st, and two agencies of the Columbus Army Depot, the Quartermaster Equipment and Parts Center and Quartermaster Purchasing Agency. The Mobility Support Center will be a field element of the Army Mobility Command, with headquarters at Center Line, Mich.

Maj. Gen. Alden K. Sibley, chief of the Mobility Command in Michigan, named Col. Earle B. Butler, 2541 Schaaf-dr, present commander of the Engineer Maintenance Center, to head the new organization.

Col. Butler said that the Mobility Support Center will have a yearly payroll of about $23 million and will employ about 1,800 Civil Service, 800 contract and 30 military personnel.

Personnel now employed by the three elements that constitute the center will continue to work at their present locations. The missions of the center will represent an integration of the combined previous assignments.

The EMC duty is to provide repair parts and maintenance support for engineer equipment used by the Army and the Air Force.

The Quartermaster Equipment and Parts Commodity Center provides materials handling equipment, special purpose vehicles, aerial equipment and repair parts supporting this equipment. Maintenance engineering is provided for all quartermaster equipment and a worldwide technical assistance program is carried out.

The Quartermaster Purchasing Agency buys repair parts for materials handling equipment and special purpose equipment, and procures the supplies needed to keep the depot in operation.

Bexley Solons Urge Operating Levy Drop

Bexley City Council adopted a resolution requesting the County Budget Commission to reduce Bexley's municipal operating levy upon real estate by two mills per dollar of assessed valuation for 1963.

Doyt E. Bell, Finance Committee chairman, stated: "As a result of prudent administration and substantial collections from inheritance taxes Bexley Council deems it safe to reduce the operating levy for municipal purposes, with the result that Bexley will have the lowest real estate tax rate for municipal operation of any sizeable city in Franklin County."

To illustrate the effect of the reduction, Bell said, "Of the total of $31 per $1,000 of real estate paid by Bexley residents in 1962 the city receives only $4.20 for all municipal services including police pensions and bond retirement. The remaining $26.80 goes to the state, the county and the Bexley school district.

"Thus a Bexley resident whose home is valued for tax purposes at $8,000 in 1962 is paying a total of $33.60 for fire and police protection, garbage and refuse collection, street and light maintenance, public health administration, traffic control, recreational facilities and the other municipal services.

"Under the voluntary reduction the same resident will pay for these services only $17.60 for the entire year 1963."

Bell concluded: "Bexley residents should remember that no action by City Council ever could affect constitutionally authorized or voted real estate taxes due the state, the county or the Bexley school district, concerning which Council has no authority or responsibility."

ADULTS INCLUDED AS RECREATION PROGRAM EXPANDS

Whitehall Recreation Director Ernie Spychalski reports that the city is stepping up its activities program to include more adults.

He said that a women's program will be conducted Thursday nights, from 7:30 to 10, in the Whitehall High gymnasium. This is for girls 18 years old and over.

An adult men's basketball program is also being conducted on Tuesday nights, from 7:30 to 10, in the Rosemore Junior High School.

As soon as things are settled in the new municipal building, much of the recreational programs will be moved to the basement there.

Thrift Leads to Good Living

This week H. C. Gockenbach, Jr., reminded us that this is National Thrift Week and that the theme is "Thrift leads to good living."

It is good to know that someone is encouraging something that today has grown a little bit old-fashioned with many people.

In this day of get it and spend it too many families find that life can be difficult when they come face to face with trying circumstances at a later date, only because they have not saved something for some rainy days.

Thrift does lead to good living.

The Die Is Cast

This heading comes from back in the days of the Caesars but it is most applicable today.

Since the address of the President on Monday evening, there can be little doubt as to where we stand. For the most part there is full accord with the stand that has been taken except for

Homemaker Judging In Full Swing

A late surge of entries at deadline has the three judges in Hartley Newspapers' search for Homemaker of the Year working overtime this week.

The judges, Mrs. Warren Smith, 350 W. South-st, Worthington; Mrs. Mary Ann Brackey, Buckeye Village, and Mrs. Gladys McAndrews, 1936 Fairmont, are working afternoons and evenings interviewing the nominees.

The Columbus area homemakers who are selected as finalists will be given all-expense paid trips to Chicago where the national finals will be held in mid-November.

National headquarters for the Suburban Press Foundation, sponsor of the event, has announced a gala agenda of activities for the finalists.

Festivities include trips to the theater, meetings with nationally known celebrities, and television appearances.

Watch Hartley Newspapers' special Homemaker Supplement Nov. 7-8 for announcement of the Columbus finalists and further details on the national recognition event, which offers a grand prize of $5000 to the winner of the National Suburban Homemaker of the Year honor.

THE TROUBLE WITH HALLOWEEN IS . . .

THAT GALS like the one pictured here have to cover their pretty faces with ugly ol' masks. That's Merrieanne Young's thought, too, as the 3234 Livingston-dr resident prepares for the Trick or Treat season. She used a little ingenuity, though. Merrieanne works in the office of the Columbus School of Art and Design and she just dropped next door to the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts and chose this fierce mask from Rhodesia. That ought to make the natives restless.

East Side Businessmen Meet Tonight

The East Side Business Association will hold a regular meeting tonight (Thursday) in Hoover's Restaurant, Kelton and Main, with guest speaker Donald Leach, director, Ohio Unemployment Compensation.

The meeting begins at 7 p.m.

Leach is expected to inform the businessmen on the new unemployment tax issue which is slated to go before the 1963 legislature.

The group also announced plans to work jointly with Hanford Village Post 690, American Legion, on a Hallowen Party in Hanford Village Park, Wednesday, Oct. 31.

Near East Side Council Hosts Conference

The Near East Side Area Council will be host to a statewide housing conference to be held Oct. 25 and 26, at the Neil House.

Dr. Robert C. Weaver, Housing and Home Finance Agency Administrator, will be guest speaker at the closing dinner-meeting on Friday at 7 p.m.

NEIGHBORHOOD CENTER

First Church Proving Effective In Molding Youths Of 'Decay' Areas

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Amidst the rumble and grumble of area decay and deterioation, a small group is rising above the crowd and unfurling like a brightly-colored banner in its efforts to rehabiliate near East and South Columbus.

It's the First English Lutheran Church, McAllister and 22nd-av, and a Neighborhood Center project started there in 1961 by Pastor Leopold W. Bernhard is rapidly coming into its own.

"The neighborhood in which First English Church is located is among the most blighted areas of the city," Pastor Bernard said. "Housing conditions are appalling . . . juvenile delinquency is nowhere else as high . . . and a steady stream of Negroes and southern mountain folks moving into the community makes for abject poverty and constant emergency needs in regard to food and housing not met by county or state provisions, and for a terrifying low standard of morality."

Strong words? Perhaps. But, it was such realization of a growing decline of the area that spirited the First English Church congregation to devise this Neighborhood Center which is currently enjoying almost incredible success.

Basically, the Center is a

Ohio-av, as they pause for some conversation in the Neighborhood Center of First English—a Center for use by everyone in the near East and South Side community.

They Call It Home . . .

Perhaps the major difference between your home and the new quarters of the Whitehall Fire Department is that it's a little less startling to be awakened by an alarm clock than a four-alarm clang.

But, the new eight-bed addition atop the Yearling-rd Fire Station is "Home, Sweet Home" to the men who bunk there in the new dorm. And, this around-the-clock alert should be comforting to homes throughout the city.

Part of the new complex is devoted to office space (see picture at left). Fireman Dick Stoughton, 89 Collingwood-av, checks things with Fire Prevention Inspector James A. Soteriades in the new office room.

There is also a shower room in the back of the sleeping area.

The complete complex was just finished last month.

Why Halloween All Year?

Halloween soon will be here and gone again—or will it?

The pranks and, even worse, the vandalism usually associated with Halloween have become a year round business. Costly business in terms of property destroyed.

There are those who say Halloween in the 1960's is a tame affair compared to the rugged vandalism of bygone years. Could be. But, now we seem to have this kind of destruction all the year through.

Witness some of the random things that have come to our attention in the last six months: the smashing of hundred of dollars worth of grave markers and mausoleum properties in cemeteries, especially Greenlawn; juveniles last June let loose most of the fire extinguishers in West High; the parsonage being built near the new Glenwood Methodist Church has suffered window and door breakage three times in as many weeks; a car, parked beside Hilltop Lutheran Church is stolen in broad daylight and two days later recovered behind a trailer park, stripped of its accessories.

Contractors, especially, bear the brunt of malicious mischief. They complain almost daily that youngsters put sand or water into the fuel tanks of the machinery, that unfinished buildings are broken into and tools are wrecked or stolen. Window smashing is perhaps the No. 1 pastime of punks who have no respect for property.

Last week's attack on Rosemore school resulted in a roundup of youngsters hardly in their teens who surrendered a whole arsenal of grisly handmade tools of violence.

It has been the policy of Hartley Newspapers to play down juvenile crime — we prefer to give due space to the 90 or 95 per cent of the fine youth who keep out of trouble. Nevertheless, there seems to be an almost cancer-like decay of our moral fiber which will ruin us if it is not checked.

Police juvenile workers declare they are doing the best they can with their limited resources. But, too often their good work is cut down by indulgent judges and indifferent parents.

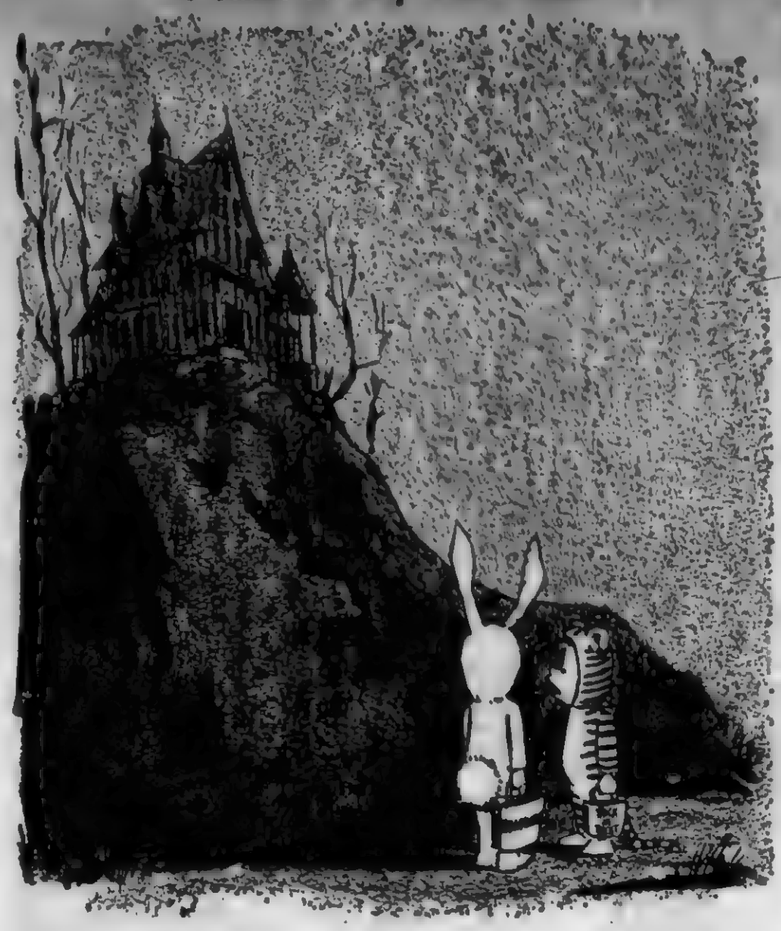
Indulgence and indifference — they can bring catastrophe. The whole country looked the other way when Castro incited his first rumble in Cuba. Now the situation has gotten out of hand.

Are we unwittingly creating monsters like this in miniature in our own communities? Let's rip off the mask of complacency! Visit the courtrooms, then choose judges with backbone the next time you vote. Work through your church, community council, or simply as an individual to help the police do their job.

But most of all it is imperative that we be responsible parents, setting an example of decency for our children.

Advice For Young Spooks:

Witches aren't the only thing stirring on Halloween, warn the Columbus Fire Prevention Bureau and the American Medical Association.



There are painful burns and even more tragic accidents waiting to pounce on masked youngsters carrying candle-lighted pumpkins or dressed in flimsy, flammable clothing.

Here are a few simple precautions you can take to help insure that the tot makes it home safe and sound.

- Don't let the child wear a mask. It may slide down over the eyes and block his vision. If the mask covers the entire head, there is danger of suffocation. Paint on a false face with eyebrow pencil, grease paint or burnt cork.
- Fit costumes snugly so they don't catch on hedges, bushes, fences. Don't make them long enough to trip the child.
- Lighted candles or torches are definitely ruled out. If a light is needed, make it a flashlight. Don't use lighted pumpkins indoors, either, where they can set fire to curtains or decorations.
- Make your costumes of bright colors, with stripe of reflective tape. Avoid dull black clothing which is hard to see.
- For extra safety, costumes may be flameproofed by dipping in a simple solution: three quarts of warm water, seven ounces of borax and three ounces of borac acid.
- Homeowners can help make Halloween safe by removing hazards such as lawn furniture, garden tools, trash cans. Leave porch lights burning, front and back, until the spooks retire.
- If you're out in your auto on Halloween, slow down and drive with extra caution and alertness.
- Keep pets inside, especially dogs. The strange costumes might frighten animals.

The safest Halloween of all is a party at your home or a neighbor's for the kids on the block. This will provide an evening of fun and will keep them off the street.

AEW Week Set . . .

American Education Week, when all citizens are invited to visit their schools for a full report on their activities, will be held this year from Nov.11-17. Educators estimate that 30 million Americans will visit the schools, during the annual week this year.

Friend Of Rt. 40 Cites Fate Of Rt. 42 Areas

To The Editor:

Last Sunday we drove to Mansfield, O., and went from Delaware to Mansfield over Route 42. Until two years ago it was a busy highway, with prosperous filling stations, restaurants, motels, etc. Now it is a deserted country road. Stations closed, restaurants boarded up, small town dead looking, and all because of the new I-71.

Now Columbus is faced with a new threat to all the same things with the talk of the new Route 70 to Springfield. People will not leave super highways to shop in small towns or to hunt motels or restaurants. They use the ones that border the road.

This should be of great concern to the businessmen along Route 40. Just a ride to Mansfield along 42 from Delaware will show what I mean.

Perhaps Route 40 could be saved with overpasses and no left turns. A lot could be done on less than the $36,000,000 the new road will cost.

UNICEF— Hoodwink Or Humanitarian?

To The Editor:

We are approaching Halloween with its traditional "Tricks or Treats" activities for children. Undoubtedly there will again be attempts by a few critics to sabotage collections for such bona fide drives as UNICEF and the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP).

It is exceedingly unfortunate that a few persons attempt to destroy such works of mercy that serve to feed children and suffering refugees, many of whom are the victims of communism and other forms of political oppression.

Of all the countries of Europe that have recelevd UNICEF aid in the last eleven years, (Austria, Finland, Germany, Greece, Italy, Poland, Spain and Yugoslavia) only two have communist governments. These are Poland and Yugoslavia, which countries are also receiving other forms of government aid from the U. S. These governments are both giving difficulties to the Russian government by some display of independence of the Moscow directives. If the U. S. government aids these countries, why is it wrong if some UNICEF funds go there to feed hungry children and families? This might be a strong form of anti-communism.

In 1961, out of a total of more than $30 million dollars allocated by UNICEF, less than one percent went to families and children in these countries.

Since 1950, five such countries, including Cuba, have received aid and all five of them have contributed to UNICEF. There is no connection between "giving" and "receiving" countries for UNICEF is designed to aid children and families. This is done where the need exists and the government agrees to do its share to make the aid effective.

Aid is provided in the form of goods and commodities. It is not a matter of simply giving cash to a government to do with as it wants.

It is to be hoped that citizens will remember these facts when the smear campaign is unleashed against UNICEF and similar programs of community service.

G. Weir Hartman
Executive Director
Columbus Area Council of Churches

To The Editor:

The main burden of financing UNICEF is on the taxpayers of the United States who carry about 80 per cent of the burden. The main purpose of the Halloween campaign is to put churches on record as favorable to UNICEF. This helps to get more of the taxpayrs' money out of Congress.

UNICEF does not deal directly with the people of the receiving countries as many Americans have been misled into believing. It is strictly a supply agency, and merely sees the aid to the port of entry. From there, the World Health Organization, the Food and Agriculture Organization, and the country receiving the aid take over.

Communist governments have representatives on UNICEF's governing board. Communist dictatorships and governments which lean towards the communist propaganda line receive a large proportion of the UNICEF "aid."

It is also consistent with communists to ignore the real meaning of Christmas — the birth of Christ.

At least 33 per cent of the artists who drew the 1959 UNICEF cards are or have been connected in some way with Communist-front organizations. The greetings printed on the UNICEF cards also contain the greeting printed in the Russian language, but no cards are sold in atheistic Russia.

Do you intend to let your child collect Halloween UNICEF pennies for the communist anti-Christ dictators?

A Life That Is Real Is Centered In God

When we ask the question, "What is life?" the answer we receive depends upon the individual's viewpoint. One person's viewpoint of life would be a very drab extistence for another person.

Rev. Gossett

Life, as most people think of it, is an endless pursuit of things such as; wealth, position, popularity or a desire to become famous in the eyes of the world.

Others think of life as having a good home and family and an income that gives them a feeling of security for the three score and ten years they are allowed here on earth. There are other illustrations we could use but this will suffice for the present.

Now we come to the question, "As good as some of these things are, are they all that life holds for us?" God's inspired revelation to us, the Bible, says no. "And this is the record that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in His Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life." I John 5:11-12. Therefore life, both temporal and eternal, centers not in things but in the person of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

All over the world medical science is waging a losing battle against the ravages of human disease which begins at the cradle and ends at the grave. Why? Paul in his Epistle to the Romans gives the answer. Romans 7:24, "O wretched man that I am! Who shall deliver me out of this body of death."

Therefore this earthly life is not life but progressive death. Life that is real is centered in God, the Savior and giver of all life. In the earthly ministry of Jesus, he said, "Life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth. The life is more than meat, and the body more than raiment." Luke 12:15, 23. In this chapter Jesus calls a rich man a fool, not because he was rich but because he had left God out of his life. Let us not be so foolish.

Four New Books Enrich Outdoor Scene

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

Publishers are quick to follow the interests of people, and you can judge the popularity of a sport or hobby by the number of books and magazines on the subject. The outdoor scene has been enriched considerably in recent years by a great variety of fine books.

I have just been reading from four books, all by Doubleday incidentally, which would fall into this category. "A Sense of Nature" by John Hay and Arline Strong, is unusual in that it is primarily a picture book. It is short, with its 128 pages taken up with large photographs that speak for themselves.

Photographer Arline Strong has done an excellent job of capturing outdoor adventure as seen through the eyes of youngsters. The accompanying written material, by John Hay, is almost poetic. You might expect this if you had read Hay's two previous books "Nature's Year" and "The Run."

In this book photographer and writer followed a group of children on their wanderings one summer on Cape Cod and have related their adventures as they happened. "A Sense of Nature" would be excellent for both adults and children.

The other three books are part of a "Made Simple" series, and are aimed at beginners. These three cover the study of birds, fish and trees. All are paper backed and are inexpensive.

In "The Study of Birds Made Simple" the range of topics is comprehensive and therefore cursory, ranging from evolution to birds as pets. In between are such varied phases of bird study as physical adaptations, behavior patterns, classification, courtship, food protection and defense, migration, photographing birds and many others.

All of the books are quick and to the point, and they invade the scientific realm with a light touch.

They are well illustrated with line drawings, and these are particularly helpful. The one of fish has even tackled a larger subject than the bird book, for both fresh and saltwater must be touched upon. More easily condensed into such a beginner's volume is the subject of trees, but this has been done before.

"A Sense of Nature" is outstanding, and the others are adequate. All would be fine additions to an outdoor library.

COUNTRY EDITOR

He founded and for nearly a score of years edited an important publication for the state of Ohio. That was his second career. Before that, as the seclished of three generations of newspaper men he publishd and edited, for almost half a century, a county weekly in Pomeroy, O. Now, at 83, since he took to "pasture" in Fairfield County's Baltimore, he still takes a keen interest in the show.

We speak of Oliver Hartley (not kin to our publisher). A name in itself means nothing to a casual reader, but we speak of Mr. Hartley as a representative senior citizen, now necessarily grounded, but still aware.

As a "country editor" in the days before unions and specializations, Mr. Hartley learned and often had to do everything about getting his paper on its way. But his chief job was writing hundreds of columns and putting copy together. Items from county correspondents came in, but Mr. Hartley always gave much thought to his editorials. Too often his saddest task was to write the valedictory for his friends, young and old.

Country editors, along with family doctors, may be on the way to join the dodo. Perhaps we shall never know how great was their influence in molding opinion and encouraging efforts spent in building this nation. This is a tribute to one of them as representing all. As they have their memories, so may we remember them.

What's Lovely About Lovelorn Columns?

Like most women, my wife, Virginia, loves to read lovelorn columns.

McPeek

So who cares? It's a harmless outlet for the girls to release their natural nosy instincts. It gives them a vicarious sense of snooping on the neighbors.

In my wife's case, it even gives her an occasional chance to take a little jab at me. Like if she's reading a column in which some whining shrew is complaining about the habits of her spouse, almost invariably Virginia will insist on reading the column aloud.

The motivation is obvious: Virginia thinks I may recognize a "bad habit" of my own and take steps to correct it.

But her third-grade psychology won't work. Through years of effort, I have developed a marvelous skill of being able to completely block out such dribble and still give the appearance that I am all rapturous attention.

This is an especially valuable skill because I can't stand those simple columns. Every so often I will read one to see if it is as horrible as the last one I read.

For example, let me cite this nonsensical complaint I read in such a column yesterday.

A 36-year-old woman, who described herself as a lovely wife and mother of two teenage children, slobbered up the page with this:

"My husband and I don't get along. He has a good job but spends all his money for whiskey. He works every day during the week, but from Friday night until Monday morning he stays drunk.

"My real problem is that I am in love with another man, and he is in love with me, but he is married and I don't see any future for us in this affair. What do you advise?

The answer, which I didn't bother to read, probably was the typical goop that didn't say a thing.

But I'd like to give an answer:

"Honey, what in sam heck makes you think that if you ran off with this other jerk that you wouldn't drive him to drink, too?

"It's quite obvious that the only reason your husband is a sousehead is because he can't stand to spend the weekends with you sober.

"So, forget the prospective sucker. Stick with your husband and instead of trying to improve him, do a little work on yourself.

"If that doesn't cure the problem, take up a hobby. Maybe you can make lamps and use bottles for bases."

PS: Perhaps a little snort or two might not eevn hurt you. Could make you forget about blabbing all your troubles in newspapers.

Leftovers . . . by John McPeek

What's Lovely About Lovelorn Columns?

Like most women, my wife, Virginia, loves to read lovelorn columns.

McPeek

So who cares? It's a harmless outlet for the girls to release their natural nosy instincts. It gives them a vicarious sense of snooping on the neighbors.

In my wife's case, it even gives her an occasional chance to take a little jab at me. Like if she's reading a column in which some whining shrew is complaining about the habits of her spouse, almost invariably Virginia will insist on reading the column aloud.

The motivation is obvious: Virginia thinks I may recognize a "bad habit" of my own and take steps to correct it.

But her third-grade psychology won't work. Through years of effort, I have developed a marvelous skill of being able to completely block out such dribble and still give the appearance that I am all rapturous attention.

This is an especially valuable skill because I can't stand those simple columns. Every so often I will read one to see if it is as horrible as the last one I read.

For example, let me cite this nonsensical complaint I read in such a column yesterday.

A 36-year-old woman, who described herself as a lovely wife and mother of two teenage children, slobbered up the page with this:

"My husband and I don't get along. He has a good job but spends all his money for whiskey. He works every day during the week, but from Friday night until Monday morning he stays drunk.

"My real problem is that I am in love with another man, and he is in love with me, but he is married and I don't see any future for us in this affair. What do you advise?

The answer, which I didn't bother to read, probably was the typical goop that didn't say a thing.

But I'd like to give an answer:

"Honey, what in sam heck makes you think that if you ran off with this other jerk that you wouldn't drive him to drink, too?

"It's quite obvious that the only reason your husband is a sousehead is because he can't stand to spend the weekends with you sober.

"So, forget the prospective sucker. Stick with your husband and instead of trying to improve him, do a little work on yourself.

"If that doesn't cure the problem, take up a hobby. Maybe you can make lamps and use bottles for bases."

PS: Perhaps a little snort or two might not eevn hurt you. Could make you forget about blabbing all your troubles in newspapers.

Music Departments Still Selling Christmas Cards

This is the last week that the musical departments will sell Christmas cards. They have already purchased a uniform for Mike Newell, drum major, and for Mr. Berry, director.

Linda Dickerson, Mike Newell, and Anita Zeno attended a press conference presented by the Tuberculosis Society, Tuesday, Oct. 23.

On Thursday, Oct. 25, individual pictures were taken for the seventh through eleventh grades. Pictures for the seniors will be taken at a later date, as yet undisclosed.

Grade cards were distributed Monday, much to the delight of the cheering students, but there were a few long faces.

Walnut Ridge and the other city schools have organized a "Good Book Committee." The committee wishes to get nominations from students, parents and teachers for 25 books that they think are especially good. Forms can be obtained from Miss Cooper. There will be three categories: elementary, junior and senior high and adult.

The Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test was given to juniors and seniors on Tuesday. Approximately 65 students participated in the exam.

A stiff competition has produced new junior-high cheerleaders. They are Cynthia Truhan, Doris Hicks, Karen Woods, Andy Vayna and Alice Claiborne.

"Autumn Splendor," the Walnut Ridge football queen dance, was held in the school cafeteria after the game with Whetstone on Friday. Patricia Pipkin was crowned queen, with runners-up Nancy Hollingsworth, Pat McQuaid and Phyllis Cowgill. The queen ruled over the dance, and was honored at the football game. The "Stardusters" provided the entertainment.

Manslaughter Count Levied On Koscho

Columbus police Friday filed first degree manslaughter charges in Municipal Court against a Powell-av man who surrendered himself as the slayer of his wife last December.

Meanwhile, Columbus police continued to search for missing parts of the body of Mrs. Cecile (Mitzie) Koscho, 31, the mother of four children.

The jig-saw puzzle hunt began when the woman's 38-year-old husband, Andrew Koscho, 4197 Powell-av, walked into the Columbus Detective Bureau Oct. 19, and stated that he had killed his wife during a quarrel Dec. 22. He said he then reported her missing on Dec. 26.

Koscho stated that his wife died after he gave her "a backhanded blow" during an argument in their car. Finding that she was dead, he said he became frightened and after driving around for some time he finally located an isolated spot near the Boys Industrial School, known as "Hog Hollow," where he buried her body in a shallow grave.

Koscho further indicated that he had attempted to relocate the spot for five months. When he did find it, he stated, he took remaining parts of the body and made separate graves for them.

Bexley Woman Named State Coordinator

Appointment of Bexley librarian, Mrs. Mary T. Zimmerman, as state coordinator of the 1963 National Library Week observance was announced Oct. 18 at the 66th annual Ohio Library Association conference in Dayton.

In making the appointment, Lois MacKellar, head of the Mansfield public library and president of OLA, said that Mrs. Zimmerman will represent the association in appointing librarians and laymen to the Ohio National Library Week committee.

The state NLW committee will formulate goals for the 1963 National Library Week which will be observed April 21-27 under the general theme of "Reading—the Fifth Freedom—Enjoy It."

Mrs. Zimmerman, who lives at 3150 Fair-av, was children's librarian and school supervisor for the Bexley Public Library before she was named head of the library in 1956.

Eastmoor High School's Warriors' Spear-It

By MICHAEL FEUER

Group B clubs met Wednesday, Oct. 17, for the first time this year. Among them were the Warriors Club which held a special panel discussion on the topic of "The Importance of Sportsmanship."

On the panel were Julia Walls, Dean Ishida, Ron Golden, John Voneida and Carl Mills. They all gave their views on the subject.

Also on the panel was Marsh Mobberly, assistant football coach and head baseball coach. He gave a talk on "The Effects of Sportsmanship Throughout Life." The advisor for the club is Robert Heintz, who acted as moderator for the panel.

Eastmoor held its first open house of the year Wednesday, Oct. 17. The open house gave parents and teachers a chance to get better acquainted with each other and time to talk over the students' problems.

The Eastmoor Warriors Booster Club sponsored a bus trip to the Eastmoor-Lancaster football game last Friday night. About 45 students made the trip on the chartered bus.

Seventy-one Eastmoor seniors were honored for their high performance in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMSQT). Of these students, 10 were sent a formal letter of commendation signed by John Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Association, and T. H. Mayer, Eastmoor principal. The letter denotes that the students ranked in the top two per cent of all high school seniors in the United States and its territories.

Homeroom 209 was the winner in the PTA membership drive with 60 memberships and will receive a free pizza party for their achievement. Room 202 was runner-up.

Advance orders were taken for the Lance, a publication which displays the student's writing and artistic abilities, and for the Shield, the yearbook, last week.

OCT. 31 IS B-DAY AT JEWISH CENTER

A report from a University Hospital patient that over 500 pints of blood are used in one day at that hospital alone is ample reason for supporting Blood Day, Wednesday, Oct. 31, at the Jewish Center.

The center is located at 1125 College-av and will be operating the blood campaign from noon until 6 p.m.

This particular patient, a hemophiliac, reported:

"How many people do you know who have given two pints of blood in the past 12 months? I think that you can now begin to see the responsibility that has been placed upon you. You must take up some of the slack. We need blood — so much blood — and you are the only ones who may give it. It is not your neighbor, or your uncle, but you who must give."

WHITEHALL STUDENTS DEMONSTRATE HOW NOT TO ACT AT FOOTBALL GAMES

TO INSURE sportsmanlike conduct on the part of the spectators, this group of Whitehall High Schoolers demonstrate how NOT to act while watching your favorite team on the gridiron. In picture at left, one young man is imitating someone from the Kingston Trio which is fine—on a stage. The experts all say, however, that acting up in the bleachers is definitely frowned upon. Anyway, how are the people going to watch the game and sing-along at the same time. The center picture is self-explanatory. Not that we're opposed to necking—but the stands aren't the most appropriate place to engage in it . . . or, the most private. Show team spirit. That's what the picture a right illustrates. Don't let one guy be responsible for all the hollering. Show as much interest as possible. Besides, you can always sleep in class.

Contracts For East Freeway May Be Let By Next Summer

Contracts for construction of the East Freeway from the Fulton-Parsons Interchange to the projected outerbelt expressway could be awarded by next summer, according to Rodney Roberts of the Ohio Department of Highways.

Roberts said final plans for the freeway segment between the interchange and Alum Creek should be completed by February.

Plans are already complete for the freeway from Alum Creek east to the proposed outerbelt alignment, officials added.

Reports say that land acquisition is about 67 per cent complete and family relocation should begin by early 1963.

Nov. 16 is the date set for a public hearing by the department for the improvement of Hamilton-rd from Broad-st south to near Groves-rd.

Included in the Hamilton-rd plans is an overpass at the New York Central Railroad tracks, just north of Groves-rd, which will be built as part of the freeway project. Spokesmen for the Highway Department said that freeway construction will probably take two years.

The 3.1-mile Hamilton-rd project is expected to start next summer.

I-70 is expected to tie into the outerbelt and provide a four-and-six-lane highway from near Zanesville into the Columbus innerbelt expressway and eventually out the West Freeway and across the state.

I-70 will be located south of Reynoldsburg to the outerbelt.

The Hamilton-rd project will not involve any relocation of the highway and will require only a small amount of grading.

created to administer the U.S. Army program for research, development, production, procurement, supply management and maintenance support of mobility equipment and supplies.

The Mobility Command will be a $2.5 billion "corporation" the first year with more than 14,000 employes and eight subordinate installations from coast-to-coast.

"But, we are only part of the story," General Sibley cautioned. "Mobility Command is one unit — although the largest in terms of dollars and items manager — in the new U.S. Army Materiel Command.

The Materiel Comm. and commanded by Lt. Gen. Frank A. Besson, is a combination of former technical services of the U.S. Army, such as the Transportation Corps, Ordnance Corps, Signal Corps, etc —now with a single higher headquarters.

"Materiel Command will be responsible for providing weapons and equipment to the Army," General Besson explained in a recent address at Rock Island Arsenal, Ill.

"We will integrate and lead the efforts of 166,000 Army civilian personnel and 20,000 military, plus countless millions in industry.

"Probably our major objective is to reduce the time it takes to get a good idea translated into equipment in the hands of soldiers in the field.

"In the past it has generally taken at least seven years to turn an idea into hardware. Our target is now four years."

Turkey Shoot

The Franklin Heights Lions and Booster clubs will hold a turkey shoot on three consecutive Sundays at the rear of the high school on Demorest Rd.

Turkeys and hams will be awarded as prizes and free coffee will be provided for competiters. The fee is one dollar per person per shoot with all proceeds going to a community project to be announced later.

Memorial Hall To Be Fixed Up Into Museum

The Franklin County Commissioners have allocated $502,000 for the renovation of old Memorial Hall and its transformation into a museum of science, industry and history.

The Franklin County Historical Society has planned to operate the museum. It is hoped the museum can be in operation by late next year.

The funds are from proceeds of a $690,000 bond issue authorized early this year for capital improvements of county properties.

It is hoped that the museum will be self-supporting

The name of the building will be changed so it will not conflict with our new Veteran's Memorial.

The building presently houses the headquarters for the Senior Citizens Group, but this organization has announced plans to move elsewhere.

Former Ohioans Like Leisurely Pace Of Florida Living

ON THE LEFT is former Columbusite Mrs. Richard G. Williams with Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Howard, as they greeted the group of newsmen from all over the country. Every new family moving to Port Charlotte is given a hearty welcome from most of the people in the six-year-old community. A population of 20,000 is expected by 1965.

IT'S SUN AND FUN after all the industrious years for Marion and Olga Gray. They, and over 10,000 like them, enjoy "re-new-ment" living in booming Port Charlotte. Marion, who is president of Port Charlotte World War I Veterans, is retired from Columbus General Depot. The Grays formerly lived at 284 N. Yearling-rd.

By C. CARLTON HARTLEY

Seeing is believing!

Some forty newsmen from all over Canada and USA had an opportunity this past week to see what has been done in the way of development of whole new cities in Florida. The believing followed automatically.

After arriving at Miami International Airport the newsmen were delivered to Port St. Lucie Country Club where they were housed as guests of the General Development Co. All the delights and good things that go with southern hospitality were forthcoming.

Port St. Lucie in itself has become a very attractive development and hundreds of northern residents are finding this a delightful place in which to live. It is one of the more attractive developments in that area. Golfers and fishermen are especially at home.

On a flight across Florida we had an opportunity to see from the air that the vastness of undeveloped areas predicts much future growth.

When our plane put down at Port Charlotte we found, as usual, that folks from back home are always welcome.

Within minutes after our arrival I had the real pleasure of a hearty welcome from a long-time friend from Columbus, Ed Witherspoon. Ed was in the appliance business on the Hilltop for many years.

Ed is now a full fledged Floridian and Port Charlotte has no better one-man Chamber of Commerce. In ten minutes he can give you more reasons for settling there than the development companies have been able to put into print. His enthusiasm has paid off, in that he is finding the sale of real estate down there to be quite lucrative.

Later, following a special luncheon at the Yacht Club, we had the pleasure of being joined by Lee Witherspoon, wife of Ed, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Watson, also former Columbusites.

Jerry and Billie Watson have been in Port Charlotte long enough for Jerry to test out one of their very fine golf courses and to quickly cop the first flight championship. They, too, swear that no place is finer than Port Charlotte.

Mrs. Witherspoon is president of the Port Charlotte Women's Golf Association, and plays organ at the Presbyterian Church.

At the luncheon "folks from home" included Mr. and Mrs. Marion Gray, former Whitehall residents. Mr. Gray, on retirement from Columbus General Depot, decided the sunny clime was for him and continues to have that satisfaction.

Also present was Mrs. Richard G. Williams. She and Mr. Williams moved there in December of 1958 and are now considered as real "old timers" at Port Charlotte since they were among the first to establish homes there. She keeps herself quite busy as the local reporter for the daily Fort Myers News-Press. Everyone there knows "Georgia."

As I got off the bus from the airport I noticed a lady anxiously searching the group for an acquaintance. She was looking for someone from West Virginia. I told her no West Virginia papers were represented in the crew but that since my early years were spent in that state I would be happy to adopt her. And so came about my association with Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Howard, formerly of Sharpless, W.Va., but who have many acquaintances in Central Ohio.

Every new family moving to Port Charlotte gets a royal welcome from most of the people in town. In addition to golfing, swimming, boating, fishing or just plain "doing nothing," there is a lot of warm friendship developed among the many fine folks there.

10,000th Resident Greeted

One of the events of that day's trip was the welcoming ceremony for the 10,000th new resident, a Canadian couple who had the royal red carpet rolled out for them in a big way. They were given a van load of gifts.

With just six years behind it, Port Charlotte has become the fastest growing area in Florida and a metropolitan residential area is in the making. It is estimated the population will be 20,000 by 1965 and up to 75,000 by 1970.

General Development offers a wide variety of homes and home sites. Most attractive and well built homes range from $7220 to $29,500. Prices include lot, paved street, sidewalk, landscaping, city water and sewerage. The $5000 Florida homestead tax exemption is attractive.

It was our further pleasure to visit Marvin and Bob Yerke, Ralph Trachsel, Mac Dews and Arnold Colabrese all associated with Marvin C. Yerke Associates, Inc., 232 S. High-st, Columbus, local representatives of General Development.

I had been briefed on what I might see by Harold Cramer, 570 Wilshire-rd, also associated with the Yerke firm, and can add to his prediction that "seeing is believing."

ORANGES GROW inside as well as outside in Florida it was discovered by these Columbusites at the General Development annual sales meeting at Port St. Lucie this past week. Left to right are Ralph Trachsel, Marvin Yerke, Robert Yerke, all of Marvin Yerke Associates of this city, and C. Carlton Hartley, publisher of Hartley Newspapers. Yerke Associates Inc. is local representative of General Development.

JACKPOT GOES UP!

Contest Winner Is Kenneth N. Warner

In what amounted to the most torrid football contest of the year, Kenneth N. Warner, 38 W. Hinman-av, was named the winner.

Warner tied with Mrs. Clara Kerscher, 573 Frehisav, E. C. Heater, Sr., 4640 Annhurst rd, and Philip E. Harbour, 390 Deerfield-rd, all of whom missed on only two games.

On the tie-breaker, Warner's guess of 22-14 in favor of Northwestern moved him in as the winner. Heater guessed 22-21, Northwestern. Mrs. Kerscher guessed 21-20, Ohio State, and Harbour guessed 28-14 in favor of Ohio.

Since no one has picked all 24 games correctly the jackpot has now reached $100. Each week the jackpot is not claimed, $25 are added to it.

Whatever amount is remaining at the end of the season will be awarded to the winner of the tenth and final round.

In the ads below are 24 top games to be played on the weekend of Nov. 3. Fill in your selections on the entry blank and send them to Football Contest Editor, Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broadst, Columbus 4, O.

Pirates Eye Bearcat Laurels

Regular league play in the Ohio Bearcat Association closes Sunday with two big post-season games hanging in the balance. The Westside Pirates can win it all with their seventh straight league win.

If the Pirates defeat Maryland AC they will: 1 — be crowned undefeated league champs, 2—provide the league All-Stars with competition in the circuit's annual game, scheduled for the weekend of Nov. 3 and 4, and, 3—accept the invitation to compete against St. Louis' top little league football team in the Missouri city next month.

Sunday's play will help decide which players from the league will be selected to the All-Star team. Attendance at Bearcat contests this season have drawn an ever increasing number of parents and adult supporters. A total of over 3,000 spectators witnessed the Ohio State Fair exhibition game and the homecoming game at Starling.

In Sunday's action, the Pirates downed the Blues, 22-0, Maryland shut out the Bears, 22-0, and the Eagles blanked the Tigers, 14-0.

THE PURPLE and White shoot for their fourth win of the season Saturday, hosting Akron (5-0).

Capital actually lost more than the football game with the loss of halfback Bob Skidmore, the Lutherans' leading ground gainer, in the second quarter of play with a broken collarbone. Defensive back Paul Scherzer also suffered a pinched nerve during the course of the game.

East, Wray Cop Top CC Honors

Fast relied on good team balance to cop honors in the annual City Cross Country meet Wednesday at Raymond Memorial golf course, topping eight other entries with a 43-point finish.

Although the Tigers failed to finish in the top four positions, they accumulated points in the fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and 17th positions.

Eastmoor finished in second place with 97 points and the individual winner was the Warriors' Don Wray, who covered the two-mile course in 10:41:8. West's Tom DeWitt was a close second at 10:44.

HARTLEY SPORTS EDITOR

Excitement Grows As Races Tighten

It's about that time of the season to take a good look at the area high school league races in perspective.

It might be dangerous to suggest that front runners in three leagues have a clear road to loop laurels with two and three games remaining but that's the way it shapes up in the Mid-Eight, South-Central and Darby Valley leagues.

HILLIARD (5-0) has a clear shot at the Mid-Eight championship. The Wildcats play Westerville (1-4) and Marysville (0-5) in their remaining league encounters while hopeful contenders Groveport (4-1) and London (4-1) face still-tough Mifflin (3-2) and Gahanna (3-2) respectively before squaring off against each other in the season's finale.

In SCL, Circleville (5-0) has the inside track with Greenfield (0-4), Miami Trace (2-0-2) and Franklin Heights (1-3) remaining on the Tiger schedule. Hillsboro (4-1) must play Miami Trace, Pleasant View (1-3) and Wilmington (2-1-1).

In the Darby Valley circuit, it's simply a question of who can beat West Jefferson. Five league opponents have tested the Rough Riders but none have succeeded in denting Jeff's tough defense or stopping a potent offense. Madison South and Cedarville remain on the Rough Rider schedule. By comparison, Cedarville tied Teays Valley, 0-0, whom Jeff defeated, 20-0, two weekends ago.

THE OUTCOME in four other leagues is a bit more difficult to figure. In the Mid-State, Fairfield Union (4-0) and Frankfort (4-0) continue to point to a season finale showdown when the two clubs meet headon. Fairfield must play Canal Winchester (2-2) and Millersport (3-0-1) while Frankfort takes on Millersport and Amanda (0-4) prior to the probable title clash.

Arlington (5-0) holds the upper hand in the CBL but Delaware (4-0-1) isn't far behind. The Golden Bears face Mt. Vernon (3-2) and the Hayes eleven takes on a fast-coming Bexley club (2-2-1), which has won two straight, before both clubs match strengths in another season finale for the CBL crown.

Things should be straightened out in County League race Friday night after co-leaders Hamilton Township (4-0) and Academy (4-0) do battle. Both clubs play Reynoldsburg (3-1) and New Albany (0-4) to close out their schedules with the Raiders in the role of spoiler and possible co-champs if they should beat both teams.

IT'S STILL anybody's guess in the City League with East (5-0), Central (5-0) and North (5-1) all loitering around in the circuit's top spot.

The winner of Friday night's battle between the Tigers and Pirates will become odds-on favorite for the CL title. East finishes with West (2-4) and Aquinas (0-5), four of these losses by forfeit) while Central closes out league play with Marion-Franklin (0-5) and Eastmoor (3-2).

Should either or both of these teams falter, North is waiting patiently in the wings with Linden (4-2) and Marion-Franklin remaining on the Polar Bear schedule.

As anyone can see, there's still a barrelfull of exciting high school action left in the remaining three weeks of play with quite a few loop races probably going down to the last minute of seasonal play for championship crownings.

BEN COWALL tells us that the Harlem Globetrotters will be bringing their zany hoopsters into Columbus for a Nov. 19th appearance against the Atlantic Sea Gulls.

Also included on the card will be a dancing performance by Cab Calloway and a table tennis exhibition. The two and one-half hour show is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. at the Fairgrounds Coliseum with Trotters taking to the hardwood for action at 9 p.m.

A SOURCE close to Northwestern's Ara Parseghian reported Saturday evening that the Wildcat mentor is definitely interested in the head football coaching position at Ohio State if and when Woody Hayes bows out of the picture. Ara who assisted Hayes at Miami of Ohio, might be in for a long wait.

EAST-CENTRAL TITLE CLASH SET

Tigers, Viking Wins Grab League s, Lions

East's Tigers, possibly looking ahead to Friday night's City League showdown at Central, were hard pressed by a hopped-up Whetstone eleven before wrapping up their fifth straight circuit win, 6-0.

Both Central and East have identical 5-10 marks going into the game that, barring any unforeseen upsets in the final two weeks of play, should determine the title winner in the City League this season.

ONCE AGAIN it was the Tiger's rock-like defense that saved the day and a share of the CL lead for East. The Tiger forces held firm when Whetstone marched with the opening kickoff to East's eight before turning the ball over on downs.

It appeared that nobody was going to cross the final stripe until late in the third quarter when the Tiger defense blocked a Whetstone punt and East took over on the loser's six.

Marv Owens bulled over from the two-yard line two plays later and that was the ball game. The Tigers had driven deep into Whetstone territory twice in the third period but a fumble and an intercention thwarted their efforts. East's defense has allowed only one touchdown in league play this season.

ACADEMY SET up another showdown match in the County League race with unbeaten Hamilton Township Friday night after the Vikings recorded their fourth straight loop win, an 18-6 decision over St. Marys.

The Vikings scored on the opening kickoff when Mike Tucker recovered Academy's boot in the Ram end zone. Academy drove 43 yards for its second score with quarterback Pete Peterson hitting John Larrimer with a 24-yard touchdown pass.

A pass interception set up the Rams only score, with Mike Gray going the final 12 yards, but the Vikings bounced right back, climaxing the afternoon's scoring with Peterson's one-yard sneak.

The Academy win was highlighted by Peterson's roll-out aerials and Larrimer's end-sweep running.

BEXLEY FOUND its offensive bearings in the second half and overcame an 8-6 deficit, wrapping up its second straight CBL win with a 26-8 triumph over Urbana.

The Lions, fresh from their big upset of Mt. Vernon last week, bounced back with three second half scores on short runs by Joel Brandt and Van Snider and a 15-yard TD gallop by Rick Mauger.

Urbana engineered its first half lead on Bob Long's 15-yard touchdown pass from Clyde Burnett. Jay Maupin plunged for the Lion's second period TD that brought them within two points.

ARLINGTON overturned Whitehall's upset applecart with two furoth quarter touchdowns to maintain the front gunner spot in the CBL with a hard-earned 23-12 win.

The Rams charged from behind after Arlington had taken an 8-0 lead early in the second quarter. Mike Short brought Whitehall within two points with a short plunge and then Clark Fuller rambled 10 yards to paydirt shortly later to give the Rams a 12-8 lead that help up until the final period.

With three minutes remaining in the game, the Golden Bears went ahead to stay on quarterback Bill Robb's 26-yard scamper around end. With 37 seconds remaining, Arlington beefed up the win on Robb's second score from the 13.

ONCE-BEATEN Lancaster maintained its mastery over Columbus opponents with a 24-0 win over Eastmoor. The Warriors were in the game for three quarters, trailing only 8-0, but the Gales put the game out of reach in the final period with two TDs.

ST. CHARLES opened its Central Catholic League schedule on a winning note, blanking Springfield Central Catholic, 27-0, Saturday night at Hartley.

Tom O'Leary reeled off two long touchdown runs for the Cardinals, one for 63 yards, the other for 45. Bob Faller broke loose for a 53-yard TD scamper and St. Charles added its fourth score when quarterback Joe Breiteneicher umcorgde a 15-yard pass to Tom Stepanowsky.

CENTRAL WARMED up for its big meeting with East Friday by blasting Walnut Ridge, 41-6.

Quarterback Tom Fullove paced the Pirate attack with two TDs on runs of 35 and 60 yards. The Scots lone score came in the second quarter when quarterback Dave Feyh hit Jim Pyles with a TD pass. Central outgained Walnut Ridge, 425-244.

HALFBACK Bob Bailey came home with two touchdowns on a 76-yard run and a 12-yard pass interception scamper to lead Newark Catholic to a 14-0 CCL win over Hartley.

The Hawks moved the ball inside Newark's 15-yard line on two occasions but were unable to push across a score.

Friday night's play finds Delaware (5-1-1) at Bexley (3-3-1), Eastmoor (3-4) at South (3-4), Rosary (1-5) at Dublin (2-5), Walnut Ridge (1-6) at West (2-5), and Worthington (4-1-2) at Whitehall (4-3). East travels to Central (5-1-1) and Academy (4-1) visits Hamilton Township (7-0) in the area's top games. Hartley (2-3-1) entertains St. Charles (5-2) in a Central Catholic League match Saturday night.

Jewish Center Lists Program

A comprehensive program to keep its men fit and active is being offered by the Jewish Center.

A seven team basketball league operating on Tuesday evenings will start in November. The league is sponsored and is considered "fast" by local standards. Everyone who signs up will play.

Special exercise classes are offered Wednesdays from 8 to 8:45 p.m. and Thursdays from 8::30 to 9 p.m. The physical fitness program of the Royal Canadian Air Force is being used extensively this year.

Professional men who can take a break on Wednesday afternoons are enjoying aerial tennis from 2 to 3 p.m. The Health Club opens at 3 p.m. to offer additional service to members.

"Mens Night Out", a program for bowling widowers and "A.K.'s" is offered on Thursdays from 9 to 10:30 p.m. Easy going basketball is the order of the day.

Sunday from 9 a.m. to noon is volleyball time. Power volly

'Fearless' Predictions

Area high school teams will be moving into their respective league separation centers this weekend with loop races moving one step closer to final settlement. This really does not help much in figuring winners and losers but we are finally nearing that century mark with a 98-47-6 mark. Here's how they look from this end this week:

Aquinas-Linden— Terriers bounce back. Aquinas.

Delaware-Bexley — Visitors fight for CBL life. Delaware.

Canal Winchester-Fairfield Union — Good spot for an upset but . . . Fairfield.

Berne Union-Carroll — Hosts on the rebound. Carroll.

Academy - Hamilton Township — Rangers have too many horses. Hamilton.

St. Marys - University — Rumbling rose. St. Marys.

Rosary-Dublin — Looking over a four-leaf clover. Dublin.

Eastmoor - South — Warriors' week. Eastmoor.

Wilmington - Franklin Heights — The will to win. Wilmington.

London - Gahanna — Raiders in a toss-up. London.

Grove City - Marysville — Greyhound express. Grove City.

Groveport-Mifflin — Cruisers fight for life. Groveport.

Whetstone - Marion Franklin — Devils on stony road. Whetstone.

New Albany - Reynoldsburg —Raiders found some punch. Reynoldsburg.

Greenview - Teays Valley— Up in the valley. TV.

Walnut Ridge-West—Cowboy conquest. West.

Worthington-Whitehall — Rams stack Cards. Whitehall.

St. Charles-Hartley — Carolians cage Hawks. St. Charles.

Wilson's Toe Sinks Mt. Union

For the second straight week, the golden toe of ex-Reynoldsburg star, Jack Wilson, provided the margin of victory for Denison University.

Wilson, who beat Wooster two weeks ago with a 21-yard field goal, split the uprights with a perfect conversion boot following the Big Reds' lone touchdown in the second quarter to give Denison the margin it needed to down Mt. Union, 7-6.

Missionary Speaks At East Baptist

Rev. Harry Brown

Rev. Harry D. Brown, American Baptist missionary to the Congo since 1927, was the guest of members of East Baptist Church Friday, Oct. 19.

He addressed a joint meeting of the Ruth Mather and Ann Judson Circles, 9 a.m., at the church; the Youth Fellowship groups, 6 p.m., and the entire congregation at 8.

Brown is director of the School for Pastors and Teachers at Kimpese, also the site of the largest Protestant medical mission in the Congo.

Three Baptist groups—American, British and Swedish—co-operate in this strategic educational center, with nearly 700 students enrolled.

Born in Johannesburg, S. Africa, Brown has an international educational background. He attended the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, and the Provincial Normal School in Canada. He holds the BRE and BTh degrees from Gordon College, Boston, Mass., the superior diploma from the Alliance Francaise, Paris, France, and the M.Ed. degree from Seattle Pacific College, Seattle, Wash.

He is one of 40 missionaries speaking in American Baptist churches throughout Ohio in a missionary mobilization program.

Heart Fund Tourney Set

Earl Flora, former local sports scribe, has been named chairman of the Sixth Annual Heart Fund Bowling Tournament to be conducted at 39 local lanes Nov. 11-17 inclusive.

Working with Flora as chairmen of lanes are Mrs. Richard Glenn Holliday, Sr., 3755 Kard-rd, and Mrs. Russell H. Keyser, 1807 Inchcliff-rd.

BOWLERS, Flora explained, compete in the Heart Fund Tournament at the same time they play in their respective leagues that week by donating $1.00 and filling out an entry blank. Those at each lane who roll the greatest number of pins over their latest established league average will be declared winners and will receive cash prizes. The scoring system, he said, gives all league bowlers a chance to win, including the low-average bowler.

Of the $1.00 entry fee, 70 cents will be used to support research into the diseases of the heart and blood vessels and 30 cents will be set aside for cash prizes. In addition to cash awards, trophies will be presented to the man and the woman with the highest tournament scores in the county.

The tournament is sponsored by the Franklin County Heart Council with the cooperation of bowling lane proprietors. Entry blanks will be available at the lanes.

Columbus Army Depot To Handle Requisitions

Columbus Army Depot will handle all automotive parts requisitions for the entire armed forces, according to Brig. Gen. W. A. Huntsberry, depot commander.

It will process requisitions of the military services throughout the world for the Defense Automotive Supply Center (DASC), Detroit.

Huntsberry said the new duties will not result in an immediate increase in personnel.

The second semester is Jan. 6 to Apr. 7.

The institute, open to the community, is conducted by the temple in cooperation with the Teachers' Institute of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, working through the Melton Research Center.

A faculty of professional Jewish educators and members of the Columbus Jewish community, headed by Rabbi Nathan Zelizer, spiritual leader of Temple Tifereth Israel, will instruct and co-ordinate the program.

Courses include instruction in Hebrew, Bible, liturgy, synagogue skills, a choral group and various study groups.

The faculty includes Rabbi Nathan Zelizer, Saul P. Wachs, Cantor Stanley Burstein, Donald Adelman, Dr. B. W. Abramson, Dr. Leon Cameides, Mrs. Bernard Goobich, Mrs. Eran Hareven, Mrs. Dan Sharni and Mrs. Saul P. Wachs.

Registration fee of $3 per semester entitles the student to register for as many of the 16 courses as desired.

For further information, contact the temple office at 253-8523.

Bar Mitzvah Sabbath Set At Synagogue

Agudas Achim Synagogue has designated Saturday, Oct. 27 as "Post Bar Mitzvah Sabbath," sponsored annually by the Agudas Achim Brotherhood and honoring all boys who celebrated their Bar Mitzvahs during the past year.

The young men will take complete charge of the Sabbath services, beginning at 5:30 p.m. Friday and again at 9 a.m. Saturday morning.

All synagogue honors are to be distributed by a committee headed by Jay Worly, president, and Mark Kaplan, vice-president.

A Kiddush and a Sabbath meal, complete with traditional Shabbos Z'miros, singing and dancing will follow the morning service.

The afternoon service Saturday will be led by the youngsters and Sholosh Seudos meal will follow, when the teenagers will again be honored.

On Sunday morning, Oct. 28, the Agudas Achim Brotherhood will present a gift to each Post Bar Mitzvah boy. The ceremony follows Sunday morning breakfast, after the morning Minyonnaire service.

Philip Waldman is chairman of the committee.

Christ Church To Mark Reformation

Missionary Paul Freyberg will be the guest preacher Sunday, Oct. 28, at Christ Lutheran Church.

The festival of reformation will be observed and women of the church will hold their annual thank offering ingathering.

Rev. Freyberg, now on furlough from New Guinea, has been in the mission field since 1939 and has spent much of his time working with natives living in isolated mountainous areas.

In recent years, he has been closely associated with the Lutheran Seminary in New Guinea.

While in this country, Rev. Freyberg and his wife, the former Dorothy Boerger, and four-year-old daughter are making their home with Mrs. Freyberg's parents in Marysville.

Rev. Freyberg is attending Ohio State University where he is taking courses in linguistics.

Women of the church will serve as greeters for both services. At the 8:30 a.m. service greeters will be Mrs. Fred C. Isenringhausen, Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. Ron Gary and Mrs. Howard Cogan, and at 11, Miss Marguerite Anthony, Mrs. Ralph Brown, Mrs. Ervin Babbert and Mrs. Burnell Rundels.

DESTINATION?

Postal employees do their best to interpret accurately the addresses written on our mail. However, some are so hastily written, and so poorly addressed that they may never reach their intended destination. A good many people go hastily through life, not realizing that they are headed in the wrong direction. The church points the way to salvation and desires that all should choose the way of our Lord and Saviour.

TAKE TIME FOR THE LORD
ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH . . . THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for men and of His demand for men to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

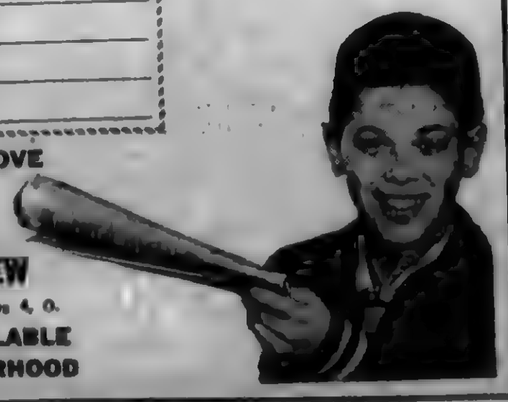
Ohio University Launches New Fine Arts Program

A fine arts doctoral program that promises to be unique in this country has been launched by Ohio University.

Announced today by President Vernon R. Alden following Board of Trustees approval, the program combines several areas of the arts into a broad Ph. D. curriculum.

Instead of majoring in one area (such as painting or music) the doctoral candidate will study the creative phase as a minor. Major stress will be on history and criticism of the arts, encompassing many art forms.

This will be done according to a "cycle" of courses, in which the candidate will in turn concentrate on each of four periods in history: (1) Renaissance, (2) Baroque, (3) Nineteenth Century, and (4) Twentieth Century.



He may, for instance, in one semester study Renaissance art, music, and architecture. In addition, he will meet once each week with other Ph.D. candidates and faculty members in a seminar where all phases of the program are pulled together.

Dean of Fine Arts Earl C. Seigfred explained that "After majoring in one of these fields at the bachelor's and master's degree levels a student can best profit from an expansion of his knowledge in all the arts."

Dean Seigfred said the need for Ohio's new concept of art education at the doctoral level is evident in the difficulty smaller universities have in getting instructors for more than one field of art.

Major courses in the program are music, art, theatre, public address, and architecture. These will be re-enforced with important exhibitions, guest lectures and the presence of visiting artists in residence, Dean Seigfred said.

A candidate for the degree will pick at least two major areas for his dissertation.

"The Goddess" tells of a life cycle. It is about a girl who realizes her adolescent dream—the great American dream—of becoming a movie star. She is a child of the depression; her mother wishes to be free of her; she grows up and ends up incapable of love.

"The Goddess" is the first of a dozen exciting and provocative evenings of dramatic entertainment that compose the Gallery Players 1962-63 Subscription Series. Season tickets may be obtained at the Jewish Center or by phoning Mrs. David Roth, BE. 1-4730, or Mrs. Gary Kerstein, BE. 1-8960, Gallery Players subscription co-chairmen.

Other films to be presented throughout the year will be "Hiroshima, Mon Amour," "The Importance of Being Earnest," "Lili," and "Born Yesterday." These films are part of Gallery Players Subscription Series.

The premiere theatrical production of the Players season will be "I Am A Camera," produced by the Center's Harold Eisenstein and directed by WOSU's Gene Gerrard. Show will be presented at the Center on Dec. 1, 2, 5, 6, 9, and 10. Other presentations of the season will be the smash hit of all musicals, "Damn Yankees" to be produced in mid-Winter and "Rhinoceros" to be produced next Spring.

GAA bowling commenced Monday, Oct. 8, and will continue for nine straight weeks. Participating members have organized teams and will bowl every Monday evening immediately after school at Main Lanes.

Two games will be played at each session. The team or individual obtaining the highest score at the end of the nine-week period will receive a trophy.

Whitehall-Yearling High School Distributive Education Club has elected the following officers: Carol Levy, president; Millie Ebert, vice-president; Jo Shaw, secretary; Daryl Freiberger, treasurer; Dean Burl, reporter; Dick Leffler and John Walser, photographers, and Jim Malay, parliamentarian.

Distributive Education is planning a costume Halloween party for Oct. 27 in the school cafeteria.

Whitehall-Yearling High School DECA class will attend a regional meeting Nov. 1 at Ohio State University. All DECA members in the Central Ohio area are invited. Officers will be elected during the day.

An organizational meeting of the Whitehall-Yearling Hi-Y was held Thursday, Oct. 18. An outline of club purposes and possible projects for the year were discussed. All 10th, 11th and 12th grade boys who have a "C" average or better are invited to attend.

Sixty-four juniors took the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test Tuesday, Oct. 16. Offered by the College Entrance Examination Board, it measures two kinds of scholastic ability—verbal and mathematical.

Achievement in this test can help students decide whether or not to go to college. Also, a number of scholarsip sponsors use PSAT scores in consideration of applicants for awards. Scores will be available Dec. 1.

Four students with foreign educational backgrounds have enrolled at Whitehall-Yearling High School this year. There are two new Cuban students—Maria Nobo and Ana Estrada. Ana is now living with her aunt and uncle in this country. Fifteen-year-old Ana can speak very little English, but she is getting help from the students.

The two students from American service schools abroad are Becky Miller and Kristin Luker. Becky has lived in Germany for one and a half years.

Kris spent a little more than three years in France, where she learned to speak the language fluently.

BEXLEY SWIM DRIVE

Wing 'Flies' Home With Perfect Record

Bexley Civic Improvement Association Area Captain Al Wing is a happy man — and, it's a justifiable kind of happiness, too.

Wing gathered a 100 per cent donation record in the Bexley Swimming Pool drive, thanks to his community-spirited neighbors of Bullitt Park-pl.

Every resident on the street either purchased a Loan Certificate or made contributions to the drive.

"Even though they are all senior citizens in years, they realized the value of this project to the community," Wing said, "and donated something despite the fact that they themselves might not use the pool. How's that for real community spirit?"

To date, the BCIA workers have received pledges and/or donations totaling $35,000. This represents 25 per cent of the city's residents who have been canvassed.

"It is most gratifying to find so many of the older generation of the city have felt it their duty and had enough civic pride to support this new enterprise," commented Bill Birch, BCIA president.

Lutheran Camporee

The Conference of Lutheran Churches held its first annual Lutheran Camporee at the Boy Scout Reservation at Hoover Dam Oct. 12, 13, and 14.

The main purpose of the camporee was to give all the troops sponsored by Lutheran Churches in this area a chance to get together on an overnight.

Five troops from the Central Ohio area attended the overnight. They were Troop 451, sponsored by St. Philips Lutheran Church, led by Scoutmaster Jack Pettiford; 223, sponsored by Bethlehem Lutheran, Jack Buckingham, Scoutmaster; 417, Upper Arlington Lutheran, led by Dale Kraus; 186, St. Johns Lutheran, Scoutmaster Eugene Long; and 88, St. Paul Lutheran, Fred Swicker, Scoutmaster.

Demonstrations included fancy rope work and knot tying, and explanation of tin can cookery.

"Although the first camporee had a very small showing, we expect this annual Lutheran Camporee to become bigger and better in coming years," commented Swicker.

Norman Volz and Paul Coldren were in charge of the camporee.

Together Plan

The White Oaks District held a Together Potluck Dinner Tuesday, Oct. 16, at Fairmoor Presbyterian Church.

The purpose of the meeting was to get institutions to start new Cub Packs, Scout troops, or Explorer posts in their institution.

The program featured Judge Van Heyde and Art Bogen, president of the Central Ohio Council, who explained Scouting to prospective institutions.

"It is hoped that four new posts, four troops, and five packs will be added to present total of 59 units in the White Oaks District," remarked Don Cook, camping and advancement chairman for the district. Of the 59, 31 are packs, five are posts, and 23 units are troops.

A total of 432 boys and leaders attended the White Oaks' District fall camporee at Camp Rad-O-Wood, Marysville, over the Oct. 13 weekend.

Attending the camp out were the following troops: 68, 71, 107, 135, 166, 195, 231, 234, 271, 273, 274, 277, 369, 373, 370, 422, and Post 288.

Competitive games were held to test the skills of the troops. Results: string burning contest was won by Troop 271, who got a fire going in six minutes and thirty seconds; log hauling championship was a tie between Troop 166 and Troop 68, with a low score of 33 seconds; not getting lost on the compass courses were Post 288, Troop 107, and Troop 422, who tied with perfect scores.

Administering first aid perfectly were troops 166, 422, and 277. One minute was the shortest time for log rolling, as troops 166, 277, 68, and Post 288 tied for first.

The champion in the foot races was Post 288, with a low time of 17 seconds.

Receiving blue ribbons (first place) for total activity were troops 68, 166, 274, 277, 369, and 411. Second place awards went to Troops 135, 195, 234, 271, 370, and Post 288.

Explorer Scouts of Post 271 sponsored by Eastminster Presbyterian Church, took their mothers to Sunday dinner and a fall foliage tour of the Hocking Hills.

They ate dinner in Lancaster, then went sight-seeing to the Rock House and Ash Cave State Parks.

The following boys attended with their mothers, Craig Bush, Joe Fillipi, Wayne Ballantyne, Steve and Larry Papier, and Randy Henkle.

MRS. CHARLES COLLINS, pre-school director at St. Edwards Episcopal Church on Fairway-blvd in Whitehall, is carrying on what the Episcopal School Association terms "a grave responsibility" that of educating children. The church has offered to begin first and second grade classes if community interest warrants it. The program is particularly significant now during Episcopal School Week, Oct. 28 through Nov. 4.

'GRAVE RESPONSIBILITY' VIEWED IN SPECIAL WEEK

St. Edwards May Expand School Program--IF Community Wants It

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

St. Edwards Episcopal Church in Whitehall is entertaining the idea of expanding its pre-school program to include first and second grade classes—if the community wants it.

This desire was brought to light Monday by Mrs. Charles Collins, director of St. Edwards pre-school program, and Rev. John Moody, the 214 Fairway-blvd church's vicar.

Emphasis is being applied now during Episcopal School Week, Oct. 28 through Nov. 4, sponsored by the Episcopal School Association throughout the country.

Right Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, presiding Episcopal bishop, issued a pamphlet in which he termed the week ". . . a brief time in which we are asked to consider the church's responsibility in educating her children. And," he added, "it is a grave responsibility."

As it stands now, St. Edwards is operated on the pre-school basis from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

According to Mrs. Collins, the school was started six years ago on a co-operative basis. It's now classified as a parochial church school, operated as a part of St. Edwards.

St. Edwards — as with every Episcopal school — is an agent of the church, both educationally and evangelically.

Rev. Clarence W. Brickman, executive secretary of the Unit of Parish and Preparatory Schools, reported that "Our Anglican tradition has always included such schools; and now our Episcopal Church has determined anew to restore at the heart of education the sovereignty of God as the fundamental fact of existence.

"Figures indicating recent growth may astonish you," Rev. Brickman continued. "There are (on a nationwide basis) more than 700 schools associated with our church and over 70,000 pupils."

St. Edwards will conduct a special service on Sunday, Oct. 28, which will include such activities as an open house, an exhibit, a forum and a meeting with parents to discuss what it means to be a school of the church.

The Episcopal School Association is an association of day and boarding schools below college level, owned and operated by or related to the Episcopal Church.

It lists its general purposes as:

1. To provide a means for clear witness to the role of Episcopal schools in American and Christian education.

2. To provide an instrument for the establishment and strengthening of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States and its member schools to their mutual benefit, and

3. To provide an organization of schools with a common heritage that can help these schools to help each other educationally and religiously.

Specific aims include:

1. The maintenance of high academic standards in member schools.

2. The strengthening of the Christian life of each school.

3. The training of teachers for service in schools.

4. To interpret Episcopal schools to the public.

5. To found state associations of Episcopal schools, and

6. To encourage the establishment of diocesan committees, divisions or departments of church-related schools.

Anyone interested in having St. Edwards expand its educational program should be directed to either Mrs. Collins or to Rev. Moody.

Tile Cleans With Single Wipe

A home that is easy to keep clean is a wondrous relief to the housewife. Surfacing materials that wipe clean with a cloth are a big time saver over areas that must be scrubbed or polished.

Such a material is ceramic tile, one of the world's oldest building materials. It is impervious to dirt, stains and scratches. Its smooth surface repels moisture and is not affected by fire, so it is especially appropriate for kitchens, bathrooms and many other areas of the house.

Glazed tile on walls seldom needs special cleaning except to remove a film which some times gathers from the splashing of soapy water, or from calcium in "hard" water. Soapless detergent normally will remove this. If there is a heavy accumulation, you may want to use a stiff-bristle brush. Rinse thoroughly, and wipe dry.

Unglazed ceramic tile needs no special care, but in cases of long neglect or accidental spillage of staining materials, can be scrubbed or scraped. Stiff brushes and a scouring powder may be effective if detergent will not remove the stain. Spilled materials should be cleared away promptly.

In case of rust marks, which may be caused by older furniture or appliances, use a commercial rust remover available at hardware stores. Rubber heel marks that persist after simple mopping may be removed by scrubbing with an abrasive type cleaner, an application of kerosene or by rubbing with a soft rubber pencil eraser.

Things To Do— Cut Heating Bills

Be frugal with your heat, and save on fuel — whether oil, gas or electricity. Valuable advice comes from plant engineers to whom a little more heat from the same amount of fuel amounts to savings in the thousands of dollars. You too can save fuel and still be comfortable.

First find out what temperature you and your family like. This may be 68 degrees, or 72 degrees, or even more with an infant in the house. Second, keep the home at that temperature. And third, get your heating system adjusted right.

The second item means no fiddling with the thermostat. Adjust temperature control at the beginning of the heating season and leave it there. If you feel chilly, it does no good whatever to boost the thermostat to 80 degrees, especially since you will probably forget to lower it. Your furnace heats just as fast if you push the thermostat up just one degree.

Heating systems today are fairly complex. Knowing something about them will give you more confidence in remedies suggested by your repairman.

For example, home oil furnaces have a combustion chamber that sometimes wears out. Refractory bricks in the chamber begin to crumble, and to leak heat. Rebuilding your combustion chamber has been a $30 to $40 labor job with brick extra.

Now a replacement liner is on the market that saves you $22. It consists of two thin stainless steel sheets sandwiching refractory ceramic felt. This new liner will last as long as the original, and the sandwich material is easily cut, shapes rapidly to the contours needed. All for something near $6.

Timely Tips On Cleaning

Baking soda added to your cleaning water for wipe-up jobs will speed cleaning time and prevent musty odors in refrigerators, sinks and ovens.

Sponges, cloths, or stainless steel wool are recommended for cleaning stainless steel appliances. Avoid common metal scouring pads, scrapers, and wire brushes.

If you use chlorine bleach, do not let clothes soak overnight in a stainless steel sink. Rinse out the sink immediately after use.

Two steps make cleaning stainless steel oven and range hoods easier:

(1) wipe off excess grease with a paper towel.

(2) wash with soap or detergent and hot water.

To remove baked-on grease on stainless stoves, hoods and ovens, use a paste made of water, ammonia, and mild abrasive cleaner.

If you have exposed your oven face to high heat for a sustained period by leaving the oven door open, you may find a slight heat discoloration. This "heat tint" can be removed with special liquid cleaners, with heavy duty liquid detergent, or by rubbing with ammonia-cleanser paste.

PUREST PLEASURE

Sir Francis Bacon called gardening "the purest of human pleasures." To many people lovely trees and shrubs bring peace and contentment. It's not really a home until it's planted.

BURNPROOF COUNTER

Most counter surfacing materials will be permanently damaged if contacted by a hot pot or pan. This presents a problem in a small kitchen with a limited counter space. The solution lies in covering the counter with burnproof ceramic tile. This versatile product is also scratchproof and comes in more than 250 colors.

Today's Roses Brighter

What ever has gotten into our rose hybridizers both here and abroad? Some of the livest colors ever known in roses are being produced these days. They can be strikingly vivid in gardens, sometimes even hot and sassy, though they all look lovely, like a well-polished woman, whether in gardens or alone as specimen plants.

Flame-colored roses add life to the home property. There's nothing quite like a bed of roses of these vivid colors everyone of which stands out like a Spanish dancer, full of fire and allure. Many of the shades are flaming or reddish-orange but the live colors burst out all over from the bright pinks, reds to the warm yellows. The rose hybridizers must have a renewed alliance with Mother Nature to have turned out all these wonderful colors we find this year.

Actually it takes about 10 years or more to develop a new rose and have it ready in quantities for the markets. Maybe the new nail polishes gave hybridizers the ideas, though new rose colors are far harder to come by. But whatever happened you haven't really known roses until you see some of the bright new colors, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

Minister Says Litterbugging Is Sin

By Rev. Fred L. Wollerman
West High graduate — 1949
Director of Larger Parish of Scioto Presbyterian

In August, 1957, my wife and I were leaving Independence Hall, while on vacation in Philadelphia. I had taken several flash pictures in the rooms where the Declaration of Independence was signed and where our first supreme court convened. I had a handful of "dead" flashbulbs, and as we crossed the street I was looking for a place to discard them. On the corner a huge trash barrel had a sign which read, "Hey there, you with the trash in your hand." I almost said aloud, "Who, me?" It was the only time I can ever remember feeling guilty and happy at the same time. I knew at once that I was the man they were looking for, and I was happy to find a place to unload.

As we come to the beginning of another vacation season, when we'll all be traveling more and picnicking and eating more out-of-doors, I want to speak to you about the "spiritual aspects of trash disposal" and what I chose to call the "Sins of Litterbugging."

I know we preachers have a reputation for "straining at gnats," and for making "mountains out of molehills." Some will, no doubt, feel I am doing just that when I label the careless discarding of candy wrappers as a "moral vice." But I believe it is the task of the preacher to apply the Gospel to every facet of life. I further believe that we Children of God have not dealt seriously enough with the preservation of the beauty of God's countryside.

Naturally, there is a patriotic and legal aspect to litterbugging. Frequently we see along the roads of our land signs forbidding the dumping of refuse, and threats of fines against those who toss trash on the right-of-way. This does not seem to adequately retard the practice, and it is difficult to enforce. Unfortunately, the quantity of junk and blowing paper exceeds the quantity of warnings. Trash is abundant along the roadsides, while the receptacles provided by the Highway Department are often nearly empty.

This mar on the beauty of the land is a sad reflection upon the patriotism of the American people and their sense of culture. Is it not hypocritical for a people to sing "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and "O Beautiful For Spacious Skies . . . Amber Waves of Grain . . . Purple Mountains' Majesty" and then proceed to deface the "Land of the Pilgrims' Pride" by throwing cigaret and candy wrappers on its waysides? Does not this practice speak of contempt for our land? And does it not label us as less-that-cultured?

Not all people of the world use their trash weapons against national treasure. Not all people are so devoid of national pride and culture. David Diets, writing some years ago in his column in the Cleveland Press, told of visiting Tivoli, the fabulous amusement park at Copenhagen, Denmark. He described the beautiful buildings, the fine restaurants and the entertainment ranging from opera to acrobatics. He concluded thus:

"We attended Tivoli the first time on a Sunday night and the park closed at midnight with a fireworks display. The place was jammed with people. As they thronged out there was no pushing or crowding.

"But the most amazing thing was that the whole park was as immaculate as when it opened in the morning. There wasn't an empty cigaret package or a paper bag or any other piece of rubbish anywhere on the ground.

"Most important — and most difficult to describe — is the spirit of the people. Everybody in Tivoli is having the time of their lives and you can tell it the minute you look at them.

"Tivoli is the amusement park of a civilized people who have learned how to enjoy life."

What does that say to us about our national care of beaches, parks and highways?

Of course, there is the matter of cost. I read that in a recent year it cost the taxpayers—that's us — over four million dollars to clean up the trash from the national major highways alone. What a waste!

But what about the spiritual aspects of public neatness, and the so-called "sins of litterbugging?"

In the first place, the indiscriminate tossing of trash is a sin against beauty. As such it is a crime against God's creation, and thus a sin against God. How beautiful the wild flowers are when they push up through beds of fallen leaves. But what an ugly sight when they must compete with old newspapers and broken bottles. The flowers may beautify the junk, but the junk certainly detracts from the flowers.

Are we not outraged when we read that some vandal has gone into a park and rooted up the beautiful flowers and shrubs, or thrown paint on the statuary? Are we not outraged when we hear of a maniac who has entered an art gallery and slashed priceless canvasses. These are crimes against beauty.

And must not God the Creator be outraged when we deface his beautiful handiwork in the hills, valleys, forests, beaches and waysides of the open country? Indeed He must be! And must He not feel that His creatures who thus show contempt for His handiwork certainly must have contempt for Him?

How often I have had my joy and pride turned into sorrow and shame, when I have taken visiting friends out for a drive to show them the countryside beauty, then to come upon pile after pile of cans and bottles, and some places the roadside more white with paper than green with grass. Must not God be similarly embarrassed?

I believe that throwing our pop bottles, candy papers and sandwich wrappers out on God's green pastures is no less contemptuous of Him than would be wiping our feet on His divine garments. "Whoever says he loves God and throws trash on His creation is a liar . . ." to paraphrase I John.

Furthermore, litterbugging is a sin against man. This, too, has a spiritual dimension. Every man has a right to enjoy beauty, especially the out-of-doors. (We deprive only incarcerated criminals of this God-given right.) But when we discard our trash in the paths of others, when we toss our litter into their view, we display not only our thoughtlessness, but our contempt: our contempt for other people as persons, and our contempt for their right to enjoy the beauty of nature. "Whoever says he loves his brother, and throws trash on the highway, is a liar."

We often see signs telling us: "Prevent Forest Fires," and "Only You Can Prevent Forest Fires." Perhaps we need some other signs: "Preserve the Beauty," "Only You Can Prevent the Desecration of the Beauty," and "Others Want to Enjoy the Beauty Also."

Jesus said, "Do not cast your pearls before swine." Neither should we cast our trash before men.

Finally, litterbugging is a sin against God in the sense that it is a violation of our stewardship, a violation of our sacred trust as the keepers of God's garden. Genesis says God created man and put him in the garden to care for it. Read that passage carefully. It does not say that God put man in the garden to abuse it or to desecrate it with ice cream wrappers and cigaret packages.

Not only is there the poor stewardship of the millions of dollars we spend to clean up after our own carelessness, but there are the much more basic issues of the care of that which God has put here for ALL man to enjoy, and the task God put us here to do, namely, to care for His creation.

How much easier it would be to keep a basket, box, or sack in the car (you can even buy a litter basket to match the upholstery) and put all our trash in it. How easy it is to empty this in a trash drum at a roadside park, at home, or at a service station. And how much better we would care for God's creation if we did so!

"Whoever says he loves God's creation and still dumps litter along the road is a liar." We talk about conservation. Let's practice it with the proper disposal of litter.

Of course none of US is guilty of this sin! It's always the other fellow, the other car!

Or if we are guilty, it's only a gum wrapper or two. But there's the rub! Whether it's a gum wrapper or all the litter from a picnic, there is the matter of our attitude. And our children are so quick to learn that attitude from us. Is that attitude contempt or stewardship? Desecration or consecration?

Litterbugging is a sin. It is the adulteration of beauty, the trespassing on others' rights, the setting up of the most ugly graven images right where God is to be honored.

Let us repent from this sin and ask God's forgiveness. Let us begin NOW, to show reverence for beauty; to observe reverence for the rights of other persons; to practice reverence for the handiwork of God—His creation of which we are the stewards.

Gardening Popular Pastime

Many millions of people enjoy working with plants on the home property, the reason being to keep up the appearance of the home; for the relaxation working with nature provides; for a measure of exercise, and the "creative pleasure" of planting the property to afford pleasant living for the whole family.

According to the American Association of Nurserymen the strong upsurge of planting has been caused by many things, including more widespread home ownership; a strong desire to live more naturally, and the craving of practically everyone for more beauty and peace in the world. Gardening is representatice of the peacefulness of nature. Francis Bacon called it the "purest of human pleasures."

The desire to have home properties landscaped with trees and shrubs is found to be almost universal among owners, according to the American Association of Nurserymen, the most important reasons being that they add beauty and increase the value of property. Other strong reasons are that they provide shade. Privacy, windbreaks, flowers, and other desirable elements of better living.

Are You A Master Or Janitor At Home

How long has it been since the man in your house had to take time out from bridge, a whodunit or a snooze to shake down the furnace clinkers or bank the fire in a damp basement?

Or maybe you're the one who had to haul a ton of wet wash out to the line, swab the grease out of the oven, or take out the garbage?

Ah, those were the good old days! All you needed was plenty of fortitude when the wash came back frozen solid or smudged by soot and you had to hang it in the cellar to thaw. And it was a real delight when washing a heap of dishes, pots and pans used up your hot water supply so you couldn't ease your tired back into a hot tub.

Nostalgia or not, few people want to see those days return —and very few have to, what with modern appliances taking over most of the household's janitoring jobs.

Take that business about the clinkers, for example. The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association points out that in a 1962 home equipped with one of those streamlined gas boilers or furnaces that take up only about two and one-half square feet of floor space in the basement or utility room, nobody thinks about ash cans, stokers, fuel bins and scuttles any more.

What's more, says GAM, that little gimmick on the wall, the thermostat, keeps tabs on the temperature and clicks the heat or the gas air conditioning on or off as needed.

Wet wash? That's old hat now. Today they have gas dryers and washers that work as a team to take care of the heaviest wash and treat the most delicate fabrics without harsh soaps and eyesore washlines.

And, speaking of things of the past, nobody with a modern gas range crawls into a stove any more to do the inevitable cleaning job. Nowadays, the gas range oven parts, the burners, in some cases even the range top, can be taken to the sink and washed like a dish. No stooping, scrubbing or scraping. And there are top burner heat controls and new oven temperature controls that take care of meal preparation without constant vigilance.

In millions of homes, people no longer have to put off showers and shampoos for lack of hot water while the washing machine and dishwater are being used. A modern automatic gas storage water heater — alloy or glass-lined to prevent rust and corrosion—has such a high heat-recovery rate that, if the right-size heater is put into the house in the first place, hot-water supply is endless no matter how many water-consuming appliances are working at the same time.

Now, says GAMA, there's a new development that disposes of the last disagreeable household chore. It's the smokeless-odorless gas disposer. This appliance will take two or three bushels of the wettest, nastiest garbage you ever handled and quickly reduce it to a handful of ash without a trace of smoke or smell. A double-burner principle of combustion eliminates the smoke in this form of incineration.

The way things have been going in the gas appliance industry lately, GAMA observes, a guy has a chance to be master of his house, instead of just the janitor.

Ohio Potatoes Have High Quality This Year

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Other Foods—Fryers, pork loins, beef roasts, steak "specials," medium grade A eggs, cheese, popcorn, honey.

During the coming months, you can look forward to a good supply of high quality Ohio grown potatoes. Growers say the specific gravity of potatoes is high this year . . . to the cook this says "good flavored mealy potatoes." Producers did an excellent job of killing the vines early, resulting in firm skins. This means the potatoes will keep well in storage, so you may want to take advantage of the lower prices now afforded on the large packages. Prices are expected to stay near last year's low level.

Mrs. Franks

Sweet potato supplies reach a peak in October and while the crop is below average this year, prices will be lowest during the next few weeks. Head lettuce prices have moved up sharply as a result of the recent storms in western states. Fortunately, local salad greens — Bibb and leaf lettuce, escarole, endive and Romaine — are at their best and prices are quite reasonable.

Cauliflower is a bargain vegetable as this year's heavy crop moves to market in volume during late October and November. Quality is tops. Reduced prices may also be found on broccoli and Brussels sprouts as shipments from western states have increased.

Greenhouse tomatoes are also coming in volume now to replace the vine-ripes that become scarcer at this time of year. Winter squash, carrots and rutabagas are other fall vegetables in good supply. Turnips get better each week; try some soon to go with a pork roast.

Apples — for bobbing, eating, cooking — are excellent in quality. Remember to take home an extra bag of red ones for "witch foods" this weekend. Quantity purchases (half bushel or bushel) are good buys at this time of year, if you use many apples. Keeping quality is excellent.

Florida grapefruit and orange shipments increase weekly. Prices on grapefruit are expected to stay fairly steady for the season, but orange prices are definitely downward as supplies increase. You'll find chilled orange juice and grapefruit juice at bargain prices in many stores; look for them in the dairy case. Bananas, pears and cranberries are other good fruit buys. Emperor grapes are coming direct from vineyards, but all other western grapes now come from storage, which means slightly higher prices on the storage ones.

Appeals Judge John Duffey Keeps Backlog, Delay Down

Judge John J. Duffey of the Tenth District (Franklin County) Court of Appeals, who is a candidate for re-election, has tackled the problem of delays in appellate cases. As presiding judge of the court he has kept Franklin County cases moving by insisting that time limits be met, and by using a "drop list" and personal persuasion. He has kept the court ahead of its constantly increasing work.

Since early 1960 Judge Duffey has handled the assignment of the heavy case load of the court. Since the court sits in the state capital, its authority extends not only to the review of cases involving the people of Franklin County, but also to most of the operations of the state government. The rapid growth in both population and governmental activities has resulted in a persistent increase in the number of law suits filed each year.

Judge Duffey has attacked this problem vigorously. During his term as presiding judge the court not only held its own, but has decreased the backlog of pending cases. Legal experience and hard work is the formula Judge Duffey has used. He is an honor graduate from law school and holds the Juris Doctor degree. He practiced law and has served as a special assistant to the Franklin County prosecutor. As a professor of law he spent six years on the faculty at Ohio State University.

The judge has been active in civic and church affairs and has served as a member and vice-chairman of several governmental commissions. In 1961 the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce awarded him the Distinguished Service Award for outstanding community service.

During World War II Judge Duffey enlisted in the army. He spent 14 months in the Pacific Theater. He is now completing a term as judge of the court of appeals. He, his wife and six children reside at 276 E. Kelso-rd.

Type II Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine Will Be Given Sunday, Nov. 4

The second step in the Sabin on Sunday polio immunization program in Franklin County —the biggest and most effective community action program ever undertaken here — will take place Sunday, Nov. 4.

Type II Sabin oral polio vaccine, which immunizes against the Type II polio virus, will be given from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 118 Sabin Stations all over the county.

The location of the Sabin Stations will be the same as Sept. 30, the opening Sunday of the mass program aimed at knocking out polio in the community. More than 540,000 persons—three-fourths of the population of the county — received the Type I vaccine given during the first phase of the drive.

Dr. Richard L. Fulton, president of the Academy of Medicine of Columbus and Franklin County and head of the Sabin on Sunday committee, stressed that everyone over two months old should visit a Sabin Station Nov. 4 and receive the Type II vaccine . . . even those who for some reason did not participate in the initial part of the program.

"Type II vaccine is completely safe and harmless and 100 per cent effective," Dr. Fulton explained. "The United States Public Health Service urges that everybody — children, teenagers, and adults of all ages — take this vaccine. If all Franklin Countians do this, we'll be well on our way toward wiping out the threat of polio in this community."

Dr. Fulton said that those who failed to receive Type I vaccine can still take part in the remainder of the Sabin on Sunday drive. "Those who missed out earlier can go on with the rest of the program and then get the Type I vaccine from a private physician at a later date," he pointed out.

The system of distributing Type II vaccine will be the same as that used Sept. 30. Two drops of the odorless and tasteless vaccine will be placed in a small disposable cup of distilled water. For babies, two drops of the vaccine will be placed directly on the infant's tongue.

As before, a donation of 25 cents per person will be accepted. But those who can't afford it won't have to pay. They'll get their vaccine anyway.

Probate Judge Van Heyde Seeks Re-Election Nov. 6

'Jamboree' Star Scott Shares TV Duties With University Hospital

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Inter-office memo to Classified Ad director Joe Knapik:

If you ever need a testimonial regarding the effectiveness of want ads, suggest you contact Billy Scott, WLW-C, TV 4.

Handsome William, current star of WLW-C's "Jamboree" program aired locally week-day nights at 7, talked briefly about his career — its past and present — between bites of a ham plate luncheon and while downing aspirin to fight a pesky head cold.

The country and western singer (he says he detests the word "hillbilly") explained how newspaper want ads played an important role in his active 35 years. And, that's considerable, too, when you figure that they partially accounted for:

1. His trip to Ohio (he's a Francisville, Ind., native).

2. His full-time job as assistant personnel director at University Hospital, and

3. His wife.

"I got my first big job with a group called the 'Melody Rangers' after placing an ad in Billboard (show biz trade paper)," Scott remembered. "I took up with them in Fort Wayne (Ind.) in 1948 and they got a chance to work in Ohio and I followed with them."

The band played for a time at WRFD radio here. It was a small group with a talented vocalist named Helen Harris. She became Mrs. Scott in 1950.

From WRFD, the guitar strummer launched his TV career — at WLW-C incidently—with a woman who's name has become almost synonymous with his — Sally Flowers — on "Meetin' Time at Moore's." ("People still stop me on the street and ask, 'How's ol' Sally,'" he says.)

The show closed for Billy in 1957 (and a few months later for Sally) when the Scotts got a chance to do a husband and wife act on "Midwestern Hayride" out of Cincinnati. The couple continued to live at their 3939 Pegg-av address here and commuted for the weekly show.

In between, there were personal appearances. "But, this wasn't enough," he said and decided to get another job in 1959.

He turned to the want ads again and this time found an opening in the typing pool in University Hospital's Medical Records Department.

He was told, however, that males weren't being considered but was offered, instead, a position as an interviewer in the personnel department. In three short years he was named to his present executive position.

Then, "Jamboree" came along.

In order that there are no conflictions between the hospital and the show duties, the Scotts video tape two of the shows three nights a week.

This is probably what is meant by "Scotts Taped" and the adhesiveness of Billy's love for the entertainment world rivals that of the sticky cellophane strip product.

The Scotts are quite active in their community, too. Billy finds time to serve as chairman of the Parish Organization Committee at St. Luke Lutheran. Helen is active in the PTA and the CCL group.

They have three children, Jerry (11), Linda (10) and Lori (two).

What's ahead for the Scotts? Well, if "Jamboree" continues to be as sure-fire as its bright beginning, he'll be at his WLW-C "homestead" for quite awhile.

If it doesn't, he'll probably just continue at the hospital and if a local opportunity in the entertainment field presents itself, he might consider it.

But, no "big time" — nationally — for him. "My family means too much to me for that," he said sincerely.

It was easy to see that he meant it.

Another AUBLEGRAPH

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Plenty Of Entertainment On OSU Campus; Waring First

Famed Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians will present "Wonderful World of Music" at Mershon Auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday (Oct. 26) . . . Waring will be closely followed by the twenty-six young cowboys traveling with conductor. George Bragg, on the Texas Boys' Choir tour which brings it to Mershon at 8 p.m. Wednesday (Oct. 31). A real entertainment double-threat on the OSU campus.

Speaking of Ohio State, let us not forget University Theatre where William Saroyan's famous Pulitzer-Prize play, "The Time of Your Life," opens as the first production of the 1962-63 season on Tuesday (Oct. 30) . . . It runs until Saturday, Nov. 3.

Movie note: The title of Edmund Purdom's film "Wild Cargo" has been changed to "White Slave Ship" . . . The former title wasn't considered wild enough . . . Nat King Cole was guest of honor Oct. 3 at a daughter-father dinner at upstate New York's Cazenovia Junior College where Cole's daughter, Carol, is a freshman . . . Douglas Fairbanks, Greer Garson and Lois Nettleton will star in "The Shadowed Affair"—an original Michael Dyne love story set against a strange and gripping background—to be broadcast in color Sunday, Nov. 4, from 10 to 11 p.m. on NBC-TV's "Du Pont Show of the Week" . . . That's Channel 4 for natives.

The talented Patrick M. Williams, pianist, organist, song-stylist among other things, is now holding down the fort at the Hi Timber Inn and Party House in the North End . . . Williams most recently tuned-up at the Biltmore on W. Broad-st before making his move.

'SO YOU WANNA BE A STAR...?'

NBC publicity department informs that youngsters have been writing TV scripts for their favorite shows and sending them to the network office hoping that they'll be picked to star . . . For instance, one young lady wrote a script for "Bonanza" color series (Sundays, 9-10 p.m.) and added: "I wrote the script, 'The Race.' I guess you're curious as to why I wrote it. I suppose the best of your writers ask for money in return for their work. Well, I'm not." Then she added:

"If you could possibly use my script, I wonder if, in return, you would allow my cousin, Marsha Lynn Garrett, who is 12, and me to come and try out for the parts of Jennifer and Kate."

To other 12-year-olds: You might note that in an entire season, only 34 scripts are purchased for "Bonanza" but don't let that discourage you.

WRONG NUMBER?

It was almost a reunion by telephone last week — it could have made for some red faces if the parties had gotten together.

WTVN-TV's "Dialing For Dollars" program — hosted by Sally Flowers and Gene Fullen — selected the name of Mrs. Frank Shephard from the directory to give $250 if she was at home.

Sally and Betty have been friends for a long time. Miss Flowers recognized the name but there wasn't much she could do about it while on [illegible] group work agency for underprivileged youngsters and it includes as much work with the parents of these children as possible.

Center—

The agency is directed by qualified workers. The details of the agency program and its month to month operation is closely supervised by a committee of social service professionals and in constant consultation with the professional leaders of Settlement Houses operating under the United Community Council.

Let's go back to the bleak beginning. The Center's history is remembered this way by Pastor Bernhard:

"The operation of our group work youth agency in the first week of Oct., 1961, had been preceded by attempts of First Church to serve neighborhood youth over the past several years.

"About six years ago the congregation opened the facilities of its parish house to the children of the community once or twice a week to provide for them a place for recreational activities. The effort was then called the Activity Center Program.

"During those years about 50 children a week were served. For the following two years the center was opened one evening a week and attendance averaged 25 young people.

"However, some problems began to develop. For one thing, attendance did not increase commensurate with the growing number of neighborhood children who kept roaming the streets.

"For another thing, it became difficult for those in attendance to engage in games or in any other common activity because no consistent membership had evolved.

"Different young people would attend nearly every week with only a few returning regularly, and the age span began to spread from six-year-olds to 20-year-olds. Discipline began to break down until it finally became nearly impossible to maintain order.

"Then, in December of 1960, for a variety of reasons, attendance jumped from 25 to over 100 a week. The center was opened for two evenings a week. In a month both nights showed an attendance of over 100. A third evening was added with the same result."

And, this has been the pattern ever since.

At first, a professional group worker was engaged on a part-time basis. Mrs. Thelma Stinson became part-time work in March of 1961.

A whole new activity stemmed from the Center when 36 children were sent to summer camp for a week.

It's interesting to note, however, that Center attendance has risen but, Pastor Bernhard says, church attendance has dropped. Many of the Center's youths, however, do occasionally get together in groups and attend Sunday services.

The Center will be used for Halloween parties this Wednesday and the Golden Age group uses the room for frequent meetings.

"Frankly, the whole undertaking is a venture," the Pastor volunteered. "No one can as yet tell how effective this enterprise will be. We are in the process of experimentation and learning."

Summing up, he added:

"First Church alone can not assume responsibility for a social service agency indefinitely. Yet, the attempt must be made to prove our contention.

"On our ability to do so might well depend the future of the congregation and of the community and, above all, the fate of human beings."

Spectator—

those who believe we are somewhat late in this decision.

It is a fact that we cannot live without peace and it is a further fact that Americans have no desire to live except in dignity.

If our way of life is worth preserving we can be sure that we will have the guidance from a power greater than that of all the accumulated nations to so preserve it . . . if we have the necessary FAITH in this power.

This is a time for old-fashioned patriotism. This is a time for a renewal of the faith of our fathers.

The die is cast!

Sertoma Is Organizing

Service clubs of this community are about to have an opportunity to welcome another fine community organization, The Sertoma Club.

Western Sertoma is now in the process of being organized on the Hilltop by the Tri-Village Sertoma Club and a tentative date of Nov. 17 has been set for charter.

Business and professional men of the area who are interested in being affiliated with a good group dedicated to service for this community may do well to investigate what Sertoma has to offer.

TWO FROM BEXLEY IN HOMECOMING PLAY

Two Capital University students from Bexley have been cast in the homecoming play, "You Can't Take It With You," to be presented Nov. 2-3. Charles Robinson portrays Boris Kolkenkov, and Joan Klopfer portrays Mrs. Kirby.

Charles, a junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson, 683 Euclaire-av, and a 1960 graduate of Sandusky High School. At Capital, he is a member of Men's Residence Council, Co-chairman of May Day Weekend, Masquers' Chaplain, and Circle K Club President.

Joan, a sophomore, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Klopfer, 2640 Broad-st, and a 1961 graduate of Bexley High School.

Man Saves Son From Blaze

Mack Thompson, 129 Santa Maria-ln, saved the life of his four-year-old son, Bruce, by entering their home after the house had caught fire.

Thompson's wife, Patsy, and two-year-old daughter, Petina, had already been led to safety when he broke through the bedroom window to save Bruce.

Novelty Illusions Add Room Utility To Interior Walls

Any room in your new house can be given a novel look by the simple process of having one wall covered with a different pattern or material than the other three.

And sometimes the optical illusion can be very useful.

One of the most versatile finishing materials now on the market is hardboard paneling for interiors. There are so many different surface treatments readily available that getting the decorating effect you want becomes a mere matter of selection.

Surface Interplay

If you decide to panel an entire room with, say, warm, rich wood-grained finished hardboard, there is no reason not to introduce decorative interest through the interplay of related surfaces.

Starting with any one of the wide choice of wood-grain finishes, three walls of the room might be random-grooved, while the fourth could be unpatterned except for the graining.

Wood-Block Effect

Similar combinations with pre-finished wood-grained finished hardboard panels are possible by using panels on one wall that have been scored for a rectangular wood-block effect. And wood-grain finished panels with perforations are another alternative. These perforated panels create a decorative wall for hanging tools, toys or accessories in kitchen, laundry, playroom or bedroom, since the perforations are sized and spaced to accept standard hooks and shelf brackets.

Perforated panels with other pre-finished or unfinished surfaces offer the same double-duty accent, as decoration and as useful hanging storage space.

One new hardboard panel design makes it simple to create a wainscot because it includes two patterns in one. The lower part is plain, while the upper part is perforated, and the whole 4-by-8-foot panel is scored vertically in a random-width plank pattern.

Conceal Storage

In one decorator's scheme for a study, this paneling was used across one wall, as ceiling-high closet doors concealing shallow storage shelves for books, magazines, records, hi-fi equipment, a television set, game equipment and oddments. Again utility and unusual interior styling made a happy combination.

For a stronger contrast of wall coverings, hardboard manufacturers offer other varied surfaces to add interest to boxy rooms. There are ribbed or striated patterns, basketweave designs, textures resembling beading, and even corrugated panels, both plain and perforated.

A wall of contoured hardboard resembling closed louvers, suggested by an interior designer for one wall of a living-dining room, was constructed by nailing the hardboard panels directly to the studs.

Striking Illusion

The same room had another striking optical illusion employing a hardboard product designed for a special application. Advanced techniques have produced perforated hardboard with square holes and with die-cut grill work in several geometric patterns. One of these lacy designs was used as a floor-to-ceiling screen at the windows, and also as a divider between the areas of the dual-purpose room. Each divider was constructed of two 8-by-2-foot panels nailed to slender wood frames which were left exposed on the dining side.

Whether for purely decorative efect or for attractive utility, the many handsome new faces of hardboard can contribute both beauty and convenience to your new home. And hardboard is a natural choice for a face-lifting project in an older house, particularly for do-it-yourself craftsmen.

Light-Studded Idea Home Is Easy On Your Eyes

Creative use of modern lighting is the theme of builder Sidney Colen's "Idea Home" in St. Petersburg, Fla., which has attracted more than a thousand visitors a day to his 3,400-home development.

"Essentially we wanted to dramatize for our prospects the extra built-in lighting values of our Gold Medallion homes," Colen explains.

The Idea Home contains a total of 134 separate lights in an almost endless variety of appliances. Remote control and dimmer switches are numerous and centralized control panels are located strategically throughout the house.

The house itself is one of Colen's standard $14,000 models. Although thousands of dollars worth of extra lighting installations are included in the model, most of the individual lighting ideas are inexpensive. Many of them are already incorporated in standard Gold Medallion Homes, all of which must be wired and lighted to meet above-average standards.

The living room of the idea model includes special lighting hidden by valances, built-in ceiling spot-lighting to highlight portions of the rooms, and a variety of unique floor and table lighting. The intensity of most of the lights can be controlled to achieve a wide range of lighting effects and moods. Even in his standard Gold Medallion Homes Colen installs hidden valance lighting in living and dining areas and provides remote controls at all room entrances. In addition, a central control panel in the bedroom allows the owner to turn on or off all of the built-in lighting inside and outside of the house.

"Lighting can do much to make a home express the individual tastes of the owner," Colen points out. "With proper lighting he can soften or dramatize a particular structural feature of the home.

"Adequate lighting is perhaps the greatest promoter of safety and security in today's homes. It prevents accidents by illuminating dangerous steps and stairways and discourages burglars by keeping grounds and entrances bright and visible from the street.

Colen's Idea Home will be on display during National Home Week, Sept. 30 to Oct. 6, like other Gold Medallion Homes throughout the country.

Cookouts Carefree With Gas

There are few things left in this troubled world as carefree as the cookout. With a backdrop of clear blue sky or shining stars and a spotlight of glowing coals, the stage seems set for light-hearted dining.

Ease, however, is the essence of such meals and the scene can soon be spoiled through lack of know-how or makeshift equipment. Huffing and puffing to make the charcoal burn, cooking in acrid smoke—these are only two of the troubles that can mar a barbecue. Insects and harsh illumination are added woes.

To insure success, families in increasing numbers are turning to modern gas barbecues that ignite instantly, imparting a rosy glow to ceramic "coals." They're ready to cook in seconds. Meat and other foods take on the heavenly flavor and appetizing appearance everyone associates with outdoor cooking. And there's no mess or fuss involved. Smoke and soot from dripping grease is consumed by the gas flame. There are never any ashes to empty or fly about. The ceramic briquets are self-cleaning and can be used over and over again.

Homeowners can choose from a variety of gas models, ranging from portable units that can be used indoors as well as out of doors, to built-in equipment permanently installed on the patio or terrace.

For cooking at night, families find the mellow glow of gas light ideal. It provides ample light for working, yet never spoils the setting because it is too bright or glaring. Instead, gas light is similar to moonlight, casting a soft, flattering glow over the scene. It actually enhances the setting and adds a touch of elegance.

Equally important, gas light doesn't attract annoying insects. Unlike filament-type lamps, gas lights create light on the yellow band of the color spectrum which in effect makes them insect-repellent. And, of course, gas lights are dependable. Sidewalks, driveways, swimming pools, patios, porches, etc., are properly lighted at all times in good weather and bad. Families are never without outdoor illumination when they need it most.

BROADLOOM is a designation of carpet width. It does not describe any special style, quality or construction. The term refers to any carpet made in seamless widths of six feet and over.

Draper and Van Heyde Should Be Returned

Franklin County is fortunate in having good candidates for every post to be filled at the election next Tuesday.

There are really no serious consequences possible as the result of this election. But we do feel that two special endorsements are in order.

We highly recommend Judge Robert M. Draper as an outstanding Common Pleas Judge and an independent thinker in his own right who believes in justice for all classes. We see no reason why Judge Draper should not be returned to this position.

Probate Judge Joseph Van Heyde too should be returned to his most important post.

Judge Van Heyde is now serving the unexpired term of the late Judge Roscoe Walcutt but has had ample time to fully demonstrate that Franklin County is fortunate in having a family man of his calibre as the judge of one of the county's most important courts.

Judge Van Heyde should be returned to the probate bench.

Controversy Still Rages On Over Bliss Run Question

THIS IS AN interior photo of the new Lincoln Memorial Hospital maternity pavilion on E. Livingston-av. The new wing, which is built onto the present hospital, is slated to open Nov. 15. Acting administrator, Dr. R. C. MacFarland, said that the pavilion will cost nearly $250,000.

Still feeling the heat of another Bliss Run flood control dispute, Councilman Robert T. Southwick shrugged his shoulders and resignedly said, "I don't know what we're going to do."

The Bliss Run "battle" has been a worry to both city officials and Berwick area residents for some time now — "too long," said Southwick.

Southwick, who, along with Councilman Bill Fornof, met with residents last Friday, is understandably eager to get the matter resolved.

"We get one solution that we think will iron out the problem and the residents don't agree," he said with an air of frustration.

Both Southwick and Fornof failed to obtain agreement from the residents of a revised, $200,000 plan for the project. The protests came from Brookwood Presbyterian Church officials as well as from Berwick area property owners.

Meanwhile City Council this week appropriated $44,000 to permit Service Director Ernest Stork to continue making flood control plans. About ed $200,000 plan for the proj- for Bliss Run. Stork is engaging the engineering services of the Burgess and Niple Co.

Proposal Outlined

The residents still seem to be uncertain that this latest plan to prevent flooding in the Berwick section is acceptable to all affected property owners. However, Southwick said he is opposed to further action by the city without a commitment from residents accepting the plan.

Newest proposal calls for a channel five feet deep, 10 feet wide at the bottom and 25 feet wide at the top, with concrete bottom and slopes; improved culverts and lowering of the lake east of College-av by 1.3 feet.

Sewer Chief Carl Schoene is to "walk off" the proposed route sometime this week. The residents want open culverts at Livingston and Berwick but are opposed to cutting a new canal and cementing the bottom.

The fear here stems from

FOR MATERNITY CASES

New Pavilion Erected At Lincoln Memorial

The quarter of a million dollar maternty pavilion to Lincoln Memorial Hospital is slated to open Nov. 15, according to Dr. R. C. McFarland, acting hospital administrator.

The new facility, which is housed in a one-floor building with a complete basement, contains 14 rooms. A nursery, formula room, formula preparation room, isolation room and two delivery rooms are included.

In the lobby of the new wing, a gift shop and snack bar will be operated by the Lincoln Memorial Women's Auxiliary.

The basement will house free clinics for cancer detection, heart, eye and diabetic ailments. These services will be free to the Eastern area.

Also in the basement will be an auditorium for the convenience of the medical staff and the women's auxiliary. The auditorium will be open free to the public for civic meetings.

According to Dr. McFarland, the wing has the most modern facilities available. The floors are made of terrazo tile; the equipment is shock proof; the beds and sterilization equipment are the latest types and the entire building is air conditioned.

FALL traditionally is time for sippin' cider through a straw, but next Sunday it will be Sabin vaccine instead. The second of three doses of the oral vaccine against polio will be dispensed in scores of schools and other community centers throughout the county. This scene was snapped by Photographer Harley Groom several weeks ago at Bishop Ready High School. The Bernard J. Kershers and daughtetr, Sandra, (pictured) of 2965 Parkside-dr and their five other children and two grandchildren will be back again Sunday for the second sip.

Second Doses Of Sabin Polio Vaccine To Be Given Sunday

Type II Sabin oral polio vaccine will be given from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 4, at 118 Sabin Stations throughout Franklin County.

The location of the Sabin Stations will be the same as Sept. 13, the opening day of the county's Sabin on Sunday campaign.

More than 540,000 persons —three-fourths of the population of the county—received Type I vaccine during the opening phase of the program. Sabin on Sunday officials expect that all of these, plus others, will take the Type II vaccine

The officials point out that the Type II vaccine is an important step in the drive to completely wipe out the threat of polio in the community. The United States Public Health Service has recommended that Type II vaccine be taken by everyone over two months old. Even older persons, who normally wouldn't get polio, should take this vaccine since it will prevent them from even being a carrier of the disease.

Franklin Countians who did not receive the Type I vaccine should still participate in the remainder of the program, officials emphasize. They point out that the vaccine missed can be received later from private physicians

The operation of the Sabin Stations Nov. 4 will be the same as the opening Sunday of the program. Two drops of the odorless and tasteless vaccine—which is completely safe and totally effective — will be dispensed in a small disposable cup of distilled water. In the case of babies, the vaccine will be placed directly on the infant's tongue.

As before, a donation of 25 cents per person will be accepted. But those who cannot afford it won't have to donate. They'll get the vaccine anyway.

AGAINST LAW

Explosives Causing Whitehall Worries

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Leave the rocket-firing to Cape Canaveral, boys. That's the advice of the Whitehall Fire Department and they've got the law on their side.

James Soteriades, Whitehall's Fire Prevention chief, reported that several rocket engine explosive devices have been turning up in the city.

The gun-powder-rigged "engines" are manufactured by a firm in Colorado. They first came to the attention of Soteriades when some fellows sent away for them and decided that they'd better check the law before detonating them. And, it's a good thing they did.

Whitehall's criminal code says they're illegal.

"We had some trouble with these things about a year ago," Soteriades said. "If you don't think they're dangerous," he added, "consider this: One was fired and falling from the air it embedded itself about three inches into some blacktop. What would happen if it would have been a kid's head?"

Soteriades urged that any Whitehall youngsters who might have sent away for the item should call the fire department at once. The fire inspector isn't allowed to reimburse you for your purchase but he could save you some money — like the kind used for paying fines.

New School May Be Up By Spring

Construction may be completed by next spring on a 16-room, $560,000 elementary school building near Rosemore Junior High School in Whitehall.

The new school will have a multi-purpose room and 16 classrooms.

The building took the largest part of a $1.1 million bond issue approved in May, 1961.

Ground Broken For New Country Club

Just like Rome, the Columbus Country Club is rebuilding.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were conducted Sunday for the start of construction of a clubhouse on the site of the one destroyed by fire last Jan. 11.

The building should be completed in about a year.

Club President William E. MacDonald referred to the groundbreaking as "a milestone in the future growth of the Columbus Country Club."

The new clubhouse will have 36,000-square feet of floor space. The $1 million building will be a red brick structure with white trim and dark green shutters — designed in Georgian style.

The actual groundbreaking Sunday was performed by Albert M. Miller, a senior member of the club and a son of the late O. A. Miller, the club's founder.

Columbus Country Club's former clubhouse, located off of far E. Broad-st, was a 51-year-old frame building.

Will Run For Council; Swipes At Issue One

Gilbert H. O'Shaughnessy, 746 Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for Whitehall fourth ward councilman this week and, at the same time, took a swipe at the Sunday Sales amendment.

"Being a Democrat interested in my community and the welfare of my fellow man," he said, "I am actively opposed to Issue No. 1, commonly referred to as the Lawson Issue."

O'Shaughnessy, who will run on the 1963 council ballot in Whitehall, added that "in my opinion the Lawson Issue, if passed, will be the beginning of a seven-day work week and a 365-day work year."

Spike Up Your Dinners

One of the best aids to work ahead meal planning is the kebab dinner, a fine entree that leaves little else of work for the cook come dinner time, for a complete meal for each diner is grilled on skewers individually.

Everybody loves these dinner-on-a-spike meals for they look so attractive and are so full of flavor.

Here's a particularly versatile marinade and barbecue sauce that can be used with many meat-and-vegetables combinations. It is allied here with pork, but would be equally good with beef.

To round out the easy patio planned meal, serve it with a green salad and seasoned bread (all done in your kitchen and wrapped in foil until ready to brown and serve.)

MARINADE AND BARBECUE SAUCE

¾ cup minced onions
⅓ cup oil
⅓ cup minced parsley
⅓ cup red wine
1½ cups all-purpose barbecue sauce

Saute onions in oil until they are transparent. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Bring to a boil over medium heat.

Then reduce heat and simmer gently about five minutes to blend flavors, stirring occasionally. Makes 2½ cups sauce.

PORK KEBABS

2 pounds lean boneless pork shoulder
3 medium green peppers
6 medium onions, cut in half
1 medium zucchini, cut in ¼-inch slices
Marinade and barbecue sauce
Salt

Cut meat into 12 large cubes. Place in saucepan and cover with salted water. Cover saucepan and bring to a boil. Then reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, cut green peppers lengthwise in half; then cross-wise into quarters. Remove cores and seeds. Add green pepper quarters and the onion halves to meat in saucepan and simmer five minutes. Drain.

Place meat in marinade sauce. Let stand one hour. Drain, reserving marinade. Alternately place green pepper, zucchini, meat, and onion on four long (about 12 inches) skewers.

Repeat two more times until skewers are filled. Sprinkle with salt. Place on a rack in a broiling pan.

Measure ¾ cup marinade, set aside, and keep warm. Liberally brush kebabs with half of the remaining marinade.

Place kebabs four to five inches from heat and broil 20 minutes, turning and brushing with remaining unmeasured marinade after 10 minutes. Serve kebabs with ¾ cup warm marinade. Makes four servings.

MONTAGE of photos shows the many sides of Janice Dunn — this year's homecoming queen at Capital University. She's pictured in the center wearing a formal gown but is equally at home (and equally as attractive) in sports wear or just plain school clothes as these pictures verify. Picture at top shows her instructing class at Mohawk Junior High School. — (Photos by John Auble, Jr.)

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Janice Dunn is a queen in capital letters.

The pretty 21-year-old Georgetown, O., gal has been named homecoming queen at Capital University but don't be fooled by her pretty face because her talent for accomplishing things doesn't end there.

Anybody with a pretty face can become a queen of some kind. After all, somebody's got to be "Miss Adhesive Tape," "Miss Aluminum Foil" "Miss Carry Me Back to Ol' Virginny" and the thousand and one other reasons for placing a crown atop a lustrous coiffure.

Miss Dunn is different.

She could have tried for "Miss Education" or "Miss Saxophone" or "Miss Shutterbug," for that matter, and probably come out on top.

Needless to say, her interests aren't centered around grasps at royalty.

Miss Dunn is a senior at Capital and her small five-foot, three-inch frame belies her big feats in more fields than most girls even dream about.

Consider the facts:

She teaches students at Mohawk Junior High School, plays saxophone in Capital's concert band, works actively with her Alpha Chi sorority, takes a genuine interest in photography, attends meetings of the Capital Music Education Association and belongs to Phi Beta, the music and speech honorary.

Besides that, she was a candidate for Daisy Mae for Cap's Sadie Hawkins Day Dance and served as a page for May Day, her freshman year.

"Being named queen was really a surprise for me," she smiled. "Sometimes I think it's unfair, though. So many are deserving."

Miss Dunn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Dunn. She has a 20-year-old brother, Ken.

This isn't the first time that Janice has sat around a throne. She was in the "Snow Queen" court while attending Sardina High School (40 miles east of Cincinnati).

"I thought that was the biggest thing that ever happened to me," she remembered. "You can imagine how happy I was when I was named queen here."

Actually the story of Janice Dunn to Queen Janice Dunn is one of the if-at-first-you-don't-succeed variety.

year by a friend of hers, Linyear by a friend of hers, Linda Upper, but was eliminated in the semi-finals. Miss Upper didn't give up, though, and nominated Janice again this year.

Queen Janice will be at home on her royal throne both Friday and Saturday nights when she and her court will be introduced preceding the Masquers' production of "You Can't Take It With You" in the Mees Hall auditorium. That's 7:30 p.m. Friday and 8 p.m. on Saturday.

Support Levy For Retarded

The cost of maintaining a retarded child in a state school is close to $1300 a year, and all of our state institutions have a waiting list a mile long.

The Community Class Program for Retarded Children was started by parents 10 years ago so that these children could get an education and still live at home. The School for Retarded Children on Thurber-dr is a very important part of our society and should continue to expand its services.

The three-tenths mill levy on the ballot this fall is for the training and education of the retarded children in Franklin County and cannot be used for any other purpose. Sixty-five of 88 counties appropriate funds for these special schools. Most of them have approved special levies to provide specific funds for schools for retarded.

We endorse this levy and hope that you will vote YES to help these children get an education.

Disturbed By Items Displayed In Drugstore

To The Editor:

This is a letter of protest to the practice of some pharmacies in what I believe to be an indelicate display of male contraceptives.

I have been told by some that this new open display of these items encourages their sale and also lessens embarrassment of men customers, if there is not a gentleman clerk present.

It is also true that women's needs have been openly displayed for some years. Women must select personal items in full view and then carry them to a desk to be wrapped, on many occasions, by a male clerk.

I know modesty and delicacy are often laughed and snickered at in this day and age. Instead, one is considered "prim and prissy", because everyone knows science has elevated these matters to pure education. I am told the "sophisticated" adult or child regards sex and the needs of sex as so much biological fact.

However, many people in our community have voiced the same opinion that they still believe and try to instruct their children that love, marriage and sex are still a blessing. At some time in life, we learn to revere these things, and if we are to be called prim and prias for this belief, we shall make apology to no one!

When the children of this community question what's in those boxes on the shelf, will you answer them? Have you ever tried to reduce adult understanding to a 9 year level? When you complain to the parent of a teenager because he "lifted" these items from your store, can you honestly expect the parent to accept "full responsibility?"

The removal of obscene and questionable magazines from drug stores did not eradicate juvenile fornication; neither will the removal of this display, but it can help to provide a better and more wholesome environment for our children.

—A Concerned Bexley Resident

Says Taxpayers Save If Levy Passes

Do people know that the three-tenth mill school levy for retarded children actually will save taxpayers money? The reason is very simple. If the tax levy passes, these children can live at home. However, if they were to be institutionalized, it costs the taxpayer roughly twice as much as the needed school program.

Sixty-five of the 88 counties in Ohio already take care of retarded children by special school facilities exactly as this levy will provide for Franklin County's retarded children.

Most people will see the value of making it possible for these children to live at home. There is no reason why the basic educational needs of these retarded children shouldn't be met just as we provide education for other children.

ONE WOMAN'S Opinion . . .

3-Word Command Can Humble Nations

About a year ago I read a short story that will be in my memory forever. It went like this:

The world had reached that final crisis where the two supreme powers were ready to annihilate each other. One final, last-chance summit meeting had been called.

A new experiment was going to take place. Each nation would compile its assets, liabilities, problems, history, present mode of living, etc., and all this information would be fed to an IBM machine. All the nations of the world had agreed that they would abide by the decision reached by the IBM machine after it had analyzed the information.

Miss Hartley

The fateful night came when the delegates were to receive the decision. People around the world listened to their radios to learn if they would live or die. Each delegate was given a sealed envelope containing the IBM decision.

The delegates of the two major powers were the first to read the decision. It was brief and when they had read it they looked at each other and wept. The rest of the delegates in turn had the same emotion.

For the message said simply,

"Love thy brother."

Need I say more?

Defeat Issue No. 1!

We who are responsible for the publishing of the Hartley Newspapers have always been old fashioned enough to believe in enforcement of the law.

This has been true in our repeated stand on the matter of Sunday operation of businesses. We have on previous occasions stated this stand and held that the best interests of the public can be served by our law enforcement officials taking proper recognition of the law and then having a proper backing of the courts in such matters.

We have often been disappointed in the lack of attention to such law enforcement and more disappointed in the fact that judges who have heard some cases have left their backbone at home on the days these cases came to hearing.

Next Tuesday the people of Ohio are being asked to vote on a matter known as the Sunday Necessities Amendment or better known as the Lawson Amendment because it is sponsored by the Lawson Milk Co., a subsidiary of the Consolidated Foods Co. of Chicago.

More has been printed about this amendment than any other issue in recent years and it is not necessary here to go into details as to what it calls for .In the claim of the Lawson Co., it is meant to more clearly define what businesses can stay open and what ones are to close.

We believe Issue No. 1 should be defeated. This means a NO vote!

If the Lawson Company has been one of these who have openly defied the present law it would appear they should be defeated in their efforts to change the law by an amendment that is aimed at primarily making it possible for food stores to stay open on Sunday.

Our interpretation of the present proposal is that it would make it possible for further such amendments to be made if the door is once opened.

It has already been indicated that if certain merchandisers start keeping their business firms open on Sunday others will be forced to follow suit. This is highly undesirable.

Business firms cannot afford to keep their doors open seven days a week and up to 24 hours per day. Such a move naturally will force costs up and in the end the consumer pays the bill.

At present a few firms take advantage of the fact that the law is not closely enforced and stay open on Sunday. These firms have found Sunday business in many instances to be profitable. But it would no longer be profitable if all firms of their type opened for Sunday business.

If there are $X Million worth of groceries sold in Franklin County in a week while stores stay open six days, there will still be just $X Million worth of groceries sold in seven days. This means that the operators have merely paid for one more day of being open in order to get the same amount of business.

In large cities in other states where the doors have been left open to Sunday operation Sunday has become a day of business almost like any other day of the week. An outstanding example of this is in Indianapolis. Department stores as well as supermarkets are open seven days a week.

There are those who will say that our approach is old fashioned. We still believe some of the old fashioned ways of doing things are good — especially when it comes to keep us from toppling over in the "rat race" for dollars that American business has today brought down upon its head.

We advocate a "No" vote on the amendment next Tuesday and then we advocate the election of judges who will not turn their heads when they meet certain situations that require intestinal fortitude.

Death May Lurk In Your Living Room

Cold weather struck early this year and already the "Silent Killer" is claiming its victims.

Carbon monoxide fumes already have killed an aged Columbus couple and sent five members of another Columbus family to a hospital.

The "Silent Killer," as the result of improperly vented heating equipment, took 17 lives in Columbus during the 1957-58 season; 10 during the 1958-59 season, five in 1959-60, and only two in 1960-61. Last year, fatalities climbed to nine.

Carbon monoxide is a deadly gas caused by the incomplete burning of almost any type fuel — wood, coal, gas, oil, or gasoline in your automobile.

One of the bad things about carbon monoxide is that you can't see it, smell it, taste it, or detect it in any way except by the symptoms it creates. These symptoms start out with a headache and throbbing in the temples. They progress to a severe headache, weakness, dizziness, dimness of vision, nausea and collapse. Death can happen in a matter of minutes.

The natural enemy of carbon monoxide is fresh air. That is why it is so important to direct the fumes from your heating equipment into the outside atmosphere.

So, to cheat carbon monoxide of additional victims, possibly one of your loved ones, follow these rules:

- Buy and use only approved heating equipment that is properly vented;
- Connect your heating equipment with a vent pipe to a good chimney;
- See that the vent pipe goes up hill from the heating equipment to the chimney;
- Use a safety thimble where the vent pipe enters the chimney so it can't be pushed into the chimney too far ;
- Make sure the chimney is clean. Blow smoke into the opening to see that it draws well;
- Provide a cleanout opening in the chimney under the vent pipe and cover it tightly with a cap;
- Allow some outside fresh air to seep into the space where your heating equipment is located;
- Have a qualified installer connect your heating equipment. It may cost a few dollars, but will save money in lower fuel bills and may save your life.

Carp Deserve Place In Sport Fishing; Their Meat Especially Good If Smoked

INSIDE ON THE* Outdoors
By ROD COCHRAN

The fishing season is a long way from being over, according to Kenny Ogilvie, West Jefferson. Newly retired, he is making a specialty of catching carp from waters close to home—Little Darby, Big Darby and Deer Creek. I was talking to R. W. Recob a couple of weeks ago, and he said Ogilvie's record was 95. The carp expert was trying to make it an even 100 for the season.

Apparently the cooler weather was what he needed, for at last report his total was 114. These fish ranged from two to 20 pounds, with a lot of them in the five to seven-pound range. What does he do with all these carp? All are eaten; not by Ogilvie but by his friends and acquaintances. "None are wasted," is the way Recob put it.

I was interested in what baits were used to produce such excellent fishing. There is no secret in this department — crawfish and dough. The craws are used when they are available, and dough balls are Ogilvie's second choice.

Not too many years ago it was the common practice for fishermen to sneer at carp. It was a sort of unwritten law that carp were trash fish, and and angler with any pride did not admit to catching any. But the truth slowly and surely came. A carp is a fighting fish—not a spectacular jumper, but a strong and dogged fighter. More lines are broken and more tackle "busted-up" by carp in a year's time than smallmouth bass wreck in a generation. I am not saying that I would rather catch carp than bass, but this comparison indicates the strength and size of carp in local waters.

It is true that many people do not find carp palatable when prepared in the conventional ways, but this should be no reflection upon a sport fish. A lot of people say that northern pike are bony and not good eating. Several species of saltwater fish are not eaten, yet rate at the top of every angler's list. Some of these are the famed tarpon, jack cravelle and a number of the sharks.

No, the carp has earned a place in sport fishing ranks even if no one ever ate another fish. But just the opposite is true. More and more people are eating carp and loving it, for the secret is to not fry or broil it but smoke it. Several fish companies are supplying smoked carp commercially now, and in the future it is expected that it will be easier to get here. Now, the only dependable supply is to smoke it yourself, and not many want to go to this trouble. Smoked carp tastes a lot like tender ham, and it doesn't seem like so much trouble when you are eating it.

Izaak Walton in his "Compleat Angler" told how to catch carp along with trout and other sport species. Kenny Ogilvie and I both agree with Walton—to be a well-rounded fisherman you must know how to catch carp. And if you've never caught any, you are in for some good, water-sloshing fun.

Christianity An Idea Born In Heart Of God

Analyze talk and you will find that it assumes one of three levels. The lowest is about things; the center level is about people; the highest level is about ideas. Keeping this in mind, we turn our attention to the Christian Church.

Rev. Klopfer

It deals with things — many kinds of things. It has a building to erect and maintain. It has equipment to provide and budgets to meet. In a wider area of service it has colleges to support; mission stations to maintain; institutions of charity to provide for. It would be fine if Christian people talked more about such things as evidence of their interest in them. Instead of that, all too often matters of trivial importance mark their conversation.

The church also deals extensively with people. People won for the Kingdom, officers elected, sick visited, straying reclaimed, children taught, the lazy encouraged. In short and basically, the church is people, and the human element in the church's work will always remain a central factor; and there is much here to talk about that has merit. Let us not allow it to degenerate into gossip — that idle talk about people where the good in them is minimized, and the sordid is given all the accent.

But Christianity is not primarily things though they have a part to play; it is not primarily people though it is made up of them. Christianity is first and foremost an "idea", and born in the heart of God. Its symbol is the cross, and the heart of it lies in the words of John, "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

It was a rejected idea when Christ was here on earth — that God could have such affection for people as to give His only Son to the cross as an atonement for sin. But the idea caught on, and the cross now stands high against the world's sky as an everlasting witness of this boundless love. Although the cross has been the target of many attacks since first it stood on that "green hill far away," it still stands "towering o'er the wrecks of time."

This great idea which is Christianity could not be stopped. In its march it deals with things, and people, but its character is spiritual and it concerns itself not only with the present but also with eternity. It remains a "great idea," and as such it calls for your allegiance.

ONE (LITTLE?) VOTE

Election officials tell us that usually only about half of our eligible citizens use enough time and effort to vote. Even in important national elections the figure is not much higher. Is this self-government? Is this democracy in action?

Nearly half of the earth's people are ruled by a self-appointed few. Elections are a farce. With only a hand-picked slate of one-party candidates are no opposition, free choice is impossible. Lesser public officials are puppets. Government is by edict of men, not impartial law.

After allowing for minor parties which serve a useful purpose, more than two strong political parties is too many. Only one is not enough. Legitimate opposition and discussion dramatize issues and give voters a chance to truly govern themselves if they will. How many voters?

Will one vote decide an election? It has and will again. In the only time when we impeached a president of the United States, one senator's vote decided the issue, and, as many believe, preserved the delicate, necessary balance and division of powers in our federal government.

We have an important election coming up. We're still free. Do we care enough about it to at least vote?

It says here . . . ,

Rights and responsibilities are Siamese twins. Neither can live alone.

Electric Heat Gives Buyer Wide Choice

A variety of electric heating systems helps make it possible to equip virtually any home with modern electric heat. Among the most popular types of electric heating systems available today are:

1. Baseboard Units. Baseboard electric heating units are installed along the walls of each room. They blend into baseboards, take up little room and make room decoration and furniture arrangement easy.

2. Ceiling Cable. The only sign of a heating system is the thermostat. Heating cable is stapled to ceiling board and then concealed completely with plaster or plasterboard. Heat radiates gently from the entire room.

3. Wall Panels. A number of wall panel types are available. One radiates heat from a thin glass panel, either surface-mounted or recessed in a wall. Another type combines both convection and radiation. Some employ a fan for air movement.

4. Electric Furnace. A compact central unit that draws air over heated resistance coils and then distributes the warmed air via ducts throughout the house.

Under the direction of Allene Montgomery, the Friday night's performance will start at 8. The curtain will rise for the Saturday show at 7:30 p.m.

The 1962 homecoming queen, Janice Dunn, of Georgetown, and her court will be presented both nights prior to the play opening.

"You Can't Take It With You" is the story of a very unusual and comical family in New York. Grandpa raises snakes and attends commencements. His daughter, Penny, writes plays and paints while her husband, Paul, makes fireworks and plays with an erector set.

'Can My Suede Jacket Be Drycleaned?'

Mrs. M. L. L.

Dear Mrs. M. L. L.

You, too, have been swayed by suede, I see. More and more of our fashion-concious ladies have been intrigued by all varieties of leather trim as well as jackets and coats. Yes, your suede jacket can be drycleaned, and, perhaps, more readily now than ever. New soil resistant finishes have been introduced to leathers at the tanning stage and better cleanability has resulted. However, all leather and leather-trimmed garments require special care in wear and in cleaning. Your drycleaner knows how to handle your leathers to retain the colors or pearlized effects as well as how to care for the fur trim that adorns some of the dress-up luxury leather coats.

Speaking of fur, man-made fur, in addition to being used for full length coats are also used as linings, trim, hats and purses. While your drycleaner can handle these simulated furs, some manufacturers have used a plasticized backing for the material to give it more fur-like feeling. When drycleaned the sizing in the backing may become sticky and cause the garment to ball up and form creases that are impossible to remove. Some 100% Orlon has this result.

Your drycleaner wil be watching for troublesome man-made furs and will care for your garment as you would, yourself. Remember, he is trained in his profession to serve you.

SHIFT FURNITURE

Moving furniture occasionally is good for carpets! A shift of a few inches relieves the pressure of heavy furniture on one spot. A more thorough re-arranging can change the "traffic pattern" thus distributing wear even

Questions On New Carpeting

Q. How long can I expect a carpet to wear?

A. The service you get from a carpet or rug depends on three things: Basic quality, amount of use it receives and the care you give it. Remember that carpets are used constantly in today's homes, not confined to the "best parlor" that our grandparents knew. Good-quality carpeting should last a minimum of five years under normal conditions. Naturally a carpet will last longer if not subject to abuse, unusual soiling or traffic conditions.

Q. I want a good-quality carpet that will wear a long time. What fiber should I look for?

A. Quality isn't determined by fiber content alone. Sturdy construction is a major factor. However, for heavy wear look to wool, nylon or acrylic fabrics which resist abrasion and are therefore long-wearing in good construction. More economical fibers which may be less resilient and less durable can be used in low-traffic areas.

Q. I haven't shopped for carpet in about 10 years and I'm not familiar with the new backings. What are the types now used?

A. In woven and knitted carpets, the backing is produced simultaneously with the surface or pile fiber. In tufted carpets, the pile fibers are sewn to a pre-woven backing. A latex coating is also used on most tufted carpets and many woven and knitted carpets to add stability. A "scrim" fabric or double-backing may be added to prevent any buckling or stretching of the carpet.

Q. What types of nylon are used in carpets?

A. There are two main types: Nylon which is produced as short "staple" and spun into yarn, and "continuous filament" which is made in one continuous strand. The latter is the more recent development in the man-made fiber field. Both are engineered especially for carpet use, so don't confuse them with the nylon made for hosiery, for example, or clothing.

New Kitchens To Feature Electric Aids

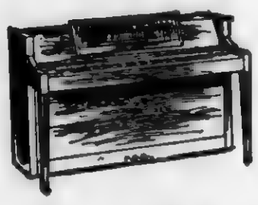
Many of the new Gold Medallion Homes on display during National Home Week—Sept. 30 to Oct. 6 — feature such kitchens—equipped with new electric appliances.

Automatic, efficient and styled for both beauty and cleanliness, modern electric appliances in a new home point up the theme of National Home Week — "Better Living Begins When You Own a New Home."

Each major electric kitchen appliance — dishwasher, refrigerator-freezer, and range —gives the homemaker extra hours by doing automatically many of the routine kitchen chores.

The new electric dishwashers cut dishwashing time in half and help keep the kitchen uncluttered. An up-to-date electric refrigerator-freezer with its considerably increased capacity saves on shopping time, and, if it's one of the new no-defrost models, the drudgery of defrosting is ended.

Automatic electric ranges free the homemaker from standing over the stove to watch and wait while food cooks. Thermosatic controls control temperatures for her. New electric ranges also are designed to catch less dirt and be easier to clean.



One could start traveling from Florida in early spring and over a period of six weeks follow the spring flowering season all the way into Canada.

Area Grade Pupils To Get TB Tests

All 1st, 7th and 11th graders will have an opportunity to receive free tuberculin tests Nov. 5, 6, 7, and 12 at Etna-rd, Beechwood, E. Broad, E. Main, Yearling H. S., Montrose, Maryland and Cassingham schools.

The testing program, sponsored by the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County uses the Mantoux test, given by doctor-nurse teams.

The tuberculin fluid is injected between the layers of skin on the forearm and the spot is examined 2-4 days late, for color, size and shape. A spot exceeding 5 millimeters in diameter is declared a positive reaction.

A negative test indicates that the body contains no tuberculosis germs. A postive test does not mean a child has TB, but only that TB germs are in the body.

A healthy body will prevent the germs from doing any harm. A chest X-ray is needed, however, to determine positively, if any damage has been done.

The testing is part of the Tuberculosis Society's program to locate all cases of contagious tuberculosis and tuberculosis infection.

The average person in the U.S. spent $112 in 1961 for goods and services that contribute to pleasure and recreation. This is 6.1 per cent of the consumers' dollar, according to extension economists.

PENNEY'S

ALWAYS FIRST QUALITY!

If you believe Sunday should be retained for Rest, Worship and Recreation . . . we urge you to

VOTE 'NO' ON ISSUE 1

Sunday has always been a day most families could enjoy together, doing as much or little as they pleased . . . a day of quiet calm away from the busy, noisy weekday pace.

Certain private interests, who operate several hundred grocery outlets in Ohio, are now pushing a "Sunday Opening" amendment to Ohio's Constitution. They hope to make Sunday another "businesss-as-usual" day . . . the seventh business day of the week.

We believe that six days a week allow ample shopping time for most ordinary family needs.

And the things you can't easily stock in your refrigerator . . . like electric power, gasoline, medicines, Sunday newspapers and entertainment . . . are all sold legally on Sunday under present Ohio law.

Once we start voting new exceptions, there 's really no place to stop. If you don't want business-as-usual, work-as-usual, seven days a week, join us in voting "NO" on Issue 1.

WILL YOU HELP TO KEEP SUNDAY FOR THE FAMILY?

Sunday is a day of needed rest, worship and recreation.

Not only is there no necessity for chain food stores to stay open Sunday—there are many reasons why they should not. Food stores are by the biggest retail business in America. If Ohio voters "open the door" for chain food stores, every other kind of store will soon want to sell on Sunday . . . fair for one, fair for all.

When stores are open everywhere on Sunday, Sunday as we know it will be gone. It will become just another business day. Hustle-bustle, noise, traffic, fatigue.

High prices for food. Total food sales for 7 days would be the same as 6 because people can only eat so much — no matter how many days they shop. But 7-day store expenses would be greater, requiring higher prices to offset the higher expenses.

Hundreds of thousands of Ohio people would be forced to work needlessly on Sundays.

The firm behind the "Sunday Opening" amendment has only one obvious reason for trying to change Ohio's constitution — profits for themselves at your expense. We have elected represenatives who are far better qualified to decide what needs changing in the Ohio Constitution than any private interest.

PENNEY'S urges you to . . .

The Eagle award was presented to two Eastmoor boys at a recent formal court of honor of Troop 195 sponsored by the Fairmoor Church.

Presenting the Eagle charge to the two Scouts were Paul Love, district scout executive, and Tom Currier, neighborhood scout commissioner in the White Oaks District. Assisting in the ceremony were Earl Meyer, scoutmaster of Troop 195, and Charles Starrett, advisor of Explorer Post 195.

Eric, 16, is the son of Mrs. E. Hershberg, 144 S. Ashburton, George, 14, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Varga, 2610 Schaaf-dr. Eric received the Ad Altare Dei Church award earlier this year in April.

Both boys are members of the Order of the Arrow, an honorary camping organization of the Boy Scouts, and both attend Eastmoor High School. Eric is a member of the Student Council and George belongs to the Junior Achievement.

Also recognized at the court of Honor was Roger Starrett, who received his gold palm. Palms are awarded to boys who do additional work after receiving their Eagle badge. The gold palm is awarded after a boy has earned 31 merit badges.

Merit badges were awarded to Kenny Meyer in the fields of nature and life saving. These two merit badges qualified Kenney for the Eagle award, which will be presented to him at a court of honor in December.

The rank of Star scout was awarded to William Marshall and Herman Ericson and Joe Margiotte were inducted into the troop as Tenderfoot Scouts.

A new Explorer post was formed at an organization meeting Oct. 22. The new post is Post 369, sponsored by the Reformation Lutheran Church. Paul Roach was named as the adult advisor.

Election of officers took place at the first meeting. Officers elected are: Terry Andrews, president; Paul Hoffman, first vice-president; Jeff Niebler, second vice-president; Mike Mulligan, secretary; Bob Figley, treasurer; Charles Wilkins, quartermaster and Steve Roach and Larry Bowman, district Explorer cabinet representatives.

The formation of this post brought the total number of posts in the White Oaks District up to five. Reformation Lutheran Church now sponsors Cub Pack 369, Scout Troop 369, and Explorer Post 369.

'Camera' Preview Set In Green Room Nov. 4

A preview scene from the forthcoming Gallery Players presentation of "I Am a Camera" will be the focal point of entertainment at the drama group's next general meeting of the season Sunday evening, Nov. 4, in the Green Room of the Jewish Center at 8:30 p.m.

According to Eddie Kaye, Gallery Players board member in charge of general meetings, the scene will feature the talents of Harriet Slott and Roger Allen. "I Am a Camera" is being staged by Gene Gerrard.

Also on the agenda for the evening will be a panel discussion on various facets of the theater, led by Harold M. Eisenstein, Gallery Players director, Mr. Gerrard, Joe Sculler and Bill Walters. During the question and answer period the panelists will attempt to convey to the group the Gallery Players approach to theater and an approach to the general background of the "I Am a Camera" script.

This meeting is the second in the series of regularly scheduled Gallery Players sessions, the purpose of which is to keep members aware of all activities and plans that are formulated by the group and to serve as an entertaining social evening.

Refreshments and dancing will conclude the social hour.

Dance Champs Will Teach Adult Lessons

Ted and Rosemary Holmes, former Canadian dance champions, will be instructors at the Jewish Center's adult social ballroom dance class for the fall term beginning Sunday night, Nov. 4, in the Center auditorium.

Fee for the course is $15 per couple for Center members and $22.50 per couple for non-Center members.

Instruction will include the standard dance steps such as the fox trot, waltz, tango and rhumba, as well as the latest Latin rhythms.

Johnson Will Lead Great Books Group

Stanley Schwartz Jr., adult activities chairman of the Jewish Center, announced that James Johnson, area director for the Great Books Foundation, will be in Columbus on Tuesday night, Nov. 6, to lead a First Year Great Books discussion group at the Center. The session will start at 8 p.m.

Johnson, who resides in Cincinnati, graduated from Miami University with a fine arts major. He has served as area director for the Great Books Foundation for the past three years covering the states of Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

According to Schwartz, the reading for that evening will be Sophocles' "Antigone." Other members of the Center's Third and Fourth Great Books groups have been invited to attend.

There is no tuition and no special educational background necessary to participate in a Great Books discussion group. The sessions are not by any means book reviews but rather they are extremely lively discussions in the great books related to contemporary problems.

Adult Art Classes Planned At Center

Mrs. Melville Frank, cultural arts chairman of the Jewish Center, announces that a new adult evening art class will meet at the Center, 1125 College-av, Thursday evenings at 8. The opening session of this art instruction class is scheduled for Nov. 15.

Serving as instructor this year for the evening group will be Charles Wellman, who is on the faculty of the Ohio State University School of Fine Arts.

The fee for this art course, which consists of 10 sessions, will be $12 to Center members and $18 to non-Center members.

Increase In Ohio Unemployment Is Assailed By Rhodes

Figures just released by the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation showing unemployment in Ohio has increased nearly 5,000 since a year ago, come as no surprise to the multi-thousands walking the streets looking for jobs, and other thousands employed in jobs far below the skills and income for which they are trained, James A. Rhodes, Republican nominee for governor, asserted in a statement Monday.

"In the last year while Ohio's population increased some 1.7 per cent, the number of unemployed filing claims with the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation increased 6½ per cent," the statement continued.

"On his recent visit to Cincinnati, President Kennedy stressed that the key to the nation's economic ills is more producing industry employing more people. Yet, Ohio is falling behind the nation both in industrial growth and in growth of employment.

"In recent weeks the United States Department of Commerce announced that latest grim figures show Ohio has slipped from second place among the nation's largest manufacturing states to third place.

"But the present administration would have you believe that all is well economically on the home front, and we have no problems that increases in taxes and squandering of state money can't cure. It ignores the fact that in the last three years, while the nation has enjoyed a 4.1 per cent increase in manufacturing employment, Ohio suffered a 2.6 per cent decrease.

"On Aug. 7 I proposed a program of New Jobs and Industrial Development for Ohio that combined the best features of 33 other states which are attracting new industry and promoting expansions in present industry through offering financial inducements to accomplish such industrial growth.

"The plan I submitted for Ohio called for loaning money to industries for such expansion and to communities in preparing sites for occupancy of these industries. The money would come from the issuance of self-liquidating revenue bonds without cost to Ohio taxpayers. I set as a goal the creation of 200,000 new jobs which would be needed to man the new and expanded industry that the program should attract to Ohio. And don't overlook the benefits which new industry and jobs would mean in lowering expenses to maintain the unemployed, and in adding to the tax basis to furnish more revenue for state and local governments.

"A similar program but offering fewer benefits than the one proposed for Ohio, has resulted in over 400 new industries in about a year and a half it has been operating in the state of New York.

"The present administration advocates stepping up expenditures of the present Department of Industrial and Economic Development (DIED) which has carried on shadow boxing operations in an attempt to hold the dike against the industrial and employment losses in Ohio. The ammunition used consists of reams of statistics printed as literature or other huckster media.

"The incumbent governor condemns my program as one that can't work, in spite of the success of other states. He wants to compound the expenditures of his present program which has allowed Ohio to fall so far behind.

"Other programs which I have proposed include a Youth Commission for rehabilitating Ohio's problem children and preventive measures against others becoming delinquents, Golden Age villages for housing most of the elder patients of our State Hospitals, public school programs from the elementary through college levels, plans for expansion of electronic research and another of public parks and forestry. This week I have released plans for bringing order out of political chaos in the Welfare Department, and greater use of federal money which is available for this purpose.

"All of these programs have been cleared with authorities in the fields concerned. All have been checked with leaders of the legislature for their approval. Except for certain phases in the educational program, all can be accomplished within the framework of our present tax structure.

Plan To Re-Apportion Ohio House Is Urged By Dennis

John R. Dennis, Democratic candidate for State Representative, announced that the Ohio legislature should move quickly in 1963 to re-apportion the Ohio House of Representatives. "Representation to the Ohio House should be proportioned according to population distribution," said Dennis.

John R. Dennis

Dennis stated that presently less than one-third of Ohio's population controls over half the votes in the House. In this way, said Dennis, the sparsely populated areas of the state controls the Ohio legislature. "Minority rules in Ohio," said Dennis.

Dennis explained that under present law representatives are apportioned among Ohio counties by dividing the total population of the state by 100 — giving a quotient of about 97,000. Each county is then entitled to one representative for each 97,000 people resident in the county. However, each county with less than 97,000 population is still guaranteed one representative under the "Hanna Amendment."

Dennis suggested a simple method of re-apportionment without repeal of the "Hanna Amendment." He advocates that the population of Ohio be divided by 200 instead of 100, thus allowing one representative for each 48,500 people in each county. The larger counties would gain representatives — Franklin county gaining an additional seven. In this way, said Dennis, the counties having 68 per cent of Ohio's population would have 64 per cent of the votes in the Ohio House of Representatives. Every county would still be guaranteed one representative under the "Hanna Amendment."

A sensible plan of re-apportionment, such as he suggests, said Dennis, would free Ohio government to solve the problems of an expanding industrial state. This plan should be undertaken immediately said Dennis.

Contamination of ground water supplies is a problem in many rural and suburban areas of Ohio.

"In recent weeks my opponent has come forward with many programs to counteract the bold and studied programs I have presented. Why, I ask you, are such programs forthcoming after nearly four long years of no major programs for the betterment of Ohio—just requests for more money to do more of what the state already has been doing that doesn't work?

If Ohio is to catch up and get ahead of the times, we must have programs attuned to present and future conditions, administered with aggressive leadership. And it must be leadership working in harmony with members of the legislature, whom you elect, with capable department heads, with the press and with some 10 million people, regardless of personal interests or political beliefs. This is the leadership I pledge to the voters in the execution of the programs I have advocated for moving Ohio forward."

Ohio Can't Afford Four More Years of the Present Administration

No Ohio governor ever promised more — and delivered less than the incumbent Governor. His administration has collected and spent more than any other administration in state history.

He mentioned not a word about increasing state taxes as a candidate for governor in 1958. "The Democratic Party of Ohio," he said, "firmly believes that its state government can live within its present tax sources and is opposed to the imposition of any new taxes."

What happened?

Soon after the Democratic 103rd General Assembly convened in 1959, the present administration rammed through more than a dozen different tax increases and NEW taxes.

UP
UP.
UP. IN TAXES

The sales tax was expanded to cover sales in the lower price levels and to include new products and services. Gasoline tax was hiked from 5 to 7 cents, a jump of 40 percent. Cigarette tax was upped from 3 to 5 cents, a sharp rise of 67 percent. Tax on 3.2 beer jumped from 12 to 36 cents a case — from $1.50 to $2.50 a barrel.

Corporation franchise tax tripled, hiked from 1 to 3 mills on share value. Inheritance taxes increased $6 million a year. Prices at state liquor stores rose 13 percent plus another 3 per cent in new sales tax.

MORE TAXES

In three years — from July 1, 1959 to June 30, 1962 the administration's new and increased taxes cost Ohio's citizens almost half a billion dollars. But even these increased taxes did not bring in enough additional millions of dollars to provide the governor the money he said in 1961 he needed for his inflated spending programs for the next two years.

So he proposed to the Republican 104th General Assembly in 1961 appropriations totaling $150 million more than the anticipated state revenue. Recognizing the unpopularity of his increased taxes, he refused to propose or recommend the new or increased taxes necessary to produce this added revenue, as required be done by Ohio Constitution and state laws. In the absence of such recommendations, the legislature refused to sponsor additional tax hikes or new taxes.

On March 23 of that year the Cleveland Press stated in an editorial, "The governor's attitude — has been a stubborn insistence that he is right and everyone else is wrong."

BUT THAT IS NOT THE WHOLE STORY

Instead of keeping his "pay-as-you-go" promise, the governor has been the —

FIRST ever to borrow Liquor Department funds to make up operating shortages in general funds.

FIRST ever to borrow from the Public Employees Retirement System to purchase highway right-of-way land.

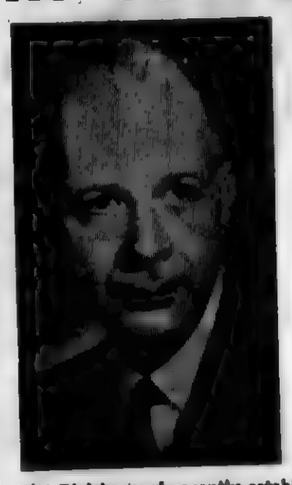
FIRST ever to defer payments to the Ohio Teachers Retirement System trust fund—the same as borrowing — and to use that money for operating costs.

FIRST ever to juggle self-replenishing (rotary) funds with General Revenue funds in an attempt to change operating balances from red to black.

HOLD YOUR HATS - HERE WE GO AGAIN

Now the governor is claiming that taxes should be substantially increased again at a time when personal income is declining and the cost of living is at an all-time high.

What has any Ohio taxpayer to show in the way of state services for this $500,000,000 tax hike?



Ohio just simply cannot stand four more years of such extravagance. Let's vote against more tax abuses this November 6th.

Workmen for the Knowlton Construction Co., Bellefontaine, erected scaffolding on the south wall of the patient care building at Children's Hospital this week in preparation of stripping off the brick facing.

Engineers said the facing on the building, completed in the fall of 1960 was not holding properly.

The problem is not serious and should be corrected within a week, depending on how many bricks must be removed and cemented back in place.

FHA'S Goal: More Homes, Home Owners

By Neal J. Hardy
FHA Commissioner

National Home Week, which has been an annual event for the last 14 years, serves to bring prospective buyers up to date on developments in home building and home financing.

When you buy a home today, the chances are that both the property itself and the arrangements you make to pay for it have been influenced to some extent by FHA. FHA operates from the sidelines, in that it does no building or lending and in normal circumstances has no direct contact with home buyers; but its impact on housing in the last quarter of a century probably has been greater than that of any other single factor.

The results of FHA's influence can be summed up in a few words: more houses, better homes, a wider incidence of home ownership. FHA mortgage insurance helps mortgage lenders to make financing available to you as a home buyer on terms that you can meet; because financing is available, builders are able to offer you a large number and a wide variety of homes—National Home Week is evidence of that; FHA appraisals establish reasonable values for homes; and FHA property standards have helped the home building industry to bring about the great improvements in construction, design and materials that feature today's homes.

Financing Has Changed
If you are a typical home buyer of a new home financed with an FHA-insured mortgage, you are about 32 years old. Your father at the same age, even if he had had an opportunity like this to look over a choice of new homes such as we have available today, would probably have thought of home ownership as something to hope for in the future.

CORNER FIREPLACES
Corner fireplaces are becoming popular in contemporary homes. They go well with modern furniture and give an airy look to a room.

NEW LIGHTING IDEAS
Lighting for the home is undergoing quite a change. There are fixtures that glide, walls that glow, and lamps that vary from candle-like dimness to brilliance.

Navy Wants 50 Men From This Area

Navy recruiters in the Columbus area are asking for 50 enlistees from the area to build up support forces for the Cuban situation.

Age limits are 17 to 31 with the number of years of prior service time deductable from the actual age of a man over 31-years-old should he desire to enlist.

Qualified men interested in the Navy program should contact the U. S. Navy Recruiting Office, 90 E. Gay-st or Room 500, New Post Office Bldg., Gay-st at Marconi-blvd.

Herbert Campaign Vigorous For Treasurer Of State Post

John D. Herbert, Republican candidate for state treasurer, has been conducting what is termed a vigorous campaign. Since the May primaries, Herbert has rolled up 30,000 miles on the campaign trail and put together a hard-working organization to penetrate to the grass roots level.

Although this is an office where issues may be hard to find, Herbert has apparently found them and is pressing them. He has been particularly critical of the present treasurer's delays in depositing funds collected for tax payments. Herbert says these delays are sometimes as long as several months.

Herbert points out that this is damaging in three ways: by working hardships on the taxpayer in balancing his own books; by keeping needed funds out of the state's account at a time when the state has felt a cash pinch; and by failing to invest funds not immediately needed to earn interest.

Herbert has also been critical of the failure of the present treasurer to mail out tax bills promptly, asserting that corporation officials have complained of not receiving franchise tax bills until after they are overdue.

If elected, Herbert has pledged efficiency in all sections of the state treasurer's office so that tax bills will be mailed on time and tax receipts will be promptly deposited. He further pledges to take every possible advantage of the state laws permitting the investment of funds not immediately needed for the state's bills in authorized investments to add to the state's income.

Herbert, a resident of Upper Arlington, is married and the father of four children. He has public service as an Assistant Attorney General of Ohio, and as an officer in the Ohio National Guard. During the Korean War, he served for 14 months in Korea, and has been awarded the Bronze Star for combat. He is the son of Supreme Court Justice Thomas M. Herbert, and is presently practicing law at 44 E. Broad-st.

Judge Petree Candidate For Common Pleas Seat

Columbus Municipal Court Judge Charles H. Petree is a Republican candidate for Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judge on Nov. 6.

Judge and Mrs. Petree live at 4153 Edgehill-dr. Their son, Charles, lives in Clintonville.

Judge Petree was, for a number of years, assistant city attorney and city prosecutor before he was appointed to the bench Jan. 1, 1945.

He has had 15 years trial court experience and for two years was Presiding Judge of the 10th District Court of Appeals for Franklin County.

Petree has been a member of Northern Kiwanis since 1947 and has a 14-year perfect attendance record. He is the club's representative on the Clintonville Community Council.

He is senior warden of St. James Episcopal Church and has been active in the Clintonville Conservation Club, Boy Scouts, the Amaranth, and is a past patron of Lorraine Chapter Order of Eastern Star.

DECORATOR'S CHOICE

Interior decorators often have wood frames custom made to cover metal windows to give a rom a warmer appearance. The wood can be stained or painted.

Area Bar Association Gives Support To R. Rush Warren

The Columbus Bar Association recently conducted a poll of all members to determine which judicial candidates were better qualified.

The lawyers, by a vote of 296 to 220, endorsed R. Rush Warren for a position on the Court of Appeals over the incumbent John J. Duffey.

Rush Warren was the only candidate for a judicial position endorsed by the members of the Bar Association over an incumbent judge.

Warren is a graduate of Muskingum University and the University of Michigan College of Law. He has practiced law in Columbus since 1949 and is admitted to practice in the State of Michigan as well. He is a member of the Columbus, the Ohio, the Michigan and the American Bar Associations.

He has a broad experience in the general practice of law and is a partner in the law firm of Lucas, Prendergast, Albright and Warren. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of Goodwill Industries, of which he is now vice president. He has been an instructor at the Franklin University College of Law for the past several years.

Mental Health Christmas Gift Drive Launched

Harry Milt, co-author of "Master Your Tensions and Enjoy Living Again," addressed a capacity crowd of Franklin County Area Volunteers of the Franklin County Mental Health Association at the Desert Inn, Oct. 25, and told them to continue their good work despite world crises and tensions, in order to maintain their equilibrium and good mental health.

Milt cited the "wonderful work" the FCMHA volunteers are doing, and stated that this local chapter of the National Association for Mental Health was one of the most active in the country.

More than 80 volunteers jammed the Aztec Room to kick off officially the Christmas Gift Program for patients of the Columbus State Hospital and the Columbus Children's Hospital.

Beginning Nov. 1 throughout the greater Franklin County area, boxes, acting as "gathering hosts," will be set up at Swan Cleaners awaiting Christmas gift greetings from residents for patients of local hospitals.

FOR TB SOCIETY

Columbus School Head Leads Seal Campaign

Dr. Harold H. Eibling, superintendent of Columbus Public Schools, has been appointed chairman of the 1962 Franklin County Christmas Seal campaign which opens Nov. 13, John Nippert, president of the Board of Directors for the Tuberculosis Society, announced.

"We are especially pleased to have Dr. Eibling as our chairman this year," Nippert said. "The society's new emphasis on respiratory diseases (RD) calls for concentrated educational programs for schools and the general public."

. . . Seal Chairman

Nippert pointed out that many other respiratory diseases are similar to tuberculosis on x-ray and in symtoms and often delay prompt, accurate diagonosis of TB. Medical authorities agree that we may quickly solve the mysteries of the TB germ if we learn more about such lesser-known, yet serious diseases, like emphysema, bronchiectasis, bronchitis, silicosis and histoplasmosis.

Chairman Eibling will supervise volunteeer workers in preparation of 225,000 Christmas Seal campaign letters to residents of Columbus and Franklin County. The annual Christmas Seal campaign is the TB Society's only fund-raising activity and is carried on strictly by mail.

Dr. Eibling graduated from Ohio Northern and Ohio State University. He is president of the Metropolitan Board of YMCA and on the Boards of Dirtctors for the Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Eibling, 225 Ceramic-dr, has been school superintendent since 1956.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

November Food Shopping Tips Are Given

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Vegetables — Broccoli, cauliflower, leafy greens, potatoes, carrots.

The three snows last week finished off local outdor crops and convinced us that summer has completey passed from the scene. However, you will find that food markets have adjusted to the season's change and abundance reigns.

Mrs. Franks

Oranges and grapefruit are in heavy volume now and quality improves with each shipment. Orange prices, particularly, are moving downward; this price decline is also reflected in lower price tags on all forms of processed orange juice—chilled, frozen and canned. Barring severe weather conditions you can include lots of citrus in your menus this winter at low prices.

Apples, of course will continue to be a big item at fruit counters during November. There will also be plenty of grapes — Emperors, Tokays and other storage grapes. Film-wrapped Bartlett pears are still around and the Anjous and Boscs will be coming this month. Supplies of dried fruits increase in time for holiday baking needs and new crop nuts appear. Plenty of walnuts are predicted but the crops of other nuts are smaller this year than normal.

Three late fall vegetables will be in good supply at prices you'll like — potatoes, onions and cabbage. Other vegetables you'll want to use generously this month are turnips, broccoli, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, and leafy greens. Local greenhouses will supply the special treats — greenhouse tomatoes and Bibb lettuce. The fall greenhouse tomato crop is a good one this year and will last well into January.

On the grocery shelf you'll find the canned fruits and vegetables are all new pack now, with peak of freshness and at the lowest price for the year. Tomato processing is just completed and the pack is a big one; expect good buys on all tomato products.

Turkeys and cranberries are, of course, a natural for Thanksgiving. Heavy supplies of both are expected. While the 1962 turkey crop is 15 percent smaller than last year's record crop, the number of turkeys to be marketed this year is the second largest on record. You may pay a little more than last year's extremely low price, but turkey will still be a good buy. Many retailers will feature them at special prices during the holiday season.

wr

Pork production will be seasonally high this month. Although supplies will be less than a year ago, you can expect loin roasts and and chops, Boston butt roasts and steaks and spareribs to be featured frequently. Bacon prices are lower and hams are a good buy.

SELF-HELP COURSE

Medical Groups Start First Aid Instruction

In order to meet both a present and a long-range requirement, the Franklin County Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Columbus and Franklin County Academy of Medicine in coordination with the State Health Department and local Boards of Education, is inaugurating a more comprehensive first aid and medical self-help course.

The course will include instructions for survival and emergency health care if a physician or organized health service is not available for several days to several weeks.

One of the prime areas of civil defense preparedness is medical self-help. Every family in the United States is a potential survivor of a natural disaster or nuclear attack and must be prepared to exist an extended period of time isolated from outside assistance.

During this time, the services of a physician might not be available and people must be prepared to meet their own health needs. To do this, every family group should be trained in medical self-help. The instructions obtained can be used in daily living as well as for emergency purposes.

Classes will be limited to an enrollment of 25 persons. They will be scheduled according to demand. Anyone interested should call the Franklin County Red Cross, 998 E. Broad-st, at CL. 3-8511 to register and receive further details on this free instruction.

The program for First Aid and Medical Self-Help training will be under the supervision of Wendell Butcher, M.D., of the Ohio State Medical Association, and Drew L. Davies, M.D., chairman of Safety Services of the Red Cross.

Instruction will be conducted by Red Cross instructors.

Drake Sees Bi-Party Commission As 'Ideal'

With two Republicans and Democrat Russell Drake as county commissioners, both parties would be represented —an ideal condition.

This is the "talking point" Drake, former city clerk, is using in his campaign for the county post.

"Working with others of opposite party came easily while I was city clerk and during that period I was able to meet and deal with many county and township officials," Drake said.

He has taken stands on various issues:

• On annexation, the basic consideration shall be what is best for all the people concerned.

• Health services, police and fire protection someday will be a countywide authority and the sooner the better.

• Flood control in Central Ohio soon will be in high gear and is in good hands. Drake pledged full cooperation.

• Planning officials want a new courthouse. This problem must be faced and taken to the people in the near future.

• A finance director or administrator would be of tremendous help to commissioners as it is for Columbus. The entire welfare program needs better communications between the director and the joint city-county commission.

Drake also urged support of the retarded children's levy.

"Gee, Pop, can't you play with it Sundays and leave the week for us essential users?"

Former Columbus Boy Makes Hit With Comedy

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Former West Columbus boy Danny Vitale walked into the office Monday and he looked like a new man. And, that's considerable, too, when you figure he IS.

He's got a new name, a new record release, a new health record and the start of a new career. And things don't come much newer than that.

It was Danny Vitale on the honor roll list at Central High School and Capital University. Now it's Danny Victor (derived from spelling Vitale "V—like in victor," he said) and it should be soon listed high on the honor roll of album hits.

"The Warrior Record release is that company's first comedy album," said thirty-two-year-old Victor with the enthusiasm of a schoolboy getting ready for his first prom. "Actually, I started out as a writer but people said my serious stuff was funny so I changed course."

And, he's glad he did. Actually things weren't always funny for him, though. Like the years he spent as a disabled veteran of the Air Force and the hard times he spent in the truest tradition of struggling entertainers.

His album is a good one. Don't classify it with the ten thousand sick - comedy albums though. This is a different kind of humor—suitable for a housewife to play for her children with equal enjoyment by both.

Nicest part about it for his hometown folks is that one of the bits entitled "Marriage" is about his native Columbus.

He takes fresh jabs at political situations (park bench philosophising to President Kennedy: "Put the White House in your wife's name") and at you and I (Definition of a tourist: "A person who travels 1500 miles to get a picture of himself standing beside his car.")

The material about Columbus is funny too. For example, "It's so cold here that the statues at the State House huddle together to keep warm."

He came back home Monday but it was just a brief stop. He's making a personal appearance tour (it lasts until Christmas) plugging his album and left hurriedly Monday afternoon for Youngstown, O. He's traveling with his agent Tom Seigel, who may work on booking Victor here in the future.

The entire album was written by Victor who claims he gets inspired for comedy material "almost everywhere." He mentioned overbearing a seven-year-old boy talking to a five-year-old girl over breakfast out west. The boy said, "I'm broke, but I'm loaded with credit cards," and Victor was off for his typewriter.

You shouldn't have any trouble remembering his name. It's Victor. That's "V," like in Victor . . .

Role At Vets Nov. 6 Played By (Another) 'Fair Lady'

They probably won't ever change the title of "My Fair Lady" to "The Passing Parade," but if they did, it would be appropriate.

The incredibly successful musical opens Tuesday, Nov. 6, for a five-day run at Veterans Memorial with a sweet actress, Caroline Dixon, in the title role.

For it's been a long time since the title "My Fair Lady" has been fitting. During a New York run that lasted more than six years, a small army of actresses have played the leading role of Eliza Doolittle from Russia to Australia.

In London, for example, at the Theater Royal, Drury Lane, Anne Rogers plays the part. It's Mona Hofland in Oslo, Norway at the Folketeatret. Liisa Tuomi has the role in Helsinki, Finland and Ulla Sallert and Gerda Gilboe have played Stockholm, Sweden and Copenhagen, Denmark, respectively.

Bunty Turner was Eliza in Australia and Lola Fisher made her debut before Russian audiences in Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev.

In this country, Margot Moser played the role at the Broadway Theater in New York until Sept. 29 and Miss Dixon, the sixth young English actress to play the Cockney flower girl in America, made her American debut two years ago in the National Company.

Evening performances at Vets will be at 8:15, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at Central Ticket Office (Richman's), 37 N. High-st. Mail orders must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

• Leslie Blanchard, the hairstylist, reported that the movie, "Cleopatra," had better do better than the hairstyle. Blanchard said that even though thousands were spent advertising the hairdo, it never caught on.

JACKPOT UP TO $125

Fifth Round Goes To Paul Norris

Paul Norris, 223 E. Sycamore-st, was named winner in last week's torrid Hartley Newspaper football contest.

Norris missed five of the 24 games, three of which were automatic losses because the Bowling Green-Miami, Kentucky-Georgia, and Dublin-Roosary games ended in deadlocks.

Eight other contestants challenged Morris by missing only five games, but Morris' guess of 17-10 in favor of Ohio State on the tie-breaker was the deciding factor.

This marks the second time Pidock, Terman, Buckholtz, and Young have been beaten via the tie-breaker. Zanes won the first round of the contest.

The jackpot has now climbed to $125 since no one has picked all 24 winners correctly in a single weekend.

Below are 24 more top games to be played on the weekend of Nov. 10. Fill in the entry blank and mail your choices to Football Contest Editor, Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus 4, Ohio.

Worthington's Cardinals completely dominated the Central District cross country meet Friday, not only winning the crown but filling four of the seven qualifying positions for the state meet Saturday at Ohio State.

Worthington finished in six of the first nine individual places, totaling 22 points as compared with runner - up East's 80.

The Cardinals' Jeff Eckert led the field with a time of 10:22, followed by teammate Russ Cellar, West's Tim DeWitt and Eastmoor's Don Wray. DeWitt and Wray also qualified for the state competition.

Other team scores in the area were: Walnut Ridge, 167; Gahanna 180; West 182; Hilliard, 271; Eastmoor, 304; South 313, Whitehall 476 and Marion-Franklin, 477.

Zips Zap Cap For Sixth Win

Akron's powerful Zips racked up their sixth straight win of the season, 46-12, at the expense of Capital University Saturday.

Akron built up a 20-0 halftime lead against the Lutherans, who suffered their second straight setback in Ohio Conference play after three straight wins.

THE ZIPS picked up a total of 432 yards as compared with Caps 102.

The Purple and Whites' two scores were recorded by ex-Eastmoor gridders Larry Gornall and Jim Makar.

Gornall pulled in a 35-yard pass from quarterback Denny Engler after slipping behind the Zip secondary in the end zone. Makar's touchdown, a two-yard run, came in the final period and was set up by Dave Eberhard's 53-yard runback with an intercepted pass.

HARTLEY

SPORTS EDITOR

THE POWERS that be put the clamps on excessive "freedom of speech" liberties exercised a little bit too freely during the past week. Big Ten Commissioner Reed called Woody Hayes on the carpet for his remarks about certain official's calls in the Northwestern game and old baseball magnate turned hoopster, Frank Lane, took it on the chin from NBA President Podoloff for unnecessary roughness on that league's officials.

Woody got off easy with an apologetic "I must not criticize Big Ten officials' letter to the commissioner but a still "Frantic" Frank took it in the hip pocket to the tune of $250. Better luck next time, fellows.

PREDICTION — Look for a breakthrough soon on the County League's proposed expansion plan.

ON THE serious side, more positive action might be in the making for injuries sustained by face guard tackles (bringing the ball carrier down by latching onto his hemet-attached face guard). High school refs have been pretty good at catching the violation and marking off the yardage but this doesn't appear to be curing a very dangerous situation.

SORRY TO report it but the United States finished second to Russia in the recent shooting competition of the world modern pentathlon championships at Mexico City. If word of this gets around certain college campuses, we suppose there will be new cries of "DE-EMPHASIZE FOOTBALL."

THEY AREN'T singing "take me out to the ball game" in Pittsburgh these weekends. The city's public school officials have banned the public in general from attending high school football games for the remainder of the season.

It seems the spirit of competition wasn't restricted to the field of play in two recent games. Deciding that free-for-alls in the stands aren't a part of the game, officials have limited attendance to students and their parents.

SPEAKING OF college football (we were), football linemen may be in for another rule change. Due to the increased number of head and neck injuries, the Collegiate Athletic Association football rules committee is considering taking the head out of football by ruling blocking with the carnial cavity illegal.

It's a far cry from the old days when just about anything went. It's no longer a case of "using your head." Watch for something to do with finger and wrist blocking next.

THE OLD timers who claim that "they just don't play the game like they used to" ought to stop out at one of the area high school football games one of these Friday nights. Attendance at prep games this season is proof enough that a good if not better brand of football is being played these days. And the boys still hit pretty hard too. I've got a black and blue spot on my leg that will vouch for that fact.

TV Bowling Kicks Off Tournament

Kick-off for the Sixth Annual Heart Fund Bowling Tournament will be a television bowling show Saturday, Nov. 10, from 10:00 to 11:00 p.m. over WTVN-TV, Earl Flora, tournament chairman, announced today.

Masters of ceremonies will be Dick Shore of WTVN-TV and Sam Levine, Cleveland, secretary of the Bowling Proprietors Association of Ohio. On the show several local celebrities in the sport field and an outstanding bowler from each of the bowling lanes will spill pins for the Heart Fund and the entertainment of home viewers.

THE HEART Fund Bowling Tournament will begin Sunday, Nov. 11, and continue through the following Saturday. Open to all league bowlers, it is conducted on an over-the-pin basis, with cash prizes going to those who down the most pins over their established league averages.

Of the $1.00 entry fee, 70 cents will be used to support heart research and 30 will go toward prizes at each of the 39 participating lanes. Trophies, donated by Southern Bowling and Billiard Supply Co., will be presented to the highest scoring man and woman in the county.

Tournament is sponsored by the Central Ohio Heart Association and conducted in cooperation with proprietors of local lanes.

Whitehall Calls Baseball Meet

The Whitehall Boys' Baseball Association will hold its first general meeting for the '63 season tonight at 8 p.m. at Whitehall-Yearling High School.

All men interested in coaching next season are asked to attend since registration will be conducted at this meeting. Fathers of interested eight-year-olds in the area are especially urged to attend since it will be up to them to set up the PeeWee League this coming season.

Mothers are also invited. Their help will be solicited next season on various committees. Any team that has not turned in their uniforms may do so tonight or by delivering them to Chuck Evans, 4111 Elbern-av.

The Liberty Bell was removed from Philadelphia for the first time Sept. 18, 1877, when British troops were about to occupy the city. It has been removed nine times since for expositions and celebrations.

Hawks Grab OBFF Title Tie

The Hawks and Lions wrap up the OBFF season with a game next Sunday. In other play in the 110-pound leagues, Duckworth blanked the Comets, 28-0, and Mifflin edged Obetz, 16-14.

Bucs Blast Tigers, Warriors Win, 14-13

ST. CHARLES DROPS HARTLEY

Central's Pirates moved into sole possession of first place in the City League Friday with a convincing 34-0 win over East.

An overflow crowd at Central watched in amazement as the Bucs completely dominated play and scored five times against a rugged Tiger defense that had yielded only one touchdown in five previous league encounters.

THE TIGERS survived an early Central drive by recovering a fumble on the East one but the Pirates were not to be denied, scoring on Tom Fullove's sneak from the one with seven minutes remaining in the second period, following a pass interference call against East inside the 10.

The real back-breaker came with four seconds left in the first half when Fullove hit George Broadnax with a 35-yard TD pass in the end zone after the Tiger defense had driven Central back from the East 11 to the 35 in three plays.

The Tigers' only real threat ended on Central's 20 early in the third period. East managed only 122 yards total offense against the Bucs, most of that coming on passes from quarterback Mike Gordon to end Ken Fowlkes.

EASTMOOR overcame a 13-8 South halftime lead to edge the Bulldogs on a 55-yard scoring pass from quarterback Vince VanHorn to end Paul Naumoff.

The Warriors took an 8-0 lead in the first period on a short plunge by Ron Bollie and VanHorn's conversion run but South charged back with two second-period scores to set up the VanHorn-Naumoff clincher.

The Bulldogs' final effort to pull out the win faltered in the final 15 seconds when a 15-yard field goal attempt failed.

BEXLEY THREW quite a scare into CBL hopeful Delaware before bowing to the Pacers, 20-8.

The Lions battled Delaware, looking for the big title clash vs Arlington this weekend, on even odds throughout the first half with neither team able to score.

Rick Harbold ignited Bexley hopes for an upset on the first scrimmage play of the second half when he raced 66 yards to pay dirt.

Delaware copied Bexley's offensive lightning, however, with Phil Reed tallying on the Pacers' first scrimmage play after the Bexley kickoff on a 55-yard pass play from quarterback Burns.

Apparently that was all Delaware needed to supercharge its offense as Tom Reed and Steve Aller reeled off long TD runs to build up the Pacers' winning margin.

FULLBACK Tom O'Leary took almost personal charge of St. Charles' 32-20 win over Hartley Saturday night in a Central Catholic League encounter.

O'Leary raced for four TDs on runs of six, nine, 17 and 11 yards as the Cards extended a 13-8 halftime margin with three second half touchdowns.

Quarterback Tom Schlager figured in two of the Hawks' scores, plunging over for one and tossing a seven-yard pass to Dan DeSantis for another. Jerry Emrich tallied Hartley's other TD on a six-yard run.

ACADEMY'S hopes of its first County League title were crushed under Hamilton Township's rumbling offense as the Rangers took over undisputed first place, handing the Vikings their first league loss, 20-0.

Tom Essig scored twice against Academy, who was able to compile only 186 yards total offense as compared to the Rangers' 350.

WORTHINGTON scored in every period to outscore Whitehall, 34-22, in another CBL battle.

The Cardinals moved out to a 16-0 lead in the first period and then matched the Rams touchdown-for-touchdown the rest of the way. Quarterback Bill Dildine picked up two of Whitehall's touchdowns, both on short runs.

End Rick Ford supplied the Rams with their other score on a four-yard toss from Dildine.

WEST FINALLY found its scoring punch and Walnut Ridge's Scots had to pay the bill, 52-14. Rich Neeley led in ed into a tie for scoring lead in the City League, racking up four TDs on gallops of 11, 64, 49 and three yards.

The game was never in question after the Cowboys exploded for 22 points in the first period and led 28-0 at halftime. The Scotties fought back for two touchdowns in the third period on a four-yard run by Dennis Day and a scoring aerial from John McQuaid to Jim Pyles.

Friday night's play finds Aquinas (0-8) at Walnut Ridge (1-7) and Bexley (3-4-1) at Grandview (0-8) in the season finale for the Scots and Lions. Other action finds Academy (4-2) at New Albany (0-8), East (5-3) at West (3-5), Whetstone (3-5) at Eastmoor (4-4) and Whitehall (4-4) at Urbana (1-5-2). St. Charles (6-2) closes out its season playing Watterson (6-1-1) at Central and Hartley (2-4-1) hosts Cincinnati LaSalle, both Saturday night affairs.

Dear friends,

The very nature of our profession offers opportunity to perform a variety of services. There is much more involved than simply providing a casket.

Often a family is faced with vexing problems. From our past experience we are frequently able to offer helpful suggestions and counsel. Such cooperation is yours for the asking.

Family matters imparted to us are held in strictest confidence.

Respectfully,

Arthur B. Leach

WHITEHALL LIONS MAKE DONATIONS

The Whitehall Lions Club has donated $100 to Pilot Dogs, Inc., to help with the organization's building program, according to Harold E. Wood, club president.

Another recent gift included a $100 donation to children's Hospital for the Eye Clinic there. This was presented by sight-saving committee whose members are Dr. Burton Berk, Billy Linville and James Polzer.

At the present time, Wood reports a membership drive is being held. "All businessmen in Whitehall who are interested in joining the largest service organization in the world should contact any club member," Wood said.

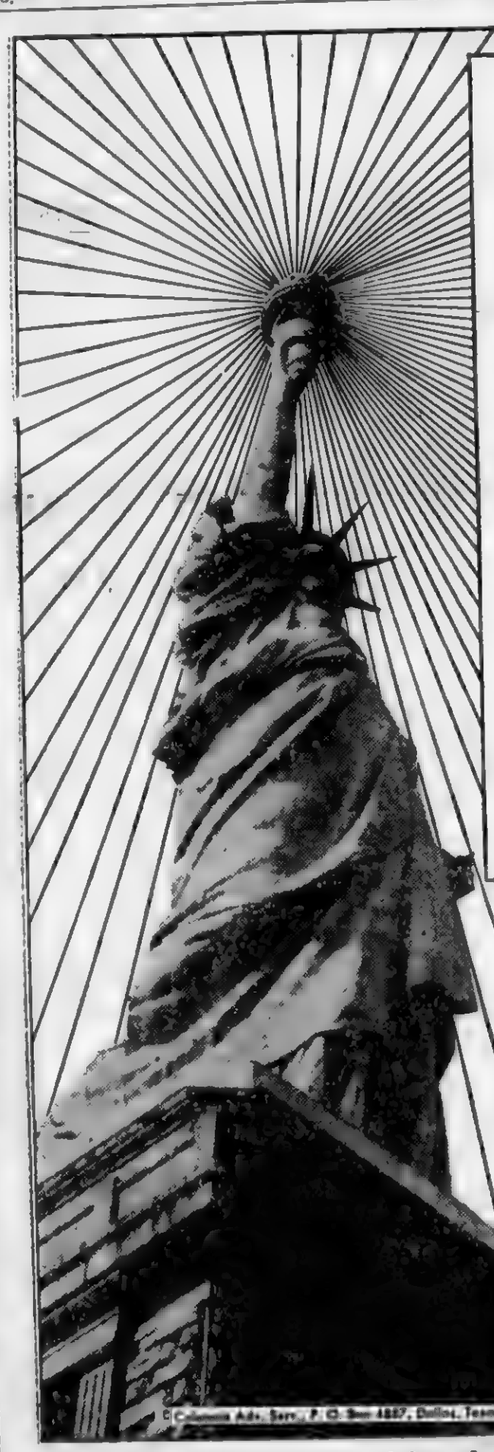
Church To Break Sod On Sunday

Wilson Avenue Christian Church, now located at Wilson-av and Fulton-st, will break ground for its new location at Livingston-av and Barnett-rd, Sunday, Nov. 4, immediately following the morning worship service in Johnson Park Junior High School.

The congregation is currently holding regular Sunday morning worship hour and church school services at both the old location and at the junior high school until the new building is completed.

Rev. Kenneth Coy, minister to the congregation, will conduct a ceremony in which all members will bring shovels and will join in symbolically outlining the shape of the sanctuary and breaking ground together.



The general contract for the new building has been awarded to Howard Zimmer Builders. The first unit to be constructed, designed by the architectural firm of Design Associates, is planned for completion in late summer of 1963. It will consist of a sanctuary seating more than 350 persons and additional facilities to provide fellowship, education space for present church school requirements and administration space.

Future plans for final construction will consist of fellowship hall and additional complete educational facilities.

FREEDOM

Inscription for the Statue of Liberty
BY EMMA LAZARUS

Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore,
Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed, to me:
I lift my lamp beside the golden door.

This truly reflects the attitude of a nation living close to God. The concern and love for others grows through Christian fellowship. Attend Church Regularly.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

ONE OF NINETEEN

Hartley Newspapers Given Award By United Appeal

Hartley Newspapers is one of the 19 firms to win the award of Excellence by the second report meeting of the United Appeal Campaign.

The award is new in this year's campaign. It represents the achievement of 90 per cent or more of employees giving their "fair share," at least one hour's pay per month.

This is a higher requirement than for the Plaque Award, which is given to those firms that attain 65 per cent employee participation at the fair-share rate. The Plaque Award has been won by Hartley Newspapers the past two years and it remains the basic measure of good giving.

Clarence Pearce, chairman of the UA campaign recently commented that, "the Excellence Award winning firms have helped greatly in getting the campaign off to a good start."

The firms winning the top award in addition to Hartley, as of the second report meeting, were:

Medick Ford, Diamond Milk Products, Omar Bakeries, Inc., F. and R. Lazarus—Main Store, F. and R. Lazarus—West, Peerless Saw Co., George Byers Sons, Inc., Ohio National Bank, five branches, Grandview Office, Hilltop Office, Miller-Main Ofice, Tremont-Fishinger Office, Arlington Office.

The Ohio Company, Columbus Hospital Federation, Huntington National Bank-Market Exchange Office, Bohl Painting Co., Ohio Manufacturers Ass'n, Glick's Furniture Co.

Bexley, Whitehall Report UA Progress

Bexley area Residential Division and Suburban Business Division reported 69.6 per cent and 6.8 per cent of their respective goals have been reached at the United Appeal second report meeting.

The overall campaign results thus far total 48.7 per cent of goal.

Whitehall area Residential Division is up to 47.7 per cent and Whitehall Suburban Business is up to 28.8.

Division leaders and area chairmen warn against any let up in campaigning effort as the community heads into the second half of the once a year, UA campaign.

Theater Group Is Organized

A Theater and Fine Arts committee presently is being formed by several Reynoldsburg citizens who are interested in promoting and establishing a theater and fine arts center in the community.

Mrs. Paul Pachuta, 1412 Hootman-dr, is serving as chairman of the group. She is being assisted by Mrs. Arthur Feeny, 1702 Bean-ct, Mrs. Paul Bachman, 7646 Burkey-dr, and Mrs. Frank Jones, 1394 Rose Hill-rd.

Members have expressed belief that, because of the city's accelerated expansion, such a center would help cultivate theatrical and cultural activity in the area.

Interested persons are asked to contact Mrs. Jones.

Permits Granted

Hillgate Realty, Inc., of 1681 Moler-rd, has permits to build 32 one-story frame dwellings for $8,500 each. Locations include two on Fairwood-av, 24 on Koebel-av, and six on Bulen-av.

Omer Bradley was made a five-star general of the U.S. Army, Sept. 18, 1950.

Five Out Of Eight Area Politicians Favored At Polls

He Did It . . .
Jim Rhodes Is Governor

Well, he did it! Jim Rhodes is governor-elect of Ohio.

The outcome of today's election takes me back about 25 years to my early days as owner of The Hilltop Record.

One day I received a phone call asking me to report to a certain room in the Neil House to pick up a printing job. Any opportunity to pick up some business took me flying and when I arrived I met Jim Rhodes for the first time.

He was something of a youngster then, just learning a bit about politics and was helping Paul Herbert in one of his first campaigns for Lt. Gov. of Ohio.

Jim in his cordial manner handed me a candidate card and then asked me to print 75,000 for Paul. I said, "You mean you want a price on 75,000."

"No," came his reply. "I've checked you out. Just go ahead and print the cards. I know you'll treat us right."

This was something on the unusual side in my short business experience and I asked him, "What do you get out of this?"

His reply was straight to the point: "Someday I'm

In the county, 126,827 voted for the Republican candidate while 78,303 (count unofficial at Review press time) cast votes for the incumbent DiSalle.

DiSalle's defeat came on the biggest majority of votes ever to decide a gubernatorial selection.

East Sider Leach, 923 Enfield-rd, was defeated in his try for Probate Court judgeship by another East Sider, Joseph J. Van Heyde, 525 Enfield-rd, the incumbent judge.

FLIP A COIN

Public Sentiment Runs High During Current Art Show

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

You can bet your finger paint set that when the curtain descends Nov. 29 on the current show at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, many eyebrows will still be high in the air.

One of the most controversial collections of paintings seen here in quite a while was unveiled Nov. 1 under the inconspicuous name of "Recent Painting USA: The Figure."

This is the fourth in the Museum of Modern Art Series of open national exhibitions premiered first in New York, then sent to Columbus, and from here will circulate to six other cities with the aid of the CBS Foundation and the guidance of the Junior Council of the Museum.

Why the controversy?

First of all, the purpose of the show "Is to explore recent directions in the painting of the figure by American artists," according to Alfred H. Barr, Jr., director of the museum collections.

And, if anything ever did a complete 90-degree turn from the accustomed variety of painting, this is it.

Edmund Kuehn, assistant Gallery director, summed up the new approach as a "departure from the abstract to include figures. Not figures like the anatomical era of the Renaissanee," added Kuehn, "when bones and muscles were the important thing, but rather figures that blend into the painting in an abstract manner but are prominently there, nonetheless."

How do current students of art feel about the new trend? Pansy Eng, 22, 200 S. Washington-av, a junior at Columbus Art School, was outwardly impressed.

"It's a new approach to modern painting," she said enthusiastically, and added that she feels it's "good" because "it will keep students like myself from going overboard with abstract art."

Let's not entirely confuse abstract act with impressionistic art. Kuehn warner that the paintings on display (all done since 1958) are certainly impressionistic in nature but they do depart from the familiar "eye ball and broken egg" abstractions.

At the risk of leaving you breathless, read this dissertation from Barr and perhaps it will bring things into proper perspective.

"Here are paintings of the forms of men and women and children — figures; figures in deep perspective, in flat silhouette; painted in patient detail or headlong bravura, with calculation or spontaneity, in monochrome or party-colored; figures candid as day; figures shredded, veiled, swathed, fragmented, emerging reluctantly from interpenertating planes of tenacles of pigment; figures alone, in pairs, in groups, in crowds; figures naked, clothed, bizzarely accoutered; figures in landscapes, bedscapes, townscapes; figures staring at the painter, bathing in the benign sun, calling upon death in vain, hanged by the neck or heels; voluptuous figures, caressed or mocked; a nervous business man, a complacent woman, disquieting youths; figures frightened, haunted, ecstatic, lost in sleep; figures posed to make a composition; everyday figures, historical figures; legendary figures, Biblical figures; figures rapt in a witch's sabbath, bewildered by survival, photographed in someone else's dream, climbing toward a flowering tree."

The 73 paintings on exhibit were selected from almost 9500 photographs submitted by 1841 artists living in 48 states and several foreign countries.

"Some of these pictures represent uncertainty as to whether a painting in the 1960's can or cannot, should or should not, live by paint alone," Barr said, and he further commented:

"Others seem more confident, Ambiguous or decisive, more strength to them.

Highlight of the exhibit will be the Nov. 16 dinner and panel discussion moderated by Mahroni Sharp Young, Gallery director.

VIBRANT COLOR, especially in the auditorium, distinguishes the new Walnut Ridge Junior-Senior High School, to be dedicated this evening at 8. Exposed concrete columns of rich deep red compliment the gray-green walls, textured by projecting every other concrete block, and painting the jutting blocks turquoise. The patterned wall design also helps the acoustics of the huge auditorium, large enough to accommodate 744. The building is the design of David Schackne, Jr., Columbus Schools' architect.

Columbus Schools Proudly Dedicate New Walnut Ridge

The $2 million Walnut Ridge Junior-Senior High School, 4841 E. Livingston-av, will be dedicated by the Columbus Board of Education Thursday, Nov. 8, 8 p.m.

School Superintendent Harold H. Elbling will make the building presentation and Paul Langdon, vice-president of the Board of Education, will deliver the dedication.

Principal Don E. Thatcher will welcome and introduce guests, and the school band and choir will participate.

The public is invited to attend the ceremonies and tour the school following dedication.

Ingeniously planned to take full advantage of the scenic, 40-acre site overlooking Alum Creek, the building was designed by David Schackne, Jr., architect, in a compact scheme.

The auditorium is placed in the heart of the building, and

A pleasant lunchroom, opening onto a terrace at the lowest level, offers a long view of the athletic field, and the trees and water beyond.

Two sides of the school were opened to the view by using large expanses of glass.

Building OK Eyed For Pool

By BETSY BRUST

Some $46,000 of the necessary $100,000 has been pledged for the construction of the Bexley swimming pool.

Mrs. Allen Siegler, a trustee of the Bexley Civic Improvement Association, announced that the group hopes to go before Bexley council in December for approval to begin construction.

"We need $20,000 before we can put our plans into action," she explained.

The swimming pool is to be built on the property of the Jeffrey Mansion as a private club open to Bexley residents. The pool will be Olympic size and shaped like a "Z" with a diving area on one end and a wading area on the other.

"There is little doubt," said Mrs. Ziegler, "that the pool

Hamilton-Rd Project Plans To Be Discussed

The $2,880,000 Hamilton-rd project plans, calling for improvement of 3.19 miles of road in Columbus and Whitehall, will be discussed at a public hearing at 9 a.m. Friday, Nov. 16, in Hearing Room No. 2 at the State Office Building.

Highway Department officials will discuss plans to widen the existing pavement to 50-52 feet and make it a four-lane highway. Plans call for the improvement to be made in conjunction with the East Freeway, which will be under construction in 1963.

Whitehall Vandals Discussed

Whitehall Council heard an impromptu report on teenage vandalism and waded through a host of legislation during an unusually long session Tuesday evening.

The vandalism discussion started when Councilman Kenneth McIntosh inquired as to why six teenage boys arrested by Whitehall police in a vandalism investigation were placed under the supervision of that city's juvenile officer, Patrolman John Clark.

City Attorney Paul Haytcher declined to comment and Safety Director Richard Moling passed it off by saying "It's something new the courts are trying."

McIntosh wondered who had official jurisdiction over Clark now, the county—since the boys were paroled by Franklin County Juvenile Court—or Whitehall.

The safety director simply said that he felt Clark would have "a lot of time tied up with this probation matter" but that it was OK — if it makes the kids better adults."

Moling did say that this practice could get out of hand, though. "Why, we could have an Ohio Penitentiary convict paroled to one of our sergeants," he frowned.

AT JEWISH CENTER

Mrs. Schottenstein Now With Children's Group

Harold M. Eisenstein, drama director of the Gallery Players of the Jewish Center, announced the appointment of Mrs. Melvin Schottenstein to the staff of the Children's Creative Theater.

Mrs. Schottenstein, well known for her community service work, has had considerable experience as a teacher of children's drama. She attended Duke University in Raleigh, N. C., and received her Bachelor of Arts degree from the Ohio State University, majoring in English and Education. She also did graduate work here.

She was recently seen at the Stadium Theater in the Gallery Players production of "The Threepenny Opera." She also appeared in the Gallery Players production of "The Tender Trap."

Mrs. Schottenstein is handling an eight and nine-year old group on Thursday from 4 to 5 p.m. and a 10 and 11-year-old group at the same time on Friday.

In order to insure individual attention, all classes will be limited to 16 children. The youngsters will be engaged in such theatrical activities as pantomime, improvisation and theatrical make-up.

There are still openings in both groups. The fee for the course, which continues until the middle of December, will be $2. Registraton and further information may be obtained by phoning Harold M. Eisenstein or Eli Estreicher, junior activities worker, at the Center, BE. 1-2731.

"Clown" Try-Outs Set Wednesday Night

The Gallery Players announce that opening tryouts for "The Clown Who Ran Away" will be held Wednesday evening, Nov. 14, at 8. This play will be performed basically by adults for a children's audience.

The story deals with a circus clown named Dodo who confidentially informs his audience that he is tired of being kicked around and having to be funny, and has decided to run away from the circus. He much prefers to tell stories and with the help of the audience he shapes the story of the play.

The cast includes 18 characters. Besides Dodo, there are four male character roles and four female character roles. There are parts also for six children under 11 years of age. There are also three possible roles for teenagers.

Tryouts for "The Clown Who Ran Away" will be held in the Adult Lounge. A tentative rehearsal schedule for the production will be outlined at that time.

The major production of the Gallery Players now in rehearsal is "I Am A Camera". This show is being directed by Gene Gerrard and will open Dec. 1.

The Rev. Harrison Gruenler, pastor of Calvin United Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker at the dinner. He is post chaplain. In charge of the event is Third Vice-Commander George Oberkonz. The meal will be served by the Legion Auxiliary, with Mrs. Ernest C. Obert heading the serving group.

A Bexley post member, M. M. Carothers, of the Ohio American Legion headquarters staff, has two speaking engagements over the weekend. Sunday evening he will talk at a meeting of the Cambridge Club at St. Alban's Episcopal Church, and Monday afternoon he will be in Dover as a speaker for the high school's Veterans Day program.

The Salingers play the violin and piano together, and listen to Bach and Vivaldi and Brubeck, besides going to concerts and having musicians in to dinner. In "We Go to Bat for Music" the White House Press Secretary explains why he thinks music is as important in the lives of his children as Little League baseball.

The plea for a horse comes from most children on the average of once a week from age 7 to early teens. After of saying "no," you may be surprised to learn how many suburban families are keeping a horse, literally, in their back yards. "So You Want a Horse?" by Peter Vanderwicken traces the trend of equestrian ownership among suburban families and discusses the costs and joys — of having a horse around the house.

The battle of Annexation —where a city tries to take over a suburb on its fringes— is being fought on many fronts. In "Who Needs Annexation?" is found in a report on the fascinating—and urgent — problems that plague the big cities and the towns involved with them.

And they're very lucky, she adds, to have the same hours, working at home.

Don't Forget To Fly Flag During Winter, Too

To The Editor:

A stranger in our South Side was heard to comment favorably the other day about our good display of the National Emblem, our beloved Stars and Stripes.

It is characteristic of our community that we observe the proud tradition on major flag holidays. A few families display their flag on other days. We are getting older, are giving up some long standing habits, but like to observe traditions.

We sometimes fear that after Labor Day the Emblem is furled for the last time to await another summer season.

The truth is this: the flag should be out of moth balls more often than in. The flag can (should) be displayed on all days when the weather permits—and not just on public buildings, school grounds, and ball parks. The quiet, regular devotion to our cherished national symbol is constant reminder of an endowed heritage, of sacrifices and perseverance.

Flag holidays fall in every month except March. The season is not over. Three more days can be observed before New Year's Day — Veterans Day (Nov. 11), Thanksgiving (Nov. 22) and Christmas.

On into 1963 they are: New Years Day; Inauguration day, Jan. 20; Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12; Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22; Army Day, April 6; Jefferson's Birthday, April 13; Easter Sunday; Loyalty Day, May 1; Mothers Day, second Sunday in May; Armed Forces Day, third Saturday in May; Memorial Day May 22; Maritime Day, May 30 (Half staff until noon); Flag Day, June 14; Independence Day, July 4; National Aviation Day, Aug. 19; Labor Day, first Monday in September; Citizenship Day, Sept. 17; Columbus Day, Oct. 12 and Navy Day, Oct. 27.

This reminder is forwarded from Southern Kiwanis Club whose directors are enforcing a flag display project among their members in coordination with the Northern Kiwanis Club. (When North and South get together on patriotic issues, we have something that begs heed).

Observe Sabbath From Heart, Not By Law

Re: a recent article "Closed on Sunday Decals" by the Southern Kiwanis Club. There are many facets of the Sunday closing laws. More likely than not they are antiquated and need restatement, reinterpretation or complete nullification. A most unfortunate fact is the religious implications of the closing laws. The implications are real—this being so, legal enforcement of such laws under any pretext, good or bad, is a constitutional infringement upon the inalienable rights and privileges of both religious and non-religious of any community.

True, the "Good Book" says "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth. . ." Common experience will also dictate that man needs one day out of seven for physical rest. However, if man chooses to disobey a common law of nature, what authority has the state in this particular realm to force man to do that which can only be a voluntary act of the mind and heart?

The truth is, religious motivations are deeply imbedded in this "one day in seven" and neither state nor church can dictate to the individual conscience of the masses concerning it for each has its own sphere of influence.

If all that is desired in a Sabbath devoid of the intrusions of secularism and materialism is to be realized, then don't legislate it, but let every Sabbath keeper (regardless of the day) be found observing it out of heart commitment, come what may! The "nominally religious" ever seek to force their way upon a "godless society" by legislation and the converting of government rather than by God ordained and God appointed means, which are never coercive.

Respectfully Yours,

Frosting On The Cake

"UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

How to stay sane in a world gone nuts? That is the $64,000 question today for decent people.

Three things give some guarantee of peace of mind and serenity of soul. They are: 1. an unassailable and inviolate faith in Almighty God. 2. Simple and frugal living, meaning proper diet that is necessary for the physiological health of man as an animal. 3. Constant improvement in the individual's habit pattern of mind.

Now to amplify a bit . . . . point one: No man can stay sane unless he owns absolute allegiance to some force for good, outside himself and greater than all of his mortal talents combined. People who "have everything" except the secret of happiness, are just as confused and bewildered and fear-bedeviled as anyone else, no matter how limited their "understanding quotient" may be.

Never, in my entire professional and public career of 45 years, have I ever seen a time when so many fine and decent people were seeking modern, scientific enlightenment, as at this very moment.

Point two: The simple life is neither expensive nor frustrating to those of us who have achieved some degree of liberation from the seven deadly sins of fear and hate and envy and jealousy and vengeance and fault finding. Last, and most dangerous of all is negative-minded ,sad-sack "gloomitis"

Millions of otherwise fine and decent people destroy themselves by constant psychological malpractice against themselves. There is a master key that works for those who will have the wit and good sense to drive any and all kinds of rubbish out of their habit-pattern of mind.

Point three: This country doesn't have a single problem that good sense, good humor, good manners, hard work and absolute faith in "that Wise Old Man Upstairs" can't solve!

• • • •

The little old-fashioned country schoolhouse was red only on the outside On the inside children were taught how to read and write and figure and spell, and how to behave as members of decent society.

Discipline was always adequate for the immediate and particular situation. Children who could be reasoned with by infinite patience and love, learned the easy way how to grow up. Those who rejected every such effort usually had to learn the hard way through the "south end" of their education.

• • • •

Delinquency can be nipped in the bud. Juveniles can be trained in ways of uprightness. Children can be molded into good citizens. But this has to be done at home by men and women who know that love is not indulgence.

• • • •

The insatiable demand for the exceptional individual in every realm of human endeavor is growing by leaps and bounds. Personnel directors tell me that life has no greater thrill for them, than to find here and there an ambitious young man or woman, fresh out of school, who is really "looking for work," not just easy money.

"I'll flip you, Mason—double or nothing!"

Gift Plan With A Heart . . .

This year again, Nov. 1 marked the kick-off date for the eighth Annual Christmas Gift Program for patients of the Columbus State Hospital and Columbus Childrens Psychiatric Hospital.

This straight-from-the-heart program is sponsored, in this area, by the Franklin County Mental Health Association. The appeal is to raise such new gifts as anklets, aprons, wind bonnets, men's and women's washable gloves, head scarves, hose, scuffies, socks, ties, smoking needs, bracelets, tie clips, and all types of toiletries. Gifts can again be left at any of the stores of a prominent local cleaning company who will act as "gathering hosts".

Last year this appeal, through a fine community spirit raised 24,000 items for a merrier Christmas for patients. Won't you help in this effort? This year any kind of trading stamps and books also will be collected for this project. They can be mailed to the FCMHA, 131 E. State-st, Columbus, 16, or also left at Swans.

We encourage all club groups, church groups or residents interested in this gift-therapy program to call the Franklin County Mental Health Association at CA. 8-4344 for further information.

Worship Is Good Investment

You'll not find your local house of worship listed on the stock market, but we believe that there is no better investment for our citizens than shares in the ongoing work of churches and synagogues.

Dividends are not paid in cash. Rather you find a high interest rate in the more fruitful experience of living, an enlarged sense of well-being for having volunteered services unselfishly, and a deeper appreciation of your fellow men who need your helping hand — all of which adds up to a better community for everyone.

This type of investment in time and money takes you into a partnership with other men and women of our town and around the world, not to mention the important partnership it offers with the Creator.

Such a sound investment, combined with an extremely valuable rate of interest, offers a rare opportunity. It would benefit all of us to take advantage of it by worshipping at the church or synagogue of your choice each week.

"Guard Well That Tongue — It Stretches Far; For What You Say Tells What You Are."

Do You Weary The Lord With Words?

Rev. Orth

Returning from Babylonian captivity the people of Israel suffered hardships, disappointments, frustrations, which they believed were caused by the foreigners in their land, the mixed marriages and generally by circumstances. They did not see their own faults and even felt justified to tempt God by asking: Where is the God judgment?" "Everyone that doeth evil is good in the sight of the Lord, and he delighteth in them." (See Malachi 2:17 and 3:5).

Are we today not all tempted to wish some harm to come to our neighbours who cross our ways? An unbeliever once declared: "If God exists, then in five minutes he will kill me." Were not those who heard this sacrilege tempted to wish that God would kill him instantly?

But God's messenger received a different message to tell the people: "Ye have wearied me with your words." Which means that God simply does not like the constant complaints over the wickedness of this world. God is not delighted by prayers which almost crave for the punishment of the world.

God's not acting "in the next five minutes" does not mean that He would not act at all. And besides, God seldom acts when we think he should act. Now show Thy power Lord, now is the time to prove that Thou art God! God is absolutely free from our decisions. God cannot be pushed around. He rejects our interference. We would say that sometimes years pass until He "ships our orders." He cannot be scared by us when we tell Him: If thou dost not fulfill our wishes, we will go somewhere else for better service.

All right! Go! Go to the competition, go to the modern political ideologies, go to science, go and find out if these your modern gods could be a substitute for me. You cannot deal with God like you deal with an automat. You insert a dime and presto you get a Coke.

God, though a loving, kind and eternally merciful father, is not our servant . . . He still is the Lord of hosts. And He dislikes it when people, who consider themselves perfect and good and pious and religious, intend to crucify others. And besides all this, the sins that the eager pious condemn in the world can be found in themselves, too.

There is an inner relationship between the judgments of God and the way we are dealing with the widow, the fatherless, the stranger, the hireling. The lot of these speaks of the standard of justice in a country. And in case this standard would be low, it would be the duty of the Church, to stand up and demand justice, for the lot of the widow and fatherless, the lot of the strangers, the lot of the hireling, the problem of the workers' wages . . . is God's cause!

Grunts And Oinks Have Meaning, Too!

Pigs talk?

That's what Australian geneticist Glen McBride says. After spending two years perched on pigpen fences with ears cocked to the assorted grunts, oinks and squeals from the occupants, McBride is convinced pigs have a distinct language of their own . . . and he can understand it.

McPeek

Like you may be, I was a little skeptical when I read about McBride's discovery. But upon reading it some of my incredulity diminished when, according to McBride's eavesdropping, it appears lady pigs do the most talking.

Knowing that this is a strong characteristic of the speech behavior of humans, it seems logical that if pigs talk, sows surely would hog the conversation.

Most pig words are simple expressions of mood or emotion, says McBride. A low-pitched squeal means "I'm hungry." A high-pitched squeal means distress, pain or discomfort. A short yelp-like squeal means "I give up."

As to be expected, most pig talk seems to center around food. It's not uncommon, McBride says, to hear sows grunt out such remarks to their little porkers as "Come and get it," "Finish your dinner," "Here I am," "Stop biting, children," and when she gets ready to clear off the table, "Watch out, kids, I'm going to roll over and may squash you."

Other pig grunts recognizable to McBride's ears include: "I'm in a bad mood" and "Let me alone."

What really disturbs me about McBride's discovery is that from this day forth it is not likely I'll ever be able to crunch into a ham sandwich without wondering what the ill-fated pig's last words were.

Perhaps they may have been: "Please, sir, is it too late to catch a boat for Israel?"

HOPE

Once upon a time a sailing ship was becalmed with no land in sight, the crew dying of thirst. They had no hope.

But one man, deciding to die quickly if painfully of salt water instead of thirst, tied a rope to a bucket, threw it overside, and drew it up full of water. To his utter amazement, it was fresh. Of course they all were saved.

The impossible had happened. Later, they learned that they had been in the broad estuary of the Amazon at neap tide where fresh water was pushing the salt back downriver to the sea.

Two men were running a race. One was so far behind it seemed he couldn't possibly win. Yet he "poured on the coal" and won.

Kick open an anthill. The ants scramble about in a desperate hurry. But after a few seconds they are rebuilding and will finish the job if left alone long enough.

Is any situation so hopeless it can't get worse? Mebbe so. But remember, the last blow drives home the nail. Let's try it just once more. What say?

It says here . . . . . .
Lower your bucket of hope wherever you are.

Mighty Gun-Toting Migration Expected Nov. 15 In Search Of Bunnies, Birds

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

Next Thursday, Nov. 15, at 9 a.m., the hunting season opens. While Ohio hunters have many opening days, this is the season. The mid-November date has become traditional with hunters here, and the rabbits, pheasants and quail attract more nimrods than any of the others.

This is the date that youngsters want to skip school, and many rural lads have permission to do so. Dad thinks of excuses that will enable him to get away from work. Some factories and offices shut down completely for the day. Many save their vacations so that they may open the season as they have done for years — some of the fondest recollections of hunters go back to the times they went out opening day with their dads.

Unfortunately this day generates a lot of enthusiasm that results in some accidents. The great majority of such casualties can be traced back to a hunter who overanxiously pulled the trigger before he was sure of his target, or to someone who hurried to climb a fence or get out of a car, and the like. A hunter who remains calm and deliberate even though enthusiasm is running high, is a safe hunter.

The hunters who will have the most fun next week are the ones who already have lined up land on which to hunt. Exceptions, of course, are those who hunt on public lands provided by the Ohio Division of Wildlife. But it is discouraging to start out opening day seeking permission to hunt on private land.

Enough of lecturing, how about prospects? The reports I've received from several farmers in the area and from some on to the south, are that rabbits are being seen in fairly good numbers. There probably is an increase over those hunters found last year. As is the case every year, there will be good locations and poor ones.

My personal observations have been relatively few, but I agree that rabbits may be up slightly. I have worked my dogs several times, and they have found plenty of rabbits to run.

Information on pheasants and quail is more sketchy, and I would not want to hazard a general opinion. Along in late summer, actually at the State Fair, I talked with three farmers from the hill country in southern Ohio, and they believed that quail numbers were up substantially. This is good news, and I hope it's true.

Up until a week ago, corn picking in this area seemed to be behind schedule, and this plays an important part in the number of pheasants farmers will see prior to the season. If you do some checking on your own, you are likely to see some birds early in the morning in field borders and along roadways I would say that the number of pheasants I've seen thus far would not indicate an increase on the farms I know about.

Birds and rabbits are where you find them. And all the predictions in the world will not fill every hunter's bag. Those who know how to hunt, and are interested enough to have found places to hunt, will find game. They always do, and their opening days are always a success.

The flag can (should) be displayed on all days when the weather permits—and not just on public buildings, school grounds, and ball parks. The quiet, regular devotion to our cherished national symbol is constant reminder of an endowed heritage, of sacrifices and perseverance.

The season is not over. Three more days can be observed before New Year's Day — Veterans Day (Nov. 11), Thanksgiving (Nov. 22) and Christmas.

On into 1963 they are: New Years Day; Inauguration day, Jan. 20; Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12; Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22; Army Day, April 6; Jefferson's Birthday, April 13; Easter Sunday; Loyalty Day, May 1; Mothers Day, second Sunday in May; Armed Forces Day, third Saturday in May; Memorial Day May 22; Maritime Day, May 30 (Half staff until noon); Flag Day, June 14; Independence Day, July 4; National Aviation Day, Aug. 19; Labor Day, first Monday in September; Citizenship Day, Sept. 17; Columbus Day, Oct. 12 and Navy Day, Oct. 27.

This reminder is forwarded from Southern Kiwanis Club whose directors are enforcing a flag display project among their members in coordination with the Northern Kiwanis Club. (When North and South get together on patriotic issues, we have something that begs heed).

Observe Sabbath From Heart, Not By Law

Re: a recent article "Closed on Sunday Decals" by the Southern Kiwanis Club. There are many facets of the Sunday closing laws. More likely than not they are antiquated and need restatement, reinterpretation or complete nullification. A most unfortunate fact is the religious implications of the closing laws. The implications are real—this being so, legal enforcement of such laws under any pretext, good or bad, is a constitutional infringement upon the inalienable rights and privileges of both religious and non-religious of any community.

True, the "Good Book" says "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth. . ." Common experience will also dictate that man needs one day out of seven for physical rest. However, if man chooses to disobey a common law of nature, what authority has the state in this particular realm to force man to do that which can only be a voluntary act of the mind and heart?

The truth is, religious motivations are deeply imbedded in this "one day in seven" and neither state nor church can dictate to the individual conscience of the masses concerning it for each has its own sphere of influence.

If all that is desired in a Sabbath devoid of the intrusions of secularism and materialism is to be realized, then don't legislate it, but let every Sabbath keeper (regardless of the day) be found observing it out of heart commitment, come what may! The "nominally religious" ever seek to force their way upon a "godless society" by legislation and the converting of government rather than by God ordained and God appointed means, which are never coercive.

Frosting On The Cake

"UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

How to stay sane in a world gone nuts? That is the $64,000 question today for decent people.

Three things give some guarantee of peace of mind and serenity of soul. They are: 1. an unassailable and inviolate faith in Almighty God. 2. Simple and frugal living, meaning proper diet that is necessary for the physiological health of man as an animal. 3. Constant improvement in the individual's habit pattern of mind.

Now to amplify a bit . . . . point one: No man can stay sane unless he owns absolute allegiance to some force for good, outside himself and greater than all of his mortal talents combined. People who "have everything" except the secret of happiness, are just as confused and bewildered and fear-bedeviled as anyone else, no matter how limited their "understanding quotient" may be.

Never, in my entire professional and public career of 45 years, have I ever seen a time when so many fine and decent people were seeking modern, scientific enlightenment, as at this very moment.

Point two: The simple life is neither expensive nor frustrating to those of us who have achieved some degree of liberation from the seven deadly sins of fear and hate and envy and jealousy and vengeance and fault finding. Last, and most dangerous of all is negative-minded ,sad-sack "gloomitis"

Millions of otherwise fine and decent people destroy themselves by constant psychological malpractice against themselves. There is a master key that works for those who will have the wit and good sense to drive any and all kinds of rubbish out of their habit-pattern of mind.

Point three: This country doesn't have a single problem that good sense, good humor, good manners, hard work and absolute faith in "that Wise Old Man Upstairs" can't solve!

• • • •

The little old-fashioned country schoolhouse was red only on the outside On the inside children were taught how to read and write and figure and spell, and how to behave as members of decent society.

Discipline was always adequate for the immediate and particular situation. Children who could be reasoned with by infinite patience and love, learned the easy way how to grow up. Those who rejected every such effort usually had to learn the hard way through the "south end" of their education.

• • • •

Delinquency can be nipped in the bud. Juveniles can be trained in ways of uprightness. Children can be molded into good citizens. But this has to be done at home by men and women who know that love is not indulgence.

• • • •

The insatiable demand for the exceptional individual in every realm of human endeavor is growing by leaps and bounds. Personnel directors tell me that life has no greater thrill for them, than to find here and there an ambitious young man or woman, fresh out of school, who is really "looking for work," not just easy money.

"I'll flip you, Mason—double or nothing!"

Gift Plan With A Heart . . .

This year again, Nov. 1 marked the kick-off date for the eighth Annual Christmas Gift Program for patients of the Columbus State Hospital and Columbus Childrens Psychiatric Hospital.

This straight-from-the-heart program is sponsored, in this area, by the Franklin County Mental Health Association. The appeal is to raise such new gifts as anklets, aprons, wind bonnets, men's and women's washable gloves, head scarves, hose, scuffies, socks, ties, smoking needs, bracelets, tie clips, and all types of toiletries. Gifts can again be left at any of the stores of a prominent local cleaning company who will act as "gathering hosts".

Last year this appeal, through a fine community spirit raised 24,000 items for a merrier Christmas for patients. Won't you help in this effort? This year any kind of trading stamps and books also will be collected for this project. They can be mailed to the FCMHA, 131 E. State-st, Columbus, 15, or also left at Swans.

We encourage all club groups, church groups or residents interested in this gift-therapy program to call the Franklin County Mental Health Association at CA. 8-4344 for further information.

Worship Is Good Investment

You'll not find your local house of worship listed on the stock market, but we believe that there is no better investment for our citizens than shares in the ongoing work of churches and synagogues.

Dividends are not paid in cash. Rather you find a high interest rate in the more fruitful experience of living, an enlarged sense of well-being for having volunteered services unselfishly, and a deeper appreciation of your fellow men who need your helping hand — all of which adds up to a better community for everyone.

This type of investment in time and money takes you into a partnership with other men and women of our town and around the world, not to mention the important partnership it offers with the Creator.

Such a sound investment, combined with an extremely valuable rate of interest, offers a rare opportunity. It would benefit all of us to take advantage of it by worshipping at the church or synagogue of your choice each week.

"Guard Well That Tongue — It Stretches Far; For What You Say Tells What You Are."

Do You Weary The Lord With Words?

Rev. Orth

Returning from Babylonian captivity the people of Israel suffered hardships, disappointments, frustrations, which they believed were caused by the foreigners in their land, the mixed marriages and generally by circumstances. They did not see their own faults and even felt justified to tempt God by asking: Where is the God judgment?" "Everyone that doeth evil is good in the sight of the Lord, and he delighteth in them." (See Malachi 2:17 and 3:5).

Are we today not all tempted to wish some harm to come to our neighbours who cross our ways? An unbeliever once declared: "If God exists, then in five minutes he will kill me." Were not those who heard this sacrilege tempted to wish that God would kill him instantly?

But God's messenger received a different message to tell the people: "Ye have wearied me with your words." Which means that God simply does not like the constant complaints over the wickedness of this world. God is not delighted by prayers which almost crave for the punishment of the world.

God's not acting "in the next five minutes" does not mean that He would not act at all. And besides, God seldom acts when we think he should act. Now show Thy power Lord, now is the time to prove that Thou art God! God is absolutely free from our decisions. God cannot be pushed around. He rejects our interference. We would say that sometimes years pass until He "ships our orders." He cannot be scared by us when we tell Him: If thou dost not fulfill our wishes, we will go somewhere else for better service.

All right! Go! Go to the competition, go to the modern political ideologies, go to science, go and find out if these your modern gods could be a substitute for me. You cannot deal with God like you deal with an automat. You insert a dime and presto you get a Coke.

God, though a loving, kind and eternally merciful father, is not our servant . . . He still is the Lord of hosts. And He dislikes it when people, who consider themselves perfect and good and pious and religious, intend to crucify others. And besides all this, the sins that the eager pious condemn in the world can be found in themselves, too.

There is an inner relationship between the judgments of God and the way we are dealing with the widow, the fatherless, the stranger, the hireling. The lot of these speaks of the standard of justice in a country. And in case this standard would be low, it would be the duty of the Church, to stand up and demand justice, for the lot of the widow and fatherless, the lot of the strangers, the lot of the hireling, the problem of the workers' wages . . . is God's cause!

Grunts And Oinks Have Meaning, Too!

Pigs talk?

That's what Australian geneticist Glen McBride says. After spending two years perched on pigpen fences with ears cocked to the assorted grunts, oinks and squeals from the occupants, McBride is convinced pigs have a distinct language of their own . . . and he can understand it.

McPeek

Like you may be, I was a little skeptical when I read about McBride's discovery. But upon reading it some of my incredulity diminished when, according to McBride's eavesdropping, it appears lady pigs do the most talking.

Knowing that this is a strong characteristic of the speech behavior of humans, it seems logical that if pigs talk, sows surely would hog the conversation.

Most pig words are simple expressions of mood or emotion, says McBride. A low-pitched squeal means "I'm hungry." A high-pitched squeal means distress, pain or discomfort. A short yelp-like squeal means "I give up."

As to be expected, most pig talk seems to center around food. It's not uncommon, McBride says, to hear sows grunt out such remarks to their little porkers as "Come and get it," "Finish your dinner," "Here I am," "Stop biting, children," and when she gets ready to clear off the table, "Watch out, kids, I'm going to roll over and may squash you."

Other pig grunts recognizable to McBride's ears include: "I'm in a bad mood" and "Let me alone."

What really disturbs me about McBride's discovery is that from this day forth it is not likely I'll ever be able to crunch into a ham sandwich without wondering what the ill-fated pig's last words were.

Perhaps they may have been: "Please, sir, is it too late to catch a boat for Israel?"

HOPE

Once upon a time a sailing ship was becalmed with no land in sight, the crew dying of thirst. They had no hope.

But one man, deciding to die quickly if painfully of salt water instead of thirst, tied a rope to a bucket, threw it overside, and drew it up full of water. To his utter amazement, it was fresh. Of course they all were saved.

The impossible had happened. Later, they learned that they had been in the broad estuary of the Amazon at neap tide where fresh water was pushing the salt back downriver to the sea.

Two men were running a race. One was so far behind it seemed he couldn't possibly win. Yet he "poured on the coal" and won.

Kick open an anthill. The ants scramble about in a desperate hurry. But after a few seconds they are rebuilding and will finish the job if left alone long enough.

Is any situation so hopeless it can't get worse? Mebbe so. But remember, the last blow drives home the nail. Let's try it just once more. What say?

It says here . . . . . .

Mighty Gun-Toting Migration Expected Nov. 15 In Search Of Bunnies, Birds

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

Next Thursday, Nov. 15, at 9 a.m., the hunting season opens. While Ohio hunters have many opening days, this is the season. The mid-November date has become traditional with hunters here, and the rabbits, pheasants and quail attract more nimrods than any of the others.

This is the date that youngsters want to skip school, and many rural lads have permission to do so. Dad thinks of excuses that will enable him to get away from work. Some factories and offices shut down completely for the day. Many save their vacations so that they may open the season as they have done for years — some of the fondest recollections of hunters go back to the times they went out opening day with their dads.

Unfortunately this day generates a lot of enthusiasm that results in some accidents. The great majority of such casualties can be traced back to a hunter who overanxiously pulled the trigger before he was sure of his target, or to someone who hurried to climb a fence or get out of a car, and the like. A hunter who remains calm and deliberate even though enthusiasm is running high, is a safe hunter.

The hunters who will have the most fun next week are the ones who already have lined up land on which to hunt. Exceptions, of course, are those who hunt on public lands provided by the Ohio Division of Wildlife. But it is discouraging to start out opening day seeking permission to hunt on private land.

Enough of lecturing, how about prospects? The reports I've received from several farmers in the area and from some on to the south, are that rabbits are being seen in fairly good numbers. There probably is an increase over those hunters found last year. As is the case every year, there will be good locations and poor ones.

My personal observations have been relatively few, but I agree that rabbits may be up slightly. I have worked my dogs several times, and they have found plenty of rabbits to run.

Information on pheasants and quail is more sketchy, and I would not want to hazard a general opinion. Along in late summer, actually at the State Fair, I talked with three farmers from the hill country in southern Ohio, and they believed that quail numbers were up substantially. This is good news, and I hope it's true.

Up until a week ago, corn picking in this area seemed to be behind schedule, and this plays an important part in the number of pheasants farmers will see prior to the season. If you do some checking on your own, you are likely to see some birds early in the morning in field borders and along roadways. I would say that the number of pheasants I've seen thus far would not indicate an increase on the farms I know about.

Birds and rabbits are where you find them. And all the predictions in the world will not fill every hunter's bag. Those who know how to hunt, and are interested enough to have found places to hunt, will find game. They always do, and their opening days are always a success.

3000 PARTICIPATE IN TWIGS' CHRISTMAS BAZAAR, SET NOV. 19

Hailing the acorn-to-oak-tree success story, the annual Twigs' bazaar has expanded from a small fair held in the home of one of Columbus' pioneers in 1890, to today's gigantic affair staged at Veterans Memorial.

Three thousand women, members of the more than 125 Twigs of Children's Hospital, will cooperate in the 1962 bazaar, planned Monday, Nov. 19, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Members put their imagination, talents and skill to work throughout the year in preparing an impressive array of items for sale at the affair.

More than $120,261, including bazaar proceeds of $19,046, was presented to Children's Hospital by the Twigs last year.

The first affair, held by a small group from St. Paul's Episcopal Church in the home of Mrs. James Kilbourne, realized $125 proceeds for the hospital in 1890.

Children's Hospital was incorporated with nine beds for crippled children two years later, and in 1916, the first seven Twigs were organized.

The first cooperative bazaar was held by the Twigs in 1921, and consisted of one table in the Thrift Shop, operated by one woman.

Proceeds and tables have increased progressively through the years, until 180 tables were achieved last year.

Two main entrances open into the building. One from the service road leading from Livingston-av, and the other from the south.

A large parking area near the Livingston-av entrance offers room for students and for large crowds attending meetings or football games.

BEXLEY'S BY-WORD FOR BEAUTY
VIC PAUL
LOCKS AND LENGTHS
Every day, every hour somebody queries, "Just what is the length of hair fashion this season?" The answer has come about through the same kind of American evolution that established todays' skirt lengths: how long you wear your hair is an individual preference. It should be based on your features and your personality. It never (despite what you may have thought) has anything to do with the fee your beauty salon collects for a trim!
THE SHORT STORY
Any way you look at women, two-thirds of them look better with a short hair-style. One of those women may well be you! Short hair is younger, has a "sassy" appeal that brings out the gamin—even in Grandma. Any way you handle a hairnet, short hair is easier to care for. Once we've treated your locks to modern shaping, then "permaneted" your shape with a good professional wave, you can comb your short style into place in seconds.
THE HAPPY MEDIAN
Maybe you're 'Miss-in-Between." Then there are dozens of delightful new hairstyles to make you happy! The type of girl who glows with hair that hits "halfway." is usually one with a little neck, pretty profile and good chin-line. Then we can give you styling that's casual, youthful, nonchalant—but never, please, "neglected!"
FROM UNDER THE DRYER

Youth In Critical Condition After Auto Crash

A 16-year-old Summit Station youth was reported in critical condition Wednesday in St. Anthony Hospital with a possible concussion suffered in an auto accident at a Stelzer-rd highway construction site Friday night.

The youth is Kenneth Shaffer who was riding with his sister, Margaret, 21, to a church meeting. Their car collided with a huge earth-moving machine on the Rt. 62 relocation project.

Sheriff Lt. Earl Smith said Miss Shaffer either did not heed or did not see a watchman's signal at the point where construction equipment moves back and forth across Stelzer-rd.

Pleasure has its time; so, too, has wisdom. Make love in thy youth and, in old age, attend to thy salvation.—Voltaire.

BLACK DASHED area from I-71 to the west bank of the Scioto River is the section of the outerbelt now under construction. The 1.42 mile stretch is being constructed by V. N. Holderman and Sons at a cost of $2,890,000. The solid black line is the second section to be built and the white dashes show the path of the highway to the west.

FROM I-71 TO SCIOTO

Work Starts On Outerbelt

EARTH MOVING equipment moving hills around to smooth the pathway of the first leg of the Columbus outerbelt.

First leg of the $104,599,000 Columbus Outerbelt (I-270) has now been under construction two weeks and "All is going well," according to workmen on the scene.

Land is now being cleared from I-71, approximately one mile north of Stringtown-rd, east to Rt. 104 for the first section of the Outerbelt which runs from I-71 to the west bank of the Scioto River.

V. N. Holderman and Sons are contractors for the 1.42-mile stretch which was let for a bid of $2,890,000.

Limited earth work will be carried on through the winter on the section and paving is scheduled to start early in the summer of 1963.

Western arcs of the super highway will pass just east of New Rome. The new road, together with the proposed West Freeway to West Jefferson, is bound to dictate big changes in future traffic patterns here. Most of the cross-country Route 40 traffic will be taken off W. Broad-st.

Outerbelt project completion date is Nov. 30, 1964, according to Highway Dept. officials.

The second section of the Outerbelt will span the Scioto and intersect with U. S. Rt. 23 (S. High-st.) approximately one-quarter mile south of the Columbus corporation line.

That leg will include a full intersection (cloverleaf) at Rt. 23 and bridges crossing the Scioto and S. High-st.

The bridge over the Scioto will be the only one between Frank-rd and Rt. 665 west of Shadeville, a distance of approximately seven miles.

It will be 730 feet long and 42 feet wide, constructed with continuous steel girders and reinforced concrete decks.

The Outerbelt will completely encircle Columbus (approximately 56 miles in length) and offer by-passes to incoming traffic from all directions when completed.

Only an area from a point just south of Westerville to E. Broad-st. remains to be plotted.

A definite path has not yet been established for that vicinity pending further study of traffic conditions in the area.

Rt. 104 from Stringtown-rd to Frank-rd will be closed until further notice during construction of the Outerbelt.

Six East Side Women Help On TB Seal Drive

Six East Side women are volunteers at the Tuberculosis Society headquarters, 503 Oak-st, preparing the 225,000 Christmas Seal appeal letters to be mailed to Franklin County residents.

They are: Mrs. R. H. Bohl, Sr., 2401 Berwick-blvd; Mrs. Dan Shonting, 2392 Brentwood-rd; Mrs. Lloyd Shupe, 1104 Euclaire-av; Mrs. Ralph Long, 931 Euclaire-av; Clara M. Keusin, 1104 Euclaire-av, and Mrs. Otto Ebert, 650 Sheridan-av.

Goal of this year's campaign is $212,000, $7,000 above last year.

According to Dr. Harold H. Eibling, superintendent of Columbus Public Schools, and general chairman for the society's once-a-year drive for funds, "The additional money will permit expansion of our anti-TB programs."

East Sider Is Murray Hill Director

Mrs. Mary Lee Schwam, 121 Midcliff-dr, will be the director of nursing service at Murray Hill Manor, a 100-bed nursing and convalescent home to open soon at 880 Greenlawn-av.

Her appointment was announced by Robert W. Stuart, administrator of the institution.

Mrs. Schwam, a registered nurse, was graduated from St. Joseph's School of Nursing at Hot Springs, Ark. in 1947. She served two years as director of nurses at the Illinois Knights Templar home for the Aged and Infirm, Paxton, Ill., and has teaching and supervisory experience in the field of occupational therapy. Recently she attended an institute on homes for the aged, conducted by the University of Illinois.

Mrs. Schwam is married and has four children. She will assume her duties at Murray Hill Manor December 3.

The Manor, built by Virginia Homes, Inc. of Columbus, at a cost of $573,000 is due to open in mid-January. The facility is described as the first totally modern non-sectarian nursing home to be built in Columbus in 40 years.

Wellman Set To Serve As Art Teacher

Serving as instructor this year for the Jewish Center's adult evening art class, which begins on November 15 at 8 p.m., will be Charles W. Wellman of the faculty of the Ohio State University School of Fine Arts. He will open the course with a special, illustrated lecture on "The Image - Its Role in Art".

This lecture will be used as a means of focusing the group's atention on certain salient points of design and composition to which he will refer again during the actual course of instruction.

During the ten sessions, Wellman will spend considerable time with each individual in order to deal with him on the student level of development. Still-lifes and live models will be employed during the course.

The fee for the complete course will be $12 for Center members and $18 for non-center members.

Think of the scores of people who drink, eat, and marry; buy, sell, and build; make contracts and guard their money; have friends and enemies, joys and sorrows; are born, grow, live and die—but are all the while asleep!

NEW 'SING ALONGER'

CAROLYN CONWAY, a former NBC Guidette in New York, has been selected for stardom by Mitch Miller, as a vocalist on his NBC-TV Friday night color series, "Sing Along With Mitch." The petite brunette hails from Greenville, S.C. The show is aired here on WLW-C, TV-4, at 8:30 p.m. More entertainment world highlights in Amusement Section of this Hartley newspaper.

Ex-Senator Hits 'Shotgun' Charges

..Former state senator Fred O. Dickinson, chairman of Florida's Committee of 100, called for a halt to "irresponsible shotgun blasts at Florida land developers and home builders attributed to persons some of whom have never even visited our state."

"The time has come for an accounting and for a halt to charges by these people who, in seeking to weed out nefarious land developers across the county, blacken the names and reputations of some of the finest construction firms in Florida," Dickerson said.

He referred to a recent quote in an AP dispatch by officials of the Association of Better Business that "the greatest land scandal in United States history is developing in the Southwest and in Florida." One of the officials Dickinson referred to lives in Rye, N.Y., the second in Des Moines, the others in Chicago and Kansas City.

"I cannot, of course, speak for what is happening in Southwest United States, but I must take sharp exception to such a blanket indictment of Florida and our home builders and land developers here," Dickinson continued.

"Florida has passed stringent laws to protect investors in Florida properties. There are still some isolated examples of nefarious real estate ing weeded out as rapidly as they arise.

"What the officials of the Association of Better Business Bureaus forget to note is that the[illegible] are fine, well-financed and highly responsible home builders and land developers in Florida. Organizations such as Arvida, General Development Corporation and others have invested millions of dollars of their own money in the growth of Florida. They are selling good land and are bringing good, substantial people to our state to enjoy the benefits we have to offer. Th new arrivals, in turn, are creating a highly effective impact on our economic growth.

"It is entirely unfair, and, indeed, untrue to indict these fine Florida organizations with a reprehensible shotgun blast at everyone. Great harm, and very little good, can come from such tactics."

Horse Betting At County Fairs Tops Records

Parimutuel horse wagering at county fairs broke all Ohio records this year, according to State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

Wagering tax collected by the state totaled $28,318.61 in 1962, compared to $24,096.81 in 1961.

The state collects a tax on horse bets at the county fair tracks but all of the tax may be returned to county agricultural societies upon application.

Checks paid to area county and independent fairs were:

Fairfield, $1,915.58; Franklin, $564.81; Madison, $420.15, and Plain City Independent Fair, $229.02.

Motor License Fee Melon Is Cut By State

The second big distribution of 1962 motor vehicle license money by the state was made Friday with $16,958,469 going to counties and municipalities. Coming soon is another distribution of this year's license money to counties and townships amounting to $2,760,681.

These will wind up payments of motor vehicle license money for this year and will make a total of $82,913,712 distributed by the state in 1962, according to State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

In Friday's distribution each county in the state, regardless of size, population or road mileage, received $11,204.07 from the five per cent equalization fund for county highways. In addition, Franklin County received $1,225,206; Madison County, $39,042, and Pickaway County, $59,170, which is to be divided among the municipalities and the county road fund.

Progressive Federal taxation came to America with outbreak of the Civil War, reports Internal Revenue, when both North and South put progressive income taxes upon the statute books.

LEADING BUSINESSMAN IN YOUR COMMUNITY READY TO SERVE YOU

For your confidence and peace of mind, and to assure you of all the facts necessary for you to make the right decision, there is a General Development home counsellor right in your community. He was chosen as our representative after thorough investigation because of his special qualifications — his knowledge and experience in the real estate business — his standing in the community — but primarily because of his honesty and integrity.

After his selection by General Development Corporation he made a trip to Florida — inspected each of our communities — talked with residents and employees. Nothing was held back. Then, and only then, he was asked if he would like to become a partner in selling General Development properties.

Now, we invite you to take advantage of the experience and the advice of the General Development home counsellor in this city. He will be happy to give you all the facts about Florida, help you decide where to live, what kind of home to buy, and how much to pay for it. Remember, there is no cost — no obligation. $175 NOW IN JACKPOT

Sixth Round Goes To M. W. Davis

M. W. Davis, 2660 Eakin-rd, was named winner in last week's football contest. Davis missed seven of the 24 winners in winning the $50 cash prize. Three games ended in ties and were counted as losses.

Apparently the many upsets fooled Columbus area predictors because most of those entering the contest missed on about half the games.

Runners-up to Davis were: Franklin Weatherby, 3746 Elm-st; Shellia Bloom, 1058 Berkeley-rd; Connie Fletcher, 3154 Watkins-rd, and Don Parker, 855 Stanley-rd.

After six rounds of the contest, the unclaimed jackpot has skyrocketed to $175.

Five Local Winners Await PKP Statewide Results

Over 100 adults and children turned out for competition in the Ford Motor Company's annual Punt, Pass and Kick program last weekend.

Beasley Ford Publicity Director Pete Block said Monday he was very pleased with the turnout of young gridders who competed in five age groups.

ACCURACY was the key in the scoring. Jack Burton, 308 Demorest-rd, added up a total of 188½ points to win the competition for 11 year olds.

John M. Alton, 1377 S. Roosevelt-av, took honors in the 10-year-old class with 165 points while John W. Gloyd, 1236 Broadview-av, finished first in the nine-year-old division with 159½ points.

Gene Herron of Gandolf Ford listed the winners in the Tubbs, 711 Stanbaugh-av, led all seven-year-old point totals with 111½.

THE LOCAL results have been sent to Detroit, Mich., where they will be compared with other Ohio state-wide scores. Should any of the local boys top the state results in their class, they will go to either Cleveland or Detroit with their father and a dealer representative to compete in the divisional program.

The nation's top 10 winners will be sent to the National Football League championship game with their parents and later be guests at the White House.

Rider 11 Seeks CL Invitation

The future of the Franklin County League will be decided Monday night when the loop's athletic association put their heads together on a proposed expansion plan.

Late developments on the expansion plan indicate that West Jefferson, newly crowned champion of the Darby Valley League with a perfect 9-0 mark, will join the league if they are invited in by league representatives.

JEFF ATHLETIC Director Dick Culbertson announced Monday that the Rough Rider athletic board had voted in favor of entry. Other sources indicate that Jonathan Alder, previously mentioned as a possible second entry, is not interested in gaining admittance at this time.

There is a possibility that the expansion committee will proposed a plan whereby six league games will be mandatory on the members teams' schedules with individual schools free to select their league opponents.

This plan is in contrast to an earlier proposal to divide the loop into two divisions matching large-enrollment schools vs large-enrollment schools and small against small.

An official at one County League school suggested that the 'choice' selection plan of scheduling opponents would not gain the favor of some of the present County League members.

The league meeting will be held at Willard's Restaurant.

Late breaking developments in the County League situation occurred late Tuesday when University announced its withdrawal from the league in football competition and Reynoldsburg submitted a request for admittance to the Mid-Eight League when and if a vacancy occurs.

Warriors, Rams Nab League Victories

Eastmoor warmed up for its big City League finale with Central tomorrow night, exploding for a 46-0 shut out win over Whetstone.

The Warriors fumbled four times in the first period but finally got their offense moving in the second stanza when they crossed the goal line three times, putting the game completely out of reach in the fourth quarter with a 22-point splurge.

QUARTERBACK Vince VanHorn and end Paul Naumoff teamed up to put most of the Eastmoor success on the scoreboard.

Naumoff pulled in 31 and 23-yard TD pitches from VanHorn and added a third tally on a 12-yard sprint with a blocked punt. VanHorn also plunged over for a score.

Other Warrior TDs were recorded by Jerry Aggas (51-yard run), John Ranft (short plunge) and Mark Smith (five-yard run).

WHITEHALL wrapped up its CBL season in a fourth-place tie with Mt. Vernon, following the Rams' 22-14 win over Urbana.

The Rams carried a slim 16-14 advantage into the final period when Clark Fuller climaxed a 58-yard march with a three-yard TD run.

Mike Short and Jerry Ramsey gave Whitehall its two first half scores, the former sprinting 40 yards to paydirt, the latter covering 27 yards.

TOM O'LEARY scored all of his team's points as St. Charles upset Watterson, 20-14, to win the Central Catholic League championship with a 3-0 mark.

O'Leary's first two scores, coming on runs of seven and 89 yards, provided the Cardinals with a 14-14 tie at halftime. The clincher came in the third period as the St. Charles back drove over from the one.

The win, the Carolians seventh in nine games, marked the close of their '62 season. The Eagle mark dropped to 6-2-1.

JERRY EMRICH drove over from the three-yard line in the third period to give Hartley a 12-8 come-from-behind win over Cincinnati LaSalle Saturday night.

Ron Williams scored the Hawks first TD in the second period on a short plunge but LaSalle pulled ahead, 8-6, at halftime.

ACADEMY set up a showdown match with Reynoldsburg tomorrow night for a share of the County League title by slamming winless New Albany, 56-20.

Six different players accounted for the Viking touchdowns. John Larrimer picked up two on runs of 20 and 40 yards while brother Terry ran 30 yards for another. Sophomore fullback Steve Blake also scored twice on long runs of 40 and 60 yards.

Other Academy TDs were chalked up by Mike Hertenstein (40-yard run), Chuck Saxbe (10-yard run) and Jim Kirk (short plunge).

EAST'S chances for a share of the City League title fell by the wayside Friday as the Tigers were hard pressed in gaining an 8-8 tie with West.

Leading City League scorer Rich Neeley climaxed an 80-yard Cowboy drive in the third period, breaking a scoreless duel with a 52-yard TD sprint.

The Tigers struck back in the final period, however, when Marv Owens cracked over from the one and then added the two-point conversion to gain the tie.

AQUINAS scored in every period to gain a 26-8 decision over Walnut Ridge in other area CL play. Jim Fritter paced the Terrier attack with two touchdown runs, one on a 50-yard pass interception.

The Scots, who lost the statistical battle, 279-190, as well as the game, were unable to score until the final period when fullback Dennis Day shook loose on a 41-yard TD run.

GRANDVIEW rallied to gain a 20-18 win over Bexley as the Lions closed out their '62 season by dropping into the CBL's sixth spot.

Doug Welch tossed a six-yard TD pass to Tim Underwood with one minute remaining in the game to down the Lions, who had pulled ahead, 18-14, earlier in the period on Jay Maupin's 55-yard TD scamper.

Maupin's second score of the evening came one period earlier on a 42-yard run that had given Bexley a 12-8 lead after the Lions had trailed 8-6 at halftime. Rick Harbold notched Bexley's first score on a five-yard burst in the second quarter.

Area high School grid action wraps up the '62 season Friday night. Final play finds Whitehall (5-4) at Hartley (3-4-1), Central (7-1-1) at Eastmoor (5-4), Academy (5-2) at Reynoldsburg (5-4) and Aquinas at East (Harley Field) in a 3 p.m. contest.

Regan Greets Cap Hoopsters

Capital University Coach Harold "Whitey" Regan dragged the round ball out of moth balls and greeted a 40-man squad Nov. 1 as preparations for a 17-game basketball season got underway.

Among those who turned out included nine returning lettermen paced by junior co-captains Jerry Phillips, and Bob Fraas. Other lettermen include John Beach, Steve Kick, John Brugler, Dick Guyer, of Columbus South, Dick Cassie, Mike Carr, and Dave Mumau.

OUT OF 17 games, Cap plays ten at home, opening Dec. 1 with Franklin, Indiana. Of its first ten games of the season, Cap plays but three away.

Regan says he is looking for improvement over last year's 9-12 record. His main concern is finding a replacement for high scoring center Joel "Bud" Dill.

Regan is not overlooking freshmen in his search for Dill's replacement. It is not inconceivable that a "phenomenal" jumper such as Jim DeBerry, of Hilliard, could fit the slot, according to Regan.

The schedule, Regan says, appears to favor Capital, but hastily adds that any apparent advantage will be offset by the calibre of the opponents.

The schedule: Dec. 1-Franklin, Ind. (H); Dec. 4 - Akron (H); Dec. 8-Baldwin-Wallace (A); Dec. 11 - Wilmington (H); Dec. 13-Denison (H); January 5-Hiram (H); Jan. 8-Otterbein (H); Jan. 10-Kenyon (A); Jan 12-Marietta (H); Jan. 15-Mt. Union (A); Jan. 17 - Muskingum (H); Jan. 25-Wooster (A); Jan. 26-Oberlin (A); February 2-Otterbein (A); Feb. 9-Wittenberg (H); Feb. 12-Heidelberg (A); Feb. 16-Ohio Wesleyan (H); Feb. 21-22-23-Ohio Conf Tourney (H); March 1-2-Ohio Conf. Tourney (H).

HAWKS NAB DIVISION TITLE

The Westgate Hawks won their 42nd straight game Sunday and in the meantime sewed up the National Division title in the Ohio Boys Football Foundation with a 12-0 win over the Beatty Lions.

Rick Winston scored both of the Hawk TDs, one on a 35-yard run, the other on a 20-yard pass from quarterback Gerry Henderson.

The Hawks now must play Arlington, the American Division winner, for the OBFF crown Sunday afternoon. In the 90-pound division, the battle between the undefeated Falcons and Cubs was postponed because of darkness at the end of three quarters with the Cubs ahead, 6-0. A league ruling is due this week to decide when the game will be replayed and from what point.

Bearcat Dinner Set Sunday

The scheduled game between the Bearcat Association All-Stars and the league champion Westside Pirates was cancelled Sunday due to inclement weather and a UFL ground rule that would not permit the removal of the field tarp more than two hours prior to play.

A Bearcat spokesman announced early Wednesday that the All-Star game has been rescheduled for Saturday night at 8 p.m. at Central.

honored Sunday at a Recognition Dinner at the Officers Club of the Columbus Army Depot at 6 p.m. through the cooperation of the Eastern Civitan Club.

Awards will be presented to the champion Pirates and the loop's most valuable players along with presentations to players for outstanding scoring ability.

Jewish Center Lists Activities

Participants in the Jewish Center professional men's program on Wednesday afternoons from 2 to 3 p.m., have enthusiastically accepted a new game called "aerial tennis."

Played over a seven-foot-high net and utilizing a rubber tipped dart and wooden paddles, the game offers all the excitement of tennis, badminton, and paddleball combined. This program is open to all men, members of the Jewish Center, who are free on Wednesday afternoons.

MEN'S BASKETBALL chairman, Irv Rubin, announces that registration is now open for the Tuesday evening men's basketball league. Jewish Center men 18 and over are eligible to participate. A $2.50 registration fee must be paid by Nov. 20 in order to be placed on a team. A pre-season schedule of games will start on Tuesday, Dec. 4.

Teams will be picked on Tuesday, Nov. 27. The league is sponsored and is completely "fast."

Call Howard Banchefsky, BE. 1-2731, or send registration fee to guarantee placement on a team.

Walter Neuron, a certified ski instructor, will teach a course of 10 two-hour lessons including two at the Jewish Center.

Sixteen hours will be taught on the ski slopes of Snow Trails at Mansfield. The fee for the program is $32. The fee does not include rental equipment. Interested members should register with Howard Banchefsky at BE. 1-2731.

Necessity may make a doubtful action innocent, but it can never make it praiseworthy.—Joubert

Temple Israel Participates In Worship Day Program

Temple Israel, 5419 E. Broad-st, will join with other synagogues and churches in the Columbus area in observing house of worship day, on Thursday, Nov. 15.

Hundreds of religious institutions will be holding open house between the hours of 3 and 8:30 p.m. that day. Citizens of all faiths and those with no religious affiliation will be invited to visit various houses of worship.

Members of the Temple Israel Guides will be on hand Thursday, to conduct tours and answer questions of visitors. Special holiday displays will be set up in the religious school, portraying the work of the school and the year-long temple program.

There will be no religious services or formal program during the open house.

The theme for this year's religion in American life Month program is "You Can Lift Your Life . . . Worship This Week."

The rabbis and officers of Temple Israel invite all members of the Columbus community to visit Temple Israel, as well as other synagogues and churches.

Youth Oppose Obscene Literature

Christian Endeavor Society of Brown Road Community Church, 1187 Brown-rd, has vigorously launched a campaign to correct a problem of national concern.

The availability of obscene literature on magazine racks has prompted verbal and written protests from individuals and groups throughout the country.

Arthur W. Scurlock, Jr.

The small group of 87 teenagers, age 12 through 18, their enthusiasm fired by response already made to their campaign, have achieved some remarkably far-reaching results.

Under the leadership of the church youth director, Arthur W. Scurlock, Jr., of 1112 Geneva-av, and with the encouragement of their pastor, Rev. Mabel Rife Whipple, the group opened its carefully-planned attack in September.

Since then they have sent letters to the 520 churches in Columbus and Central Ohio, requesting cooperation in the form of sermons on the subject, and committees to aid the project.

The group has also sent petitions to each church. These names will, eventually, be sent to magazine publishers.

Columbus Mayor Ralston W. Westlake has offered his support to the program in the form of a proclamation declaring Nov. 4 to 10 as the week for a concentrated drive against obscene literature.

Many ministers will present sermons on the subject this Sunday.

Among encouraging responses received by the Brown Road youth group is a letter from Dr. George W. Crane, promising a column on the subject in the near future.

The hoped-for, ultimate end of the campaign will be an inter-denominational standing committee in Columbus, designed to educate the public on the matter, and to offer recommendations.

Inspiration for the project came from the International Christian Endeavor Society, with offices at 1221 E. Broad-st. The society suggested a three-fold program of service to individual churches, recommending social reform, patriotism and community service.

The Brown Road project will be entered in the international awards program, next February.

Dear friends,
We are frequently asked, "what should I pay for a funeral?"
Our advice, always, is this: You are the only one who can answer that question. Your tastes and your finances should decide. Don't spend beyond your means. On the other hand, don't deprive yourself of the lifelong satisfaction of paying a loving tribute to the one who is gone."
We prefer to leave the selection entirely in your hands.
Respectfully,
Arthur B. Leach

PARROTS DO TALK... But!

SO DOES A RECORD PLAYER

Our Nation faces a serious threat of communism just off our shores. At the same time within our nation, they are seeking to undermine our faith in God. There are many sayings and expressions going around in our country that are communist inspired. In order to prevent "parroting" these sayings, that weaken our nation... attend church regularly, and study God's word so that the truth is more easily recognized.

"Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Women, As Well As Men, Helped Build A Capital

First Club Organized To Aid City's Needy

Leisure was the rarest luxury of all for pioneer women of early Columbus. Raising large families and doing most of their own housework under primitive conditions left few idle hours.

There was little social distinction in the village life and residents were mutually helpful, familiar with sorrow, sympathetic and quick to respond to a nighbor's need.

Columbus was one year old when its women joined to form the first organized philanthropic group, designed to systematically assist the poor, and the widows and orphans from the cholera year of 1833.

The Columbus Female Benevolent Society was organized Jan. 5, 1835 at the old Town Street Methodist Church. One hundred and seven members were on hand to adopt the constitution, drawn up by Mrs. John Patterson.

Mrs. James Hoge was the first president; Mrs. E. W. Sehon, vice-president; Mrs. Noah H. Swayne, treasurer, and Mary Kelly, later to become Mrs. James L. Bates, secretary.

Board of managers included Mrs. William M. Awl, Mrs. Demas Adams, Mrs. Ralph Osborn, Mrs. Moses Jewett, Mrs. Samuel Crosby, Mrs. John Bailhache, Mrs. Benjamin Blake, Mrs. Joseph Ridgeway, Jr., Mrs. D. Woodbury and Mrs. A. Van Horn.

At the first business meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Demas Adams, visiting committees for each of the city's three wards were appointed. Mrs. John Patterson and Mrs. N. H. Swayne were named to the purchasing committee, to buy cloth to be fashioned into clothing for distribution to the poor.

Incorporated by an act of the legislature Mar. 5, 1838, the society is still actively engaged in its original purpose of assisting orphans, and women and children in need.

The need for a free education for orphans and children of the poor was apparent the first year the society was in operation, and an auxiliary group was formed for that purpose n 1836.

The following year Alfred Kelley donated a lot for a schoolhouse on the east side of Fourth-st, between Oak and State-sts, later the site of the YWCA residence hall.

A brick building was constructed on the location and the first free school in Columbus was operated there until it was replaced by public schools. The land and building was later sold for $500 and the money invested with interest for the society's benefit.

The Industrial School, organized by the Hannah Neil Mission in 1855, was transferred to the Benevolent Society in 1870. The school was for poor children conducted each Saturday morning with lessons in plain sewing, morals, cleanliness and manners, given by volunteer teachers. Lessons were accompanied by gifts of shoes or clothing.

Another branch, the Dorcas Committee, was organized in 1876, to collect and distribute used and new clothing, and furniture to families recommended by the society's visitors.

Both activities were discontinued when other organizations took over the work, and domestic science became a part of public school curriculum.

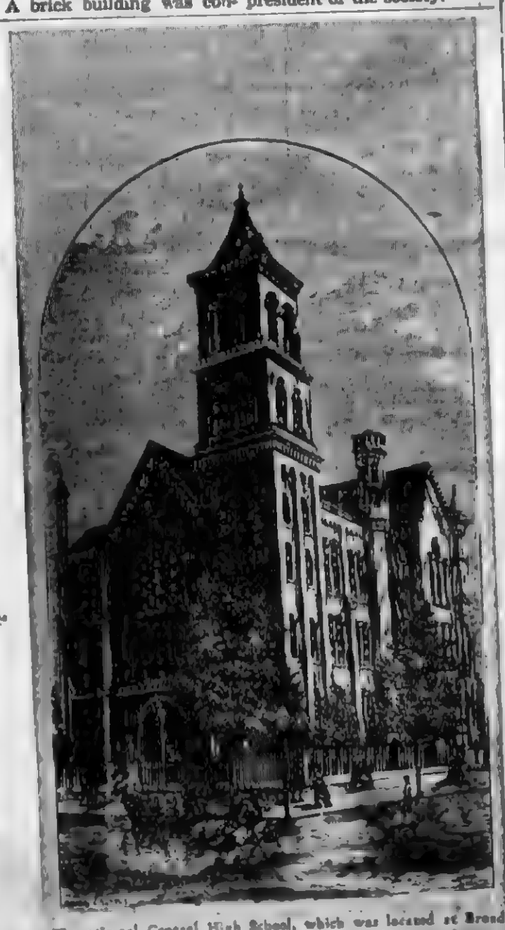
William G. Deshler, Jan. 5, 1887, in remembrance of his mother, established the Betsy Green Deshler Fund to aid widows and spinsters with a gift of $1000.

And Sept. 26 of the same year he established the Kate Deshler Hunter Fund with a gift of $33,000 "to aid women in the perils of childbirth," as a memorial for his daughter who had died in childbirth at 33 years.

Under provisions of the trust, $1000 from the fund's income was to be added to the principal every year until the fund reached $100,000.

This committee of the society is still active, providing layettes and, in some cases, help with hospitalization and milk. Chairman is now Mrs. Robert M. Inglis.

After the death of Mrs. Hunter's only child, Deshler Hunter, William Deshler again established a fund of $17,000 to aid crippled children. The fund was to be increased by $500 every year until it reached $50,000.



Income from this is still used for that purpose. A committee now headed by Mrs. R. J. Woodward distributed aid to handicapped children from birth to age 14.

Other gifts to the Benevolent Society have been invested to provide funds for the group's projects.

William Deshler, the society's most generous patron, gave the society its fourth deed of trust in 1894, when an addition of $25,000 was made to the Betsy Green Deshler fund. Of this, $10,000 was to be used for the purchase of a site and the construction of a home for the society.

And the next year, on the society's 40th anniversary, its present home at 40 S. Washington-av, was opened.

Mrs. Calvin C. Lyon is now president of the society.

The original Central High School, which was located at Broad and Sixth Streets, was opened in 1861.

First Darbydale School Built In 1838 For $77.75

Darbyhill Schoolhouse, the first of three schools to be built at the northeast corner of Norton and London-Lockbourne-rd, was built by residents of Darbydale in 1838.

The sum of $77.75, unbelievably inadequate by today's building cost standards, was raised for the school's construction.

A homemade, paper-backed book, Board of Education meeting minutes, contains information on the school's founding and notes on its equipment.

The book, now in the possession of Mrs. Parmer Norton, 9175 London-Lockbourne-rd, was preserved by Mary Norton, aunt of the late Parmer Norton.

The board contracted on Sept. 8, 1838, with Thomas Borland, also referred to as "Thomas Boilan" in the book, to furnish materials and build a schoolhouse 18 by 20 feet of hewn white oak logs.

It was to front on London-Lockbourne-rd, have a lap shingle roof and four 12-light windows. The building was to be completed by Dec. 1 of the same year.

It was not until April, 1839, however that the little paper-backed book notes that Borland was paid the $77.75 for his work.

James W. Booker, hired Dec. 3, 1838, to teach the school, contracted to teach for three months, five days a week, 22 days a month for the sum of $20 a month.

Three-month school terms, taught by the same teacher, were held in 1839 and 1840.

School board members were Thomas Borland (or Boilan), James Lukens and treasurer, Joseph Morgan, and clerk, Jonathon Norton; grandfather of the late Palmer Norton.

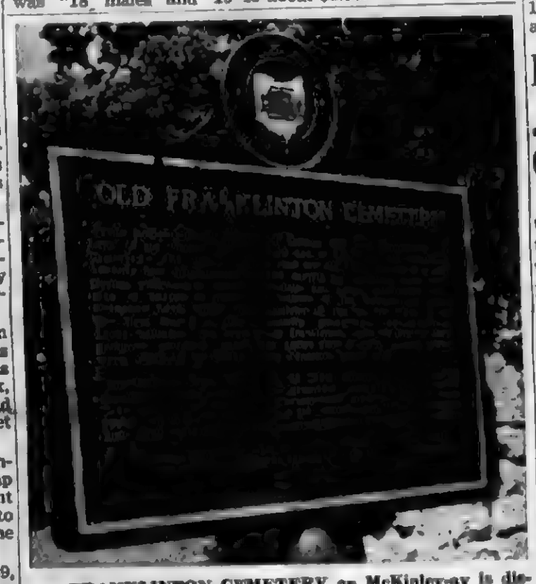
Many of the early settlers of "Little Pennsylvania," as Darbydale was known until the late 1920s, came from Bucks County or Montgomery County in Pennsylvania.

The official count taken by the school board of Darbydale or Pennsylvania School-males" eligible for the school. Contributions or taxes for the school, which Mrs. Palmer surmisses may have been determined by the amount of land a man owned, varied from as it was sometimes called, 30 cents to $30, averaging was "18 males and 19 fe-about $1.50.

Items of expenditure in the treasured little book include "Paid to James Lukens for work at school house and finding blackboard — $2.50;" "62 cents for recording the deed at the beginning of that first school year in December, 1838, and 94 cents for bucket and ladle."

Harrisburg Is Founded In 1836

Harrisburg, founded in 1836 by Joseph Chenoweth, was from the beginning a bustling community of about 30 families. The village boasted two taverns, four stores, two doctors and a Methodist Church.



The settlement was originally Darby Cross Roads, and already had a postoffice. When Harrisburg was established the name of the postoffice was changed to correspond.

First postmaster, in 1828, was John Haines, who served until 1833 when he was succeeded by George Geiger. Abram Buckles followed in 1836, and Dr. T. Thompson in 1838.

In 1841, Henry Miller was appointed postmaster. He served for a short while, was replaced by J. Goelschius, and then Miller was re-appointed, all in the same year. He continued as postmaster until 1860.

Trustees, elected under an act of legislature in 1850-51, were Henry Miller, J. Chenoweth, O. T. Curry, L. W. Seifert and George W. Helmick.

J. Helmick, first mayor of the village from 1851 to 1854, ws succeeded by J. Seeders in 1855, and Helmick once more in 1856. George W. Helmick was mayor of Harrisburg in 1857-58.

Cemetery Still Stands As Pioneers' Shrine

Enclosed by a rough stone wall and distinguished only by a memorial shaft and the remaining few crumbling, sandstone markers, Franklinton's first cemetery passes almost unnoticed in busy Columbus.

The two and a half acre tract on McKinley-av, west of Sandusky-st was the gift of Lucas Sullivant to Franklinton for a church and burial ground in 1811.

Pioneers in the settlement came by horseback to attend church services on Sunday, and to bury their dead.

Today, the 200 graves, most of them indistinguishable from their surroundings, are encircled by an abandoned railroad bed, industry and decay.

Lucas Sullivant was among the town's settlers who were buried in the plot. He and many others were later removed to Greenlawn Cemetery.

Some of the remaining gravestones have been washed blank by time and weather.

A few of the poetic epitaphs are still visible.

The marker of a niece of Col. Robert and Elizabeth Culbertson is inscribed with "Why, lovely friend, indulge that tear? Why, trembling, view my dark abode? Though you with me must molder here; yet faith can wing the soul to God."

The two daughters of the Culbertsons, Kezia Brotherton who died in 1811 and Margaret Keller still have readable gravestones.

The gravestone of Mrs. Rebecca Smith, daughter of Andrew and Esther Culbertson, records she was born Sept. 28, 1798 and died Feb. 7, 1828.

Others markers are for Irvin Domigan, William and Sarah Domigan's son, who died at the age of one year, seven months, 17 days, and James W., son of J. R. and R. A. O'Harra, who died Feb. 10, 1852, age 14 years.

Another marker names Margaret, wife of Bartley Boyd O'Harra and daughter of Jas. O'Harra. Died July 18, 1749, age 41 years. Her birthdate, 1708, is the earliest of all the remaining gravestones.

Soldiers of the War of 1812 are probably buried in the plot. Six of the soldiers of Gen. William Henry Harrison, stationed in Franklinton in the summer of 1813 before their march to Ft. Meigs near Toledo, died in the settlement and are believed to be buried in Franklinton Cemetery.

By Civil War days Franklinton was headed into disuse as an active burial plot. The memorial shaft was erected by the West Side Board of Trades in 1931.

The shrine to the pioneers is open for anyone to visit.

Present County Lines Set In '51

Originally, Franklin County extended from Lake Erie to the northern limits of what is now Cross County, and contained the land on which Toledo is built.

By deductions due to the forming of counties and by some additions, its present boundaries were determined in 1851.

OHIO GLASS

From 1815, the last year of the War of 1812, until the Civil War, Ohio glass, blown or molded in Mantua, Ravenna, Kent and Zanesville, became popular American household wares.

1812 WAR CASUALTIES

In the 72 battles and skirmishes of the War of 1812 fought 150 years ago, 65 American officers and nearly 2,000 enlisted men were killed in action.

Rival Towns Join To Form Groveport

Two rival villages, one on the east bank of the canal and the other on the west bank, were consolidated into Groveport in 1846-47.

The western portion was laid out as a town by Jacob B. Wert in 1843, and named Wert's Grove. And in February of the following year, the eastern section was laid out and named Rarey's Port by William Rarey.

The Hocking Branch of the Ohio Canal divided the two until visitors and residents, protesting the bother and bewilderment, insisted on a consolidation.

Grove Port, last half of the two names, was selected, and Legislature incorporated the town.

Groveport was a business center during the ten years from 1848 to 1858, with several stores, groceries and shops, four or five churches and three doctors.

Its population in 1850 was 438.

First Councilmen after the town was incorporated were Samuel Sharp, E. M. Dutton, J. P. Bywaters, C. J. Stevenson and William Mitchell.

A. Shoemaker was first mayor of the town in 1847, and others following were, Henry Long, 1848 to '49; A. P. Thompson, 1850 to '51; E. W. Edwards, 1852.

Hard, Creative Tasks Part Of Homemaking

The phrase, "... women's work is never done," might well have been coined in early Franklinton.

And in addition to plenty of hard work, pioneer homemaking called for courage — enough to rout wild animals out of their home and live in constant dread of Indians, the strength to live in lonely isolation, an unbounded faith in a dream of the future, and a goodly portion of common sense.

Many of the brides who, with their husbands, came to the wilderness to found a city, were mere girls, 20 and under. Some were gentlewomen from comfortable, even luxurious homes, schooled in fine needlework, music and the arts.

Here they found no roads or bridges, no doctor, no school or church, and no postal system.

The homesick bride had to join with others to pay someone to carry their mail by horseback to Chillicothe. And postage was not prepaid, so if there was no ready cash to pay the carrier for the mail he brought back, the precious letters had to be forfeited.

Their homes were rude houses of tree trunks, their beds were poles with mattresses of wild grasses, and their furniture, stationary tables and benches.

Round logs were notched and chinked with wooden blocks and stone for the cabins, and the chimney was constructed of crossed wooden strips daubed with clay, forming a large fireplace at the base.

The roof was of clapboards five or six feet long, held with stones or poles since there were no nails. Deerskin scraped thin or greased paper was used for windows.

Women's lives, difficult and demanding, were filled with the necessary absorbing, creative occupations now forever a part of the past.

Since even the most necessary items of daily living were made scarce and expensive by tedious, slow transportation from as far away as Pittsburgh, a woman's family was entirely dependent upon her efforts and ingenuity for their health, food, clothing and general well-being.

Every step in the preparation of food and clothing from raw materials, soap-making, candle-making and nursing, making a home and raising a family were hers.

Flax fiber was spun, woven and bleached, and made into sewing thread and linen.

Sheep's wool was washed, picked, carded, spun, scoured and woven, for flannel and linsey, blankets and yarn.

Dyes were made from the bark and hulls of butternuts, Walnut trees and herbs.

And all this before garments were cut and sewn by hand!

Deerskins were laboriously prepared, washed, smoked and finally colored with ochre rubbed in with a pumice. The leather was used for buckskin suits, gloves and moccasins.

A buckskin suit over a flax shirt was the usual dress for man. The hunting shirt was made with a cape around the shoulders and a skirt nearly to the knees, fringed and belted.

Women's gowns were of linsey woolsey, or a mixture of linen and cotton striped with copperas, butternut and indigo, and worn with a homespun belt and cowhide shoes.

The spinning wheel was in constant use. As late as 1820 there were only two cotton factories in the entire state. Bu there were more than 10,000 private looms and hundreds of spindles.

And in these days of packaged, pre-cooked and frozen food, it taxes the imagination to picture pioneer cooking. Even salt was scarce and expensive and, with the nearest mill as far away as Chillicothe, corn had to be boiled whole or ground in a hand mill. Soda was made at home as well as butter and cheese.

Baking was done by spreading dough on a clean board and placing it in front of the fireplace.

But game was abundant, and turkeys, geese and ducks as well as whole pigs were hung before the fire and roasted. Chickens and smaller fowls, dipped in butter, were broiled on a grid over the coals.

And homey delicacies included a pudding sauce of thick cream, sweetened with maple syrup.

Food was not preserved by canning, so fruit was dried in the hot summer sun for use during winter months.

And as the years brought a few refinements to the settlement—stores, a school and a minister, doctors and the beginning of roads and postal service, these indomitable women turned their attention to community projects.

The establishment of the churches, the organization of societies to aid those less fortunate than themselves, and the introduction of arts and cultural interests to the town captured their creative efforts.

Fisher's Sawmill Supplied Lumber For Early Homes

The immense trees of oak, walnut, beech, sycamore, chestnut, ash, gum and many others, found by Franklin County settlers on the upland and especially in the river and creek valleys, were the source of timber for their homes.

Fisher, one of the pioneer settlers on the west bank, south of the forks of the Scioto and Whetstone (Olentangy) came to Ohio in 1799 from Hardy County, Va.

He and his wife, Sarah Petty Fisher, located first at the bend on the west side of the river, and later bought 600 acres across the Scioto from John Dill.

In order to best utilize the timber on his tract, Fisher purchased a sawmill, located it close to the river bank and for many years cut and sawed lumber for the construction of homes.

When the feeder canal from Columbus to Lockbourne was built, the sawmill had to give way to make room for the canal bed.

He died at his home in 1824, and his wife died in 1843.

Mexican Critics Loved Her; She'll Be At Cap Nov. 13

It has been said that they never build statues to critics but the south-of-the-border variety has called Teresa Orantes "a girl who displays outstanding vocal projection . . . solid technique . . . precise intonation," and that's good enough for Capital University.

Miss Ovantes

Miss Orantes, the soprano from El Salvadore, Central America, has been booked as the featured guest artist in the second of Capital's Concert-Lecture Series.

She will perform in Mees Hall Tuesday, (Nov. 13) at 8 p.m. Her 17 vocal selections include compositions by Handel, Vivaldi, Schubert, Wolf and Debussy, plus a group of Spanish numbers.

The talented songstress has appeared as soloist with the National Symphony orchestras of El Salvador and Mexico and has performed with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and at the Bach Festival of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Ticket information may be obtained by writing the Office of Public Information, Capital University, Columbus 9, or by phoning BE. 5-8611, Ext. 23.

• Noticed in passing that rumors about a former car show room at S. Fifth and E. Broad turning into a night club must be true. Sign outside now says Tommy Henrich's Steak House. Nothing else on this yet.

• Frank Sinatra, who opens at Loew's Ohio Nov. 8 in "The Manchurian Candidate," checked into a hospital . . . says he's concerned about his throat. A top singing instructor in New York says a good vocal coach could cure him and added that Frankie has been going at it wrong for the last 15 years and that he never really learned to take care of his singing equipment. Incidentally George Axelrod, who adapted "The Manchurian Candidate" for the screen, had a string of Broadway smashes until his "Goodbye, Charlie" bombed out in 1959. Asked if pans by critics taught him a lesson, he replied: "No. Failure never helps anybody. It sent me back to my analyst, shook me up for a while and it took me a year before I could write anything again."

Art Exhibit Set

Mary Bingnam, well-known local artist formerly of Michigan, will present an exhibit of her work Sunday, Nov. 11, from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Sara Carr Art Studio, 209 S. High-st.

WHEN TWO MEN get together to drown their sorrows, the situation is hilarious. Taking part in this scene from Strollers production of "The Male Animal" is Gary Waldhorn (standing) who plays Professor Tommy Turner. Sitting in a trance is Jerome Lacher, who portrays Michael Barnes. The show is dated Nov. 14-17.

Strollers To Present 'Male Animal'

The Strollers first dramatic production of the season, "The Male Animal," will be presented Wednesday, Nov. 14 through Saturday, Nov. 17 in University Hall at OSU.

Tickets are $1.25 and may be purchased from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Mershon Auditorium Box Office, reserved by calling Mershon at CY. 3-2354, or purchased at the door.

"The Male Animal" was written by James Thurber and Elliot Nugent, both former residents of Columbus and graduates of Ohio State.

The story evolves around Tommy Turner, an English professor at OSU and takes place during Homecoming weekend when mighty Michigan is about to invade Ohio Stadium.

"The Male Animal" has all the ingredients of a great Thurber play, but a comedy with serious implications. It is certainly a play that should live up to the Stroller tradition of fine quality.

National Ballet Is Top-Level Artistry

The National Ballet of Canada appearing at Mershon Auditorium tonight (Thursday), 8 p.m., is now in its 11th year.

Lois Smith is a prima ballerina with the company and is just one example of the fine talent boasted by the group.

It has been headed by Celia Franca, formerly of London's famed Sadler Wells Ballet Company.

The company, now grown to 80 members from its meager beginning of 23 dancers, has already received highest critical acclaim all over the North American continent.

Doherty has just retired after 21 years as president of the National Association of Letter Carriers and is the first person in history to be selected from the ranks of organized labor to be an American ambassador.

His effectiveness as a freedom fighter on a world-wide scale caused him to be invited by Gen. Lucius D. Clay in 1945 to assist in re-establishing a free trade union movement in Germany. In 1956 he was selected by President Eisenhower to be a member of the official party attending the inauguration of President Kuitscheck, of Brazil.

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Thoughts of "My Fair Lady," which closes Saturday at Vets Memorial, slipped into temporary oblivion on the eighth floor of the Broadwin Apartment Hotel Monday and were replaced by:

Descented skunks, two spinster aunts, a parakeet named "Boozie" and a bottle of imported champagne—not necessarily in that order.

It was veteran showman Hugh Dempster and his charming wife, Emma, who made the transformation from an interview about the "Fair Lady" production to an hour of rambling reminiscence.

For the record, however, some facts must be established at this point. Dempster plays the mischievous Colonel Pickering in the show and, for my money, carries the presentation.

He is, perhaps, more quickly recognized as Dr. Watson of the long-run Sherlock Holmes series on TV. But, speaking of long runs, "My Fair Lady" has been anything but a one-night stand for him.

He joined the company in Rochester in 1957 and will leave it in March of next year. The show has traveled coast to coast nine times during those years and is on the longest theater tour of this generation.

Perhaps it could have been the monotony of countless press interviews—all rehashing the same questions: "How do you feel about this play," "How has it been accepted elsewhere," that caused Dempster to depart from the ordinary this time.

The series of conversational events that ensued went something like this:

First of all, skunks were brought up in a discussion of pets. The talented Dempsters carry parakeet "Boozie" everywhere they go.

Mrs. Dempster revealed that Caroline Dixon, who plays Eliza Doolittle in the show, had bought a poodle. Both Hugh and his wife thought that skunks were nicer pets.

"We came bloody close to buying one in Montreal," said Hugh with his pronounced English accent. "That was a close squeak, wasn't it," chimed in Emma. "Blimey," added Hugh.

A bottle of champagne from the apartment kitchen started Emma talking about her culinary prowess. She is working on a "My Fair Lady" cookbook of recipes gleaned from the many places the show has traveled. She'll work on it more after Hugh ends his run in March.

"My wife has a few problems with her cooking," I said with the definitely hungered look of a newly-wed.

"Send her around, dahling," she said. "We can't have you eating TV dinners forever . . . they taste too ropey."

After the champagne was opened, Hugh remembered a situation with his, as he put it, "stodgy old spinster aunts" in Montreal.

"By jove, they would frown on us now, wouldn't they dahling," he said to Emma as he poured out the bubbly. "They'd jolly well prefer tea," he added smiling.

Emma, incidentally, is quite an actress. She's known by the stage name of Emma Treckman in England.

I asked Hugh how old he was in an effort to get something concrete about his career and the show.

"Oh, dear," shouted Emma. "You don't give your age out in America, Hughie. Let's just say he's 59 downhill with the wind behind him."

The interview was off on a tangent again.

This time, Hugh brought up the fact that his train was four hours late out of Pennsylvania. "They told us we ran over a motor car," he said with the calmness that could only be maintained by an Englishman.

"Frankly, though," he added smiling, "I think the bloody thing had square wheels."

Whether the train ran smoothly or not, "My Fair Lady" does. The only sad part is that the show ends with Saturday night's 8:30 performance.

There is a matinee planned for Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

SCD Plans To Be Heard On Nov. 30

November 30 at 10 a.m. has been set as the public hearing date on the plans for $79.6 million flood control projects by the Scioto Conservancy District.

The hearing will be held in the Columbus City Council chambers before members of Common Pleas Courts of Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto counties.

A court decision on whether the plans fulfill the prescribed requirements laid out for the SCD cannot be made until a public hearing has been held and objections heard.

If the court approves the 11-part plan, the district trustees will proceed with appraisal of benefits and damages to property involved.

After appraisal another hearing must be held to consider financing and appraisal costs.

March Of Dimes Supports Birth Defects Centers

The tragedy of thalidomide, the drug which caused deformities in thousands of newborn infants, has emphasized the need for public support of the March of Dimes fight against birth defects, according to L. Merle Ramseyer, campaign director for the National Foundation, Franklin County Chapter.

Ramseyer stated that national headquarters and local chapters are now supporting more than 50 treatment centers for birth defects, arthritis and polio in various sections of the country.

In addition to providing medical care, contributions to the 25th Anniversary March of Dimes will also support the National Foundation research program to find the causes and preventives for birth defects and arthritis.

The culmination of the March of Dimes campaign will be the Mothers' March Jan. 31.

Ramseyer is an associate general agent for Provident Life and Accident Insurance Company. He is married and the father of five children.

Christmas Gifts For Mentally Ill Sought

An appeal for Christmas gifts and any kind of trading stamps and books began the Christmas gift program of 1962 for patients of the Columbus State Hospital and Columbus Childrens Psychiatric Hospital, it was announced by Mrs. Robert Nekervis, area volunteers chairman, of the Franklin County Mental Health Association.

The eighth annual appeal for such gifts as billfolds, purses, ballpoint pens, stationery, toiletries, gloves, scuffies, socks, ties, tie-clips, earrings, bracelets, pipes, pipe-tobacco and cigarettes for patients can again be left at any of the local Swan Super Cleaners, who will be acting as "gathering hosts."

New, for the program this year, will be the appeal for any kind of trading stamps and books which could be mailed directly to the Franklin County Mental Health Association, 131 E. State-st, or left at the Super Swan Cleaners.

Camp Fire Candy Sale To Begin

Beginning Nov. 9 through Nov. 26, the Camp Fire Girls will be selling boxes of assorted chocolates and mint patties.

This is the one fund-raising project of the year for the group and is used to finance the city and county year-round program and staff services such as day camp, Camp Wyandot program and winter camping. All money is used locally. Of the profits, 25 per cent goes to girls groups to maintain their program and 75 percent goes toward the maintenance and improvement of the council-wide program.

Interested parties who do not receive a call, may contact the southeast district chairman, Mrs. William H. Willson, BE. 5-4892, or southwest district chairman, Mrs. Pierson Block, BR. 9-5482.

BEXLEY BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weller, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he [illegible]ituation [illegible]" if

Whitehall Candidate List Grows

Three more Democrats added their names to the Whitehall political slate recently, making the total now four. Another Whitehaller says he is considering entering the race.

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, 746 S. Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for 1963 primary election for councilman last week. Those that followed in quest of municipal posts include:

- Carl Weiffenbacher, 4151 Rickenbacher-av.
- Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and
- Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

Mason, former councilman, said he will seek nomination but has not said which race he will enter. It has been rumored that he will run for mayor.

In addition to these candidates, Henry Maxfield, husband of Elizabeth Maxfield, former councilwoman, said he was "considering" the Second Ward candidacy next May.

Four Local Ladies Named Homemaker

30 Finalists Interviewed In Contest

When the job of selecting the four local homemakers was presented to the committee of judges, they had the task of interviewing thirty contestants. The four were selected from this group.

Following is a list of other finalists in the local contest:

Mrs. Armor Hank, 406 Danhurst; Mrs. Thomas Healy, West Jefferson; Mrs. Keith Brum, 603 Mengel-ln, Hilliard; Mrs. Betty Stone, Georgesville; Mrs. Frank Roby, 8184 Hayden Run-rd; Mrs. Jack Roby, Rt. 2, Plain City; Mrs. Marianne Cox, 96 Amity-rd; Mrs. Martha Rucker, 3257 Fisher-rd; Mrs. Margery Rennie, 1121 N. Hague-av; Mrs. Nita Huffman, 310 Heywood-dr, Hilliard; Mrs. William Share, 1487 Lillian-ln; Mrs. Jesse Evans, Reynoldsburg; Mrs. Roselyn Marguiles, 2671 Bexley Park; Mrs. Daniel Pike, 1296 Shady-ln; Mrs. Beatrice Thibaut, 688 Mohawk; Mrs. Sybil Beranek, 244 S. Roys-av; Mrs. Doris Wilson, 1080 Parma-av; Mrs. John Dehnart, 242 Letchworth; Mrs. Arthur Mitchell, 355 Binns-blvd; Mrs. Lenore Sibbalds, 438 N. Westmoor-av; Mrs. Evelyn Breneman, 845 Vanderberg; Mrs. Ivan Timmons, 395 S. Richardson-av; Mrs. Ray Anderson, 895 Chestershire-rd; Mrs. Ruth Moder, 2572 Symington; Mrs. Helen Myers, 753 S. Harris-av; Mrs. Virginia Schneider, 2767 Bellwood-av.

Each of the many ladies entered in the local contest was nominated in a special letter from a friend, neighoor, husband, child or acquaintance. Letters of nomination for some of the runners-up in the contest are printed in this supplement today.

Outstanding letters of nomination were turned over to the three local judges who in turn made up special score sheets on their selections.

These score sheets, the original letters of nomination and supporting information secured by Hartley Newspapers staff members, were sent to Chicago where judging is to be done by the panel of five national judges.

Homemaker Tribute 'Amazing'

"After reading some of the letters sent into the Suburban homemaker search throughout the nation, I could write a book," exclaimed Chester K. Hayes, executive director of the National Suburban Press Foundation.

Hayes expressed amazement at the ability of American homemakers — at the way they are taking their places in the country — as superior homemakers — as active community and church workers — and in every facet of life in which they are called upon to serve.

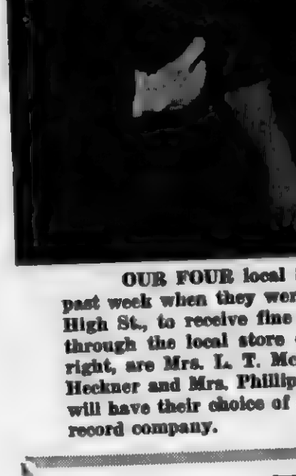
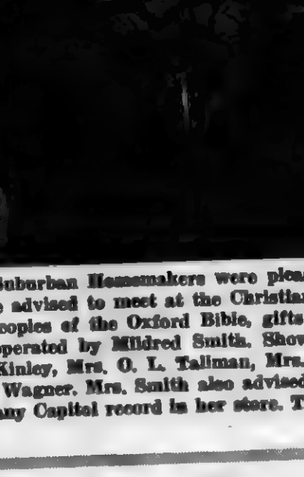
Hail To Our Homemakers

AN EDITORIAL



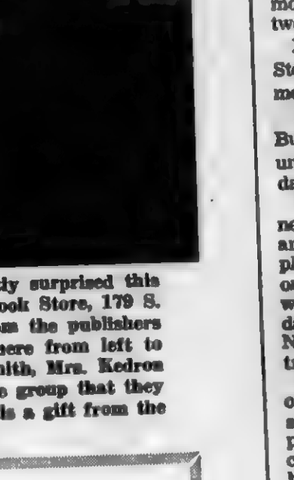
We at Hartley Newspapers have but one regret now that we have concluded the judging of our local Suburban Homemaker Contest . . . It would have been wonderful if we could have made them all winners.

Each nominee has every right to feel proud of the fact that a friend or relative nominated her for this high honor. What nicer thing could happen to any fine lady who has a real interest in her home, her family and her community?



The quality of the candidates makes us realize just what wonderful people we have in the areas we serve.

Turn elsewhere in this edition and read again the qualifications of the entrants to become eligible. What more need be said?



Yes, we have selected four local Suburban Homemakers but it is still a fact that each one nominated is a queen in her own home!

Mrs. Warren Smith, 250 W. South-st, Worthington, president of Columbus Presbyterial, spiritual life chairman of United Church Women of Columbus and Franklin County. She is a registered nurse, the wife of an architect and mother of a teen-age daughter.

Mrs. Mary Ann Bracken, home economist with Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, graduate of Bob Jones University in South Carolina, attended Morehead State College, secretary of Electric Women's Round Table, member of Home Economists in Business.

Mrs. Evelyn McAndrews, 1238 Fairmont-ave, mother of five children, active in Girl Scouting and Cub Scouting, member of Christian Mothers Club, member Parish Council of Catholic Women. Last year Mrs. McAndrews was named Mother of the Year for St. Aloysius Parish. She is a registered nurse.

To Be Honored At Gala Event In Chicago

Four very lovely ladies have been selected to represent Hartley Newspapers in the big National Suburban Homemakers Contest to be held in Chicago on Nov. 15. They are:

Mrs. L. T. McKinley, 835 S. Enfield, on Columbus East Side, mother of six sons.

Mrs. Kedron Heckner, 161 Topsfield-rd, Lincoln Village, mother of two daughters and two sons.

Mrs. Oliver Tallman, 3306 Stephen-dr, on the Hilltop, mother of three daughters.

Mrs. Philip Wagner, 2869 Bulen-av, in the southeast suburban area, mother of two daughters and a son.

Each of the four local winners have been notified and are prepared to take off by plane from Columbus Airport on Wednesday, Nov. 14 and will spend the next two days as guests of Hartley Newspapers on an all-expense trip in Chicago.

In Chicago they will meet other local homemakers from suburban areas over the USA, participate in a big panel discussion, and learn what lady has been selected as National Suburban Homemaker which title takes with it a $5000 cash award.

Standards Set For Judging Home Contest

Official judging standards as set up by the Suburban Press Foundation should be reviewed to be able to determine the many points for which the judges of this contest were on the alert. They follow:

1. In what ways has she revealed her spiritual and moral strength in modern day living —for her home, for her church, for her community, and for the world in which she lives?

2. In what ways has she helped in developing and maintaining the total health and fitness (mental, emotional, physical and spiritual) of her family?

3. How well does she demonstrate her personal health and fitness through her attitudes, habits, appearance and physical well-being?

4. To what extent has she participated in civic and community affairs—local, state, national and international?

5 How well does she exemplify her ability in the management of the family resources of time and income in relation to family needs and goals?

6. To what extent has she demonstrated her skills in: a. preparing meals. b. clothing the family. c. appearance of home. d. housekeeping.

7. How does she create an atmosphere of love, respect and affection for effective family living?

8. How else has she demonstrated her abilities as a successful homemaker?

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

The builder, Robert Weller, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

National Winner To Receive $5,000.00

Ladies Will Appear On Conference

The Conference will open with a morning session under the theme, "Our Changing Pattern of Living as it Affects the American Homemaker." A discussion between the suburban homemaker winners, representing a national cross section of suburban women, and a panel made up of representatives of communications media and information groups will explore the many facets of this theme.

Members of the panel will include: Mrs. Virginia Hasbeeb, Home Equipment Editor, American Home magazine; Miss Doris Doland, Assistant to the Publisher, Look magazine; Dr. Kenneth Milstead of the Federal Food and Drug Administration, Washington, D.C.; Mr. Frank R. Neu, Educational Director, American Dairy Association; Mrs. Mary Jane Chinn of KRNT-TV, Des Moines, Ia., representing the national organization "American Women in Radio and Television," and Robert V. McCarthy, Executive Editor, Progress-Advance Leader, Penn Hills, an eastern Pittsburgh suburban community.

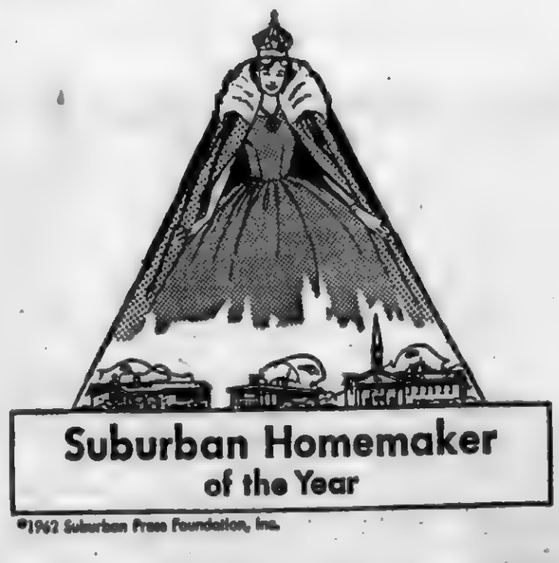
The panel will be moderated by Mrs. Peg Keilholz, consumer education consultant and former women's editor of Country Gentleman magazine.

Following luncheon and the introduction of honored guests the national judges will give brief comments regarding the standard used in judging and their reactions to the broad picture of suburban homemaking as it emerged through the stories of the suburban homemakers, their abilities and attributes.

Dr. Richard Morris, Head of the Department of Family Economics of Kansas State University will participate in the program in his capacity as a member of President Kennedy's new formed Consumer Advisory Council.

Honor Heart Of American Home Today

For the first time in history a program is under way to honor the heart of the American home today — that is the suburban homemaker. From coast to coast members of the Suburban Press Foundation, to which Hartley Newspapers belongs, are spearheading a national search to find the most outstanding Suburban Homemaker in the United States.



This is an event of national significance, because it is in the suburbs throughout the nation that the population is increasing more rapidly than any other area.

It is from these suburbs that one woman will be chosen to represent to the world the finest example of American homemaking.

Our suburban communities stretch all across the country, ringing all the big cities. Today, in fact, one-third of the people live in suburban communities.

THE NATIONAL SUBURBAN HOMEMAKER of the Year Search was held in Chicago under the auspices of the Suburban Press Foundation through a public service grant made by the American Dairy Association. Here the national judges, Foundation president Robert Y. Paddock and Miss Marguerite Gustafson of the American Dairy Association discuss the selection of the top homemaker. Seated: Mrs. Ruth Phillips, Dr. Marie Pfeiffer; standing, left to right: Judge Clayton W. Rose, Dr. Janet Wessel, Robert Y. Paddock, Dr. Ruth Leverton, Miss Marguerite Gustafson.

Winners Announced On Nov. 15

The National Suburban Homemaker of the Year has been chosen! Who she is, however, will remain a top secret until Nov. 15 when the honored homemaker will be feted at a gala luncheon and award ceremony in Chicago.

The national judges, who on Oct. 30 selected the National Suburban Homemaker from among the 54 local community winners, had a difficult task. The selection was made, according to the judges, on the basis that the woman chosen top suburban homemaker of the year met all of the judging standards in an unusually well balanced proportion. Many of the finalists were outstanding in one area, often in dramatic ways, but the judges' final selection was based on the total "human values" as exemplified by the winning homemaker in her home and in her community.

The Award Luncheon, at which the National Suburban Homemaker will be honored and will receive a $5000 award, will be a part of the one-day National Suburban Homemakers Conference being held under the auspices of the Suburban Press Foundation and its member newspapers.

Attending the Conference will be Foundation member publishers, their local "Suburban Homemakers of the Year" and representatives of women's organizations, civic groups, governmental agencies at the state and national levels, executives from business and industry.

The presentation of the $5000 award to the Suburban Homemaker of the year will be made by Miss Peggy Wood, the stage and screen star whose role of "Mama" in the CBS television show of previous seasons, "I remember Mama" made her a natural choice to play this "supporting role."

The Suburban Homemaker of the Year and her sister homemakers, all of whom were chosen by their communities as homemakers-of-the-year, will be appearing on radio and television shows while in Chicago. A dinner and theatre party will complete the days festivities for the National Suburban Homemaker of the Year and the other 53 suburban women.

Why Select A National Homemaker?

This search for a national winner, as well as the search to find the outstanding local winners, has not been a superficial contest. Winners were chosen by a panel of local judges who read letters about the contestants attached to entry blanks. They judged them by being guided by national rating standards. These letters detailed the attributes of each entrant. The letters, for the most part, followed closely the judging standards specified on the entry blank.

All judges will have an op-

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Thoughts of "My Fair Lady," which closes Saturday at Vets Memorial, slipped into temporary oblivion on the eighth floor of the Broadwin Apartment Hotel Monday and were replaced by:

Descented skunks, two spinster aunts, a parakeet named "Boozie" and a bottle of imported champagne—not necessarily in that order.

It was veteran showman Hugh Dempster and his charming wife, Emma, who made the transformation from an interview about the "Fair Lady" production to an hour of rambling reminiscence.

For the record, however, some facts must be established at this point. Dempster plays the mischievous Colonel Pickering in the show and, for my money, carries the presentation.

He is, perhaps, more quickly recognized as Dr. Watson of the long-run Sherlock Holmes series on TV. But, speaking of long runs, "My Fair Lady" has been anything but a one-night stand for him.

He joined the company in Rochester in 1957 and will leave it in March of next year. The show has traveled coast to coast nine times during those years and is on the longest theater tour of this generation.

Perhaps it could have been the monotony of countless press interviews—all rehashing the same questions: "How do you feel about this play," "How has it been accepted elsewhere," that caused Dempster to depart from the ordinary this time.

The series of conversational events that ensued went something like this:

First of all, skunks were brought up in a discussion of pets. The talented Dempsters carry parakeet "Boozie' erywhere they go.

Mrs. Dempster revealed that Caroline Dixon, who Eliza Doolittle in the show, had bought a poodle. Hugh and his wife thought that skunks were nicer pet

"We came bloody close to buying one in Montreal," said Hugh with his pronounced English accent. "That was a close squeak, wasn't it," chimed in Emma. "Blimey," added Hugh.

A bottle of champagne from the apartment kitchen started Emma talking about her culinary prowess. She is working on a "My Fair Lady" cookbook of recipes gleaned from the many places the show has traveled. She'll work

MRS. BETH HECKNER

HomemakerMustBeDomesticEngineer

Mrs. Kedron Heckner, 161 Topsfield-rd, Lincoln Village, age 33, mother of four children, occupation: Domestic engineer.

Selected as the local winner of the Hartley Newspaper Suburban Homemakers Contest in the West Rural Urban News area is this energetic young lady who admits that there are many things more pleasant than house cleaning but at the same time agrees that this task must take a priority in the development and preservation of good family living in the suburbs.

Mrs. Heckner (Beth) is a devout Episcopalian and was nominated as a candidate in this contest by an equally devout Catholic, Mrs. Richard D. Morgan, her next door neighbor. And it all came about with the knowledge that Mrs. Heckner is a practical mother concerned with the development of both the bodies and minds of her youngsters.

Mrs. Heckner in the four years her family has lived in Lincoln Village has been an outstanding community leader and most residents of the area will agree that a lot of the spirit and enthusiasm for civic affairs in Lincoln Village have resulted from the planning, the energy and the enthusiasm developed by Beth.

One of her treasures is the bound scrapbook she received this past year containing photos, publicity releases and numerous mementos from her very successful year as president of the Lincoln Village Women's Club. Page after page is filled with activity from this outstanding group that shows it was headed by capable leadership.

In fact, the ladies in this organization have every right to be proud when they look back at the State award they received in the Seat Belt Safety Campaign and their award for development for an outdoor laboratory in the local school. The club has an enviable record this past year by winning 11 out of 40 awards in competition with 700 women's clubs in Ohio.

Successful leadership is generally not allowed to die and so at the end of last year's heavy schedule, Beth accepted the responsibility of director of junior clubs for District 7 covering six counties and involving 15 clubs who are members of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs.

She points with pride to her new electric typewriter, her Christmas gift from her husband, given to her recently well in advance of the holiday. Heavy correspondence as well as the fact that she considers herself something of a budding playwright, takes much of her time.

Energy and enthusiasm abound in the Heckner household and it is a lively place when Mom and Pop and the four little Heckners live it up as a family should.

Beth finds that she has time for more extra-curricular activities now that all four youngsters are in school. Larry, 10, in the fifth grade, Susan, 9, in fourth grade, and Sandy, 6, in the first grade. All attend Prairie Lincoln School. Ann, 5, attends kindergarten. This kindergarten is another project sponsored by the Lincoln Village Women's Club. Attendance has grown from 18 to 120 in seven years, and this past year under Beth's administration, it was stepped up from two to three sessions with two full time teachers.

Other members of the family include two ducks, Orson and Seymour, and a Labrador puppy, Sambo.

If it takes a lot of living to make a house a home, then the Heckner house can certainly be called home. It is friendly, inviting and shows signs of having been lived in.

Since purchasing this home Beth and Bud have done much to improve it. A major operation was the development of an "apartment" on the second floor, which has since been turned over to the youngsters. Here they have their own TV set, plenty of room for pennants, swimming trophies, athletic equipment, and the thousand and one things that go into the lives of a boy and three girls.

One outstanding item of furniture in the living room is that of a very large old grandfather's clock, an heirloom from many years back. Several other collector's items are spaced at intervals but Beth says nothing comes into the house unless it is functional.

She has a small private work room, where the manager of this institution is housed, with a work table, her electric typewriter, and a sewing machine that is kept busy many times a week making the necessary draperies, repairs, alterations, and new dresses for her children.

Neighbors and family alike agree that Beth is a good cook. And when asked for her favorite recipe, she produced a whole book full. Good household management is in evidence as she explains that they have always adhered to a policy of never buying more than they could see their way clear to pay for.

The family communication center is a blackboard in the kitchen where all special messages and instructions are written and each member is required to check the board regularly.

Successful homemaking, in the opinion of Mrs. Heckner, must be made up of a flexible schedule wherein the home duties can be taken care of and at the same time a contribution can be made to the welfare of the community. These extra-curricular activities are a real challenge in her life. She expresses her belief that the day of the mop wielding housewife is past. She is in accord with the many aids

THE HECKNERS are all smiles as Mother prepares to take off for Chicago on Nov. 14. Elizabeth Ann, age 5, sits on Mother's lap with Susan, 9, and Larry, 10, on the left. Sandy, 6, and Dad are on the right.

HOUSEWORK is no thrill admits Mrs. Heckner but "I believe in a clean house."

THERE is a place for everything but youngsters sometimes don't put them in their proper place as this picture testifies. Mrs. Heckner is busy sorting out various pieces of athletic equipment in the children's "apartment."

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weller, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic [illegible] and said he [illegible] if [illegible]

Whitehall Candidate List Grows

Three more Democrats added their names to the Whitehall political slate recently, making the total now four. Another Whitehaller says he is considering entering the race.

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, 746 S. Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for 1963 primary election for councilman last week. Those that followed in quest of municipal posts include:

- Carl Weiffenbacher, 4151 Rickenbacher-av.
- Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and
- Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

Mason, former councilman, said he will seek nomination but has not said which race he will enter. It has been rumored that he will run for mayor.

In addition to these candidates, Henry Maxfield, husband of Elizabeth Maxfield, former councilwoman, said he was "considering" the Second Ward candidacy next May.

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Thoughts of "My Fair Lady," which closes Saturday at Vets Memorial, slipped into temporary oblivion on the eighth floor of the Broadwin Apartment Hotel Monday and were replaced by:

Descented skunks, two spinster aunts, a parakeet named "Boozie" and a bottle of imported champagne—not necessarily in that order.

It was veteran showman Hugh Dempster and his charming wife, Emma, who made the transformation from an interview about the "Fair Lady" production to an hour of rambling reminiscence.

For the record, however, some facts must be established at this point. Dempster plays the mischievous Colonel Pickering in the show and, for my money, carries the presentation.

He is, perhaps, more quickly recognized as Dr. Watson of the long-run Sherlock Holmes series on TV. But, speaking of long runs, "My Fair Lady" has been anything but a one-night stand for him.

He joined the company in Rochester in 1957 and will leave it in March of next year. The show has traveled coast to coast nine times during those years and is on the longest theater tour of this generation.

Perhaps it could have been the monotony of countless press interviews—all rehashing the same questions: "How do you feel about this play," "How has it been accepted elsewhere," that caused Dempster to depart from the ordinary this time.

The series of conversational events that ensued went something like this:

First of all, skunks were brought up in a discussion of pets. The talented Dempsters carry parakeet "Boozie" everywhere they go.

Mrs. Dempster revealed that Caroline Dixon, who played Eliza Doolittle in the show, had bought a poodle. Hugh and his wife thought that skunks were nicer pets.

"We came bloody close to buying one in Montreal," said Hugh with his pronounced English accent. "That was a close squeak, wasn't it," chimed in Emma. "Blimey," added Hugh.

A bottle of champagne from the apartment kitchen started Emma talking about her culinary prowess. She is working on a "My Fair Lady" cookbook of recipes gleaned from the many places the show has traveled. She'll work

MRS. MIDGE McKINLEY

Many Ingredients In This Good Recipe

Take one 36-year-old homemaker who can quite easily pass for 25.

Stir repeatedly with tremendous respect from neighbors and friends.

Garnish with the unmistakable love of her husband, and the adoration for her six healthy sons.

Add a double measure of moral strength and spiritual stability.

Blend in with an ample amount of devotion to her Church and God.

Mix with an abundant portion of reverberating Americanism.

Add two heaping measures of civic pride and community participation.

Top with the ability to prepare creative meals and efficiently manage a household.

Call her what you like — effervescent — unique — prominent, ambitious, aspirational — Mrs. McKinley is one of the most vivacious homemakers in America today. She does not try to impress you with her sparkling moral strength and ideals—she doesn't have to. One is aware of her captivating personality the instant you meet her. She literally bursts with spritely competence when she enters a room. Mrs. McKinley couldn't be more disarming if she were 10 feet tall.

After graduation from Loudonville (Ohio) High School she enrolled in the Mt. Carmel Hospital School of Nursing. That was in 1943.

Mrs. McKinley passed the registered nurse's examination in 1947, and soon afterward married Mac, who had received his army discharge.

"Our honeymoon was spent fixing up an old monstrosity of a house near Ohio State University.

In September Mac enrolled at the University. The old house had five upstairs bedrooms which were rented to 10 ex-G.I.'s also attending the University. Mrs. McKinley worked full time at Mt. Carmel Hospital and Mac attended afternoon classes and worked nights as an adding machine repairman. "Several months later when I found I was pregnant, I left the hospital to work in a doctor's office where the work was lighter. I couldn't quit—we were broke."

The McKinleys' first son, John, was born in 1948. "I only missed work for two weeks. Our 10 college boys helped baby-sit but sometimes I had to pack little John off to work with me when the men's schedules were tight. I fixed him a crib in an examination room."

Neither the McKinleys nor their 10 roomers were flush with money. There were many times when the entire settlement had to live on the food sent by the boys' parents. "We were just one big happy family in those days."

The McKinleys believe the seven years they spent in the old house taught them a great deal about how to raise a troop of boys later. "Nothing any of my six sons come up with shocks me."

Mac was graduated from Ohio State in 1952. A year later he enrolled in law school. The family income came from his part-time job with a real estate developer, Ernest Fritsche, who still is his employer.

He passed the bar examination in 1954, and the family, loaded down with three growing sons and a tremendous mortgage, moved into their present home to finally start to live like other people.

Mrs. McKinley is a member of the Companions of St. Vincent Orphanage. "There's about 70 children there. It's the most heart-warming experience to know you are helping them." Once a month Mrs. McKinley brings an orphan into her home for a day and makes it one of the family "I only wish I could do more." She served as secretary to the Companions in 1961.

The Marian Ladies is another of her favorite organizations. "We're an auxiliary to the Knights of Columbus. We help the men raise money for athletic equipment for children, prepare and deliver poor baskets at Christmas time, and collect used clothing for the needy."

Although she is no longer a practicing nurse, Mrs. McKinley is active in the Catholic Nurses Association. The CNA is an educational society that keeps its members up to date on new nursing procedures, and conducts lectures on ethics in the field.

Of all her outside activities, the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, at Christ the King Elementary School, probably keeps her busiest. "I'm on so many committees there, I couldn't name them all." Her chores include administering sight and hearing tests, furnishing volunteers for work in school cafeteria, planning the eighth grade graduation, and coordinating part of the spring festival.

"Two of the boys are crazy about swimming, so I became

FAMILY PORTRAIT. The men surrounding Mrs. McKinley are, left to right, sons, Paul, 5; Thomas, 7; Joseph, 12, Patrick, 13; John, 14; husband, Mac, and son, William, 3.

SALADS are a special favorite in the McKinley home. Mrs. McKinley constantly is on the lookout for green and and fruit salad recipes.

FLOWER arranging is one of her many pastimes, but Mrs. McKinley admits she would rather grow them than arrange them.

BEXLEY BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

Time—Most Important To Homemaking

"You get just as much out of any experience as you put into it," is the guiding principle that has built for Mrs. June Tallman and her family, 3306 Stephen-dr S., a serene home and a happy life.

Love for her husband and three daughters, and her dedication to their happiness and security has many different facets.

She expresses her attention to their well-being not only by maintaining an inviting home and serving carefully prepared meals, but in assuring their spiritual and emotional health by lending a sympathetic ear to a problem, entering into their projects with enthusiasm, encouraging individual expression and instilling in them strong spiritual ideals and moral standards.

Believing strongly that "children learn mostly by example—and so parents, pastor and teachers are most influential in laying the foundation for children to grow on," Mrs. Tallman strives always to lift the level of her daughters' environment.

The entire community benefits from the time and energy she puts into leadership in Binns Elementary School PTA, Bethlehem Lutheran Church and Girl Scouting.

She is leader of Girl Scout Troop 600 at the school, and has accepted the post of vice-chairman for the scouting Neighborhood of 15 troops.

She is also board member of the PTA and of the Women's Society of the church where she has taught Sunday School for the past seven years.

And the thread of her own joy, pride and contentment in her role as homemaker, runs through the fabric of her life.

Thirty-four years old on Nov. 10, Mrs. Tallman is well-groomed and attractive from the top of her shining red hair, often topped with a hat of her own making, to her fashionable shoes.

Stimulating interests in the world about her, an eagerness to learn new skills, new recipes, meet new people and see new sights, and a constant broadening of her own life inspire the admiration and respect of her family and friends.

And her talents and skills, with all their rewarding satisfactions, she shares not only with her own daughters but with girls in her scout troop and the youngsters in her Sunday School class.

Her oldest daughter, Barbara, 11, is learning to sew and is already becoming an accomplished cook. Joyce, nine, and her eight-year-old Marilyn are also learning, through responsibilities determined by their own abilities, the arts of homemaking.

In assuring the individual happiness of each family member, Mrs. Tallman stresses one ingredient — time.

"Time to talk and to listen, time to notice the first little frown and find out what the little problem is so it can be settled before it has time to grow out of proportion.

"And time to tell your children, and your husband, that you love them. Even though they know it, it's nice to say it, and to hear it.

"My husband and I do dishes together always, while the children finish their homework. This is our time to talk and listen, tell of the day's accomplishments and its problems." Oliver Tallman, who nominated his wife as Suburban Homemaker of the Year, is sales representative for the Sterling Paper Company.

"As for family problems, talking again is the solution. We discuss a problem openly and fairly, without anger, and then with some thought and prayer reach our solution."

And Mrs. Tallman finds this time in her busy life by careful budgeting of the precious commodity. "Every hour has to count," she said earnestly, "in order to do all the important things.

"I keep my schedule flexible, though, to allow for quick changes, for an unexpected meeting or activity I feel is important to the children."

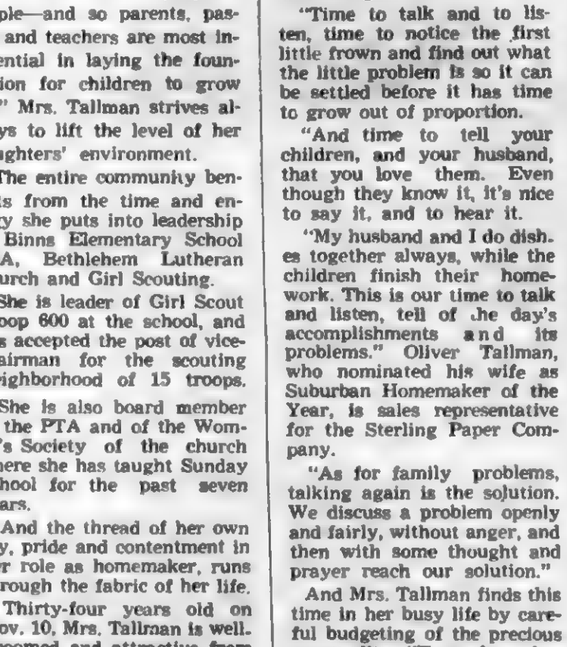
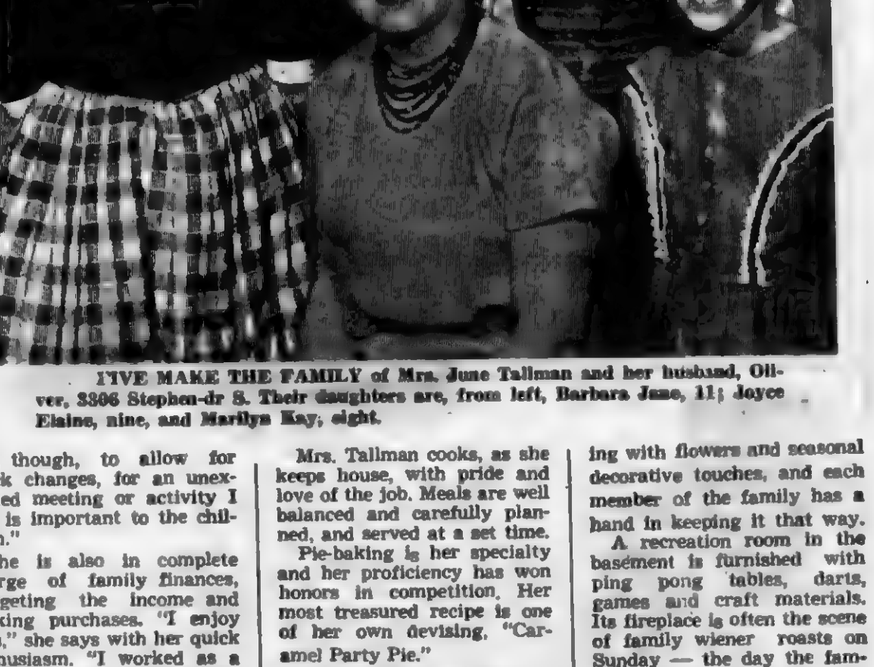
She is also in complete charge of family finances, budgeting the income and making purchases. "I enjoy this," she says with her quick enthusiasm. "I worked as a bookkeeper after I graduated from high school and for the first three years of our marriage."

Mrs. Tallman cooks, as she keeps house, with pride and love of the job. Meals are well balanced and carefully planned, and served at a set time.



Pie-baking is her specialty and her proficiency has won honors in competition. Her most treasured recipe is one of her own devising, "Caramel Party Pie."

The Tallmans' home is planned as a beautiful, comfortable setting for family living, kept bright and inviting with flowers and seasonal decorative touches, and each member of the family has a hand in keeping it that way.



A recreation room in the basement is furnished with ping pong tables, darts, games and craft materials. Its fireplace is often the scene of family wiener roasts on Sunday — the day the family always reserves for each other.

BEXLEY BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

A GROUP OF Bexley Brownies celebrated their first birthday last picture at left) and then sat around the city council table and asked questions regarding city government. The Troop was one year old on Nov. 7. week in big style. The girls, all members of Troop 694 of Maryland Avenue School, visited Bexley Mayor William Schneider in his Main-st City Hall office. Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weiler, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he [illegible] situation [illegible] if [illegible]

- Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and
- Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

MRS. EMMA WAGNER

Working Together Is Secret To Success

Homemaking for Mrs. Emma Wagner, 2869 Bulen-av, is many things . . . building the house, raising three youngsters, feeding a happy family, making their clothes, directing two church choirs, participating in civic activities, canning and freezing, and being employed three days a week as a nurse.

And a plus list that makes it appear that there are not enough hours in her day to cover all this ground.

Mrs. Wagner was born at Royalton, Ohio, and grew up in the Lithopolis community, and back in the early courtship days met her husband-to-be, Phillip Eugene, at a skating rink.

Since that time life has not been entireley smooth in every respect but certainly the story of the Wagner household provides positive proof that life can be beautiful.

"To what do you attribute your success as a homemaker?" we asked.

"Working together!" was her reply.

Togetherness to the Wagners includes such things as making decisions on the building of a home, adding to the home as finances permit, never allowing debt to pile up beyond their ability to pay, vacationing, bowling, fishing, and attending church as a family.

Decisions in the rearing of the children . . . a knotty problem in many homes . . . is no problem in the Wagner home. When one corrects, the other never interferes. Major decisions are discussed jointly and decided together.

One of Mrs. Wagner's extra curricular activities is that of directing the adult and youth choirs of Hope EUB Church where the family is prominent in all phases of religious training. When this interview was made Mrs. Wagner was in the process of developing the musical arrangement for the annual church Christmas program.

She serves as secretary of Women's Society of World Service and is local conference secretary, has time to help as a leader with Youth Fellowship, is co-chairman of the Christmas program and because of her ability as an artist can regularly be counted on as a member of all decorating committees.

Mr. Wagner is an active member of the Brotherhood and ushers on Sunday. All of the little Wagners are proud of their Sunday School perfect attendance pins.

Life starts in the Wagner household each morning with a very good breakfast for father before he takes off for his job as a steel fabricator at the Tarrier Steel Company. Daughter Jean then takes off for Watkins Elementary School and Susan, 13, leaves for Berry Junior High. John, age four, starts on the busy schedule of looking after his new pup, "Pansy," and an old timer in the family, kitty, "Tan."

All the patience that must go with motherhood is evidenced in the fact that harmony is currently being maintained as mother adds to her long list of obligations and duties that go with a training program while housebreaking Pansy. And Pansy is no thoroughbred . . . "just dog," a gift from a friend . . . but still one of those little necessities in successful growth of youngsters.

Everyone in the Wagner household has his or her job to do. This may consist of such things as washing dishes, sorting clothes, putting things away.

"I have always felt that my family should be reared to understand that there is dignity in work," says Mrs. Wagner.

To many people Mrs. Wagner is a perfectionist. But she explains it this way, "Anything worth doing should be done well."

Warmth . . . this is the best description of a first impression of the Wagner home as you step inside. Knotty pine walls blending into hardwood floors, with numerous handmade throw rugs, with Colonial and Early American furniture throughout, is a genuine invitation to "sit down and make yourself at home."

One of Mrs. Wagner's hobbies is that of collecting antique plates and many of these are fitted into the decorating scheme.

Several years ago when Emma and Phillip Wagner bought their property in what was then known as "Opportunity Farms" they thought they would be living in the country. At that time they started construction of a garage and one room which later was transformed into their

ALL THE MEMBERS of the Wagner family are enthused about the local homemaker selection and they have good reason to be since "Mama" is one of the candidates. Shown here are John, age four; Jean, 10; Susan, 13; father Phillip and mother Emma. They live at 2869 Bulen-av.

WORK HAS STARTED on the Christmas church music and Mrs. Wagner spends some time each day preparing for this big annual event.

WHEN THE TWO older children take off for school there is still plenty of activity at the Wagner home with son, John; his puppy, Pansy, and kitty, Tan. Mother keeps the situation harmonious.

MOTHER, Mrs. Wagner, does some last minute checking on son, John, before she leaves for her job as supervisor of nurses at Mercy Hospital.

to housekeeping provided by specially prepared mixes, household hints and short cuts, extension bulletins, and the wealth of assistance she gets from reading and shopping newspaper ads.

The extra time she gives to civic work is under the heading of the contribution to the development of better youngsters in Lincoln Village. She is happy in the knowledge that there is a wealth of such leadership in the Village and it has resulted in "making this more than just an ordinary, flat development."

Beth further stresses her belief that working with adults provides better training for the handling of children.

One of her current major projects is that of being a guardian for the TAN DAKO Campfire Girls. This takes an average of 10 hours weekly. In the summer just passed, her interest was likewise centered on son Larry's Cub Scout activities and now it is football for him.

For two years she taught a Sunday School class and is now a substitute. Currently a time taker is that of preparing for the annual Church Christmas Bazaar.

Religious education has its rightful place in the Heckner home with regular attendance at St. Mark's Episcopal Church. All members of the family join in saying grace together at meals.

"Our religious training," says Mrs. Heckner, "is centered around our belief that our God is a loving God and we strive to teach our youngsters that God is just a greater parent and one that will always love them."

Regularly each Monday morning at 9 o'clock she joins the other women who make up the Lincoln Village bowling league for her weekly "not too good" game with an average of around 100.

Another regular outside activity is that of participation in the Choral group which she helped organize. "These ladies meet once or more each month and make numerous public appearances.

Last Christmas season Beth was up to her ears in work as the ladies of the community provided the annual Lincoln Village Christmas celebration. Santa was brought in by helicopter with gifts for all the youngsters, and more than 500 were in attendance.

Husband Kedron, better known as Bud, is business manager of Davidson-Green, Inc., Volkswagen Sales and Service, 701 S. Hamilton Rd.

At the conclusion of a very busy year as president of the Lincoln Village Women's Club in 1961, the aforementioned scrapbook contained a page with a very real and attractive hand drawing of Beth with this inscription: There are four things a woman must know . . .

How to look like a girl
How to act like a lady
How to think like a man
How to work like a dog.

Mrs. Kedron Heckner is entitled to such an accolade.

Why Select Natl. Homemaker?

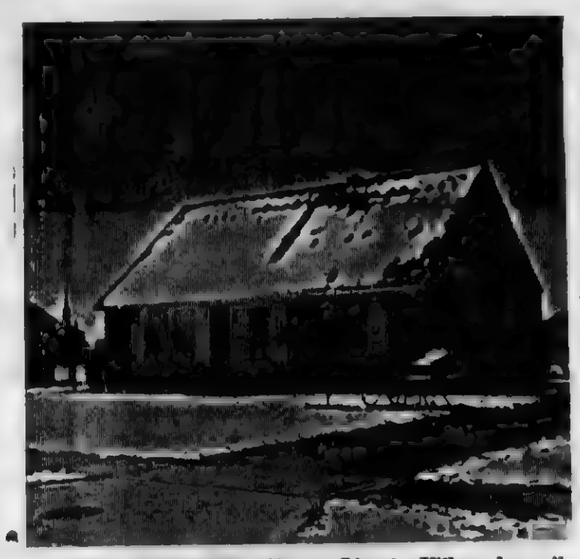
portunity to talk with local winners if they feel they do not have sufficient information in the letters to judge them to their satisfaction.

The national judges will also have a chance to observe the local winners as they participate in a panel discussion the morning of Nov. 15 before the national winner is definitely chosen that afternoon.

Why have Hartley Newspapers and other members of the Suburban Press Foundation undertaken this task to find the most outstanding suburban homemaker?

Because it is the desire of the publications which serve the suburban population of the nation to direct attention to the importance of suburban community homemakers as the core of the family and community life of the nation, thus recognizing that homemaking in our expanding suburban population is largely responsible in these changing times for guarding and building the American way of life and all for which it stands.

Another reason is that these publications desire to broaden the horizon of all suburban homemakers in their concept of their responsibilities—bearing in mind all the interrelated interests for successful family living and community development.



A third and equally important reason is to stimulate progress in further building the material, moral and spiritual strength of the American family and community life of the nation.

It was not easy for the local judges to pick winners from the area as there were special qualities possessed by each entrant which would be recognized. Picking just one from each publication area was a serious affair for each judge. They, too, were conscious of the responsibilities they undertook to help select the most outstanding homemakers in the area.

They, too, wanted to do their part on honoring the heart of the American home. Their responsibilities weighed heavily upon their shoulders, and they wished each woman entered could have been a winner.

BROADLOOM IS WIDTH

BROADLOOM is a designation of carpet width. It does not describe any special style, quality or construction. The term refers to any carpet made in seamless widths of six feet and over.

THE HECKNER HOME in Lincoln Village is easily found. Just look for the sleigh on the front lawn. The sleigh was donated to the Women's Club about four years ago and has been moved to the homes of the presidents of the club since that time. It is used once a year in the community Christmas celebration.

BEXLEY BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weiler, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he [illegible]tuation [illegible]" if

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, 746 S. Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for 1963 primary election for councilman last week. Those that followed in quest of municipal posts include:

- Carl Weiffenbacher, 4151 Rickenbacher-av.
- Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and
- Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

Mason, former councilman, said he will seek nomination but has not said which race he will enter. It has been rumored that he will run for mayor.

In addition to these candidates, Henry Maxfield, husband of Elizabeth Maxfield, former councilwoman, said he was "considering" the Second Ward candidacy next May.

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Thoughts of "My Fair Lady," which closes Saturday at Vets Memorial, slipped into temporary oblivion on the eighth floor of the Broadwin Apartment Hotel Monday and were replaced by:

Descented skunks, two spinster aunts, a parakeet named "Boozie" and a bottle of imported champagne—not necessarily in that order.

It was veteran showman Hugh Dempster and his charming wife, Emma, who made the transformation from an interview about the "Fair Lady" production to an hour of rambling reminiscence.

For the record, however, some facts must be established at this point. Dempster plays the mischievous Colonel Pickering in the show and, for my money, carries the presentation.

He is, perhaps, more quickly recognized as Dr. Watson of the long-run Sherlock Holmes series on TV. But, speaking of long runs, "My Fair Lady" has been anything but a one-night stand for him.

He joined the company in Rochester in 1957 and will leave it in March of next year. The show has traveled coast to coast nine times during those years and is on the longest theater tour of this generation.

Perhaps it could have been the monotony of countless press interviews—all rehashing the same questions: "How do you feel about this play," "How has it been accepted elsewhere," that caused Dempster to depart from the ordinary this time.

The series of conversational events that ensued went something like this:

First of all, skunks were brought up in a discussion of pets. The talented Dempsters carry parakeet "Boozie" ... erywhere they go.

Mrs. Dempster revealed that Caroline Dixon, who ... Eliza Doolittle in the show, had bought a poodle ... Hugh and his wife thought that skunks were nicer pe...

"We came bloody close to buying one in Montreal," said Hugh with his pronounced English accent. "That was a close squeak, wasn't it," chimed in Emma. "Blimey," added Hugh.

A bottle of champagne from the apartment kitchen started Emma talking about her culinary prowess. She is working on a "My Fair Lady" cookbook of recipes gleaned from the many places the show has traveled. She'll work

SCD Plans To Be Heard On Nov. 30

November 30 at 10 a.m. has been set as the public hearing date on the plans for $79.6 million flood control projects by the Scioto Conservancy District.

The hearing will be held in the Columbus City Council chambers before members of Common Pleas Courts of Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto counties.

A court decision on whether the plans fulfill the prescribed requirements laid out for the SCD cannot be made until a public hearing has been held and objections heard.

If the court approves the 11-part plan, the district trustees will proceed with appraisal of benefits and damages to property involved.

After appraisal another hearing must be held to consider financing and appraisal costs.

QUEEN Midge McKinley . . .

a member of the Eastmoor South Pool Association. We help transport the teams to and from swim meets all over the city. During the races I sometimes embarrass myself because I cheer so loudly for our team."

Both Mr. and Mrs. McKinley were instrumental in organizing the Eastmoor South Civic Association. Several years ago the association sponsored a Hungarian refugee family to Columbus. "We found them a house, furniture, food, and work. I helped the Mrs. through the last weeks of her pregnancy. It was quite an experience. Neither of us could understand the other."

Mrs. McKinley admits that she is not as active in organizations as she used to be. "Let's face it, the husband and children come first. After they're taken care of I work on outside projects if there's time."

John, the eldest son, is 14 and an excellent student. He is the official household floor cleaner. (Every little smudge bothers him. He's so thorough the neighbors hire him to keep their floors clean!") He is a self-disciplined individual with a rather thrifty philosophy.

Patrick, 13, is the exact opposite. He's awfully care-free, but he has the most friends. Patrick is a sympathetic lad who loves animals. The McKinley home is a sanctuary for a wide assortment of species from the animal kingdom. At present Patrick owns a cat, two rabbits, a turtle, several white mice and a chameleon. "We've had hampsters, fish, and parakeets, too. Pat rooms alone in the basement now — none of the other boys will room with him because he has animal cages scattered all over the room." The second McKinley son works several hours a week in a local bakery where he scrubs and dries baking pans.

Joseph, who is 12, has been labeled "The All-American Boy," by other family members. He excells in football, baseball, basketball and swimming." "He loves everything and everybody.." Joseph is a big favorite with neighborhood children younger than him. "He likes to crawl around on his hands and knees with them and carry them piggy-back." Joseph's specialty is lawn mowing, and he brings in a nice weekly income during the summer months.

Second grader Thomas likes sports and is looking forward to joining one of the local swim teams. He is interested in most of the things his older brothers are, and can't understand why a seven-year-old can't do most of the things John, Patrick and Joseph do.

"Paul is only six and very hard to describe. He loves to surprise me. When I'm not home he vacuums the rugs, washes dishes, and straightens up the living room so I will be pleasantly surprised."

The youngest McKinley son, William, is four. "He spends most of his time trying to imitate his big brothers. Thank goodness, he has picked up only their good traits, so far."

The three eldest sons have served as Altar Boys, been members of the Optimists Boys Club, and Boy Scouts. John currently is becoming a member of the Catholic Youth Organization. They are the most popular baby-sitters in the neighborhood.

The meals at the McKinley home are not extravagant. Mrs. McKinley serves steak once a week. The rest of the time she prepares casserole dishes with meat, chop suey, spaghetti, etc. Mrs McKinley makes chop suey in gallon lots, and when she fixes chicken and noodles — the family favorite—she uses four chickens at a time.

Breakfast is eaten in shifts. The five oldest boys eat first, then hop off to school. The McKinley parents eat second, and little Willie is fed whenever he gets up. The early morning menu consists of juice, eggs, rolls and hot chocolate. "When it's cold I fix hot cereal for them, too."

"I find if I can fix vegetables 'pretty' enough, the children love them." Mrs. McKinley bakes four times a week. "The men won't let me stop."

There is a neighborhood joke about Mrs. McKinley's pie-baking. It's a known fact that she quickly bakes a butterscotch pie for her husband after the two have had a little family argument. "Mac and I have our little differences like everybody else, but never in front of the children." When these infrequent tiffs occur, Mac 'phones home later. If he learns there is a butterscotch pie in the oven, he knows everything is all-right.

Bedtime snacks are not encouraged by Mrs McKinley. The boys often have a peanut-butter and jelly sandwich, but their mother believes that three well-balanced meals a day should be enough. "But mercy, how the peanutbutter is consumed around here in the evening."

"Family experiences and religion are the two main ingredients for a successful family life. Looking back, I believe the most enjoyable times we've had have been those we've shared with the boys."

The McKinley family is well-known on the East Side for its papier mache projects. The parents join forces with the boys in making decorations, toys, and costumes. "The boys win all kinds of prizes at Halloween time for their mache costumes. We've got an attic full of them."

Mac, who is pretty handy with a hammer and nails, teaches his sons carpentry and painting.

Although Patrick is the animal lover, the entire family takes an active interest in his pets. "I'm sure having pets is an integral part of growing up."

Mrs. McKinley loves to grow flowers and arrange them about the house. She also enjoys raising vegetables, but jellies are her specialty. She puts up fancy preserves, packages them in a novel manner, and gives them away at Christmas time. "Once I was a Den Mother for a Cub Scout pack. I taught all the boys how to make cherry jelly. Their mothers were flabbergasted."

In the summer the McKinleys dine nearly every evening at the picnic table in the backyard. "But we have to play about nine innings of baseball before Mac and the boys are ready to eat."

The McKinley boys are probably the best versed group in the area when it comes to political issues. Their mother always gathers literature on the subjects for them to read and discuss. "You'd be surprised what an interest children take in grownup affairs when they have half a chance." Mrs. McKinley believes that democracy begins in the home, and to get the most out of it, you have to be well-informed.

Mrs. McKinley serves as neighborhood nurse and guidance counselor. "Only yesterday a friend called and asked me to come over and take her temperature." Children in the neighborhood run for the McKinley home when they have a bleeding finger. One neighbor shook her head, "Our daughter thinks Midge is the only person in town who can put on a Band Aid."

"I don't know why people have chosen me to hear their troubles. Maybe it's because I sit patiently and listen. I don't feel qualified to offer much advice, but I do try to talk religion with them and encourage them to seek God."

Religion has always come first at the McKinley household. "If parents lend their spiritual guidance and teach their children the true meaning of the word 'love', everything will be all right. The special significance of the church must be pointed out in the home."

Another close friend, Mrs. Ben Fultz, exclaimed, "Midge is the kindest person I've ever known. She's simply lovely. I don't know how she finds time to raise six well-mannered boys, yet do the things she does for other people."

Mrs. Ermgard Stillson said, "Midgie was my first friend when I came here from Germany. The adjustment was terrific and if it hadn't been for her, I think I would have died. She was working full-time, raising three children, serving as housemother to 10 college men, yet she found time to guide me."

Neighbor Mrs. Al Zerby confided, "When I need help, I call on Midge. And other people know about her because whenever someone gets down on their luck, they call her. Our religions are different, but that doesn't make any difference to Midge."

PREPARING SON PAUL to play the part of St. Paul in a religious play at Christ The King Elementary School, Mrs. McKinley adds the final touches to the costume.

"I cannot think of anyone more qualified or more deserving of the title "Suburban Homemaker of the Year," is the way Mrs. Paul MacDonald described Mrs. McKinley in her letter of nomination. "Whether the neighborhood drive is for the United Appeal, Retarded Children, Cancer, or Heart Fund, 'Get Midge To Do It' is a favorite slogan."

Mrs. MacDonald concluded, "It's not unusual to see Midge campaigning and ringing doorbells in the neighborhood with one or two of her little tots tagging along behind her."

BEXLEY BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weller, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he [illegible] situation [illegible]" if

Whitehall Candidate List Grows

Three more Democrats added their names to the Whitehall political slate recently, making the total now four. Another Whitehaller says he is considering entering the race.

- Carl Weiffenbacher, 4151 Rickenbacher-av.
- Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and
- Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

Mason, former councilman, said he will seek nomination but has not said which race he will enter. It has been rumored that he will run for mayor.

In addition to these candidates, Henry Maxfield, husband of Elizabeth Maxfield, former councilwoman, said he was "considering" the Second Ward candidacy next May.

days together, the Tallmans plan many family projects. Swimming in the summer and travel are their favorites, with frequent trips throughout Ohio.

And home is for sharing with friends. The Tallmans entertain often, with gatherings ranging from small dinner parties to large groups.

Mrs. Tallman, always consciously aware that their home is the foundation upon which their children are building their individual lives, strives also to focus their attention outward; to broaden their horizons by fostering an interest in the world about their home.

Again by example, they learn to interest themselves in their government, and in people of other countries.

A native of Columbus, Mrs. Tallman met her husband while they both attended Central High School. They were married two years after graduation.

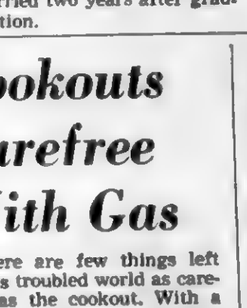
Cookouts Carefree With Gas

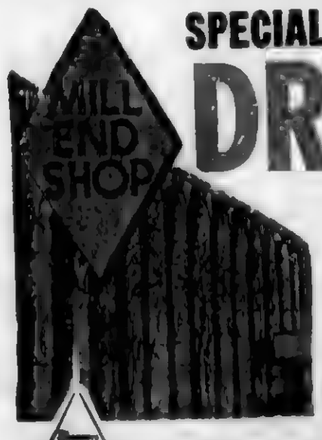
There are few things left in this troubled world as carefree as the cookout. With a backdrop of clear blue sky or shining stars and a spotlight of glowing coals, the stage seems set for light-hearted dining.



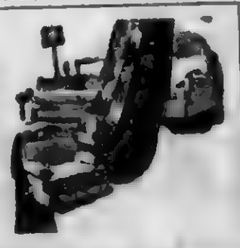
Ease, however, is the essence of such meals and the scene can soon be spoiled through lack of know-how or makeshift equipment. Huffing and puffing to make the charcoal burn, cooking in acrid smoke—these are only two of the troubles that can mar a barbecue. Insects and harsh illumination are added woes.

To insure success, families in increasing numbers are turning to modern gas barbecues that ignite instantly, imparting a rosy glow to ceramic "coals." They're ready to cook in seconds. Meat and other foods take on the heavenly flavor and appetizing appearance everyone associates with outdoor cooking. And there's no mess or fuss involved. Smoke and soot from dripping grease is consumed by the gas flame. There are never any ashes to empty or fly about. The ceramic briquets are self-cleaning and can be used over and over again.

Homeowners can choose from a variety of gas models, ranging from portable units that can be used indoors as well as out of doors, to built-in equipment permanently installed on the patio or terrace.



For cooking at night, families find the mellow glow of gas light ideal. It provides ample light for working, yet never spoils the setting because it is too bright or glaring. Instead, gas light is similar to moonlight, casting a soft, flattering glow over the scene. It actually enhances the setting and adds a touch of elegance.



Equally important, gas light doesn't attract annoying insects. Unlike filament-type lamps, gas lights create light on the yellow band of the color spectrum which in effect makes them insect-repellent. And, of course, gas lights are dependable. Sidewalks, driveways, swimming pools, patios, porches, etc., are properly lighted at all times in good weather and bad. Families are never without outdoor illumination when they need it most.

BEXLEY BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weiler, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he [illegible] situation [illegible]" if

Whitehall Candidate List Grows

Three more Democrats added their names to the Whitehall political slate recently, making the total now four. Another Whitehaller says he is considering entering the race.

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, 746 S. Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for 1963 primary election for councilman last week. Those that followed in quest of municipal posts include:

- Carl Weiffenbacher, 4151 Rickenbacher-av.
- Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and
- Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

Mason, former councilman, said he will seek nomination but has not said which race he will enter. It has been rumored that he will run for mayor.

In addition to these candidates, Henry Maxfield, husband of Elizabeth Maxfield, former councilwoman, said he was "considering" the Second Ward candidacy next May.

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

living room and utility room. The rapid growth of the Columbus area was soon to catch up with their plan for country living and today they find themselves in an attractive and well kept community of modern homes, a part of America's great Suburbia.

Growth in their community has had all the attending problems that have accompanied growth throughout America. Schools were needed, sewers were needed, zoning was needed. And, as might be expected, Mrs. Wagner has been one of the community leaders in bringing these things into being.

Naturally an active mother like Mrs. Wagner would be a member of the PTA but she admits that while there are numerous people who will always give time to affairs that concern their children in school, she has felt that not enough families devote enough time to church activities and has leaned a little more in the direction of the church.

Mrs. Wagner was nominated as Suburban Homemaker of the Year by a church friend, Laura Liston.

"We have had our troubles from time to time but have always found that keeping God a part of our family has helped." A deep sense of responsibility is further evidenced in the fact that neither of the parents smokes or drinks.

Making the most of everything is quite evident in the Wagners' lives and much of the credit for their nice home, their good times, and the good things that their family enjoy can well be attributed to her ability as a manager.

Each year they have their family garden and this summer even found time to take care of the garden and the lawn for her mother. She does a lot of canning, jelly making, freezing foods, and generally utilizing food commodities that go into the making of good meals. She even finds time to make lots of apple butter in the fall for an annual church project.

During the winter months she makes quilts and more throw rugs and many of her lamp shades carry the Wagner brand.

She loves to bowl and has an average of 152 in a housewife's league. Another pleasant afternoon is when she has an opportunity to attend an auction. And many of her antiques have been acquired from such occasions.

Art and music have provided much enjoyment for Mrs. Wagner and now she is directing her children toward a musical education. Susan is in her fourth year at the piano and Jean plays the saxophone. She has a natural ability as an artist and has been able to do some outstanding work in pencil drawing. A life-size likeness of General MacArthur is framed in one of the bedrooms. She is an avid reader, has a small library, belongs to a book club, and regularly keeps refreshed with Bible readings.

Already there are many women who are wondering where Mrs. Wagner gets the time to do all the things she does. But, the story has not all been told.

Mrs. Wagner is a registered nurse and three days one week and four days the next week from 3 to 11 p.m. each day she is the supervisor of nurses at Mercy Hospital. This extra job is not an absolute necessity but she does admit that it helps a good bit financially. Even more important is the fact that it is essenially a part of her life . . . doing things for other people.

Baby sitting with son, John, is no problem since one or the other of the grandmothers who live close by are always ready to fill in for an hour or so until father comes home from work.

Mrs. Wagner's life might well be summed up in four words . . . warmth, growth, service and love.

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Thoughts of "My Fair Lady," which closes Saturday at Vets Memorial, slipped into temporary oblivion on the eighth floor of the Broadwin Apartment Hotel Monday and were replaced by:

Descented skunks, two spinster aunts, a parakeet named "Boozie" and a bottle of imported champagne—not necessarily in that order.

It was veteran showman Hugh Dempster and his charming wife, Emma, who made the transformation from an interview about the "Fair Lady" production to an hour of rambling reminiscence.

For the record, however, some facts must be established at this point. Dempster plays the mischievous Colonel Pickering in the show and, for my money, carries the presentation.

He is, perhaps, more quickly recognized as Dr. Watson of the long-run Sherlock Holmes series on TV. But, speaking of long runs, "My Fair Lady" has been anything but a one-night stand for him.

He joined the company in Rochester in 1957 and will leave it in March of next year. The show has traveled coast to coast nine times during those years and is on the longest theater tour of this generation.

Perhaps it could have been the monotony of countless press interviews—all rehashing the same questions: "How do you feel about this play," "How has it been accepted elsewhere," that caused Dempster to depart from the ordinary this time.

The series of conversational events that ensued went something like this:

First of all, skunks were brought up in a discussion of pets. The talented Dempsters carry parakeet "Boozie" everywhere they go.

Mrs. Dempster revealed that Caroline Dixon, Eliza Doolittle in the show, had bought a poo Hugh and his wife thought that skunks were nice

"We came bloody close to buying one in Montreal," said Hugh with his pronounced English accent. "That was a close squeak, wasn't it," chimed in Emma. "Blimey," added Hugh.

A bottle of champagne from the apartment kitchen started Emma talking about her culinary prowess. She is working on a "My Fair Lady" cookbook of recipes gleaned from the many places the show has traveled. She'll work

November 30 at 10 a.m. has been set as the public hearing date on the plans for $79.6 million flood control projects by the Scioto Conservancy District.

The hearing will be held in the Columbus City Council chambers before members of Common Pleas Courts of Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto counties.

A court decision on whether the plans fulfill the prescribed requirements laid out for the SCD cannot be made until a public hearing has been held and objections heard.

RUNNERS-UP

Mother Is Nominated By Daughter

My nomination for the suburban homemaker award is Gladys Anderson. I feel she more than adequately meets all of the qualifications.

I thinks she very skillfully fulfills the basic responsibilities of any housewife. First of all, she seems to have that special knack of making almost any food taste especially good. Her meals are not exotic, but planned to be well-balanced and appealing to the appetites of her family.

I do not know what I can say about her house except that it is always clean; including parts that are not so conspicuous, such as cupboards and drawers. Her home is also very tastefully decorated and she is constantly looking for ways to improve the appearance of her home.

These, however, are attributes that every housewife should have. There are other qualities which make the woman I am nominating an outstanding homemaker.

Her own personal appearance and personality contribute greatly to her character. She is always neat and attractive in appearance as well as in manner and attitude. She is a quiet, unassuming individual. Yet she has very definite ideas on certain subjects and she works very hard to promote causes she feels are worthwhile.

She has always been a very active worker in the church. In the past she has served as secretary of the Junior Department, an officer in the Sunday School class and sung in the choir. She just finished a four year term as President of the Women's Society of World Service in the church and she is presently serving as one of the counselors in the youth department.

She belongs to a Wing, a group of women who participate in service projects directed toward Nightingale Cottage a convalescent children's home.

She is also active in the YMCA. At present she is serving as president of the Hilltop YMCA Mother's Council. At a recent money-making function of this group, I was discussing the success of the event with one of the members and she made this remark, "Gladys is so nice to work with and everyone likes her so well that they all work extra hard to make it a success for her sake." This, I thought, was a fine tribute to the type of person she is.

But above all of these things is the wonderful home atmosphere which she has been able to create. There is affection, love, and respect among all of the members of her family. I feel qualified to make this comment, for she is my mother. Her responsibility to her husband and children has always come first. I always knew that my mother would be in the first row at the piano recitals, the children's day programs, the PTA meetings, the choir concerts, or any other activities in which her children were participating.

The apex of importance, however, is the attitude that prevailed at home. I never avoided wrong because I would be severely punished. Rather, I strived toward what I thought was right because I wanted my mother to be proud of me. I loved my mother so much that I did not want to do anything to displease her. A mother who can create a love like this within her family has truly made the home what it should be, an attractive, pleasing place that is full of love. I feel that my mother is the epitome of what a homemaker should be.

Selecting America's "Suburban Homemaker of the Year" from among 53 finalists, was a serious and formidable task. Here the judges, left to right, pore over the entries in the final hours of the national judging: Dr. Marie Pfeiffer, Chairman, Women's State Committee of Ohio for Public Welfare, Health and Education; Dr. Janet Wessel, Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, Michigan State University; Judge Clayton W. Rose, President, National Council of Juvenile Court Judges; Dr. Ruth Leverton, Assistant Administrator, Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture; Mrs. Ruth Phillips, President League of Women Voters of the United States; and Chester K. Hayes, Executive Director of the Suburban Press Foundation under whose auspices the Search for the Suburban Homemaker of the Year was held.

The Award to the "National Suburban Homemaker of the Year" will be made in Chicago on Nov. 15.

RUNNERS-UP

Marianne Cox Candidate Of Her Aunt

I would like to nominate my neighbor and niece, Marianne Cox, for the role of Suburban Homemaker of the year.

Marianne and Dale Cox have been married nine years. They live at 96 Amity-rd. They have two children, John, age 7 and Jill, age 3.

This young couple act as foster parents and now are caring for three children — all under three years of age.

On Sunday morning Marianne, Dale and all five children attend the Memorial Baptist Church on Eakin-rd.

Marianne is secretary of the Alton-Hall PTA. Her son is a second grade student there. She is also busy at the present time with the Southwestern School District bond issue drive. Marianne is an officer in the local Alton Grange. All members of the family take part in some of the Grange functions.

Although she and her children are away from home many hours on outside activities, Marianne insists that she loves to stay home. Anyone can see by her home that she spends many hours on hobbies that help beautify her lovely six room home. She makes her drapes and bedspreads and has made numerous ceramics to decorate. She loves color which is apparent by her interior decorating.

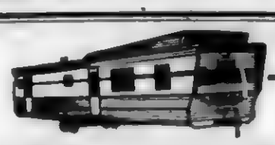
Among Marianne's hobbies is sewing. She makes most all her children's clothes and has won prizes at State and County Fairs for her very lovely work. While she works on Ceramics or sewing she always lets the children take part in the art with her.

There are many more things I could say about this very attractive, sweet and lovely homemaker but since time and paper limits me I will close for now, with the hope she will be considered for this honor which she so richly deserves.

Mrs. Mary O'Hara

SAFETY MEASURE

Some 4½ million automobiles are now equipped with safety belts, almost double the number a year ago.



Don't burn leaves. Put them to work in a compost pile to give you a better garden next year, suggest OSU Extension specialists.

AVOID LAPS

Ideally, the best way to paint the side of a house is from scaffolding so that you can paint across the entire width and thus not have any lap marks. If you are painting from a ladder, however, it is simpler to paint from the top down, covering an area as wide as you can comfortably and safely reach. Make the edge of each strip uneven so that if there are lapmarks they will not be in a straight vertical line that calls attention to them.

BEXLEY BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weller, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he feared the traffic situation [illegible] "dangerous one" if

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, 746 S. Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for 1963 primary election for councilman last week. Those that followed in quest of municipal posts include:

- Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and
- Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

FEEL LIKE A PING PONG BALL?

Don't eat this. Don't eat that. Calories. Cholesterol. Polyunsaturates. Heart disease.

The current rash of do-it-yourself diets and food fads is enough to make you feel like a ping pong ball. Bouncing from claim to claim.

Should you change your diet or not? Are these dangers real or not? Are they proved or not? Is there someone you can trust in all this?

There is. Your physician.

And the first thing he'll probably tell you is: don't change your diet unless you're sick.

And if you are sick, trust him to get you back on the right diet—not unproved food claims.

Even if he asks you to cut down on some of the products we represent, that's all right with us.

Because no one knows your individual health problems like your physician. We don't. (And other food people don't, either.) There's no such thing as a universal diet.

For good nutrition, the American Medical Association (October 12, 1962) recommends a well-balanced diet chosen from these four basic food groups: (a) The Milk group (milk, cheese, ice cream), (b) The Meat group, (c) The Vegetable-Fruit group, and (d) The Bread-Cereal group.

That's why we urge you not to endanger your health with do-it-yourself food plans or to change your diet because of widely publicized food fears—like cholesterol.

Your physician will tell you this himself. Trust him. We do.

We're people, too.

Beauty Has A Healthy Look

The glow of youth! What sort of picture does this conjure up in your mind? No doubt you will concentrate on the word "glow"—not youth—a "radiant being — fresh, vital." For youth is not an age; it's a status. We think of beautiful babies, pretty girls, lovely matrons. These are qualities all women desire, from childhood on, whether 14 or 40. They are the secrets of being attractive, admired, popular.

To glow with beauty one must also glow with health, for good health is essential to a clear, clean skin, bright eyes, a well formed figure and, not least, a wealth of energy.

So much emphasis has been given to weight problems these days that one is apt to overlook the most basic principle of looking well — to be healthy. Pills, diets and, sorriest of them all, the denials of certain foods, are sheer nonsense. Simple enjoyable living and sensible discipline can accomplish what you are seeking — to be physically fit; controlling the amount of food rather than eliminating nutritious foods.

If you question this, look to your authoritative nutrition experts who have proven that an every day routine of balanced meals is the way to health—and beauty. Keep fit—don't undermine your health — and lose your glow! Should you have a special diet problem, see your doctor.

And, lest that teenage daughter lose her glow of youth before her youth is gone, explain to her that to be pretty, popular and happy now and in the future means practicing good health habits. She'll be smart to cut down on carbonated beverages, french fries and catsup, and not forsake good milk, fruits and vegetables, especially if she wants to keep her pretty complexion and pep.

Remember, too, that health isn't all boxed up in food. Interests of mind, hobbies, recreation and rest are as important as what we eat. What is the right gauge for exercise? Activities that suit your age and physical condition—and those you enjoy. Recreation? Ways to have fun, meet and mix with people and take your mind off cares. Rest and relaxation? Sleep, taking it easy and doing the things that make you and those about you happy.

To sum it all up, the way to "glow" is to be healthy, happy, energetic and interested in life, for the glow of life is pure beauty in itself.

Whitehall Candidate List Grows

Three more Democrats added their names to the Whitehall political slate recently, making the total now four. Another Whitehaller says he is considering entering the race.

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, 746 S. Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for 1963 primary election for councilman last week. Those that followed in quest of municipal posts include:

Famous Author Is Suburban Homemaker

Ponies and children have a natural affinity and to children all over the country—indeed all over the world — the words "pony" and "Misty" are virtually synonymous. Misty, the pony of Marguerite Henry's famous book, "Misty of Chincoteague," is real to thousands of children as are all of the characters in her long list of fine books for children.

The realism in Mrs. Henry's books is not easily or quickly achieved, for she does exhaustive research, often as she says, "filling a whole suitcase with notes." But, as she continues, "While I'm writing my first draft I don't allow myself one peek. If I did, the story would have a hoppity, hoppity rabbit-like gait instead of zooming along. After the first writing I go through all my notes, adding things I have left out and checking for accuracy. Then I rewrite a manuscript five or six times."

The characters in all of Mrs. Henry's books "come alive," thus their appeal to children, the sternest realists of all. "Brighty of the Grand Canyon," another children's favorite, required two successive summers in the Grand Canyon, riding muleback up and down the walls of the canyon, over the very trails Brighty had taken.

Marguerite Henry, in private life Mrs. Sidney Henry, lives in suburban Wayne, some 40 miles from Chicago. For several years the real Misty was comfortably stabled nearby. Local children vied for the "privilege" of cleaning out Misty's stable and doing currying chores. Today, Misty is back in her native Chincoteague, where she has three times added to the colt population.

Not surprisingly, Mrs. Henry's characters become very real to her and as she says, she often begins to think and talk like those characters. As a suburban homemakes, Mrs. Henry feels that the recognition being paid homemakers through the current search for the "Suburban Homemaker of the Year" is one which is richly deserved and that the emphasis being put upon strong values in family living is a much needed emphasis.

In the vernacular of Grandpa Beebe in "Misty of Chincoteague" she says, "Beauty contests are fine, fer as they go, but beauties 're like water bugs skittering atop the water. Homemakers now, they go deep down and bring up the heart of the family."

Timely Tips On Cleaning

Baking soda added to your cleaning water for wipe-up jobs will speed cleaning time and prevent musty odors in refrigerators, sinks and ovens.

Sponges, cloths, or stainless steel wool are recommended for cleaning stainless steel appliances. Avoid common metal scouring pads, scrapers, and wire brushes.

If you use chlorine bleach, do not let clothes soak overnight in a stainless steel sink. Rinse out the sink immediately after use.

Two steps make cleaning stainless steel oven and range hoods easier:

(1) wipe off excess grease with a paper towel.

(2) wash with soap or detergent and hot water.

To remove baked-on grease on stainless stoves, hoods and ovens, use a paste made of water, ammonia, and mild abrasive cleaner.

If you have exposed your oven face to high heat for a sustained period by leaving the oven door open, you may find a slight heat discoloration. This "heat tint" can be removed with special liquid cleaners.

DEMPSTER & CO.

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Thoughts of "My Fair Lady," which closes Saturday at Vets Memorial, slipped into temporary oblivion on the eighth floor of the Broadwin Apartment Hotel Monday and were replaced by:

Descented skunks, two spinster aunts, a parakeet named "Boozie" and a bottle of imported champagne—not necessarily in that order.

It was veteran showman Hugh Dempster and his charming wife, Emma, who made the transformation from an interview about the "Fair Lady" production to an hour of rambling reminiscence.

For the record, however, some facts must be established at this point. Dempster plays the mischievous Colonel Pickering in the show and, for my money, carries the presentation.

He is, perhaps, more quickly recognized as Dr. Watson of the long-run Sherlock Holmes series on TV. But, speaking of long runs, "My Fair Lady" has been anything but a one-night stand for him.

He joined the company in Rochester in 1957 and will leave it in March of next year. The show has traveled coast to coast nine times during those years and is on the longest theater tour of this generation.

Perhaps it could have been the monotony of countless press interviews—all rehashing the same questions: "How do you feel about this play," "How has it been accepted elsewhere," that caused Dempster to depart from the ordinary this time.

The series of conversational events that ensued went something like this:

First of all, skunks were brought up in a discussion of pets. The talented Dempsters carry parakeet "Booz erywhere they go.

Mrs. Dempster revealed that Caroline Dixon, Eliza Doolittle in the show, had bought a poo Hugh and his wife thought that skunks were nice

"We came bloody close to buying one in Montreal," said Hugh with his pronounced English accent. "That was a close squeak, wasn't it," chimed in Emma. "Blimey," added Hugh.

A bottle of champagne from the apartment kitchen started Emma talking about her culinary prowess. She is working on a "My Fair Lady" cookbook of recipes gleaned from the many places the show has traveled. She'll work

SCD Plans To Be Heard On Nov. 30

November 30 at 10 a.m. has been set as the public hearing date on the plans for $79.6 million flood control projects by the Scioto Conservancy District.

The hearing will be held in the Columbus City Council chambers before members of Common Pleas Courts of Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto counties.

A court decision on whether the plans fulfill the prescribed requirements laid out for the SCD cannot be made until a public hearing has been held and objections heard.

If the court approves the 11-part plan, the district trustees will proceed with appraisal of benefits and damages to property involved.

After appraisal another hearing must be held to consider financing and appraisal costs.

RUNNERS-UP

Mrs. Evans Is Lauded

I nominate Mrs. Jesse Evans as a candidate for Suburban Homemaker of the year. She lives at 1460 Hart-dr, Reynoldsburg. Mrs. Evans graduated from Reynoldsburg High School and has lived all her married life on the same farm land area, now a part of Huber Homes area.

Mrs. Evans is a fine Christian woman, a generous warm hearted mother and a kind and most helpful friend. She is devoted to their church, she has taught a class; for many years, led the Hetty Evans Missionary Circle for young girls and gave them a greater vision. She gave of her voice in the music. Mrs. Evans was chairman of the nominating committee of the Columbus Presbyterial and served as president of the Xenia Presbyterial. They have been in regular attendance at 2nd Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Evans has taken an interested part in community affairs in addition to church related activities. She was a charter member of Reynoldsburg Civic Club in 1922. Mrs. Evans "sparked" a kindergarten in the days when the idea was new for towns. The Civic Club sponsored and financed this private kindergarten venture.

Mrs. Evans used to sing beautifully. She sang on one of the early radio stations.

Through the unswerving efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Evans the four children, 3 sons and a daughter, were graduated from college and prepared for responsible positions. These educations represent saving, working and scrimping on the part of the children, too.

Mrs. Evans says "The children's characters were developed by this struggle to have the educations".

The oldest son James is an insurance salesman in Pensacola, Fla. Evan is with a book concern in Bloomington, Ill. They are both Tarkio College graduates. Gillette has a degree from Monmouth and teaches music at Taylor University, Upland, Ind., Joann lives on a farm in Indiana. She is a Muskingum College graduate.

Thru the years as a homemaker, Mrs. Evans managed well — many of the years were hard lean years — depression years. The family had a roadside market selling produce from farm and garden and apple butter, pickles and culinary products. These experiences as related by Mrs. Evans would make a good book!

The family had fun in the home, with music, the family car, the dog, the many friends and families who were visitors at the home. Picnics, camp trips, 4-H clubs, were all made possible for family.

Mrs. Evans looked always to the health and well being of herself and the family. Home nursing, medical attention, necessary surgery, hospitalization were all met with proper balance.

Mrs. Evans' diet problem was a challenge and was met without faltering. Health was a challenge.

Mrs. Evans gave of herself and does still for her friends and family in time of need, distress, in trouble or happiness, too. She is an excellent cook, and shares her products.

Mrs. Evans is always neat and tidy, has a special knack in home decorating. She is well groomed and her goodness shines from her.

Mrs. Evans represents a homemaker who sees the results of homemaking as thru good years and bad ones she has seen the children and family grow in stature and faith, and the world change.

She enjoys these young families and those of her young neighborhood where she lives.

All the friends of Mrs Evans are warmed by her kindness and inspired by her Christian Faith. She has helped and befriended, she has given counsel, and has led many to greater heights.

I recommend Mrs. Jesse Evans.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

Mason, former councilman, said he will seek nomination but has not said which race he will enter. It has been rumored that he will run for mayor.

In addition to these candidates, Henry Maxfield, husband of Elizabeth Maxfield, former councilwoman, said he was "considering" the Second Ward candidacy next May.

DEMPSTER & CO.

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Thoughts of "My Fair Lady," which closes Saturday at Vets Memorial, slipped into temporary oblivion on the eighth floor of the Broadwin Apartment Hotel Monday and were replaced by:

Deceased skunks, two spinster aunts, a parakeet named "Boozie" and a bottle of imported champagne—not necessarily in that order.

It was veteran showman Hugh Dempster and his charming wife, Emma, who made the transformation from an interview about the "Fair Lady" production to an hour of rambling reminiscence.

For the record, however, some facts must be established at this point. Dempster plays the mischievous Colonel Pickering in the show and, for my money, carries the presentation.

He is, perhaps, more quickly recognized as Dr. Watson of the long-run Sherlock Holmes series on TV. But, speaking of long runs, "My Fair Lady" has been anything but a one-night stand for him.

He joined the company in Rochester in 1957 and will leave it in March of next year. The show has traveled coast to coast nine times during those years and is on the longest theater tour of this generation.

Perhaps it could have been the monotony of countless press interviews—all rehashing the same questions: "How do you feel about this play," "How has it been accepted elsewhere," that caused Dempster to depart from the ordinary this time.

The series of conversational events that ensued went something like this:

First of all, skunks were brought up in a discussion of pets. The talented Dempsters carry parakeet "Boozie" everywhere they go.

Mrs. Dempster revealed that Caroline Dixon, who is Eliza Doolittle in the show, had bought a pooch. Hugh and his wife thought that skunks were nice

"We came bloody close to buying one in Montreal," said Hugh with his pronounced English accent. "That was a close squeak, wasn't it," chimed in Emma. "Blimey," added Hugh.

A bottle of champagne from the apartment kitchen started Emma talking about her culinary prowess. She is working on a "My Fair Lady" cookbook of recipes gleaned from the many places the show has traveled. She'll work

SCD Plans To Be Heard On Nov. 30

November 30 at 10 a.m. has been set as the public hearing date on the plans for $79.6 million flood control projects by the Scioto Conservancy District.

The hearing will be held in the Columbus City Council chambers before members of Common Pleas Courts of Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto counties.

A court decision on whether the plans fulfill the prescribed requirements laid out for the SCD cannot be made until a public hearing has been held and objections heard.

If the court approves the 11-part plan, the district trustees will proceed with appraisal of benefits and damages to property involved.

After appraisal another hearing must be held to consider financing and appraisal costs.

Homemakers Give Favorite Recipes

Every successful homemaker has a favorite recipe. Hartley Newspapers staff members in interviewing local winners in the Suburban Homemaker Contest asked the privilege of passing on to our readers these favorite recipes with a little comment on each:—

Chop Suey Says Midge McKinley

Mrs. Midge McKinley, 835 S. Enfield, says her big family calls this Chop Suey a big treat:

½ lb. cubed pork, ½-inch size
½ lb. cubed veal, ½-inch size
floured lightly and cooked 15 minutes in 2 T butter.
Then cook (covered) for 20 minutes:
1 teaspoon salt
2 Berumda onions, sliced
3 cups celery, diced
No. 2 can Chop Suey vegetables
2 oz. can mushrooms
¼ cup coarse green pepper

Heat gently 2 teaspoons soy sauce, 1 teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Blend 3 T. water and ½ T. cornstarch. Gradually add to mixture. Heat to boiling. Serve over rice and Chinese noodles.

It's Caramel Pie For Mrs. Tallman

Mrs. June Tallman, 3306 Stephen Dr. S., has had many requests for her recipe for Caramel Party Pie:

½ lb. (28) vanilla caramels
1 cup milk
⅛ tsp. salt
1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water

Melt caramels in milk over low heat, stirring constantly. Add salt. Soften gelatin in cold water, add to caramels; stir to dissolve. Pour into 2 qt. mixing bowl and chill until partially set (about one hour). Then fold in:

1 cup heavy cream, whipped
½ cup ground pecans
¼ cup minced green maraschino cherries (wash with cold water and dry before mincing)
1 teaspoon vanilla

Fill pie shell and trim with 8 pecan halves and 2 green cherries, quartered. Chill till firm. Serves 6 or 8.

Mrs. Tallman thinks Nutty Pie Crust is an excellent companion to her recipe for Party Pie:

1 cup and 2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons ground pecans
⅓ cup shortening
2 tablespoons water

Sift flour and salt together, add ground pecans, stir lightly. Add shortening, water, mix lightly with a fork and shape dough into ball. Roll between two sheets of waxed paper. Bake at 450 degrees, 12-15 minutes or until golden. Cool before filling.

Mrs. Heckner Has 'An Investment'

Mrs. Beth Heckner, 161 Topsfield-rd, when asked for her favorite recipe, produced a whole book full. This is her special. She calls it "an investment, but a treat."

BOUILLABAISE

Lobster, 1 medium or 1 can (about 1 cup)
Shrimp, 1 lb.
Haddock, eel or whiting, 1½ lbs.
Onion, sliced, 1½ cups
Garlic, finely chopped, 2 cloves
Tomatoes, stewed or canned, 2½ cups
Thyme, ½ tsp.
Parsley, chopped, 1 sprig
Bay leaf, 2
Saffron, ¼ tsp. (optional)
Orange rind, 1 strip
Salt, 2 or 3 tsp.
Peppercorns, 2
Boiling water or fish stock, 1 qt.
Boiled rice, about 4 cups

If fresh lobster is used, cook and remove from shell. Shell and clean shrimp. Reserve shells and boil for stock. Strain stock and cool. Cut haddock or other fish in 1½ inch cubes. Heat oil; add lobster meat, shrimp, fish, onions and garlic. Simmer about 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and simmer over low heat about 30 minutes. Serve over rice. Makes 6 or 8 servings. For the gourmet, add 2 or 3 dashes of tabasco sauce to the recipe after cooking.

Since 1954 substantial quantities of surplus foods have been sent to many countries overseas through the Food for Peace program.

Mrs. Wagner Likes 'Excellency' Cookies

Mrs. Emma Wagner, 2869 Bulen-av, selected as a representative of the South and Southeast areas served by Hartley Newspapers, has submitted her recipe for her "Excellency" cookies.

She states their family doctor has asked that she enter it in national baking contests. She frequently bakes them for church bazaars and one lady who made a purchase one year liked them so well that she insisted that Mrs. Wagner bake several batches of them each week for her for an entire year. Her recipe follows:

1 cup vegetable shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons nutmeg
5 cups flour
1 cup milk
Icing
1 box confectioner's sugar
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ cup butter

Combine sugars and shortening, mix on medium speed until fluffy and light. Add eggs. Sift flour and measure. Then add all other dry ingredients with flour. Add to sugar mixture alternately with milk. Add vanilla. Dough will be sticky. Flour the board generously, turn out about one-third of dough at a time. Roll to about one-fourth to one-half inch thick. Flour cookie cutter well and cut. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 325 degrees for about eight or 10 minutes. Watch closely and DO NOT LET THEM GET BROWN. Cookies are done when they lose their glossy look. Remove from oven and frost with icing.

Of a 1,000 pound steer, about 450 pounds end up as beef on the retail counter. The other 550 pounds are hide, liver, heart, fat, bone and waste.

Last year 530 Ohioans died as the result of injuries sustained in falls. Most of these accidents occurred in the home, according to OSU Extension specialists.

LOT OF HONEY

Honey production in the U.S. this year is estimated at 274.8 million pounds. This is about two per cent under 1961 but 30 per cent above the 1956-60 average. Ohio's production was more than 10 million pounds.

BEXLEY BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weiler, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he feared the traffic situation would be "a dangerous one" if

Whitehall Candidate List Grows

Three more Democrats added their names to the Whitehall political slate recently, making the total now four. Another Whitehaller says he is considering entering the race.

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, 746 S. Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for 1963 primary election for councilman last week. Those that followed in quest of municipal posts include:

- Carl Weiffenbacher, 4151 Rickenbacher-av.
- Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and
- Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

Mason, former councilman, said he will seek nomination but has not said which race he will enter. It has been rumored that he will run for mayor.

In addition to these candidates, Henry Maxfield, husband of Elizabeth Maxfield, former councilwoman, said he was "considering" the Second Ward candidacy next May.

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Thoughts of "My Fair Lady," which closes Saturday at Vets Memorial, slipped into temporary oblivion on the eighth floor of the Broadwin Apartment Hotel Monday and were replaced by:

Descented skunks, two spinster aunts, a parakeet named "Boozie" and a bottle of imported champagne—not necessarily in that order.

It was veteran showman Hugh Dempster and his charming wife, Emma, who made the transformation from an interview about the "Fair Lady" production to an hour of rambling reminiscence.

For the record, however, some facts must be established at this point. Dempster plays the mischievous Colonel Pickering in the show and, for my money, carries the presentation.

He is, perhaps, more quickly recognized as Dr. Watson of the long-run Sheriock Holmes series on TV. But, speaking of long runs, "My Fair Lady" has been anything but a one-night stand for him.

He joined the company in Rochester in 1957 and will leave it in March of next year. The show has traveled coast to coast nine times during those years and is on the longest theater tour of this generation.

Perhaps it could have been the monotony of countless press interviews—all rehashing the same questions: "How do you feel about this play," "How has it been accepted elsewhere," that caused Dempster to depart from the ordinary this time.

The series of conversational events that ensued went something like this:

First of all, skunks were brought up in a discussion of pets. The talented Dempsters carry parakeet "Boozie" everywhere they go.

Mrs. Dempster revealed that Caroline Dixon, who plays Eliza Doolittle in the show, had bought a pet skunk. Hugh and his wife thought that skunks were nice

"We came bloody close to buying one in Montreal," said Hugh with his pronounced English accent. "That was a close squeak, wasn't it," chimed in Emma. "Blimey," added Hugh.

A bottle of champagne from the apartment kitchen started Emma talking about her culinary prowess. She is working on a "My Fair Lady" cookbook of recipes gleaned from the many places the show has traveled. She'll speak

November 30 at 10 a.m. has been set as the public hearing date on the plans for $79.6 million flood control projects by the Scioto Conservancy District.

The hearing will be held in the Columbus City Council chambers before members of Common Pleas Courts of Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto counties.

A court decision on whether the plans fulfill the prescribed requirements laid out for the SCD cannot be made until a public hearing has been held and objections heard.

RUNNERS-UP

Youngsters Suggest Mom Mrs. Healy

My name is Michael Healy age 15. I have a sister Mary Margaret Healy, age 8. We both attend W. Jefferson School. We would like to nominate our mother, Mrs. Agnie 'Meats' Healy not only as a "Suburban Homemaker" but also "Queen and wonderful Mother" not only to my sister and I, but to everyone that knows her.

I'm not much in writing about people, but I want everyone to know my mother and a wonderful friend to everyone regardless of Religion or Race.

I call mom "Meats" for she's a person that enjoys laughing and can take a joke. I've never really seen mom mad, always a smile for everyone, regardless of how bad she feels, and the heartaches that she's had. After you read about my mom, perhaps you'll feel the same.

The reason Mary Margarent and I would like to nominate our mother is:

Mom, 8 years ago had to go to work on account of our dad being ill. He was in the second war and was wounded and also was a Diabetic, every year dad would have to go to Veterans Hospital in Dayton. They bought this house, and bills coming in, so mom got a job at Columbus State School, she worked days then.

Two years ago, dad passed away, Mar. 20, 1960, poor mom, she would work all day then drive to Dayton to see dad, and that was everyday through ice and snow, but she never regrets it I know, and always a big smile, never complained.

After dads death, mom couldn't quit her job, so she did the next best thing, went on the night shift,working from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m., all this, for my sister and I.

We have a wonderful neighbor and Mary Margaret and I sleep at their house, for we're too young to stay alone at night.

Mom takes us even if it is just around the corner, and sees that we are there safe, then she takes off for her work, which by the way, she enjoys very much working with the retarded children.

Mom gets home at 7:30 a.m. we come running home, she gets our breakfast and gets us off to school, then she gets the things done that has to be done, like, washing, ironing, etc. She goes to bed, and she is usually up, when school is out, has our supper ready, etc., besides all this, she belongs to several clubs, PTO and always sees that we have plenty to eat.

We all three every Sunday morning, go to 8 o'clock Mass, of St. Simon and Jude Church.

Now football season is on and every Friday night, Mom comes to watch us play, regardless of where we're playing. Mom wears her uniform, but has to leave early usually the second quarter, on account of having to be to work at 11 p.m.

There is so many nice things I could write about the most "Wonderful Mother" in this world, and never a day goes by, that Sis and I don't thank God for giving us such a wonderful mother.

Most Sincerely
Michael Joseph Healy

Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weller, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he feared the traffic situation would be "a dangerous one" if

New Telephone Dialing

NEW OHIO BELL PRODUCTS that will be offered here November 1 are Card Dialer (right), a telephone that automatically dials any number from pre-punched plastic cards, and Rapidial (left), an accessory to a conventional phone capable of "memorizing" on tape 290 numbers.

Two new Ohio Bell products, called Rapidial and Card Dialer, that offer greater ease and efficiency in placing telephone calls were made available here Nov. 1.

Both operate with pre-recorded telephone numbers that are dialed automatically. The new products are designed primarily for use in business and industry.

Persons who make many calls or call the same numbers frequently will have the greatest use for the phones, because both models eliminate the hand dialing operation and speed the mechanics of phoning. Local, long distance and internal calls can be placed with either model.

Similar in concept and available in four colors, the two new phones serve slightly different needs. The Card Dialer, a telephone with an automatic dialing mechanism built into it, can be used to reach any number that has been previously punched out on a coded plastic card which is inserted into the phone. It will accommodate any number of cards and is especially useful in calling groups of individuals regularly.

Rapidial is an accesory to a regular telephone. It has a capacity of 290 names and numbers which can be easily changed on magnetic tape by the user. Telephone numbers are automatically dialed by turning the instrument's selector knob to the desired name, lifting the receiver and pressing the start bar.

Today's Roses Brighter

What ever has gotten into our rose hybridizers both here and abroad? Some of the livest colors ever known in roses are being produced these days. They can be strikingly vivid in gardens, sometimes even hot and sassy, though they all look lovely, like a well-polished woman, whether in gardens or alone as specimen plants.

Flame-colored roses add life to the home property. There's nothing quite like a bed of roses of these vivid colors everyone of which stands out like a Spanish dancer, full of fire and allure. Many of the shades are flaming or reddish-orange but the live colors burst out all over from the bright punks, reds to the warm yellows. The rose hybridizers must have a renewed alliance with Mother Nature to have turned out all these wonderful colors we find this year.

Actually it takes about 10 years or more to develop a new rose and have it ready in quantities for the market. Maybe the new nail polishes gave hybridizers the ideas, though new rose colors are far harder to come by.

RUNNERS-UP

Youngsters Suggest Mom Mrs. Healy

My name is Michael Healy age 15. I have a sister Mary Margaret Healy, age 8. We both attend W. Jefferson School. We would like to nominate our mother, Mrs. Agnie 'Meats' Healy not only as a "Suburban Homemaker" but also "Queen and wonderful Mother" not only to my sister and I, but to everyone that knows her.

I'm not much in writing about people, but I want everyone to know my mother and a wonderful friend to everyone regardless of Religion or Race.

I call mom "Meats" for she's a person that enjoys laughing and can take a joke. I've never really seen mom mad, always a smile for everyone, regardless of how bad she feels, and the heartaches that she's had. After you read about my mom, perhaps you'll feel the same.

The reason Mary Margarent and I would like to nominate our mother is:

Mom, 8 years ago had to go to work on account of our dad being ill. He was in the second war and was wounded and also was a Diabetic, every year dad would have to go to Veterans Hospital in Dayton. They bought this house, and bills coming in, so mom got a job at Columbus State School, she worked days then.

Two years ago, dad passed away, Mar. 20, 1960, poor mom, she would work all day then drive to Dayton to see dad, and that was everyday through ice and snow, but she never regrets it I know, and always a big smile, never complained.

After dads death, mom couldn't quit her job, so she did the next best thing, went on the night shift,working from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m., all this, for my sister and I.

We have a wonderful neighbor and Mary Margaret and I sleep at their house, for we're too young to stay alone at night.

Mom takes us even if it is just around the corner, and sees that we are there safe, then she takes off for her work, which by the way, she enjoys very much working with the retarded children.

Mom gets home at 7:30 a.m. we come running home, she gets our breakfast and gets us off to school, then she gets the things done that has to be done, like, washing, ironing, etc. She goes to bed, and she is usually up, when school is out, has our supper ready, etc., besides all this, she belongs to several clubs, PTO and always sees that we have plenty to eat.

We all three every Sunday morning, go to 8 o'clock Mass, of St. Simon and Jude Church.

Now football season is on and every Friday night, Mom comes to watch us play, regardless of where we're playing. Mom wears her uniform, but has to leave early usually the second quarter, on account of having to be to work at 11 p.m.

There is so many nice things I could write about the most "Wonderful Mother" in this world, and never a day goes by, that Sis and I don't thank God for giving us such a wonderful mother.

Most Sincerely
Michael Joseph Healy

BEXLEY BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weiler, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he feared the traffic situation would be "a dangerous one" if

Whitehall Candidate List Grows

Three more Democrats added their names to the Whitehall political slate recently, making the total now four. Another Whitehaller says he is considering entering the race.

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, 746 S. Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for 1963 primary election for councilman last week. Those that followed in quest of municipal posts include:

- Carl Weiffenbacher, 4151 Rickenbacher-av.
- Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and
- Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

Mason, former councilman, said he will seek nomination but has not said which race he will enter. It has been rumored that he will run for mayor.

In addition to these candidates, Henry Maxfield, husband of Elizabeth Maxfield, former councilwoman, said he was "considering" the Second Ward candidacy next May.

New Telephone Dialing

NEW OHIO BELL PRODUCTS that will be offered here November 1 are Card Dialer (right), a telephone that automatically dials any number from pre-punched plastic cards, and Rapidial (left), an accessory to a conventional phone capable of "memorizing" on tape 290 numbers.

Two new Ohio Bell products, called Rapidial and Card Dialer, that offer greater ease and efficiency in placing telephone calls were made available here Nov. 1.

Both operate with pre-recorded telephone numbers that are dialed automatically. The new products are designed primarily for use in business and industry.

Persons who make many calls or call the same numbers frequently will have the greatest use for the phones, because both models eliminate the hand dialing operation and speed the mechanics of phoning. Local, long distance and internal calls can be placed with either model.

Similar in concept and available in four colors, the two new phones serve slightly different needs. The Card Dialer, a telephone with an automatic dialing mechanism built into it, can be used to reach any number that has been previously punched out on a coded plastic card which is inserted into the phone. It will accommodate any number of cards and is especially useful in calling groups of individuals regularly.

Rapidial is an accesory to a regular telephone. It has a capacity of 290 names and numbers which can be easily changed on magnetic tape by the user. Telephone numbers are automatically dialed by turning the instrument's selector knob to the desired name, lifting the receiver and pressing the start bar.

Today's Roses Brighter

What ever has gotten into our rose hybridizers both here and abroad? Some of the livest colors ever known in roses are being produced these days. They can be strikingly vivid in gardens, sometimes even hot and sassy, though they all look lovely, like a well-polished woman, whether in gardens or alone as specimen plants.

Flame-colored roses add life to the home property. There's nothing quite like a bed of roses of these vivid colors everyone of which stands out like a Spanish dancer, full of fire and allure. Many of the shades are flaming or reddish-orange but the live colors burst out all over from the bright pinks, reds to the warm yellows. The rose hybridizers must have a renewed alliance with Mother Nature to have turned out all these wonderful colors we find this year.

Actually it takes about 10 years or more to develop a new rose and have it ready in quantities for the market. Maybe the new nail polishes gave hybridizers the ideas, though new rose colors are far harder to come by.

DEMPSTER & CO.

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Thoughts of "My Fair Lady," which closes Saturday at Vets Memorial, slipped into temporary oblivion on the eighth floor of the Broadwin Apartment Hotel Monday and were replaced by:

Descented skunks, two spinster aunts, a parakeet named "Boozie" and a bottle of imported champagne—not necessarily in that order.

It was veteran showman Hugh Dempster and his charming wife, Emma, who made the transformation from an interview about the "Fair Lady" production to an hour of rambling reminiscence.

For the record, however, some facts must be established at this point. Dempster plays the mischievous Colonel Pickering in the show and, for my money, carries the presentation.

He is, perhaps, more quickly recognized as Dr. Watson of the long-run Sherlock Holmes series on TV. But, speaking of long runs, "My Fair Lady" has been anything but a one-night stand for him.

He joined the company in Rochester in 1957 and will leave it in March of next year. The show has traveled coast to coast nine times during those years and is on the longest theater tour of this generation.

Perhaps it could have been the monotony of countless press interviews—all rehashing the same questions: "How do you feel about this play," "How has it been accepted elsewhere," that caused Dempster to depart from the ordinary this time.

The series of conversational events that ensued went something like this:

First of all, skunks were brought up in a discussion of pets. The talented Dempsters carry parakeet "Boozie" everywhere they go.

Mrs. Dempster revealed that Caroline Dixon, who plays Eliza Doolittle in the show, had bought a pet skunk. Hugh and his wife thought that skunks were ni[ce]

"We came bloody close to buying one in Montreal," said Hugh with his pronounced English accent. "That was a close squeak, wasn't it," chimed in Emma. "Blimey," added Hugh.

A bottle of champagne from the apartment kitchen started Emma talking about her culinary prowess. She is working on a "My Fair Lady" cookbook of recipes gleaned from the many places the show has traveled. She'll work

SCD Plans To Be Heard On Nov. 30

November 30 at 10 a.m. has been set as the public hearing date on the plans for $79.6 million flood control projects by the Scioto Conservancy District.

The hearing will be held in the Columbus City Council chambers before members of Common Pleas Courts of Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto counties.

A court decision on whether the plans fulfill the prescribed requirements laid out for the SCD cannot be made until a public hearing has been held and objections heard.

If the court approves the 11-part plan, the district trustees will proceed with appraisal of benefits and damages to property involved.

After appraisal another hearing must be held to consider financing and appraisal costs.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Method Of Freeze Drying Foods Explained

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Apples, grapefruit, Emperor grapes, juice oranges, cranberries.

Vegetables— Potatoes, cauliflower, broccoli, turnips, leafy greens.

Other Foods — Frozen orange concentrate, canned fruits, vegetables and ice cream.

No doubt you've been hearing a lot about freeze-dried foods lately. One reason for all the commotion lies in the fact that Columbus has been selected as a test market, by a large meat packer, for four complete dinner casseroles containing freeze-dried meats. If the market test on these products proves successful, freeze-dried foods probably will take their place on the grocery shelf in supermarkets over a wider area.

Mrs. Franks

What is freeze-drying, anyway? When you open one of the new packages now available you'll know something has happened to the meat. The pieces are dry, crisp and light as a feather. Here's what happened:

Any food that is freeze-dried is first frozen, then slowly dehydrated under vacuum until practically all the moisture is removed. This causes ice to vaporize leaving the product porous and in its original shape —with the tissue and fiber essentially unchanged. When water is added, the food quickly regains its original weight, flavor and texture. Reports indicate there is little or no change in nutritive value or palatability.

This process is by no means new. It has been used for several years in the field of medicine, and is essentially the same process that is used to preserve blood plasma.

A fact worth noting is that freeze-drying, like any other process of food preservation, is no better than the quality of the product at the beginning. Therefore, much of the responsibility for putting a high quality product on the table of consumers continues to rest with the farmer.

However, the possibility of a high quality product reaching your table may be greater with freeze-drying than with frozen foods. This is because frozen foods must be kept at 0 degrees F., or below, to maintain quality. Because of the complexity of our marketing system, frozen foods are handled by many people before they get to the consumer, and the chance of their losing quality along the way is a possibility.

Freeze-dried foods need no refrigeration. However, there is not sufficient data, at present, to indicate the extent of their shelf life. They must be in the proper package—it must not absorb any moisture. Once the seal is broken, the food begins to lose quality unless used immediately.

Next week we will discuss some of the pros and cons of freeze-dried foods and the implications on our marketing system.

RUNNERS-UP

Husband Has Fine Letter About Wife

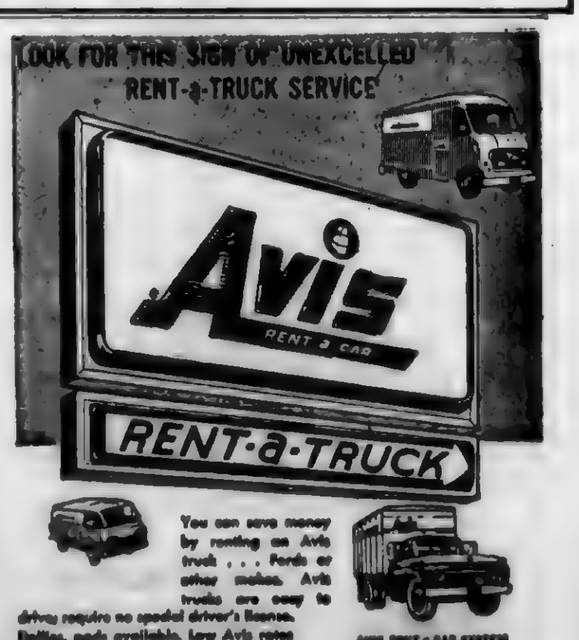
To hear our nominee "yell" at the childrer (and me) at various times makes one wonder if this is the person that should be nominated for this award, but this particular homemaker does get mad and does voice her opinion, but she also has kind words, kisses and deeds at the right time to balance out these gentle outbursts.

Her taste and grooming has developed increasingly thru our married life and though she is not one to get "hep" on TV and diet exercises, she seems to keep trim and healthy by housework and by picking up after three children (and her husband). She finds time to take our children to choir practice and there have been many errands of meals to friends in time of need and time is always found for prayers at meals and at bedtime.

Our neighbors and friends know of her as a good seamstress and she is always willing to alter whatever needs to be. Thru her continued interest in Church she has become increasingly active in the many functions of Church life and she is now studying the spread of communism in East Asia and the Church's position. She is also active in PTA, president of the Hillcrest Child Conversation League and has served on many door to door charity drives. She has currently set-up and is in charge of non-professional people working on "Sabin on Sunday" at Franklin Heights School.

She is much better in managing our finances than I thru her resourcefulness and she thinks the best things in life are free (or close to it) and she has seen to it that our budget allows for a family swimming ticket in the summer and there was even a camping trip this past summer, the story too long and humorous to tell in this letter, but we will say it lasted only one day and one night.

It would be foolish to say our home is always neat with three children and a husband, but the appearance upon entering is one of a lived in home, always clean and showing ability our nominee has in making drapes and wall decorations. It has been mentioned by friends that they have never eaten anything prepared by our nominee that wasn't good and she has prepared menus to serve 5 to 300.



Her sewing ability has been an asset as she has made all her own dresses and has made numerous dresses for our girls. Our nominee has many and varied abilities from winning 1st prize in a CCL contest of table decorations to doing yard work and I would say that she has no special hobbies except that of helping and doing for her family and for someone else. It is for the reasons as briefly stated that we nominate Mrs. Robert (Doris) Wilson, Mother, Wife; our Suburban Homemaker of the Year.

BEXLEY BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weiler, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he feared the traffic situation [illegible] if

Whitehall Candidate List Grows

Three more Democrats added their names to the Whitehall political slate recently, making the total now four. Another Whitehaller says he is considering entering the race.

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, 746 S. Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for 1963 primary election for councilman last week. Those that followed in quest of municipal posts include:

- Carl Weiffenbacher, 4151 Rickenbacher-av.
- Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and
- Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

Mason, former councilman, said he will seek nomination but has not said which race he will enter. It has been rumored that he will run for mayor.

In addition to these candidates, Henry Maxfield, husband of Elizabeth Maxfield, former councilwoman, said he was "considering" the Second Ward candidacy next May.

DEMPSTER & CO.

Those Englishmen Are Bloody Good Conversationalists

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Amusement Editor

Thoughts of "My Fair Lady," which closes Saturday at Vets Memorial, slipped into temporary oblivion on the eighth floor of the Broadwin Apartment Hotel Monday and were replaced by:

Descented skunks, two spinster aunts, a parakeet named "Boozie" and a bottle of imported champagne—not necessarily in that order.

It was veteran showman Hugh Dempster and his charming wife, Emma, who made the transformation from an interview about the "Fair Lady" production to an hour of rambling reminiscence.

For the record, however, some facts must be established at this point. Dempster plays the mischievous Colonel Pickering in the show and, for my money, carries the presentation.

He is, perhaps, more quickly recognized as Dr. Watson of the long-run Sherlock Holmes series on TV. But, speaking of long runs, "My Fair Lady" has been anything but a one-night stand for him.

He joined the company in Rochester in 1957 and will leave it in March of next year. The show has traveled coast to coast nine times during those years and is on the longest theater tour of this generation.

Perhaps it could have been the monotony of countless press interviews—all rehashing the same questions: "How do you feel about this play," "How has it been accepted elsewhere," that caused Dempster to depart from the ordinary this time.

The series of conversational events that ensued went something like this:

First of all, skunks were brought up in a discussion of pets. The talented Dempsters carry parakeet "Boozie" everywhere they go.

Mrs. Dempster revealed that Caroline Dixon, Eliza Doolittle in the show, had bought a p... Hugh and his wife thought that skunks were ni...

"We came bloody close to buying one in Montreal," said Hugh with his pronounced English accent. "That was a close squeak, wasn't it," chimed in Emma. "Blimey," added Hugh.

A bottle of champagne from the apartment kitchen started Emma talking about her culinary prowess. She is working on a "My Fair Lady" cookbook of recipes gleaned from ... the show has traveled. She'll mark...

SCD Plans To Be Heard On Nov. 30

November 30 at 10 a.m. has been set as the public hearing date on the plans for $79.6 million flood control projects by the Scioto Conservancy District.

The hearing will be held in the Columbus City Council chambers before members of Common Pleas Courts of Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto counties.

A court decision on whether the plans fulfill the prescribed requirements laid out for the SCD cannot be made until a public hearing has been held and objections heard.

If the court approves the 11-part plan, the district trustees will proceed with appraisal of benefits and damages to property involved.

After appraisal another hearing must be held to consider financing and appraisal costs.

SUNDAY SALES ACTION LAGS

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

The Greater Columbus Sunday Association thought it had won a battle at the polls Nov. 6 but it looks like it had better not take off its boxing gloves.

City officials are climbing in the ring with the association officials in the greater Columbus area and, at present, there seems to be a few long, hard rounds left in the fight.

Voters Nov. 6, by a 3-2 margin, defeated a Sunday Sales amendment which would allow certain items to be sold on Sunday. Actually, citizens weren't voting on stricter enforcement of the present law prohibiting Sunday sales, but many interpret the voters' mandate as an indication that they'd like such enforcement.

As it appears now, it's going to be a long wait.

The mayor of Mansfield recently took swift action and closed down all stores operating on Sunday. Many Colum-

Curiosity May Kill Us

In our efforts to learn everything to be learned we are finding some costly studies are being made at a cost to taxpayers today. For example, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, has come up with the following list of studies being made by the National Institute of Health:

Empirical tests of a theory of inter-personal behavior $17,250

Studies of silent thinking $26,565

Behavioral and physiological concomitants of dreaming $20,700

The social role of the aging wild ungulate* (This is a bargain) only $8,205

The ontogeny (not phylogeny, mind you) of English structure (cheap!) $2,100

A stereotactic atlas of the beagle brain (You love dogs, don't you?) $9,775

Blood groups genetics of Southampton Island Eskimos (Do you know where that is?) $11,500

Further, says The News, the Senator reports that the Alliance of Progress has OK'd $280,000 for a soccer club in Rio de Janeiro. (We think they might at least have made it touch-football.)

WHITEHALL SENIORS PLAN AREA-WIDE BOOK DRIVE

Jaycees Find Number Plan A Big Task

The Eastern Jaycees are down, but they say they're not out.

The young club (started just a matter of months ago) decided that they'd get off to a big start by painting house numbers in front of all residences in Whitehall.

At the start of the project, Jaycee spokesmen said they'd have the job completed in a number of weeks. After more than a month they're ready to admit that the job "wasn't as simple as it sounded at first."

Grove City Jaycees attempted the same project. An Eastern member said the Grove City group has been "working a lifetime" trying to catch up with the numbering, what with new subdivisions spring up and all.

"We'll keep at it, though," one of the Easterners said. "The guys are doing this on their spare time. We painted over 100 last weekend."

The men first paint black backgrounds and then come back the following week to do the numbering in white.

All proceeds collected from residents for the service is used for needy area children at Christmas time.

JUDGE O'NEIL WILL SPEAK

Whitehall Muny Building To Be Dedicated Sunday

The doors will be opened to a "dream" Sunday.

The "dream" was that of Whitehall Mayor Walter B. Moling who has visualized a new municipal building there for some time—at least during his many years as head city official.

The official dedication will take place Nov. 18, at 2 p.m.

Ohio Supreme Court Judge C. William O'Neil will be the featured speaker at the ceremony, which will open the doors to the $380,00 structure.

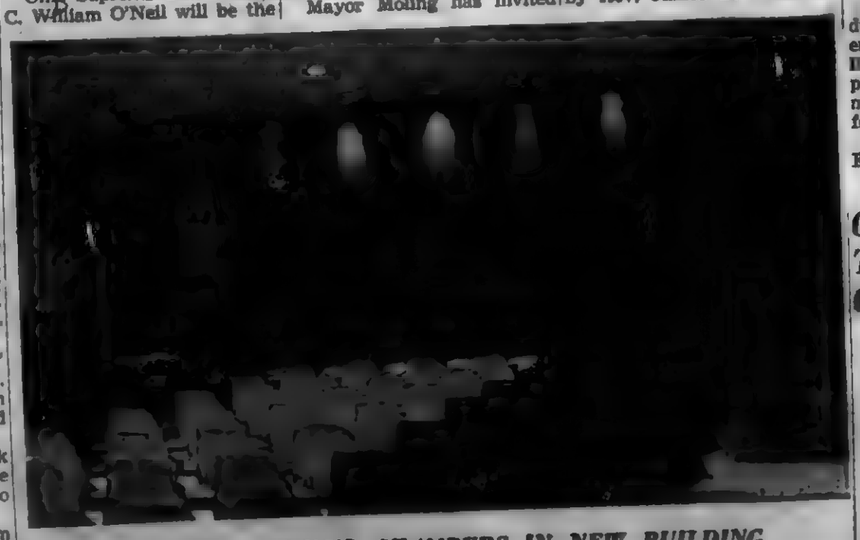
The event will start with a parade from the high school to the new building at 1:30 p.m. The Whitehall High marching band and four color guards will accompany a 14-car motorcade of present and former city officials.

Mayor Moling has invited all former officials, and nearly 50 are expected to attend.

An open house will follow the affair, which will feature unveiling of a plaque to commemorate the building's erection.

Veterans of Foreign Wars, Whitehall Post 8794, also will take part in the dedication by leading a salute to the flag. The invocation will be given by Rev. James B. Foster of Eastview Methodist Church.

American Legion, Whitehall Post 490, will present a flag for the council chambers.



The main part of the ceremony will be held in the recreation area of the building, on the lower level.

Robert W. Crabbs, superintendent of Whitehall schools, will talk briefly and introduce Mayor Moling.

The mayor then will introduce former mayors and present council members. Robert [illegible], former council president, will introduce former council members and former city officials.

Benediction will be given by Fr. Robert Harwick of Holy

Bexley Airs Change Of Zoning Law

Rezoning of a Bexley street to allow for the construction of a "large" apartment building brought protest during regular meeting Tuesday night from residents who feared that "non-Bexley type" people would move into the proposed dwellings.

Council staged the public hearing but made no decision on the proposal to erect a luxury apartment building on Parkview-av between Main-st and Bryden-rd.

The builder, Robert Weiler, 85 S. Harding-rd, told the solons that he is eager to get started on the project which would be built on a vacant lot he owns on Bryden-rd.

Several property owners in the area spoke in favor of the proposal, citing it as a "much-needed rejuvenation" to the area. One of the residents, Lawrence Smith, 415 Westland-av, raised the question about traffic flow and said he feared the traffic situation would be "a dangerous one" if apartments had a driveway emptying out onto Bryden.

Mac Prior, 463 S. Parkview-av, called the corner "an eyesore" and said that residents were "constantly calling the police on tramps seen in the area." Prior believed that the new apartment would solve this situation.

Art Leach, 508 S. Parkview, who owns a funeral home in the neighborhood, said "the city needs a good, high class apartment building."

In other action:

• Council passed an ordinance authorizing the purchase of gasoline for city trucks and automobiles.

• Gave approval to a resolution authorizing the mayor to enter into negotiations with Columbus city attorney to prosecute cases which appear in Columbus Municipal Court.

The mayor reported that there are some occasions when a jury trial is requested and said he would like to get them through swiftly, rather than having them stalled with procedural problems.

Whitehall Candidate List Grows

Three more Democrats added their names to the Whitehall political slate recently, making the total now four. Another Whitehaller says he is considering entering the race.

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, 746 S. Yearling-rd, announced his candidacy for 1963 primary election for councilman last week. Those that followed in quest of municipal posts include:

• Carl Weiffenbacher, 4151 Rickenbacher-av.

• Loren Mason, 385 Collingwood-av, and

• Paul Haytcher (currently city solicitor), 645 Ross-rd.

O'Shaughnessy will seek the Fourth Ward council chair. Republican Darrell Todd defeated him in 1961.

Weiffenbacher is seeking First Ward council seat. He is presently a ward committeeman.

Mason, former councilman, said he will seek nomination but has not said which race he will enter. It has been rumored that he will run for mayor.

In addition to these candidates, Henry Maxfield, husband of Elizabeth Maxfield, former councilwoman, said he was "considering" the Second Ward candidacy next May.

Twigs' Biggest Bazaar Of Them All Slated Next Monday At Veterans Hall

When 3000 women put their collective mind, time, talent and ingenuity to a task, the results can be mighty impressive.

Each November, 130 Twigs of Children's Hospital better their record of the preceding year by producing a bazaar that's bigger and better, and adding its ever-increasing profits to the substantial annual contribution they make to the hospital.

Doors to the bazaar will open this year at 10 a.m. Monday, Nov. 19 at Veterans Memorial Building.

The affair traditionally launches the Christmas gift-buying season for a large percentage of Columbus women, who find something for every person on their list among items displayed on nearly 150 tables.

Busy for months on their individual Twig projects, members offer for sale accessories ranging from purses and jewelry to petticoat bags; clothing items from babs and sweaters to aprons of all sorts and red felt Christmas vests.

There are holiday decorations — for the house, table, packages and tree, needlecraft of all sorts and decorative items and paper products.

The list of pantry goodies includes baked goods and candy, plum puddings and pies, and houses of gingerbread.

And the list of toys is as limitless as a child's imagination.

A tea room and refreshment stands will add to the comfort of shoppers, and an artist will be on hand for on-the-spot sketches in charcoal.

BEXLEY'S BY-WORD FOR BEAUTY

VIC

HOW "PREMATURE" IS GREY?

That term "premature grey" was first-born to describe thirtyish girls, who found silvery threads threatening youthful faces. Now, however, a lady of eighty might be "prematurely grey" — if she'd rather be brunette! We once added silver to the hair of a tender sprout of 18 — just because she preferred it that way. (The effect was sheer mesmerism . . . on her audience!)

GREY, GREY — GO AWAY

Just say it, we'll send grey hair flying! If you don't care for a salt-and-pepper look, just look to our salon coloring experts for advice. We'll blend in those silvery wisps with a simple one-time rinse, if you're anxious to see "how it might look." Or we'll give you more lasting coverage with a new partly-permanent type of rinse that keeps its color through four to five shampoos.

OR GREY—STAY!

Sometimes we advise an anxious customer to take a good long look at her face in the mirror before she invites a new color. Grey hair is a "softener." It may act as a tender veiling to a feature that always seemed harsh to you. Grey hair, dramatized by our whispering silver-tones, might be the loveliest thing that ever happened to your eyes and skin! Our experts can help you decide which way your grey should go, just ask.

COMPLEMENT CONCEALMENT

Takes a brave lady to turn an all-grey head back to color . . . but sometimes that one beauty-step has chopped 20 years from the lady's looks! Then, there are our gentle "beige-blondes" — pale beauties whose grey hair has been touched with just enough caramel-colored haze to shade it into luxury. There are so many wonderful things to do for grey hair today . . . step into our World of Color soon, and see this magic for yourself.

FROM UNDER THE DRYER

Program Deserves Continued Support

More than 800,000 Franklin Countians have had a chance . . .

A chance to make sure about contagious TB since the Tuberculous Society began its mass TB case-detection program in 1944.

Last year alone the Christmas Seal X-ray Cruiser spotted 1499 suspected chest ailments and helped find the 365 new TB cases reported in Columbus and Franklin County.

But the Tuberculosis Society and its big Christmas Seal X-ray Cruiser hasn't done the job alone . . . through annual Christmas Seal contributions the community has helped the TB Society "protect family circles" from TB.

And the society plans an even more ambitious program of service in the year ahead . . . to give us all an even better chance!

The Tuberculosis Society's aim — to conquer TB — never changes. Its programs are constantly re-directed to make them even more effective.

In 1963, the Society will focus its programs on the relationship of TB to other respiratory diseases (RD).

Many of these respiratory diseases are similar to TB on X-ray and in symptoms. These traits delay prompt diagnosis. Such delay can mean the difference between successful and unsuccessful treatment. Medical authorities agree that we may solve many of the mysteries surrounding TB, if we learn more about such diseases as emphysema, bronchiectasis, silicosis, sarcoidosis, etc.

Next year the TB Society plans:

(1) An estimated 50,000 free "TB-RD" chest X-rays;

(2) More than 20,000 free TB tests for school children;

(3) "TB-RD" health education programs; and

(4) Dramatic research projects to find a drug to kill the TB germ, a vaccine to prevent TB and better diagnostic tools.

Together we can take another step forward in our community fight against a disease which takes the life of one American every 50 minutes; costs an average $15,000 per patient for treatment, loss of income and in welfare aid to families, and requires an average of six-and-one-half months of hospitalization.

The Christmas Seal goal is $212,000, deemed the minimum to carry on these county-wide life-saving programs. The TB Society needs Christmas Seal contributions from every Franklin Countian NOW.

AIM To Stop Hunting Accidents

Hunting Season Closing Dates Staggered

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

With the current upland hunting season, which began Nov. 15, it might be well to take stock of the regulations. Opening were seasons on rabbits, pheasants, quail, Hungarian partridges (almost a rarity now), raccoons, opossums, mink and muskrats. With these popular species available, this is the high point of the hunting and trapping year.

Closing dates are staggered: rabbits Jan. 31; pheasants and partridges Dec. 15 on private land, and Jan. 31 on public land; quail Dec. 15 on state-owned or controlled land, and Jan. 14 on some special public areas; raccoon and opossum Feb. 15; and mink and muskrat Feb. 28.

Several hunting seasons, of course, have already closed for this year. These are squirrel, ducks, woodcock and the so-called shorebirds (rails, gallinules and jacksnipe).

The trend in recent years has been to lengthen hunting seasons, but this has been done gradually and we sometimes forget how much hunting opportunity has been made available. Let's look back 10 years to 1952, to see how the seasons have changed.

The ruffed grouse season opened Nov. 15 that year, and closed on Jan. 1. This year it opened Oct. 15 and runs to Feb. 23, reportedly the longest grouse season in the nation. This is the prime example of an "extended" season, as the biologists call it. The harvest of birds is not raised to the danger point, but the outdoor recreation possibilities are vastly increased.

Back in 1952 there was a statewide squirrel season, Sept. 15 to Oct. 15. This year there were zones. The season opened Sept. 14 statewide, but closed in zone 1 on Nov. 10, and in zone 2 on Oct. 27.

There was a two-week pheasant season 10 years ago, and the present one will last a month on private land—longer on public land. Rabbits were open six week in 1952, and this year we will enjoy enjoy more than 10 weeks of hunting. Quail were on the closed list then.

There was a three-day deer season in 1952, but it was open in only 26 counties and hunters were limited to bucks only. There was no special bow season, except that bows only were allowed in Carroll County. A two-day, statewide, any deer season will be allowed gun hunters this year, and a bow season opened Oct. 15 and runs to Dec. 31.

We tend to think fondly of the "old days." But our fathers could not legally hunt quail, and there were no deer available to hunt nor beaver to trap. Soon, we are told, some strictly controlled wild turkey hunting will become a reality. It is certainly true that the huge kills of rabbits, pheasants and squirrels of a generation ago are no longer possible. But to the true hunter who enjoys the chase more than a heavy hunting coat, more sport is available. With Thanksgiving Day only a week away, this is one of the things I'm thankful for.

Farm-City Link Vital To All

"I John F. Kennedy, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate the week of Nov. 16 through Nov. 22, 1962, as National Farm-City Week; and I call upon our citizens throughout the Nation to participate fully in the observance of that week."

Out of the White House this month came the above Presidential Proclamation. And out across the nation some 10,000 towns and rural areas were busy this week planning joint tours and visits by farmers and businessmen to agricultural and industrial installations . . . to cement farm-city understanding.

The theory of interdependence of city and farm is familiar and basic to United States economics. Today an individual American farm worker can produce food and fiber for himself and 26 others — the greatest farm efficiency ever known to man.

At the same time, the American farmer is ever more dependent on the city worker to supply the machines and power and other tools necessary for this efficient farm production. There has never been a more glaring need for mutual appreciation between producer and consumer, farm hand and factory worker. That understanding is necessary for better distribution of vast agricultural produce, fairer prices, better service, greater efficiency and, generally, for a stabler economy.

We welcome and endorse National Farm-City Week.

GASMANIA is a very contagious and almost incurable disease of the accelerator. Instant death of the sufferer is the surest and quickest cure. Ten weeks in the hospital has been known to give a temporary relief in a few mild cases. Ninety days "in the cooler" sometimes acts as a pretty good anti-toxin for too much ambition in the right foot.

But, "good morning jobs" beats "Good Morning Judge" and 90 days on the job goes by a whole lot faster than 90 days in the jug. Therefore, alcohol belongs in the radiator, not in the driver. A tight car beats "a tight driver" anytime.

Many a bird who takes his "poison straight" takes the stop streets on the bias because traffic lights don't mean what they say when "the driver is lit too".

Many a poor devil who starts out on foot, winds up on a slab because he got "picked off" instead. It's a whole lot better to have the sheriff "cool 'em off" than to have the coroner "cool 'em out."

Engineering, education, enforcement — these are the formulas recommended by all law officers, but morons can still get a driver's license and half-blind, tired old men still drive automobiles.

If only ladies and gentlemen drove automobiles the traffic mess wouldn't be nearly so messy. What satisfaction is it to all decent drivers who can and will behave under the wheel, if they get clobbered by some bum who has no license, no insurance, and no brains?

Any driver who can't or won't behave himself in his driving of a "guided missile" on any street, ought to be grounded forever. As things are now, he gets off with a pat on the wrist or a short term making big stones littler, and then goes right back on the road to do the whole idiotic mistake all over again.

Questions Efficiency Of School Spending

Now that Madison Local School District bond issue has been defeated and the attempted brain washing of the children didn't work on the parents, I would like to ask some questions:

1. What is happening to the tax money which is increased each time property is appraised?

2. Why is such a large amount needed? Do the students need marble partitions in rest rooms and such luxury items?

3. What educational subjects could be curtailed without causing the school to fall below the state minimum standards?

4. What is the harm of one-half day classes if necessary? Why can't pupils study at home instead of having two or three study periods a day?

5. Doesn't the school receive money for all students living in the school district even though they attend private or parochial schools?

6. Why must we build schools designed for 50 to 100 years at such a high cost when they will be considered obsolete in 20 to 30 years?

7. Why not a better salary for the deserving teachers?

Assails Government's Double Standards

Sincerity and common decency have gone out the window as illustrated in so many cases where those in power use their official position to rule the suckers.

The last national presidential conventions of both parties, with straight faces and without any qualifying provisions, informed the world that they would work for legislation that would eliminate the second class citizens of this nation, but in the usual political double talk, they failed to outline just who these second class citizens were, so let me fill in the gaps.

1. In dealing with war veterans, congress and our government use a 100-cent dollar in estimating costs, but in setting pay of the employes of industry, the retirement pay of generals, admirals, congressmen, presidents and their dependents, they use still another dollar value, the true one, a 43-cent dollar.

2. In the bill just passed to raise the pay of certain federal employes, the retired civil service employes and the disabled federal employes were included in the bill but here is how sincere these two-timers are: In this case, as in most, they show conclusively that they actually don't care what happens to the peasants of this nation by passing an appropriation for pay raises for the able-bodied employee who is still making a decent living, but failed to appropriate any funds to pay the retired and disabled employes. So while they are included under the provisions of the bill, they don't get a thing.

3. While the government pays a pension to the over-aged Chinese soldier on Formosa and, pays $100 a month and over to Cuban refugees in Florida and elsewhere, is it any wonder that we are now on the brink of war when our own government for which many of us fought to keep free and gave up our sons to die on foreign soil, has lost all sense of decency, honesty and fair play in its dealings with our people and the people of the earth?

And all who value privacy should do likewise, for according to this noted anthropologist, the day soon may come when telepathy (the ability to communicate via brain waves) will be in common usage.

"I forsee the average man of the future with brain waves so powerful he will send and receive mental messages just like a wireless radio,' predicts Dr. Krogman.

"For the past 100,000 years man's brain has remained the same size while its power, organization and efficiency have increased tremendously," Dr. Krogman explains, adding: "As a better balance between power and size develops, telepathy will result."

This will be good, according to Dr. Krogman: "It will make war impossible because no secrets will be able to exist between men or nations and peace will come from the psychic status quo."

Doc, I'm no expert on brain power, but let me tell you — if the day ever comes when we go around reading each other's minds, everybody is going to be too busy defending himself from his neighbors and friends to give a hoot about war.

Aside from setting up each of us for a punch in the snozzle practically every time we meet an acquaintance or pass a shapely girl, think of the disruptions it will cause in our present customs and daily routines.

Perhaps the greatest upheavals will come in politics and commerce.

Needless to say, if every politician's mind were open to the public, impeachment petitions would be as common as traffic tickets. Our prisons would have to set aside special cellblocks for politicians.

As for business, salesmen would become as extinct as dodo birds. First to go . . . probably at the hand of lynch mobs — would be used car hucksters.

One could write a novel about the cataclysmic changes that would result if everyone's minds suddenly were to become open books, but what fills me with the greatest apprehension is what it would do on the domestic front.

Marriage would be impossible. Certainly no two people could live together harmoniously if their every thought were known to the other.

To Find Your Direction: Forget, Take Time

A grasshopper appears to move with little effort or sense of direction, but its life span is of short duration. We too, like the grasshopper, give the impression that our direction is somewhat difficult to define; but unlike the grasshopper, our life span seems to lengthen with the passing of the years. However, we do not appear to be as casual and as much at ease as does our friend of the field.

Rev. Rose

The Apostle Paul suggests to us that one way we might find our direction more easily would be "to forget the things that are behind . . ." In other words if we would increase our happiness and prolong our life, then forget . . . forget our neighbor's faults. Forget all the slander we have heard. Forget the temptations. Forget the fault-finding, and give a little thought to the cause which provoked it.

Forget the peculiarities of your friends, and only remember the good points which make you fond of them. Forget all gossip you hear. Blot out as far as possible all the disagreeables of life; they will come, but will only grow larger when you remember them. Obliterate everything disagreeable from yesterday. Start out with a clean sheet today and write upon it for sweet memory's sake only those things which are lovely and loveable.

Not only can we acquire direction by forgetting, but we also can acquire direction by taking time. Take time to work -- it is the price of success. Take time to think -- it is the secret of youth. Take time to play -- it is the source of power. Take time to read -- it is the foundation of knowledge. Take time to worship -- it is the highway to reverence. Take time for friends -- it is the sacrament of life. Take time to dream -- it hitches the soul to the stars. Take time to laugh -- it is the singing that helps with life's load. Take time to pray -- it helps to bring God nearer and washes the dust of earth from our eyes.

Then we can say with the Great Apostle, "I press on to the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Jesus Christ."

Program Deserves Continued Support

More than 800,000 Franklin Countians have had a chance . . .

A chance to make sure about contagious TB since the Tuberculous Society began its mass TB case-detection program in 1944.

Last year alone the Christmas Seal X-ray Cruiser spotted 1499 suspected chest ailments and helped find the 365 new TB cases reported in Columbus and Franklin County.

But the Tuberculosis Society and its big Christmas Seal X-ray Cruiser hasn't done the job alone . . . through annual Christmas Seal contributions the community has helped the TB Society "protect family circles" from TB.

And the society plans an even more ambitious program of service in the year ahead . . . to give us all an even better chance!

The Tuberculosis Society's aim — to conquer TB — never changes. Its programs are constantly re-directed to make them even more effective.

In 1963, the Society will focus its programs on the relationship of TB to other respiratory diseases (RD).

Many of these respiratory diseases are similar to TB on X-ray and in symptoms. These traits delay prompt diagnosis. Such delay can mean the difference between successful and unsuccessful treatment. Medical authorities agree that we may solve many of the mysteries surrounding TB, if we learn more about such diseases as emphysema, bronchiectasis, silicosis, sarcoidosis, etc.

Next year the TB Society plans:

(1) An estimated 50,000 free "TB-RD" chest X-rays;

(2) More than 20,000 free TB tests for school children;

(3) "TB-RD" health education programs; and

(4) Dramatic research projects to find a drug to kill the TB germ, a vaccine to prevent TB and better diagnostic tools.

Together we can take another step forward in our community fight against a disease which takes the life of one American every 50 minutes; costs an average $15,000 per patient for treatment, loss of income and in welfare aid to families, and requires an average of six-and-one-half months of hospitalization.

The Christmas Seal goal is $212,000, deemed the minimum to carry on these county-wide life-saving programs. The TB Society needs Christmas Seal contributions from every Franklin Countian NOW.

AIM To Stop Hunting Accidents

Hunting Season Closing Dates Staggered

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

With the current upland hunting season, which began Nov. 15, it might be well to take stock of the regulations. Opening were seasons on rabbits, pheasants, quail, Hungarian partridges (almost a rarity now), raccoons, opossums, mink and muskrats. With these popular species available, this is the high point of the hunting and trapping year.

Closing dates are staggered: rabbits Jan. 31; pheasants and partridges Dec. 15 on private land, and Jan. 31 on public land; quail Dec. 15 on state-owned or controlled land, and Jan. 14 on some special public areas; raccoon and opossum Feb. 15; and mink and muskrat Feb. 28.

Several hunting seasons, of course, have already closed for this year. These are squirrel, ducks, woodcock and the so-called shorebirds (rails, gallinules and jacksnipe).

The trend in recent years has been to lengthen hunting seasons, but this has been done gradually and we sometimes forget how much hunting opportunity has been made available. Let's look back 10 years to 1952, to see how the seasons have changed.

AT JEWISH CENTER

'I Am A Camera' Will Open Here December 1

"I Am A Camera," presented by the Gallery Players of the Jewish Center, will open Saturday evening, Dec. 1, and run until Dec. 9.

This is not the autobiography of a piece of photographic equipment, as the title might lead one to think, but of a writer named Christopher Isherwood who decided to regard himself as a camera, recording people and events around him.

Thus Isherwood, played by Roger Allen in the Gallery Players production, is himself one of the leading characters of his play, and the other is a vain, restless girl named Sally Bowles, who will be portrayed by Harriet Slott.

Sally lived in the same boarding house with Christopher when he was a young man in pre-Hitler Berlin.

The play was written by John Van Druten and, in its Jewish Center production, will be directed by Gene Gerrard. The rooming house setting has been designed by Bill Walters and will be lit by Robert Stegmiller.

Production supervisor for "I Am A Camera" is Joseph Altman with Joseph Sculler serving as associate. Gil Parish has been serving as stage manager and Jo Liebscher as production assistant.

Other members of the cast are Kurt Meeks, Marilyn Samelson, Joan Minkoff, Maury Kenlly and Bebe Springer.

Tickets are now on sale for all performances at the reception desk of the center and the Gallery Players office. Admission price is $1.75.

Center members are admitted for $1.25 and students for $1. For reservations, call BE. 1-2731.

Robinson Is Chairman

Stanley Schwartz, Jr., adult activities chairman of the Jewish Center, announces the appointment of Walter Robinson as chairman of the Institute of Jewish Studies which will be resumed at the Jewish Center sometime after the first of the year.

Robinson is currently meeting with members of his committee to determine the courses of study to be pursued at that time.

Art

Charles W. Wellman, will open the Adult Evening Class on Thursday evening, Nov. 15, with a special illustrated lecture on "The Image—Its Role In Art." The lecture is scheduled for 8.

The public is invited to Wellman's opening lecture.

Still lifes and live models will be employed during the course, fee for which will be $12 for center members and $18 for non-center members.

A Wednesday afternoon art class for November has been postponed until the first of the year. For further information contact Harold M. Eisenstein at the center, BE. 1-2731.

Stevens Named

Robert J. Stevens has been selected as the staging director for the Gallery Players Actors' Lab Children's Show, "The Clown Who Ran Away," which opens at the Jewish Center Dec. 23.

Stevens, who is the former Karamu Playhouse children's theater director in Cleveland, will hold final tryouts Sunday, Nov. 18, at 2 p.m.

The cast of "The Clown Who Ran Away" includes 18 characters. Besides Dodo the Clown, there are four male character roles and four female character roles. There are parts also for six children under 11 years of age. Three teenagers may also be selected for the cast of this Actors' Lab Children's production.

Adults interested in participating, who can not appear at this final tryout, are instructed to phone Gallery Players Director Harold M. Eisenstein, BE. 1-2731, for a future appointment.

BOWL BID SHATTERED

Hawks Tie Arlington Share OBFF Title

A never-say-die Arlington eleven scored a TD in the last eight seconds to tie the heavily-favored Westgate Hawks 20-20 in the championship game of the Ohio Boys Football Foundation at Magly Field Sunday afternoon. The Hawks trying for third straight League championship were forced to share the title.

The League's leading scorer, Arlington's Gary Moore, scored three TDs and two extra points.

The Hawks suffered their first defeat in 42 games Saturday night, 6-0, at the hands of the McKeesport, Pa., Little Tigers and traveled all night getting home at 6:30 Sunday morning to play this hard-fought little league football game Sunday afternoon. The McKeesport contest was the Eastern-division Milk Bowl playoff game.

In the closing minutes of the first quarter, Moore ran 15 yards over the left side for his first TD. Then on the first play from scrimmage in the second quarter, Moore ran 25 yards for another TD. Arlington then led 12-0.

But the Hawks came back strong on the brilliant calls of quarterback Gary Henderson and the fine running of fullback, Winnie Dearing. Dearing scored the Hawk's first touchdown on a short center plunge. Later in the second quarter on a fourth down situation Rick Winston ran 61 yards for the Hawks' second TD and the half ended with the score tied 12-12.

The Hawks went ahead by eight points early in the second half when Henderson threw a 15 yard pass to Marty Barnes and then passed to Frank Hanson for the conversion.

Arlington took over the ball on the Hawk 40 with 25 seconds to play in the game. On the second play, quarterback Mike French threw the ball to Moore and interference was called on the three yard line. Moore ran over left guard on the next play and then carried for the extra points to tie the game.

The game saw many standouts on defense. For the Hawks, Larry Leichner and Mike Colegrove, and for Arlington, Nelson Lancione, Tom Trainer and Tom Paoletti played outstanding games.

In the 90 pound division, the Beattty Cubs won the longest football game on record over the Westgate Falcons. Last Sunday's game was called because of darkness with the Cubs leading 6-0. The remaining 5 minutes and 39 seconds was played with no further score, giving the Cubs their second straight undefeated and untied season.

Arlington	6	6	0	8—20
Westgate Hawks	0	12	8	0—20

Arlington scoring: TDs: Moore, 3 (15, 25, 3, runs). PAT: Moore (run).

Hawks scoring: TDs: Dearing (1, run); Winston (61, run); Barnes (15, pass from Henderson). PAT: Hanson (pass from Henderson).

Cubs scoring: TD: Marty Winfield (44, run).

Bearcats Honored

A crowd of 250 paid tribute to the players in the Ohio Bearcat Football Association Sunday evening at a Recognition Dinner held in the Officers Club of the Columbus Army Depot.

Herb Evans, president of the Peoples Broadcasting Company, was the guest speaker and chose the subject of "Goals Unlimited" in speaking to the Bearcat players and parents.

EVANS, who has traveled around the globe and was instrumental in improving the Cleveland Browns organization in recent yers, stressed the importance of education and fair play to the young players.

Individual trophies were presented to the league's most valuable players. Keith Edwards, and Robert Arnett of the Westside Pirates and Jim Fout, Westside Eagles, were given trophies as the loop's three leading scorers.

Pirate coach Glenn Carr accepted the championship trophy for his team, presented by Bob Rand, Maryland AC coach, whose team won the trophy last year.

The Bearcat banquet was held in cooperation with the Eastern Civitan Club of Columbus which has taken an active interest in youth activities.

TOPS IN THE PPK FIELD

BEASLEY FORD's publicity director Pete Block joins hands with the three Eastside boys who placed at the top of the list in their age groups in the recent punt, pass and kick competition. Left to right are: John Alton, 10, of 1377 S. Roosevelt-av, block; Steve Dietz, 8, of 1446 Wakefield-ct, and Charles Tubbs, 7, of 711 Stambaugh-av. The three boys are now awaiting results of statewide competition to see if they might qualify for divisional competition.

Eastmoor Loses, Rams Win Finale

Eastmoor's Warriors, down by 20 points at the end of three periods, rallied strongly before yielding the City League championship to Central, 20-14.

The Pirates, who finished their league slate unbeaten for their first title since 1949, struck for two quick second period TDs on Bill Solomon's 38-yard gallop and a 58-yard sprint to pay dirt by Tom Fullove.

CENTRAL SCORED again in the third period following a Warrior fumble with Cliff Moxley sweeping end for 30 yards and it looked like the Pirates had wrapped up their championship.

But Eastmoor charged back down the field with quarterback Vince VanHorn capping the Warrior drive with a five-yard TD pass to end Paul Naumoff.

Shortly later Dana VanHorn snatched a fumble out of the air and raced 79 yards to put the Warriors back into contention. Eastmoor then recovered a Central fumble and started goalward again.

BUT GIBSON Hayes saved the day and the championship for the Pirates when he pilfered a Warrior pass. Central, who outgained Eastmoor, 263-95, then ran out the clock.

The loss dropped the City League's '61 champs into a fourth-place tie with Linden, both with 5-3 records.

FULLBACK MIKE Short's 36-yard TD run and Clark Fuller's one-yard plunge closed out Whitehall's grid season on a happy note with a 12-0 victory over Hartley.

The Rams led the Hawks by only six points until the last quarter when they added their insurance tally. The win pulled Whitehall's seasonal mark up to 6-4.

THE PASSING combination of quarterback Mike Gordon and end Ken Fowlkes accounted for two touchdowns in East's 22-2 triumph over Aquinas.

Sam Beets returned a Terrier punt 58 yards to the Irish five in the first period to set up Gordon's first TD toss to Fowlkes. The Tigers increased their lead to 12-0 before halftime when the same twosome connected again on a short pass.

East wrapped up the win with a 10-point addition in the fourth quarter, highlighted by Otis Wingo's 28-yard run to pay dirt.

The win closed out the Tiger's CL season at 6-1-1, good enough for the loop's third spot.

REYNOLDSBURG "outsaid" Academy Friday night, 12-6, in a game to decide the co-championship of the County League.

The Vikings, hampered by a tough Raider defense, their own fumbles and almost impossible playing conditions, made a comeback in the final period when John Larrimer ran 20 yards for a touchdown.

The Raiders jumped off to a 6-0 halftime lead when quarterback Bob Nease lofted a 25-yard pass to end Jim Martin. Several defenders batted at the slippery ball but Martin finally pulled it in and hopped the remaining five yards into the end zone.

Ralph Hughes scored Reynoldsburg's winning touchdown from the one after intermission capping a Raider drive that followed the recovery of an Academy fumble.

Both teams fumbled frequently on the wet, muddy field during the course of the game which was played during a steady downpour.

The loss was Academy's second in County League play compared with five wins. The Vikings finished their '62 season in a tie for second place with St. Marys.

Participation New CL Issue

The County League sidestepped one problem Monday evening at their athletic meeting but came up with another obstacle to the future of the league.

West Jefferson was welcomed into the circuit as a new member school with the sitpulation that the Rough Riders accept University's 1963 football schedule. The Little Bucks had earlier dropped out of gridiron competition, league-wise.

ANOTHER SIGNIFICANT advance as far as the league's present setup is concerned was made with the announcement that New Albany had withdrawn its request for release from the league.

The Eagle school's earlier request had thrown a bombshell into the league's future and forced the formation of a loop committee to study the problems of the member schools.

League participation was the prime subject of controversy at Monday's meeting. It was suggested that more schools should participate in more sports.

CANAL WINCHESTER, which does not compete in the CL on the gridiron and yet is still a member of the league, announced that its objection to playing football in the county circuit centered around the same problem expressed by New Albany, Dublin and University—lack of personnel as compared to the larger schools (Hamilton Township and Reynoldsburg).

Winchester officials said they would be interested in returning to the league's football setup if the CL's balance could be restored.

The league officials voted to appoint a standing advisory committee composed of school principals or an appointed administrative representative to work on the league problems.

The first meeting of the committee will be held at University High School at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Among the problems to be discussed are: league participation, the number of assignment of and payment of officials at league football games, timing of ball games and the setting up of a new constitution for the Franklin County League.

The league's next meeting will be held in early March at Williards Restaurant.

'TGFB' Policy Lauded By 'Fearless' Caller

That guy who so fearlessly predicted the high school football games this season left a note on our desk this week, saying that last week's picks left him with a 141-59-9 mark for the season. That's roughly a .700 clip. After Friday night's "sprinklers" we were inclined to go along with the little button he was wearing on his lapel — TGFB (Thank God for Basketball.)

Bexley Tabs Maupin, Snider Co-Captains

Halfbacks Jay Maupin and Van Snider were tapped as Bexley's '63 grid co-captains at the Lions' annual football awards banquet Monday evening at the Ohio Union.

Special awards during the evening went to Maupin and '62 co-captain Rick Mauger. Mauger won the Fred Medors Memorial award for outstanding leadership and Maupin won the "most improved player" award, a bronzed football shoe, presented by the Wendt Pharmacy.

AUBLEGRAPH

Broadway's Callan Believes In Ol' College Try Here...

Broadway great William Callan will be in Columbus this week to see if there's anything to this business about the ol' college try.

Here's hoping there is, of course, since it's a piece of his work that the college will be trying — St. Mary's Of The Springs College to be specific.

Callan, who is currently appearing on Broadway in "A Man For All Seasons," will be at St. Mary's Sunday, (Nov. 18) for the closing of a two-day stand of Moliere's "Imaginary Invalid."

Callan's interest? It's his adaption of the play that St. Mary's Merry Masquers are using.

Show time for both Saturday and Sunday is 8:15 p.m. The show is being presented in the Little Theatre of Erskine Hall on the St. Mary campus. Tickets are available by phoning the college at CL. 2-2137.

• Hunt's Cinestage, which changes the bill of fare less often than we change presidents, is giving the heaveho to "West Side Story" and opening with "The Longest Day" on Friday, Dec. 21.

This will be the exclusive Central Ohio reserved-seat run of Darryl F. Zanuck's $10 million epic of D-Day with a cast of more than two-score top stage and screen personalities.

In fact, Zanuck used so much heavy artillery and actual soldiers in the production that a national magazine jokingly referred to him as " . . . the ninth power of the world."

A few of the stars include John Wayne, Robert Mitchum, Richard Burton, Henry Fonda, Richard Todd, Tommy Sands, Fabian, Edmund O'Brien, Sal Mineo, Red Buttons and many, many others.

SHEPARD LIBRARY

National Book Week Good Time To Read

National Book Week is being observed formally during the week of Nov. 11 to 17, and during this time parents and teachers are urged to bring the children to their library and introduce them to the wonderful world of books.

"I Like Books" is the slogan this year and you will, too, when you see the marvelous selection that Miss Bird of the Shepard Library, 2185 E. Fifth-av, has chosen for the children this year.

Beautifully illustrated texts, both factual and fictional, will delight the eye while stimulating and broadening the reading capacity of their young minds. The more mature reader, also, has a treat in store.

All the latest fiction and non-fiction can be found at Shepard Library. Those who place a reserve on any of the current best sellers will be accommodated within a short period of time, so come in or call CL. 8-7111 and get the reading habit — not just for this week but for the 51 to follow and make 1963 book year.

Where have the LEAVES Gone?

Trees without their leaves, are like a Church building without the people. The real warmth, friendliness, and welcome atmosphere are created by the people. All of these things are a real aid to worship.

"Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name; worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness."

Come, be one among many to share in the joy of worshiping in the Lord's house this Sunday.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH — THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

County Extension Bulletins Placed In Libraries

Recently, the librarians in Franklin County have placed in their reference files, copies of many of the County Extension Service bulletins to give their patrons easy acess to the information they contain.

According to county agent George B. Ganyard, the Extension service publishes bulletins giving information on subjects related to production and marketing of farm products, home economics and public affairs.

Most of these bulletins are free, some cost a few cents, and all have facts based on research to help the reader who seeks information on the subject.

While these can be had at the County Extension Office in the Old Post Office in Columbus, Ganyard says putting copies in the reference files of the libraries will bring the information close to the people for easy reference.

bus residents are wondering why the same thing isn't being done here.

Three main obstacles are Columbus Mayor Ralston Westlake, Whitehall Mayor Walter B. Moling and Bexley Mayor William Schneider who have taken certain "postponement" actions.

Mayor Moling reported this week that Whitehall councilmen passed a resolution Saturday which is designed to ask the State Legislature (not meeting until Jan., 1963) to clarify the law. Indications were strong from this suburb that no enforcement action would be taken until such clarification is forthcoming.

Safety Director Richard Moling, who reported in his statement of policy when named to the post in February that he did not intend to strictly enforce the law because of "lack of police force manpower" among other reasons, was not available for comment this week.

He did, however, meet Sunday Association representatives and Whitehall's mayor Friday afternoon in a closed meeting.

Mayor Schneider told his councilmen during regular meeting Tuesday night that they, like Whitehall, would wait until the state legislature "clarifies the law."

The top Bexley official admitted that, as the law stands now, he doesn't know what authority he has in the matter and said he could not take cases to Columbus Municipal Court "blindfolded."

Treasure Island, a discount store in Bexley, has been cited several times in court for alleged Sunday sales. In addition, there are several drug stores in the city open on Sunday.

Mayor Westlake was brought into the picture Tuesday when he met with representatives from various associations, unions and civic groups in the Columbus area.

The mayor said he would issue a statement sometime this week, "possibly before the weekend," but said he couldn't promise.

Gene King, association secretary, said he "has good reasons to believe that the mayor's (Westlake's) statement will not call for strict enforcement of the law."

Religious leaders are rising rapidly in the picture. Holy Spirit pastor, Rev. Robert Harwick, said he is concerned with "the deterioration of my community (Whitehall)."

Rev. Harwick added that he, along with other clergymen, are worried that Sunday work forces will "break up home life" and added, "they (city officials) have a mandate from the voters—what more do they want?"

During Tuesday's meeting with Mayor Westlake, the chief city official said he wanted time to talk the matter over with Safety Director Albert Giles and Police Chief George Scholer. Both of these men were not present at the meeting since they, according to City Attorney Russell Leach, were working on a case involving a policeman.

Jack Isn't Joking

Now that the election is over, the political pots are starting to boil up a race for Mayor of Columbus. It appears that former Mayor Jack Sensenbrenner will definitely oppose Ralston Westlake.

When Judge Dana Reynolds was honored at a big party last week Jack was having a lot of fun at the party. When his turn came to speak, he replied, in fun:

"I do not agree with all the speakers who talked about Judge Reynolds' great experience on the bench. The greatest thing he ever did was when he swore me in as mayor of this great All-American city. And I hope he does it again."

Next year local and state offices will be filled by many newcomers to those offices. We will fare well if these new office holders will grow instead of just swell up.

Don Cook of the White Oaks District announced recently that a special camporee will be held Dec. 1, and 2. The overnight will be on land near the Miracle Mile shopping center on E. Broad. The land is owned by Don Casto, developer of Miracle Mile and other shopping centers in Columbus.

The theme of the camporee will be "Go Roundup" and the displays will be open to visitors. During the day on Saturday and Sunday, visitors may see the various displays of Scoutcraft exhibited by the Scouts.

In the evening on Saturday, there will be a campfire which visitors may attend.

The purpose of the camporee is to get boys interested in scouting by showing them what it is really like.

Philmont Reunion

A reunion for the boys and leaders who attend Philmont this summer from the Central Ohio Council will be held Nov. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at Fairmoor Presbyterian Church, 360 South James.

Boys from the White Oaks District who went to Philmont this past summer are Kerry Sherril, Troop 68; Larry Moore and John Fetter, Troop 103; Bill Astley and Roger Frank, Troop 107; Jeff Bloom, Bob Karr, and Fritz Laird, Troop 234, and Tom Niemeyer, Troop 355.

A young scout was saved from drowning this past Sunday on an overnight of Troop 230 at Camp Lazarus, a scout reservation near Delaware. Quick-thinking David Powell pulled in Tommy Jones of 2881 Parsons after Jones had accidentally slipped and fallen in.

The scouts were walking on the dock of the Lower Lake at Lazarus when young Jones slipped on the wet dock and plunged into the water. Jones could not swim and went down twice before Powell reached out and towed him ashore. Tommy was semi-conscious but the boys revived him by using artificial respiration.

Powell, a second class, will have his feat reviewed by a National Board of Review and probably will receive a certificate of merit for the rescue. Powell lives at 78 Phelps-rd.

Nov. 18 Is Set For MD March Of Volunteers

Sunday, Nov. 18, is reserved for the 1962 Volunteers' Annual March on Muscular Dystrophy throughout Franklin County, according to Columbus Police Chief George F. Scholer, chairman of the campaign.

Two-thirds of the victims of Muscular Dystrophy, a disease which attacks and progressively destroys all the voluntary muscles, are children from three to 13. Of these, few will reach adolescence and almost all will die from complications resulting from the steady muscle deterioration before reaching maturity.

Money collected by MDAA is used for payment for diagnosis and treatment, wheel chairs, braces, special shoes, and anything needed for the patient's welfare and research.

The Muscular Dystrophy campaign is not a part of United Appeal.

"Why Did My Bright White Dress Turn Brown?"

—Miss G. T. R.

Dear Miss G.T.R.:

You have been made the victim of the new flourescent "brightener" that is being used by manufacturers so much these days. Not only are flourescent brightening agents used to make white, whiter, but they are used to make all colors more vivid. Almost any textile article today may contain a brightener.

The unfortunate effect of these flourescent dyes is that they do not always hold up under ordinary use. When these brighteners are used in summer wear or draperies which are exposed to the sun, the flourecent dyes may bring about discoloration. Bright whites may turn yellow or brown on relatively short exposure to sunlight.

Often the dryeleaner is blamed for this color change in garments. Actually, the fault lies with the texile manufacturer who, in an endeavor to please his customers with whiter whites or brighter bright colors, used flourescent dyes that were not color-fast to light.

In washing or cleaning fabrics at home, when they have been dyed with the artificial brighteners, beware of common bleaching agents. They will yellow or brown the fabrics the same as the sunlight will. do. When fabris are yellowed or browned in this manner, the damage is permanent and the stain cannot be removed. And that, Miss G. T. R. is why your bright white dress turned brown.

Sport Letter Award Men Honored During Assembly

Football and cross-country letter award winners were honored Wednesday. The assembly was held in the school auditorium and was attended by all senior high students. Jack Moore and Harry T. McKnight presented awards to the winners. The cross-country team presented a trophy to McKnight.

Two dances are scheduled for this week. The junior high will hold a "Candystripe" dance Friday, Nov. 16, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. The admission is $0.75 drag, and $1.25 per couple.

Saturday Walnut Ridge will be the scene of the city-wide Y-Teens dance. The dance begins at 8 p.m. and will end at 11:30 p.m. Tickets are $2 per couple and can be purchased from any senior Y-Teens member.

School will be out Nov. 22 and 23 for Thanksgiving vacation.

Senior high students received TB X-rays this week. Students wishing to go hunting opening day should bring excuses and licenses from home.

North American Buying Totals $109 Million

North American Aviation's Columbus Division awarded purchase orders totaling more than $100 million during the 1962 fiscal year, John H. Campbell, Director of Material, has announced.

Campbell said the total of $109,193,495 is the Division's highest since 1956 and the first $100 million-plus since 1957. It also represents a 64.4 per cent increase over the value of subcontracts awarded during the previous fiscal year.

Firms located in the state of Ohio were awarded purchase orders totaling $24,046,848, including $8,885,299 awarded to Franklin County businesses.

The Columbus Division, Campbell added, is also actively participating in the government's small business subcontracting program. Small businesses are defined by the government as firms employing fewer than 500 persons.

Altogether, 67,602 purchase orders were issued during the 1962 fiscal year to 4,119 different firms, of which 2,854 were small businesses. More than one-half of the small business firms were very small with fewer than 50 employees.

Their First Thanksgiving Will Be Bittersweet Affair

By ED CHURCHILL

The first Thanksgiving Day celebration for the family of Cuban refugee, Mauricio Montejo, will hold many reasons for thankfulness.

But it will be a bittersweet day, pleasant, but painful.

The Montejos feel that they are much more fortunate than most Cubans and their list of thank-yous is long.

Two years ago, Mauricio, his attractive wife, Blancha, and their year-old son, Mauricito, lived in the Cuban seaport city of Camaquey.

Mauricio was a successful pharmaceuticals salesman; he was also leader of the local underground, bent on overthrowing the tyrannical Fidel Castro.

During the invasion at "The Bay of Pigs" he was captured, escaped and fled to Miami, there to be joined by his wife and son two months later.

After being shuttled about in refugee camps in Miami and an unsuccessful venture in search of a job in a Pennsylvania city, the Montejos found themselves in Columbus.

Here they had relatives and were to meet the people who, on Nov. 22, will head their "thank you" list.

Dr. Julio Sanguilly, medical director at St. Anthony Hospital, a former Cuban resident now living in Whitehall, had spent much effort on trying to help his displaced countrymen.

During his work for his people, Dr. Sanguilly met Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Atkinson of 6028 Dublin-rd, Dublin, whom

Will Ask Media To Delete Sunday Hours From Ads

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Sunday Sales law proponents are marching down another avenue of attack in attempts to discourage the "seven-day work week."

This time, Greater Columbus Sunday Association officials are knocking on the doors of radio, press and TV executives seeking further support in the crackdown.

Gene King, executive secretary of the association, said Monday that form letters are to be sent out "by the end of the week" to advertising executives and publishers in the media, asking that any copy referring to Sunday store hours be deleted.

"First of all," King said, we think it's an impropriety for the media to continue to accept advertising which publicly proclaims intentions of a particular firm to break the Sunday closing law."

The letter, in essence, will ask executives to "adhere to a code of advertising ethics and delete that copy which indicates Sunday openings and which publicly scoffs at the law."

The association is being backed up in this latest move by the Better Business Bureau of Central Ohio.

Edward Hughes, president and general manager of the bureau, said Monday that "as long as you have the law it should be enforced."

Hughes also said:

"In the interest of the private enterprise system, the law must be upheld. I'm sure that the media will feel the same way and will not publish anything helping a violation of the law. The media has this responsibility to fulfill."

The bureau head did indicate, however, that there would be exceptions to this policy.

He pointed out that as long as items within the legal limits of the law were being advertised, it would be "within the right of the media" to advertise Sunday hours.

We Are Proud Of Our Homemakers

For three days last week it was our privilege and a real pleasure to accompany the Hartley Newspapers Suburban Homemakers on a trip to Chicago where they were present for the crowning of the National Suburban Homemaker.

And while it would have been wonderful to have had one of these fine ladies come home with the national award, $5000 in cash, I'm sure each of the four does feel quite rewarded to have made the trip and be honored locally with such recognition.

The Homemaker Contest is one sponsored by large suburban newspapers such as ours from various sections of the country. Fifty-four such newspapers had representative local homemaker winners present at the big party in Chicago.

At a Homemakers Panel discussion on Thursday morning previous to the announcement of the winner, all the ladies appeared on the program with nationally prominent persons conducting the questioning.

To sit in the audience and hear the comments of our local "gals" would have brought delight to the heart of anyone from Columbus. We'll say they were the "greatest."

Next week we will give a more detailed rundown on the conference and some of the bits of wisdom we obtained. And with this we drop the curtain on the 1962 Homemaker search and say to all, "It was wonderful."

'Dry' Meet In Whitehall

Whitehall council conducted one of its most "dry" meetings to date during regular session Tuesday night.

The session only lasted until 9 p.m. and the solons acted mainly on routine legislation such as insuring the new city hall building.

Most significant thing was acceptance of a 35-mph zone along E. Main-st, east of Country Club-rd. Details of this story are on page 12.

$175 May Be Split Three Ways

This week's edition contains the tenth and final round of Hartley Newspapers' giant football contest.

If the jackpot, which has been accumulating during the season, is not claimed in the ninth round, the entire bankroll will be split three ways after the tenth round.

The first-place winner will receive 50 percent, the runner-up will get 30 percent, and 20 percent will go to the contestant who finishes third.

The money will not be doubled if the winners are paid subscribers.

However, if a lucky contestant hits the jackpot on the games played on the week end of Nov. 24, the regular rules will prevail.

Illinois Mother Of Three Is Selected Suburban Homemaker Of The Year

A 38-year-old Park Forest, Ill., mother of three was honored today as America's Suburban Homemaker of 1962.

Her selection was announced at an all-day National Suburban Homemakers Conference which stressed the growing importance and changing responsibilities of the nation's 21 million suburban homemakers.

Selection of Mrs. Robert V. Haverkamp was announced at an award ceremony which climaxed the conference held in the Sheraton-Blackstone Ho-

New City Hall Dedicated

It was a soggy Sunday but somehow that didn't seem to matter to the people of Whitehall.

The sun was shining in the vicinity of 360 S. Yearling-rd as some 300 Whitehall residents watched the official opening of their new $380,000 City Hall building.

The beautiful new structure, built under the leadership of Whitehall Mayor Walter B. Moling, is the realization of a long-time wish by that city's residents.

Actually, the building has been occupied for the last four weeks and council meetings have been held there.

Present and past city fathers were introduced and Supreme Court Judge C. William

Christmas Guide To Help Local Armchair Shoppers

Effective in today's edition and continuing for the next four editions, Hartley Newspapers will feature a "Christmas Shoppers Guide" to be found on the classified page.

Aimed at pleasing the "armchair shopper," the guide will include Christmas gift suggestions for mom, dad, the children, and even the family pet.

Each week, names and addresses of 10 persons will be printed between the ads. If the lucky 10 will call us at BR. 4-1155, Hartley Newspapers will send them two guest tickets to the RKO Palace Theater.

Current attraction there is "Gay Purr-ee," featuring the voice of Judy Garland.

Seniors To Stage Book Drive Monday

Whitehall seniors will engage in a public service Monday, Nov. 26, and, at the same time, get a chance to "walk off" their Thanksgiving Day dinner.

The students, for the first time at Whitehall, have decided to stage a community-wide, house-to-house project. Most of the good will be felt by the school's library.

They're calling it a book drive.

All of the seniors, by volunteering, will emerge on the city Monday after the 3:30 p.m. bell lets them out of school. They'll be equipped with just a letter of introduction and a friendly smile on their canvassing tour.

The letter tells the story: "We are canvassing the city to recover books loaned from the school library and not returned by the borrowers. If you have any such books, we will return them for you without asking any questions or requesting that the fine be paid."

The letters are signed by Principal Austin Peel and are printed on official high school letterheads so that you can be confident of its authenticity.

The canvass will last until dark, according to senior class advisors Helen Truex and James Poe.

WHITEHALL HIGH senior class president, Alan Wisner, checks over a special form letter with the school's librarian, Joel McKee. The letters will be carried by Ram students who will canvass the city Monday, Nov. 26, in search of unreturned library books which they'll return without any questions asked. The letter was designed to save time in explaining the project to residents.

Thanksgiving Came Early . .

It's true. We don't appreciate the simple, basic things of life until we stand to lose them.

We even think lightly of life itself until the day it is threatened.

Just one month ago a great crisis gripped our country. For several tense hours we waited, wondering if someone would hair-trigger the Cuban situation off into sudden war.

Then — in those fateful moments — surely most of us placed a new value on the little things about us. The common things, the ordinary, the familiar — they suddenly meant more to us than ever. A family, a job, a comfortable home, — all so precious, yet all could be obliterated in less than 15 minutes in a nuclear war.

On Oct. 23, our country stood firm — and the threat has subsided some. Yet this crisis brought Thanksgiving into our presence a whole month earlier than is our custom.

In years past we gave Cuba so very little attention. It was the place where Dad's after-dinner cigar came from. But today the "insignificant island" poses to us the same form of threat and tyranny that drove the Pilgrim fathers to new destiny in 1620.

If nothing else, it gives us a renewed sense of values, a heart strong for God-like living, and hands humble in a prayer of thanksgiving.

A HOME SIDE THANKSGIVING PRAYER

We thank Thee today, Dear Father
For guiding us this year;

We thank Thee for the moment when
To us You've been so near.

We thank Thee for necessities
Which were provided here;

We thank Thee for our many friends
Who are so very dear.

We thank Thee for the golden harvest
And for keeping us secure.

We thank Thee we can follow Thee
And have hearts which are pure.

So on this day of Thanksgiving
May we more humble be,

And truly now, our precious Lord,
We give our Thanks to Thee.

Amen.

Life In A Seaweed Bungalow Foreseen

Good grief! What is man coming to?

Recently Dr. William Krogman, eminent anthropologist of the University of Pennsylvania, predicted the day soon will come when man's increasing brain power will permit the average guy to communicate with his fellowmen via telepathy, thereby ending all secrets.

McPeek

As if that isn't startling enough in itself, now another equally distinguished scientist, French deep sea explorer Jacques-Yve Cousteau, foresees a new specie of man — homo acquaticus, the Water Man, "who will be born, live and die entirely beneath the sea."

Within 50 years, says Cousteau, man will live in watertight houses in sub-briny communities. An experimental "village," large enough to hold 24 persons, will be submerged 33 feet below the Mediterranean within a few months.

Giving support to Cousteau's prediction is our own National Aeronautics and Space Administration whose scientists are now at work on an artificial gill that will convert man into a fish. The gill, which will fit under the armpit, will allow the user to regenerate his blood with oxygen without breathing.

Won't that be jolly? Perhaps it is as it should be. Man, who since antiquity more often than not has been a sucker (land specie) may end up wiggling in his natural habitat.

Come to think of it, perhaps we had best hurry in our efforts to submerge. Who knows, that may be how man will survive.

Could this be too far-fetched? It's a Friday afternoon in the spring of the year 2062 A.D. Earth, still charred and barren from the Great War, is quiet, except for the wind and the sea . . . and scattered colonies of Martians who have migrated to a new world.

But beneath the waves there are still struggling remnants of the old Earth — a few thousand humans in snug little underwater communities . . . forming political parties and unions and taking out 30-year mortgages on prefab shell-sided bungalows by the shoresea.

Up on shore two passing Martians pause.

"Hi, Xento. How's things going?"

"Great, Zadlus. How you been?"

"Couldn't be better. Say, Xento, if you aren't doing anything tomorrow, how about zipping out to the flats with me to take in the dragrocket handicap finals? There's a couple of hot entries from Venus that promise to burn up track records."

"Sure wish you had said something sooner, Zadlus, but I promised my boy, Kazdow, I'd take him peopling. I hear the suckers are really biting out in the bay. My brother-in-law, Rowkad, caught a 240-pounder last week on a homemade lure."

"Yeah, what kind of lure?"

It was a little miniature people woman. He got the idea from a picture in the Hawaii section of the Museum of Natural Humans. Real clever lure; has a tiny grass skirt and wiggles a lot. Rowkad thinks it's foolproof because the little hands waggle, as if they are telling a message or story."

Frosting On The Cake

By
"UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

"Smarty-pants" kids are a dime a dozen in my book and I know whereof I speak because I was Grade A in that department until I was 10 years of age.

One time my mother and I were up at Rome Center, Mich., visiting my wise old doctor Grampa and Grammy Ross. My mother told me to go out and bring in an armful of wood and fill the water pail. It was raining cats and dogs and I sassed my mother, but good. Grammy heard me and the next instant I learned all about the "atomic bomb." She really gave me the business. It was a long spell before I paid any attention to the weather when they needed wood or water.

Too many parents today start out raising a spoiled brat and by age six they wonder why Mama's darling is a first class Genghis Khan who thinks he is something special and has every right to give any teacher a hard time.

Any six months old born with normal mental gears is an expert at psychological warfare, and unless taught to mind, gets away with murder. Any bright kid will play this racket to the limit and it shows up especially at meal time.

"Johnny doesn't like this; Mary doesn't like that" — and getting such kids to eat is a major production three times a day. The pediatricians who know their business try almost futilely to make Mama understand that "a hungry kid will eat" unless he is really sick.

There is a way to lick this situation in any home. Get a wide-spraddled high chair, put it out in the middle of the floor, put Mr. or Miss Bully in it, tie down the shelf tray and let 'em sit.

Any healthy child whose stomach is really churning, will discover mighty fast that food is food, and they can take it or leave it. But too often Mama gets hysterics and Papa gets ulcers about the whole silly mess.

Child psychologists are getting rich and Mama is getting grey hairs, way ahead of time. If your doctor tells you there is no pathological trouble with your "dear darling's" digestive machinery, you can lick this nonsense awfully fast. Scolding and spanking are out in any such situation.

No teacher can make a spoiled brat at six over into an angel at age seven. Wise and dedicated teachers do the best they can with whatever raw material parents send them, but that wouldn't be so rough by itself. What drives teachers "off their rocker" is having Mama rush down to school to bawl out any teacher, to-wit: "You make other devils behave, but you leave my child alone."

GRATITUDE

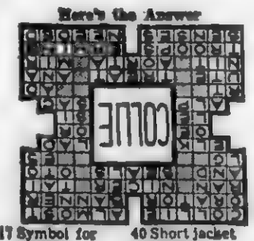
In a downtown store window we once saw a painting of a bearded old man in clean overalls sitting on a kitchen chair before a scrubbed table. On it were half a loaf of dry bread and a glass of water. The old man's head was bowed, thanking God for His bounty.

The first crop of the Pilgrims at Plymouth was a failure. During their first year about half of them died of sickness, exposure, and malnutrition. Their next harvest was not much better, but they united in thanking God for it. That was the first Thanksgiving on American soil.

For about a century we have observed an official Thanksgiving Day in November after the harvest. Many go to church. Others give thanks at home in a more or less formal way. Perhaps a few do neither. Yet, surely, there must be a very few who do not have some sense of gratitude.

Except for Christmas, more kinsmen and friends get together for Thanksgiving than for any other time of the year. People, even the least devout, like to unite in giving thanks, each in his own way.

All this is obvious, but we like to say again. It's good for all of us.



It says here . . . Gratitude is the brightest flower in the garden of good will.

Boycott By Free Men Would Starve Reds

To The Editor:

Now that we have accomplished nothing toward ridding our hemisphere of the Red menace, and have witnessed the inept performance of the United Nations Organization—we are free to return to our uneasiness.

Mr. K. of the Kremlin may or may not still have missiles aimed at our cities with their exposed millions of people, the Russian technicians are still in Cuba, Castro still wears his automatic pistol on his hip—in short, the gang is still in business.

Mr. U Thant was able to visit Cuba, and returned with his message of hope. We do not know what this hopeful message consists of, since our press became strangely silent concerning the actual arrangements being made.

Mr. Stevenson was at his histrionic best in wrangling over "procedure" with a V. Zorin whose bored attitude conveyed the impression that the play was not too important. Subsequent events demonstrate clearly the fact that not one important concession has been forthcoming from the entire performance. I am doubtful that even the Red Cross will soil its hands in meddling in an affair which is so patently of vital concern to America.

We must start now to realize the truth—and the truth is that America can no longer afford to entrust its affairs to those who are not a part of the greatness which is uniquely an attribute of freedom. Americans must grasp the reigns, and put a stop to the dangerous practices which threaten to surrender our greatness to a theory rendered useless by its vulgarity, godlessness, and emptiness.

No communistic system could long endure unless assisted by gifts from free men. Famine alone would end the rule of the Reds—if we would cease to assist any nation whose conduct plainly demonstrates alignment with Russia.

Declares Selfishness Defeated School Issues

Why should people begrudge the children of their community an adequate education?

I for one feel that the motives for voting down the Madison school bond issue and levy were indeed selfish. People want all the modern conveniences, new homes, expensive autos, and all those material things that provide comfort but seem to forget that our minds also need provisions. They pay taxes on these "needs," yet they are not willing to pay one and one-half cents a day to feed the minds of children.

Mankind down through the ages has always striven to make his life more comfortable but starves his mind and soul. May those who so selfishly failed to consider the minds of our future leaders be sorely uneasy in conscience.

Ashamed of my community,
Mrs. Don (Wanets) Weaver

Reader Urges All To Help 'Forgotten Ones'

". . . Search and see if there is not some place where you may invest your humanity. . ." These are the words of the great humanitarian, Albert Schweitzer. There is no disputing the obvious fact that Albert Schweitzer did a great deal for his fellow man; but all of us are not Albert Schweitzers.

Nevertheless, we are often asked to give to many more "worthy" causes than we can afford, and most of the time we throw in a contribution and promptly forget it. We do not experience much, if any, feeling that we are helping mankind. Probably, we don't know exactly what our contributions are used for; yet through this kind of mechanized, or impersonal giving much good for the sake of mankind has been accomplished.

Would you like to feel that you have truly helped someone?

Christmas, probably the most loved, and certainly the happiest of all Christian holidays, is a very sad occasion for patients at the Columbus State Hospital who hope to hear from someone on the outside, and who find, come Christmas morning, that they have been forgotten. This need not happen; you can make Christmas the joyous day that it should be if you give a few small personal articles or things to eat: fruit drops, candy bars, cookies or chewing gum. Do not gift wrap anything, the hospital volunteers will do that.

Take your gifts to Swan Cleaners or call the Volunteer Service office at the Columbus State Hospital, BR. 4-1171, and take your things directly to the hospital, 1960 W. Broad-st.

These little gifts mean so much.

Humble Word Wields Scripture Challenge

One of the most challenging words of Scripture is the word "therefore."

Here is a word that must be preceded by a setting forth of either meaningful deeds or significant principles. Because of what has been done or because of what has been stated, the "therefore" is in order.

Rev. Langholz

Lincoln is said to have used the word "responsibility" as often as he used the word "freedom." The word "responsibility" echoes a strong "therefore." You are free, therefore face up to your citizenship obligations.

From the ministry of the Lord Jesus, three of His "therefores" come to mind readily.

After setting forth the Heavenly Father's concern for His creatures, He said to those listening to His Sermon on the Mount: "Therefore take no thought saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed?—But seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

Another significant "therefore" appears in His encounter with the chief priests and scribes, who were always intent on putting Him on the spot. They tempted Him with the question, "Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or no?" Perceiving their craftiness, He asked for a coin, and then inquired, "Whose image and superscription hath it?" They could only answer, "Caesar's." He then said, "Render therefore unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things which be God's." What a tremendous "therefore" that even today reaches down into men's obligations to government and to God!

Still another of our Lord's significant "therefores" is found in His statement about His coming to judgment. Emphasizing the unexpectedness of His coming, He drove home the admonition, "Therefore, be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh."

From the words of our Lord's apostle, St. Paul, we have a "therefore" that goes all the way back to Calvary and then confronts us with a continuing obligation of gigantic proportions: 'For ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body and in your spirit, which are God's." Here is a "therefore" that requires nothing less than genuine commitment to Him who is the Savior of us all. In somewhat greater detail: You belong to Him, therefore live under Him in His kingdom and serve Him; you are not your own, therefore, instead of living unto self, live unto Him who died for you and rose again.

The divine "therefores" confront us with responsibilities we dare not ignore.

Rabbi Zelizer Gives Talk At Thanksgiving Assembly

Rabbi Nathan Zelizer of Temple Tifereth Israel was the guest speaker at Eastmoor's Thanksgiving assembly, Tuesday.

Eastmoor's band, under the direction of Jerry Kay, along with the senior choir, directed by Paul Morris, added much to the Thanksgiving atmosphere.

The Y-Teens planned the Thanksgiving program with Sandy Laile as chairman and her committee, which included: Cheryl Blakely, Cathy Cole, Patience Cox, Harriet Dunler, Karen Hiller and Sandy Richards.

Seventy-four seniors took the Ohio General Scholarship test Nov. 15 in the library.

Dr. Harold H. Elbling, superintendent of Columbus Public Schools, held a student press conference Nov. 14 in the Board of Education Building. There were representatives from each Columbus high school and the students directed their questions to Dr. Elbling.

A few of the topics discussed were: "Why Not Fraternities or Sororities?"; "Why Aren't There More Counselors in the High Schools?", and "What is Dr. Elbling's Opinion on Federal Aid to Education?" Representing Eastmoor were Carole Harrison, Linda Kimmerle, Chuck Levirson, Mike Mirvis and Judi Tuggle.

Eastmoor's yearbook, the "Shield," received a second place rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. The co-editors for last year's Shield were Janet Gray and Connie Rau.

"The Hasty Heart," a drama comedy three-act play, given under the direction of James A. Kaiser, drew a capacity crowd Nov. 16 and 17. The leading characters were Wynn Justice and Phil Wilson; the supporting roles were played by Mike Bollen, Mike Capson, Craig Bergman, Lee Sharpless and Ron Steelman.

Judge Troop Gives Talk For PTA Gathering Here

By ANNE MALAY

WYHS PTA held its second meeting of the year Monday evening, Nov. 12, in the high school auditorium.

Municipal Court Judge Horace B. Troop spoke on the problems of today's youth. Judge Troop outlined experiences and how they have given him insight into his own children's problems.

Judge Troop stated that each year there is an increasing number of youth who get into serious trouble. He believes this trouble first starts in the home, where parents fail to give their children the necessary guidance. Parents should exercise authority and should not hesitate to discipline their children. "American youth," says the judge, "are over-indulged."

Judge Troop added that each family should set aside a certain day each week as family day. "Young people need to feel," he said, "that their parents have an interest in them and are willing to spend time with them."

Student Council is making plans for sponsoring a foreign exchange student and for the adoption of a foreign child. WYHS clubs are being asked to participate in these two plans.

Student Council has said the exchange student will be brought to this country by the government and will reside in the home of a Whitehall student. This exchange student will cost WYHS $650.

This student would be acting as a type of goodwill ambassador between the two countries and would carry with him first hand experiences to pass on to others. Many believe this is a great way to peace and understanding in our troubled world of today.

The other project sponsored by the Student Council is also in its initial stage. WYHS wishes to adopt a child by sending $150 annually to buy school clothing, food, books, and other necessities. In return, the child would send pictures and letters which could be enjoyed by the whole student body. Tapes would also be sent to bring more personal contact between the child and the sponsors.

Although these projects will be a little expensive, it is felt that there will be many gratifying gains on both sides which will more than compensate.

Parent's Advice Off The Cuff

A handcuff bracelet is hard to explain to anyone, much much to parents. A t least that was the experience of Martha Jean LaRosa, 22, of 4324 Astor-av.

She surrendered to Whitehall police on her parent's advice early Friday morning.

Officer Tom Trace arrested her in front of a Columbus East Side restaurant for reckless driving. According to Trace, Miss LaRosa caused him trouble and he put the handcuffs on her and she ran.

WHITEHALL ADULTS PLANNING PTA SHOW

'Camera' Should Click

"I Am A Camera," the comedy by John van Druten, author of such other well-known plays as "Voice of the Turtle," "Bell, Book and Candle" and "I Remember Mama," will be presented by the Gallery Players at the Jewish Center auditorium for six performances beginning Saturday night, Dec. 1.

Harriet Slott will be seen in the leading role of the glib, excitement-seeking night club singer (in which Julie Harris won stardom and every available honor award when she created the part in New York during the 1951-52 season) and Roger Allen will have the part of the platonic friend and observer of the girl's reckless activities.

The play includes a young Jewish couple who will be portrayed by Joan Minkoff and Maury Kenily; a free spending, back-slapping American visiting Europe on a binge, who will be played by Curt Meeks; a landlady of the mouldy, dingy boarding house where the action takes place, a role to be taken by Marilyn Samelson; and a highly respectable mother, played by Bebe Springer, will be seen.

The settings for the production have been designed by Bill Walters and constructed by Barry Goodman. Lighting is by Robert Stegmiller.

Reservations for "I Am A Camera" may be secured by telephoning the center box office, BE. 1-2731. Admission is $1.75. One hundred tickets are available at $1 for the Wednesday and Thursday night performances, Dec. 5 and 6.

Reservations for the production, which goes into rehearsal this week, may be obtained by phoning the Gallery Players office, BE. 1-2731.

Arty Facts

Charles W. Wellman, the Jewish Center's art instructor whose special opening lecture was attended by over 30 people, will spend appreciable time during the 10 sessions with each student in order to deal with the individual on his particular level of development.

The fee for this evening art course is $12 for center members and $18 for non-center members.

The next meeting of the Jewish Center's Fourth Year Great Books Discussion Group will be held Tuesday, Nov. 27, in Room 307 at 8 p.m. Leadership for this group of individuals that have met for discussion purposes for the past four years is on a rotating basis.

Local Showmen To Shine At Winter Jazz Festival

Columbus Showbiz Artists, under the leadership of area favorite Buddy Clark, will stage a "Winter Jazz Festival" Sunday, Nov. 25, at Lombardi's on Trabue-rd. Show starts at 8 p.m. and the public is invited.

This is the groups' last show of 1962, Clark informs, and marks the end of the fifth year of the club.

"We're really going to make it a grand ball," said Clark with the enthusiasm of a school boy on his way home with a good report card. "The show will be loaded with the best of our artists and bustin' with the best of top local guest stars and personalities in our profession."

Clark

Clark only asks that the gang dress sharply. Formals and cummerbunds are in order, he says, but not required. "We want this show to have the dignity of the Academy Award dinners.

Admission is $1 per couple for members and $2 per couple for others. "Everybody who's a somebody in local showbiz is expected to be on hand," he says.

• Paramount Pictures informs that Bob Donner has been signed to make his film debut as a college undergrad in Jerry Lewis' "The Nutty Professor," in which Lewis stars and also directs.

• Zsa Zsa Gabor, who was in Columbus two seasons ago with the Kenley Players, has been signed for the top comedy role of a flashy Parisienne fashion expert who dresses better than her models in Melville Shavelson's "Samantha," a Paramount release starring Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward and Thelma Ritter.

Edith Johnson Now With WLW-C, TV-4

As an associate director at NBC-TV in 1952, she concentrated on the "Milton Berle Show," "Garroway - at - Large," and the "First Person." In 1954, she became NBC-TV's first woman associate director on the West Coast with such credits as "The Jerry Lewis Show," "Eddie Fisher Show," "George Goebel Show,"

MISS JOHNSON
Coordinating Production

"Wide, Wide World," "The Dinah Shore Show," and Albert McCleery's "NBC Matinee Theatre."

At WLW-C, Miss Johnson will be mainly interested in the development of new programs and the installation of network production techniques into the TV 4 operation. In the coming weeks, TV 4 programs should begin to mirror her experienced directing talent.

Son Of Whitehall Couple Now President Of Ohio Bell Co.

A native Ohioan who began his telephone career 26 years ago will return to his home state Dec. 1 as president of Ohio Bell.

Frederick R. Eckley was named to the communications utility's top executive job today at a meeting of the Ohio Bell board of directors. He succeeds Walter S. Sparling, who leaves at the end of this month in accordance with the company's retirement plan.

Graduating from Ohio State University in 1936, Eckley took his first telephone job that same year in the commercial department of New Jersey Bell Telephone Company.

After 10 years there he moved to the parent American Telephone and Telegraph Company in New York where he worked on several public relations assignments and as right-of-way sales engineer.

He joined the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company at Omaha in 1952 as commercial operations supervisor, and rose to assistant vice-president of sales and merchandising in 1955.

Eckley returned to New York in 1956 as business office engineer for AT and T. A year later he became assistant vice-president of merchandising, and in 1958 he moved to the commercial department as assistant vice-president.

In 1959 he was made director of personnel and public relations in AT and T's Long Lines Department, and in January of 1961 he moved to Detroit to become vice-president and general manager of Michigan Bell.

Eckley grew up in a telephone family. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Eckley of 314 Fairway-blvd, are longtime residents of Columbus. His father concluded a 42-year telephone career in 1952, his last four years in Cleveland as Ohio Bell's vice-president of business research and revenue requirements.

The new Ohio Bell president is active in civic and professional affairs. His affiliations include the Institute for Economic Education, American Ordnance Association, Economic Club of Detroit, the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce, Michigan State Chamber of Commerce and the Newcomers and Building Fund Committee of the United Foundation.

The Eckleys have two daughters.

Sparling is winding up a 41-year career in the business—most of it spent in Cleveland and the last five years as president.

Tuesday was "Turkey Day" at Walnut Ridge, and the cafeteria served turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie.

Seniors pictures are now being taken at Joyce Studios. Seniors who have not had their pictures taken should contact Beverlee Regules in room 108.

The Ohio Scholarship Test for seniors was taken last Thursday by Bill Gee, Susan Thorn, Pat Bair, Joe Childers, Steve Butterfield, Douglas Beardslee and Patti White.

TO THE EDITOR:

Woman Praises Work Of Whitehall Emergency Squad

On Tuesday evening I had the unfortunate experience of witnessing a close friend have a heart attack. The purpose of this letter is to praise and commend the Whitehall Emergency Squad. The prompt and efficient care and treatment that they administered to the gentleman was most heart warming and gratifying. When they entered the house, although there was excitement, a calm came over the family for they seemed to "sense" that their husband and father was in capable hands now.

Their actions were most effective yet gentle. After getting the patient to the hospital with all possible speed, their reassuring talks to the wife were so encouraging. These men could have brought the patient to the hospital, and then their duty being done, left. This is their job and all we ask of them. Instead, they stayed on for a few minutes, checked on the patient for his wife, and were most solicitous in their concern for her since she is seven months pregnant.

I don't believe that the people in our community realize how extremely fortunate we are in having this fine group of corpsmen. They are always only minutes away from us and the speed and efficiency with which they work is something to behold. These men are gentlemen in the truest meaning of the word. Our hats off to them and a most heartfelt "thank you."

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. N. W. Thomas

East Sider Gets Award In Detroit

An East Columbus father of five received an American Red Cross certificate of merit last Thursday in Detroit for saving the life of the son of Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanaugh last summer.

Theodore S. Stacy, Jr., 392 S. Hampton-rd, lived in Detroit, across the street from the mayor, until he recently moved to the East Side address.

Last July, Stacy's quick action in giving the mayor's two-year-old son mouth-to-mouth respiration after the youngster caught his head in the power window of a station wagon, was credited with saving the boy's life.

Stacy is currently employed at North American Aviation.

Glen Eagle Wins 8th Football Round

Without a doubt, S. L. Pidock, 3656 Seabrook-av, is the unluckiest man in the Columbus area.

Three times in the past seven weeks Pidock has failed to win Hartley Newspapers' giant football contest by a whisker.

Last week Glenn E. Eagle, 152 Williams-rd, and Pidock missed only five of the 24 games, but Eagle's guess on the tie-breaker was closest to the exact score of the OSU-Oregon game.

Eagle guessed 21-7 in favor of the Bucks. Pidock predicted the game would end in a 14-14 deadlock. The Bucks won the game 26-7.

Final Round

Listed below in the ads are 24 more top college and professional games to be played on the weekend of Dec. 1. These games represent the tenth and final round in the contest.

If no one hits the jackpot on the ninth round, to be played on the weekend of Nov. 24, the accumulated jackpot will be awarded to the top three contestants in the tenth round.

First place winner will receive 50 per cent, second place runner-up will get 30 per cent, and 20 per cent will go to the contestant who finishes third.

Gornall, Paxson Pace Capital U. Upset Win

Capital's football Lutherans closed out their '62 season with a stunning 13-0 upset win over Otterbein Saturday.

The Purple and White capitalized on two costly Cardinal fumbles to score both of their second half touchdowns on 22-yard aerials from quarterback Denny Engler to ex-Eastmoor end Larry Gornall.

Former Whitehall quarterback Ron Paxson recovered the second Otterbein bobble that set up the TD that iced the victory for Cap.

Capital finished its season with a 4-4 Ohio Conference mark.

Everybody in the church is excited over our money raising idea. They're all going to help us save bottle caps from Whistle, 3-V Cola and Hires Root Beer. When they found they were worth ½c each for the church, they voted to set a goal of $300 to raise in bottle caps by May. A SHOT AT the City League basketball title is the hope of Tiger coach Bob Hart and these six East returnees. The Tigers, who finished in the loop's fifth spot last year, have higher goals in mind as they prepare for the '62-'63 cage season. Left to right are senior guard Mike Hammond, senior guard Bob Calloway, coach Hart, senior forward Ken Fowlkes, junior center Ed Waller, senior guard Gene Reynolds and center-forward Avery Godfrey. All but Godfrey are returning lettermen.

HOOP PREVIEW

East Five Handed Title 'Hot Seat'

City League opponents of East's basketball Tigers are throwing the "hot potato" included in the favorite's tag to coach Bob Hart this season.

Hart, who is taking over the head cage reins after five seasons as reserve coach, is optimistic about the Tigers' hoop fortunes but he's making no rash promises.

SIX LETTERMEN have returned to a squad that finished fifth in the City circuit last season and lost to Newark, the district champ, in the tournament semi-finals.

Among those cagers Hart is banking on to improve East's basketball fortunes this season are four seniors—Mike Hammond, a 5-10 guard, Bob Calloway, a 5-11 guard, Ken Fowlkes, a 6-4 forward and Gene Reynolds, a 5-9 guard.

Junior letterman Ed Waller, a 6-4 center, also figures strongly in Tiger plans. Also returning is Avery Godfrey, a 6-3 center-forward, who came on strongly in the tournament last year.

HART, WHO has won four reserve championships in the last five seasons, can call on five hot prospects from his '61-'62 Jayvee club.

Among those reserve players moving up to the varsity this season are five juniors—Walt Byers, a 6-0 forward, Jim Brow, a 6-3 center, Bill Hairston, a 6-2 forward, Mel Smith, a 6-0 guard and Mike Gordon, a 5-9 guard.

Eligibility dealt Hart a severe blow as grades struck down two good prospects in 6-2 Bob Martin and 5-10 Dick Tanner. However, both could be eligible at mid-year and be a big help by tournament time.

A COUPLE of promising sophomores who could see action for the Tigers this season are 6-2 Frank Watson and 5-10 Marv Owens.

Taking over the Reserve team this season will be Paul Pennell, who prepped at West High School and Ohio State University. Pennell is in his second year at East but this will be his first venture at a coaching task.

As far as league competition goes, Hart listed Central, North and Linden as the teams to beat with the dark horse tag going to CL newcomer Whetstone.

Again this season, the East schedule includes several of the perennial "toughies" around the state. Here is the '62-'63 Tiger cage schedule:

Nov. 30—at Chillicothe
Dec. 7—at Salem
Dec. 14—at Aquinas
Dec. 21—Eastmoor
Dec. 28—at Cuyahoga Falls
Dec. 29—at Canton Lincoln
Jan. 4—at Marion-Franklin
Jan. 11—North
Jan. 12—at Dayton Chaminade
Jan. 18—at Linden
Jan. 25—Central
Jan. 26—at Portsmouth
Feb. 1—at South
Feb. 8—West
Feb. 15—at Walnut Ridge
Feb.21—Whetstone

East, Eastmoor Nab City Spots

Eastmoor placed three members of its' '62 football squad and East added one more to the All-City League football team this week.

The Warrior trio is 210-pound senior offensive tackle Frank Shannon, 185-pound senior defensive end Paul Naumoff and 145-pound senior defensive halfback Dean Ishida.

East's All-League entry is 182-pound senior offensive end Ken Fowlkes.

The Tigers added four honorable mention candidates in John Coleman, Jim Brown, Mike Gordon and Bill Hilton while Eastmoor placed three gridders on the list — Bob Schleppi, Vince VanHorn and Jerry Myers.

Walnut Ridge, the other City League club in the area, added four boys to the honorable mention list in Dennis Day, John Roop, Tom Coneybeer and Jim Pyles.

Other all-league selections were: ends—Sam Smith and Tim Buel, North; tackles—Joe Oliver, Linden; Stan Horner and Cliff Moxley, Central; guards—Mike Renneker, North; Mike Grady, Central; John Valentine, Aquinas; Larry Taylor, Linden; center—Kenny Ash, Central; backs—Rich Neely, West; John Todhunter, North; Bob McNamee, Linden; Tom Fullove, Central; Mike Welling, Aquinas; Tom Thompson, Whetstone, George Broadnax, Central and George Bobst, Marion-Franklin.

Andrew Carnegie's first bank loan was for $217.50 to pay for his share in the first two railroad sleeping cars ever built. They were the start of what grew — many years and bank loans later—into the Pullman company.

Rules Clan Query— Who Calls Play??

What ever happened to the "thinking" quarterback?

More and more this breed of gridiron genius is gradually disappearing from football fields all across the nation and someday soon may become as extinct as the Dodo bird.

THIS VERY same thought may have been running through a few minds at a recent meeting between New York football writers and Dave Nelson, the secretary of the college football rules committee.

Was it so long ago that quarterbacks "took most of the chances" by calling their own plays on the field? Has the game improved that much more since coaches have been sending in the plays?"

The "wild card" substitution privilege, which was introduced prior to the 1960 season allows one substitute to enter the game after every play with no restrictions. This system is currently under fire from the rules committee because as Nelson said, "the committee is opposed to taking the game completely away from the boys."

BUT THERE are always two sides to every story. The coaches have two things to consider. First, and most important, the pressure of "win or else" stares them squarely in the eye. It would be only natural to figure that a man whose job could very well depend on what play was called at what time might take advantage of any opportunity to get in his "two cents worth."

And coaches also argue that the quarterback has too many other problems to consider on the field such as ball handling, defensive alignment, "automatics," etc. without being constantly saddled with the responsibility of planning each play.

The "messenger" system of coach-to-quarterback football has been around a long time. Paul Brown has employed the system with his professional Browns as long as we can remember.

IT WAS JUST a matter of time until the system sifted down to the amateur level which, close our eyes and ignore as we may, just isn't very amateur anymore anywhere.

The "wild card" system opened the door. And calling the game from the bench isn't just restricted to the colleges. It goes on in the high school circles as well.

Actually, the whole thing boils down to one question. "Is it more important to minimize the chances for field error by having the coach run the show and enhance the alma mater's chances for victory—or—should we just toss the football to the kids and tell them to win one for the old green and blue?

SHOULD THE challenge of the battle of wits, quarterback vs. quarterback, be preserved or should the sideline corps with its telephones and binoculars get the game down to a pinpoint science?

The line between the two is thin and hard to tread. Who knows what's going on better—the quarterback on the field or the spotter in the press box?

And remember that today's football coaching is more complex than just chalking the blackboard, calling calisthenics and passing out uniforms.

It's a tough question to answer and there's no safe, clear-cut solution at either end. Just like one coach said recently, "If I called every play for my team and lost a game to a 19-year-old kid who was calling his own shots, I wouldn't feel very proud."

BITS OF WIT(T) — It was interesting to note that Paul Brown isn't concerning himself with whether or not Ernie Davis sees action with the Browns this year. At least it appears that Paul knows where part of the problem is—up front. It might be safe to figure that Cleveland's offensive line won't draw too many all-league honors this season.

Whitehall Solons OK Main-st Speed Cut

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

After Whitehall council gave its approval Tuesday to change a strip of E. Main-st to a 35 mph speed zone, Safety Director Richard Moling would have been justified if he did backflips.

Council's approval was the final step in a tough, long fight staged by Moling over the E. Main-st thoroughfare east of Country Club-rd which had been made a 50 mph zone two months ago (over protests of Whitehall officials) and a serious safety hazard.

"We're very happy that the area's officially back to a 35-mile area," said Moling. "And, it's my sincere hope that we can start rebuilding our safety program."

The State Highway Department gave its approval to the change at 5 p.m. Monday. Immediately, Moling directed off-duty policemen to patrol the mile-long stretch and issue warnings to drivers of the change.

No enforcement was done then, however, since the change wasn't official until council okayed it Tuesday evening during regular session.

Two police officers warned about 300 motorists they were going over 35, though. Police Chief Ralph Walker has ordered a special patrol to "work" the area.

Moling's efforts undoubtedly spurred moves on other sections of the street which are within the limits of Reynoldsburg and Columbus.

The Highway Department Monday afternoon, on a resolution by Reynoldsburg Council (passed Oct. 2) approved speed changes in that city, also. Still hanging in balance is the section in Columbus.

E. Main in Reynoldsburg is now 45-mph east of the city, 25 mph through the center, 35 mph to Brice-pk and 45 mph on into Columbus. This is a considerable reduction in the area which was formerly as high as 60 mph in some spots.

Columbus Traffic Engineer John Gallagher said that Columbus city council's safety committee had tabled his recommendation to set a 40 or 45-mile-an-hour limit on the area between the suburbs.

The traffic engineer added that he would try to hurry up the matter in council so that a conforming resolution can be submitted to the highway department.

Moling got a big push in his crusade from the fact that five persons were killed in that stretch during the last 21 days.

Three persons were killed in a head-on collision Oct. 26, and last Friday two more were killed. Traffic reports show that five others were hurt in that accident.

"No one will ever know, of course," said Moling, "if the high speed zone actually caused the accidents but we do know for a fact that there were a lot of people who threw it in the faces of police that they could now exceed even greater speed limits."

No reports have come from the Whitehall safety director's office that would indicate that that city's police department would give stringent enforcement to the new speed law.

In fact, Moling said that "We've always given a few miles-over grace and we won't change now. We will make certain, however, that 50 and 60-mile per hour drivers are slowed down. After all, we're in the business of saving lives."

Parents of young children often name their banks as guardians of property which would come to their children in case of their deaths.

THESE TWO Whitehall youngstes had the honor of unveiling the dedication plaque Sunday afternoon during ceremonies which officially opened the new Whitehall City Hall. The young man is Dennis Siemer, son of Council President Walter Siemer, and the pretty lass is Elizabeth Short. Some 300 persons witnessed the occasion.

Dedicated—

O'Neill delivered the dedication address.

The event started with a parade from the Yearling-rd high school to the new building. The Whitehall High marching band and four color guards accompanied a 14-car motorcade of present and former city officials.

One of the color guard units was made up of members of the Whitehall Police force who, at their own initiative, formed the group and outfitted themselves in striking uniforms. This was kept a secret until Sunday's parade.

An open house followed the dedication, highlighted by the unveiling of a dedication plaque bearing the names of present city officials.

The plaque was unveiled by two Whitehall youngsters, including Dennis Siemer, son of Council President Walter Siemer, and Elizabeth Short.

Other groups and individuals who took part in the dedication were:

- Veterans of Foreign Wars, Whitehall Post 8794.
- American Legion, Whitehall Post 490.
- Rev. James B. Foster of Eastview Methodist Church.
- Robert W. Crabbs, superintendent of Whitehall schools.
- Robert Rosencrans, former council president.
- Robert Harwick of Holy Spirit Church, and
- WBNS Radio and TV personality Chet Long.

Officials honored included council members Walter Siemer (president), Charles Kibler, Raymond Shipley, Darrell Todd, Linn Hiatt, Lester Ballenger, James Toomey and Kenneth McIntosh.

Service Director Robert Mickey, Safety Director Richard Moling, Building Inspector A. W. Martin, Treasurer Francis Shaeffer, Auditor Walter Helber and City Solicitor Paul Haytcher were also on hand.

Thanksgiving Also Named 'Cancer Day'

Traditional observance of Thanksgiving will also mark Cancer Research Day throughout Ohio.

The American Cancer Society's Franklin County Unit will turn over to its national offices a total of $37,570 for cancer research.

Of this amount $1,000 was earmarked by two organizations for a research project at Children's Hospital. The remainder, representing 25 per cent of the county's crusade total of last spring, will go to support cancer research across the nation in leading laboratories.

The society is underwriting this year research projects totaling $16,552,000 — and of this amount $102,400 has been allocated in projects in Columbus.

Dr. Jack Miles, president of the Franklin County Unit, noted that much of the society's income is derived from memorials when a loved one, a friend or co-worker dies of cancer. These can be mailed to the society at 2300 W. Mound-st, and the family of the deceased is notified immediately.

Annual Tea Set Sunday At Woodland

Christian Women's Fellowship of Woodland Christian Church will hold its annual tea Nov. 25, at the church, 143 Woodland-av, 4 to 7 p.m.

Guest entertainers include the male chorus of Oakley Baptist Church.

Everyone is invited.

Mrs. Enuma Warren is tea chairman; Mrs. Thelma Thomas, hostess chairman, and Mrs. Bobbie Hunt, program chairman. Rev. L. L. Dickerson is pastor.

Alteration Planned

Don M. Casto National Properties, 42 S. Fourth-st, has received a permit to alter a brick building at 3321 E. Broad-st. Valuation is $3,000.

Dear friends,

A writer suggests that we sit down at Thanksgiving time and list the things we have to be thankful for. If everyone would do this, we believe there would be more happiness and much less complaint.

We are especially thankful for our friends...we are also thankful for the many kindnesses that have come to us during the past year.

May your Thanksgiving be a happy one!

Sincerely,

Arthur B. Leach

Give Thanks on this Special Day

FOR A LAND OF PLENTY

America, America, God shed His grace on thee... A nation truly flowing with milk and honey.

The news and milk delivered right to your doorstep. For these and numerous other conveniences give special thanks to the Lord by attending Church.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Sportiest Days For Hunters Lie Ahead

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

Now that the first big push of the upland hunting season is over, how will the hunting be? This is a question that always comes our way along about this time.

Actually, there is one more day when a lot of hunters will be in the field — Thanksgiving Day. But after that the landscape empties of hunters and dogs for the most part.

This is the time that a few hunters like best, and I must include myself in the group. Nothing can replace the excitement of opening day, of course, but after this traditional hunt we can settle down to some leisurely sport.

After the first week or two of hunting it is not so difficult to get permission to hunt from land owners. Most farmers and their immediate friends have been out all they want. The game population definitely has been thinned, and is no longer attractive to a lot of hunters. But there are still enough pheasants and rabbits around to make things interesting—the only question is how to get them.

Now is when a trained hunting dog is most valuable, for with a good dog your days afield last right up to the end of the season. Pheasants quickly learn how to avoid hunters, or else they would have ended in a roasting pan last week. The birds that you will encounter from now on are running birds. You must force them to fly. A single hunter does not have much chance. But with a dog you will see some action.

Two or three hunters can work together to good advantage, by heading off birds at the ends of fields. Of course, this is the accepted practice of hunting pheasants at any time, but watching the ends of fence rows and fields is about the only way to flush birds from now on. One hunter should get into shooting position, and the others drive through the cover toward him.

As the season progresses and wind, rain and snow beat down the cover, game will become more concentrated in thickets and brushy areas. This works to the late season hunter's favor, for the elements have done some driving for him. As the remainder of the standing corn is picked, birds will more and more be found in wood lot edges, shrubby fences and ditches. Some of the best hunting of the year can be had by finding such concentrations late in the season.

Snow is of great assistance, and this is rarely on the ground during the first two weeks of hunting. By tracking pheasants you can flush the runningest cock that was ever hatched. Rabbits are easier to see when there is a snow cover.

Cold weather and snow do not bother wild animals as much as we like to think it does. Rabbits like to run before dogs on a brisk winter day. With the music of beagles drifting over the countryside, you may enjoy quality rabbit hunting from now on. They often do not run well on warm, muggy days. Deep snow can be treacherous to bobwhite quail, but it does not often bother pheasants if food and cover needs are fulfilled.

For those who really like to hunt, good days are ahead. Game bags may not be quite so full, nor shooting quite so fast as opening day, but the challenge is there. Hunters who like to get out with gun and dog will also be there enjoying it. The only sad note is that so many hunters are calling it quits for another year.

First Thanksgiving—

he describes as "the most generous people I've me... ...my life."

The Atkinson family had expressed a desire to help Sanguilly in his refugee work, and through the acquaintance, the Atkinsons and Montejos soon met.

Mauricio and his family needed a home. They had been living with Blancha's naturalized sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Bell, 3994 Virginia Circle, Whitehall.

Through mutual need, said Mrs. Atkinson, Mauricio, Mauricito and Blancha were invited to live with the Atkinson family in their newly-purchased home on Dublin-rd.

Dr. Atkinson was able to get Mauricio a job as a custodian for the City of Upper Arlington and it was in the close contact of living with the Cubans that he and his wife became more and more interested in the plight of refugees from the forsaken island.

Since last July they have been working with Dr. Sanguilly, mainly trying to find jobs and gathering clothing and household goods for refugees.

There is no official organization in Columbus for such work and the Atkinsons, with Dr. Sanguilly, carry on the large majority of the work that is done.

Mrs. Atkinson denies credit for any accomplishments she and her husband have made saying that they have done "very little" because it is "difficult to do anything along these lines."

She explained their purpose simply: "If we were in a similiar situation, we would want help, too. We are only trying to do what we hope some one would do for us, under the same conditions."

Dr. Sanguilly said of the Atkinsons, "They are giving their hearts to the Cuban people. They are most generous."

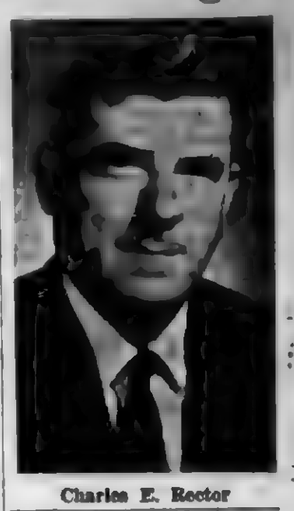
Dr. and Mrs. Atkinson are equally full of praise for Dr. Sanguilly. "He is a wonderful man, a credit to his people and a godsend to them with the work he is doing."

Mrs. Atkinson explained that some interest has been shown in the area in forming a group to assist in finding jobs for Cuban refugees.

"These are the kind of people who want to live away from charity if they can," she said, "but the language barrier is sometimes almost insurmountable in the problems it presents in trying to find employment."

She added, "People can't really understand the situation of the Cuban until it is explained personally to them by someone directly concerned."

Both Dr. Sanguilly and Dr. Atkinson, through their professions, are able to meet businessmen and seek jobs for the refugees, and Mrs. Atkinson through personal contacts, does what she can, but all three have professed that many more jobs are needed.



Dr. Sanguilly said Cuban professors are working in Miami, scrubbing garbage cans for 60 cents an hour trying to eke out a living, and many others, trained in a profession are working at jobs far below their capacity, just to survive.

The Montejos are more fortunate than most Cuban refugees. But like any people, they and most other Cubans, want to return to their homeland.

They are happy just to be out of Cuba right now, according to Blancha, "and we have much to be thankful for, especially to the Atkinsons and Dr. Sanguilly, but, we do want to go back to Cuba—when Castro is no longer in power."

The Montejos have much to be thankful for, but it will be a bittersweet day for them—Nov. 22.

Homemaker—

tel under auspices of the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc.

She was chosen from among 54 representative homemakers who were finalists in the search for National Suburban Homemaker of the Year. The search was conducted by the Foundation, which honored Mrs. Haverkamp with a $5,000 grant.

Presentation of the award was made by stage and screen actress Peggy Wood, star of the recent TV series "I Remember Mama."

The winning homemaker was chosen by a distinguished panel of national judges who made their selection on the basis of a professional rating chart which graded each nominee on a point system covering such areas as spiritual and moral strength; mental and physical health and fitness of the family; personal health and fitness; civic and community service; management of family resources; homemaking skills; and effective family life.

Competing for the national honor were homemaker finalists, ranging in age from 30 to 66, who represented suburban communities throughout the country. Fifty of them were present at the award ceremony to make up Mrs. Haverkamp's "Court of Honor."

Earlier in the day, the homemakers took part in a two-hour panel discussion session in which they answered questions on "Practices and Problems in the Suburban Home."

Posing the questions was a panel moderated by Mrs. Peg Kellholz, consumer education consultant and former women's editor of Country Gentleman Magazine.

Panelists included Miss Doris Doland, assistant to the publisher of Look Magazine; Dr. Kenneth Milstead, Federal Food and Drug Administration; Robert V. McCarthy, executive editor, Progress-Advance leader of Penn Hills, Pa.; Mrs. Virginia Habeeb, home equipment editor of American Home Magazine; Mrs. Mary Jane Chinn, KRNT-TV of Des Moines and representative of the Association of Women in Radio and Television; and Frank R. Neu, educational director, American Dairy Association.

The importance of the national conference and homemaker award was outlined by Chester K. Hayes, executive director of the Suburban Press Foundation, at the conference's opening session.

"The objective of this program is to direct national attention to suburban homemakers as the core of a good community and a sound nation," he explained. "It is designed to call national attention to the importance of family and community living and the vital role of the suburban homemaker in both.

"The conference and award ceremony emphasized and dramatized the importance of the suburban family and suburban homemaking leadership, reflecting the new role and growing importance of the suburban homemaker who is facing new opportunities, unique challenges and changing responsibilities.

"The search for National Suburban Homemaker of the Year was confined to suburban communities because one-third of America now lives in expanding suburban communities and the number still grows, and suburbs are the most significant areas on the American scene with families and communities most representative of American values."

Unlike many "contests," the rules governing the search strictly forbid any charge in fee or kind for nomination or participation. Commercial exploitation of the winner or any contestant is strictly prohibited.

The search was conducted at the local community level by member newspapers of the Suburban Press Foundation. Contestants were nominated by members of their families, relatives, friends, or local organziations. Local winners were chosen by local judges and honored at local award ceremonies. They were then entered in the competition for the national title.

The panel of national judges were:

Dr. Ruth Leverton, assistant administrator, Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture;

Dr. Marie Pfeiffer, chairman, Women's State Committee of Ohio for Public Welfare, Health and Education;

Mrs. Robert J. Phillips, president, League of Women Voters of U.S.;

Judge Clayton W. Rose, president, National Council of Juvenile Court Judges; and

Dr. Janet Wessel, professor of health, physical education and recreation at Michigan State University.

The national judges were present for the award ceremony and highlighted the conference's afternoon session with individual evaluations of the search.

The Suburban Press Foundation, which sponsored the conference and homemaker search as a public venture, is a non-profit research and education endeavor organized by leading publishers of suburban community newspapers in the U.S. It is dedicated to the advancement of suburban journalism and suburban living. National headquarters are in Chicago.

dent of the Advertising Club of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce, said that the association is 'undeniably trying to give the law a little more strength."

He said, however, that he had not had sufficient time to think about the matter—regarding its ethical merits—but indicated that the Advertising Club "probably" would thrash it out at its next meeting scheduled for Nov. 30.

King issued a further statement that he was "elated" over decisions by Columbus Mayor Ralston Westlake and Whitehall Mayor Walter B. Moling to enforce the law.

Whitehall Safety Director Richard Moling said Monday that enforcement of the law would go into effect Nov. 25 in that suburban city.

Columbus will start its crackdown next Sunday when a special squad of police will look for violators. The delay, reports indicate, is to allow merchants to close on their own.

"The association stands ready to assist both administrations in any area that they may desire," King added.

The association secretary also commented that letters were sent out this week to mayors in areas surrounding Columbus urging that enforcement steps be taken quickly. "Areas such as Grandview, Arlington and Worthington, however," King added, "aren't big problems. We still have our eye on Bexley, though."

Bexley Mayor William Schneider told his councilmen last week that they will wait until the State Legislature clarifies the law.

Reports from Grove City are that four supermarket operators there decided during an informal meeting Tuesday to shut down on Sundays, beginning Dec. 2.

Around the state it's reported that "general confusion" prevails as to enforcement of the Blue Law.

Two summons were issued last Sunday to drugstores in Marion, O., while in Mansfield, where city officials said they'd stage an immediate "clampdown" on the law, four major discount houses were open Sunday and no arrests were made.

Maple Heights (a Cleveland suburb) Mayor James V. Shipan is issuing immediate crackdowns and expressed disgust toward other mayors who have done nothing in the matter.

Cincinnati currently is ignoring stores open for business Sunday.

Obetz council Monday night carried the motion of Mayor Lloyd Peck to authorize the solicitor to draw up a resolution to the State Legislature for a clarification of the law. A further announcement was made that regardless of the outcome of the clarification, all businesses in the area would be informed ahead of time of any closing action deemed necessary.

"I Took A Trip Into The Future"

says John Cameron Swayze, noted news commentator

Four years ago, I reported on a new community in Florida that was just beginning. I've just returned from my third visit to this community, and it truly was a "trip into the future." Four years ago it was raw land with a few hundred homes. Today it is a young city of nearly 10,000 residents who are experiencing a new way of life. And tomorrow, (plans have already been made) it will be a "city in the country" perhaps ten times its present size. This exciting new city is Port Charlotte, a General Development community on Florida's southwest Gulf Coast. Look into it. It will be worth your while.

Free Information

"Port Charlotte Today"— photo album based on Mr. Swayze's visit — plus free color brochure — are yours for the asking. Come in, call, or mail the coupon.

Recreation Center To Be Built In Far East Side Of Columbus

WOODCREST ELEMENTARY, easternmost school in the Columbus School System, will be dedicated by the Board of Education Wednesday evening, Dec. 5 at 7:30. (See more pictures on page two)

The ball is rolling on construction of a huge recreation center in far east Columbus.

The Columbus Recreation Department announced that, because of the priority setup for building these centers, a structure for the northeast corner of Barnett-rd and Livingston-av was next in line.

The department is currently waiting for the Columbus School Board to announce plans to build an elementary school in that area. The school board owns seven acres in the vicinity and the recreation commission would like to wait to see if a center could be constructed to "complement" such a school building.

However, the city doesn't intend to wait long for the school board's decision.

Columbus Council earmarked $20,300 during regular session Monday to buy three properties for the center which is expected to cost $350,000 and rank in size with centers at Whetstone and Westgate.

Money available for the center was approved by voters in a 1960 bond issue.

"A center in this area is greatly needed," commented Jerry Feddersen of the recreation department. "Actually, it'll be the only one in this large section of the city."

Media Quiet Over Sunday Sales Ad Control Attempts

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Silence may be golden, but to Gene King and the Greater Columbus Sunday Association, it's having about the same impact as a lead balloon.

King expressed concern this week over "seemingly total disregard" to a recent association plea to all media executives to delete Sunday hours from advertising copy.

Letters were sent out last week to executives of press, radio and TV in the area urging the deletion on the basis that it was "publicly proclaiming intentions of a particular firm to break the Sunday closing laws."

Spot checks by this newspaper received "no comments" from area publishers and station managers over the issue.

King reported that similiar requests are being made by other Sunday Associations throughout the state. And, similiarly, they are being met with silence.

"They can't continue to ignore it," King said. "And yet, so far, we have received no official response from any media regarding the matter."

King said that he has been informed that Dayton newspaper publishers are "collaborating" with the publishers of a daily Columbus newspaper in efforts to devise a "unified front" on the question.

"We realize that it's a matter of economics here," King said. "Most of the media receive a considerable amount of advertising space from stores opening on Sunday and this move would put them into quite a bind.

"Even so, we feel we must urge an adherence to a code of advertising ethics and delete that copy which indicates Sunday openings and which publicly scoffs at the law."

The association secretary said that "follow-up" letters would be sent out at the end of this week in an effort to generate further action.

It was emphasized by the association that this wouldn't apply to stores selling accepted "necessities" on Sunday.

This latest move received the backing of the Central Ohio Better Business Bureau when the matter was first brought up last week.

CHECK VENTILATION
Whitehall Fire Chief Urges Care During Snow Time

As the song says, "Snow time ain't no time to sit at home and spoon," and that's especially true if you live in a poorly ventilated home, warns Whitehall Fire Chief Arthur Reddy.

Recent carbon monoxide deaths during cold weather caused Reddy to urge householders this week to check heating appliances to make sure they're in good condition for use during cold weather.

"Ordinary precautions and common sense will prevent almost all home accidents involving heating appliances," Chief Reddy said.

He suggested that furnaces, water heaters, incinerators and room heaters be checked for adequate ventilation, proper adjustment and safe connections.

For any heating appliance to operate safely and to its full capacity, it must have ventilation, Chief Reddy explained.

Burning any fuel without a good fresh air supply can produce carbon monoxide. Vents carry away the products of combustion, and therefore should be checked regularly, he pointed out.

The Whitehall chief outlined the following checklist to insure the best and safest use from equipment:

1. Make sure the heater is vented to a good chimney.

2. See that the vent pipe goes up, not down, to reach the chimney.

3. See that there is a cleanout opening with cap in the chimney under the vent (stove pipe).

4. See that the chimney is clean. (One way is to blow smoke into the clean-out opening to make sure it is drawing properly. If the smoke is drawn into the opening and up the chimney, the draft is sufficient.)

5. Use a safety thimble to keep the pipe from going too far into the chimney and seal around the pipe with cement or plaster where it enters the chimney.

6. See that there is outside fresh air to the space where the heater is located.

7. Have a qualified, licensed installer connect and adjust your heater.

8. Don't use a cook stove for room heating.

"Finally," Chief Reddy emphasized, "don't neglect calling an authorized repairman if you suspect that your heating equipment is not working properly, or if you smell fumes. It may cost a few dollars but it may save your life."

To Close Or Not To Close . . . The Question

Our processes of government have been undergoing some real tests since the recent election in which the Sunday opening amendment was defeated. This was expected.

We have long contended that all laws should be either enforced or taken off the books. Until the law is removed from the books it would appear that public officials have an obligation to enforce it.

In the meantime there seems to be much concern over just what kind of a mandate the defeat of the amendment really was. Did it mean that people don't want business places open on Sunday or did it mean that they just didn't want an amendment that make it possible for a select few to stay open?

And then too, just what part did the church people of Ohio play in the defeat of this amendment? And just what are all the factors behind this whole situation?

Our belief is that church people as well as many other groups had a pronounced part in the matter and were aiming at retention of Sunday as such . . . a family day. We believe our people are fearful of the consequences of an around the board seven day week for business operation and that all the leisure time we have gained may end up in just more doubling up in jobs and extensive commercialism on Sunday.

We have long contended that there is no language that speaks so emphatically as that of the pocketbook, and that the answer to this whole matter is to make Sunday operation unprofitable.

It remains a fact that no new business is created on Sunday. It is merely an ad-

Tax Rate Hikes Set In County

Bexley and Columbus taxing districts are included in 37 in the county which will be handed a tax increase in 1963, while Whitehall is among other districts which will see a decrease.

The figures were announced by County Auditor Fred C. Dunn Wednesday.

Dunn said that the tax rates of another nine districts would not be announced until school levies are determined by votes in December. These involve Washington and Madison Township areas.

Columbus residents will pay $32 per $1,000 valuation, an increase of 60 cents.

The rates of each taxing district include 20 cents to the state for retirement of the Korean Bonus and $5.30 to Franklin County.

Two-thirds to three-fourths of each rate benefits schools. For example, in Columbus, $23.36 of the $32 is for school levies or bonds. Columbus' current rate is $31.40.

Bexley will be increased to $34 from its present $31 while Whitehall, now with a rate of $32.20, will drop to $30.60.

Columbus School District rate of $31.06 will be upped to $31.66, Dunn said.

"Four-H Club work has been very educational, enjoyable and profitable to me," Lorenz says.

The all-expense paid trip to the congress for Lorenz was provided by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation, Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corp. and E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co.

The other three winners from Ohio are Charles Gruber of Caledonia, Teena Long of Marion and Mary Mayer, also from Marysville.

Rams Ready Paper Drive

Whitehall Rams' Athletic Boosters are asking area residents to save old newspapers to help them in a paper drive they'll stage on Saturday morning, Dec. 8.

Papers should be placed on the front porch. If there is an unusually large amount of papers collected at any one house, the Boosters ask that the resident call Athletic Director Ray Schick (BE. 5-2385) for special pick-up.

A trailer will also be parked on the north side of the high school Dec. 1 for persons who desire to drop off paper bundles.

'NEWSBOYS' PICTURED ON PAGE FIVE

Eastern, Gahanna Kiwanis Paper Sale Set Dec. 4, 5, 6

The "Eastern and Gahanna Kiwanis Story" is a big and proud one this year.

You can see for yourself Dec. 4, 5 and 6 when men from all walks of life — your neighbors, fellow business and professional associates — turn "newsboys" and sell, house-to-house, their annual newspaper.

All they ask, the men of the Eastern Kiwanis Club of Columbus and the Kiwanis Club of Gahanna, is that you leave your porch light burning bright for them as they canvass the area selling their story.

The will be knocking on your door to ask for a contribution for the special Christmas Welfare Newspaper.

Your help, we are reminded, will enable these Kiwanians to continue their program of community projects to improve this area.

Within the pages of this newspaper they'll be selling is the true and total story of Kiwanis in action.

The community could not begin to purchase the time and effort expended by these men in civic projects.

Yet, they all give their time freely to carry on a program of such proportions that it touches most everyone in the area in one way or another.

The money that it takes to carry on these projects is raised through the sale of the Christmas Welfare Newspaper.

Your contribution will help make this program possible.

The advertising committee expressed its appreciation this week to the hundreds of merchants who supported the Kiwanians in this effort.

Public To View Woodcrest At Dedication

SIXTH GRADE CHORUS rehearses for the program planned at Woodcrest's dedication next Wednesday at 7:30.

CLASSIC TREND

Women have returned to the classics again this season — with history-making hairdos. New coiffures are closely molded to the head, serving as natural frames individualized for each woman's face. The simplified look is a welcome substitute for the big, bouffant trend-setters. To broaden the scope of Coiffures in the newer sculptured trend, a basic hair cut has been devised which is easily adaptable to different styles.

The acting cast includes nearly 75, comprising an organist, a narrator, 19 persons with acting parts, vocalists, an angel choir, and an ensemble.

The fully costumed cast presents the complete Christmas story dating from the earliest prophetic utterance concerning the coming of Christ to the safely guided flight of the Christ Child into Egypt.

A narrator will keep the pageant moving during scene changes and acting parts, with Scriptures.

The entire pageant takes one and one-half hours, with an early one-half hour of Christmas music by the organist at 7:30.

Communism Course Aired At Bexley

No policy changes have been made by the Bexley School Board as to the present policy of teaching communism in that school system, according to Supt. Emerson Jarvis.

Jarvis reported that the subject is discussed "periodically" in classwork beginning in the seventh grade and that a six-week discussion period is held for seniors.

The matter had been discussed at length by the board members but they have m[illegible] no definite decision on cha[illegible] ing the practice.

Go Roundup Camporee

A special Co Roundup camporee for the White Oaks District will be held Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 1 and 2, at a field owned by Don Casto at the northwest corner of Broad-st and Hamilton-rd.

The public is invited to observe the Scouts in action from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and also at 7 that night for the campfire. The program during the day will consist of demonstrations on Scoutcraft — fire by friction, cooking, first aid, rope making, and signalling.

The campfire Saturday night will feature plenty of good ol' Scout entertainment — Indian dancing, skits and songs.

"The purpose of the camporee is to encourage and get new boys into Scouting by letting them observe the good times and fun that makes up the Scouting program," explained Don Cook, district camping chairman in charge of the camporee.

"We hope that all Cub Scouts and prospective Scouts in this area will make a point to attend this affair and see what Scouting is all about," added Cook, stating that he hoped to see a lot of spectators.

Approximately 300 boys from the White Oaks District will be demonstrating and showing Scouting to the public. These Scouts are from the following troops: 71, 107, 135, 166, 195, 231, 277, 288, 369, 372, and 373.

Helping Cook in the administration department will be Paul Love, district executive; Tom Currier, Lloyd LDouglas and Sam Krausse.

Newsies Take Applications For Clothing

Parents and guardians of needy children in Columbus and Franklin County may now apply for clothing at the Charity Newsies headquarters, 716 S. High-st. The office, under the direction of Ed Brinkman, opened Monday and will remain open until the latter part of February.

Brinkman reported that applications are running about 10 per cent higher than last year. By Tuesday evening 760 applications were received for approximately 2100 children.

The service is made possible by the sales of newspapers to the public in a drive Dec. 15 by 155 active newsies led by Robert Dienst. Started over a half-century ago, the Newsies, who provided clothing for 6441 boys and girls last year, expect hundreds of applications. Each application is investigated before the children receive the clothing.

One parent or guardian from each family should enter the back door of the High-st office any time between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturday. Children should not accompany the adults.

The Bigger They Are . . . .

No man ever lived and got to be somebody, as the world measures success, without making his share of boo-boos. Few of them were actually disastrous, but such fumbles always cost too much in the general public mind.

The most recent instance, now vividly in the mind of the entire literate population of this beloved land, was Howard K. Smith's lamebrain use of Alger Hiss on his nationwide TV program.

The very title of that presentation, as announced in advance, was immediately evaluated by millions as a gratuitous insult to an honorable and dedicated public personality. It appears to have been more than an intended smear job; it was a deliberate attempted assassination blast against the Nixon image.

Despite the fact that millions of Nixon's admirers deplored his final "swan song" fumble, decent people still resent vigorously any deliberate blast that can only be interpreted as "kicking a man when he is down".

Since that disgraceful deviation from common decency, and in light of the futile attempts by everyone, including Haggerty, to rationalize this monstrous breach of good sense and good manners, millions of thoughtful and informed citizens recognize the whole mess as being deliberated by some top level minds in advance. Then came the afterclap and the whole disgraceful event has served a fine and salubrious purpose.

It is difficult to conceive how the American people can be made to laugh this one off. We hope the air waves will not be so cluttered up again in the future.

Cites Judd Report In Support Of UNICEF

To The Publisher:

Thank you for the space afforded on Oct. 25, to a letter from Mr. G. Weir Hartman, Executive Director, Columbus Area Council of Churches, in praise of UNICEF.

Side by side with this well documented communication another one appeared, by Miss Hazel M. Mann, which calls for a few rectifications.

According to Miss Mann, the United States "carry about 80 per cent of the burden" of contributing to UNICEF.

A report delivered to the House of Representatives on Aug. 14 by Walter H. Judd, a Republican Congressman for 20 years, states:

"In 1961 contributions to the central account of UNICEF totaled $22,959,796, of which the United States contributed $12 million subject to the condition that the U.S. contribution should not exceed 46 per cent of the total government contributions. Governments other than the United States contributed $10,959,796 to the central account and in addition $2,393,189 (mostly in convertible currencies) toward the implementation of UNICEF-aided projects and $921,743 for local administrative and related costs of UNICEF field offices . . ."

Miss Mann's opinion about the limited help UNICEF is giving to children and mothers is contradicted by another section of the Judd report:

"During the first 15 years of UNICEF's operation, over 148 million children and young adults were vaccinated against tuberculosis in programs aided by UNICEF; over 17 million mothers and children were cured of yaws; almost 9.7 million mothers and children, victims of trachoma and acute conjunctivitis, were saved from possible blindness; almost 700,000 children and mothers were treated for leprosy; in 1961 alone, about 30 million mothers and children were protected from malaria, and 5.5 million children benefited from supplementary feeding programs. In addition many millions of children benefited from the 160 dairies and milk drying plants and the over 19,000 maternal and child health centers which UNICEF has thus far helped to equip."

Miss Mann's statement that "Communist dictatorships" and their friends "Receive a large portion" of UNICEF's aid is refuted by the Judd report:

"During the period of its emergency operation, from 1947 to 1950, UNICEF, in accordance with its mandate, concentrated on aiding children of war-ravaged countries, mainly in Europe. In 1950 UNICEF began to shift its main emphasis to programs of long-range benefit for children in economically underdeveloped countries. From 1961 to date, European countries which have received aid from UNICEF have been: Austria, Finland, Germany, Greece, Italy, Poland, and Yugoslavia. UNICEF aid is currently reaching millions of needy mothers and children in over 100 countries without discrimination because of race, creed, nationality status or political belief in Africa, Asia, the Middle East, Europe, and Latin America."

Miss Mann's opinion of UNICEF Greeting Cards does not coincide with Mr. Judd's:

"Sold all year round in over 100 countries for the benefit of the Children's Fund. UNICEF greeting cards reflect the ethical and spiritual values of the many people who make up the United Nations. Their designs are chosen solely on artistic merit, and are donated by well-known artists. UNICEF cards seek to maintain a universal appeal, and to express a sharing of human aspirations-which is the basic spirit of the Judeo-Christian teachings."

Congressional Record reprints of the Judd report are at your readers' disposal.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Freeze-Drying Of Food Moves Ahead

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

Fruits — Citrus fruits, apples, Emperor grapes, cranberries.

Vegetables — Yams, broccoli, salad greens, cabbage, celery, winter squash.

By 1970 a $2 billion annual business in freeze-dried foods is forecast by members of the food industry, as reported in "Food Engineering" for 1962. This amount would be the equivalent of four billion pounds of raw products, assuming an average price of 50 cents a pound.

Mrs. Franks

Freeze-dried foods are enjoying a promising start in the market place, chiefly because they require no refrigeration and weigh only one-third to one-tenth their original weight. Because of this, the distribution costs are lower than for frozen or canned foods. This partially explains why freeze-dried foods probably will find a permanent place on the shelves of our grocery stores.

These convenience foods that do not require refrigeration likely will be accepted by the homemaker. However, she is not the only consumer of freeze-dried foods. The outdoorsmen, such as hunters, campers, fishermen and hikers, like freeze-dried foods because they are light in weight and of high quality. It is possible to have chops in the wildest of wilds with freeze-dried foods.

The institutional market includes hotels, hospitals, restaurants, rail, air, and steamship lines, and vending machines for in-plant feeding. This large market needs the uniform, high quality, convenient storage and low preparation costs offered by freeze-dried foods. Today, chicken, beef, shrimp, crab meat and mushrooms are being used in freeze-dried form by hotels and restaurants.

These foods are also used by the military for individual and multiple field servings in balanced menus. Adaptable for tropic as well as polar conditions, freeze-dried foods will probably play an important part in future space travel.

For the present, the use of these foods in the home will be limited to prepared dishes, such as casseroles, stews, soups and gourmet foods. This is partially because of the universal use of home freezers. However, this convenience represents a great attraction to our European neighbors who have less refrigeration.

We can be sure that we are going to see more freeze-dried foods on the shelves of our grocery stores. Just how fast they gain a share of your food dollar depends on how much processors are able to lower cost of production and how much consumers are willing to pay for the added convenience. You will cast your vote regardless of whether you do or do not purchase freeze-dried foods.

BARGAIN DAZE

Six full pages tell the tale
Of X's giant clearance sale.
Radio and TV, too,
Plug the values there for you.
X will not be undersold.
So the customers are told.
Daily bargains, never fear,
Though clearance comes but twice a year.
Children, tell your Mom and Dad
Of X's bargains to be had
For just their check or charge-a-plate,
And come to X and don't be late.
Competition sure looks pale
When X puts on a bargain sale.

This is not real poetry. It's just a harmless jingle. Nor is it intended as a slap at retail merchants. It is merely an attempt to describe the instinctive, first reactions of a prospective buyer to current advertising.

Retailers are in business to make an honest living, as are other professional people. But they are also giving an indispensable public service. They are a necessary part of the modern picture. Retail stores are the only logical outlet for the fruits of free enterprise.

Despite an occasional feeling that one has been taken, so many merchants are honest and so few dishonest, that most sales are satisfactory to both parties. Remember, we buyers could be wrong, too, once in a while.

Frosting On The Cake

By
"UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

What millions of Americans need right now is to have their souls lifted and leave their faces alone. The longer I live the more amazed I am at the large number of "sad sack" people I meet.

What a tragedy it is for people who are better off right here in this yet-free and great country not to have sense enough to know it. They go around with the corners of their mouths turned down, their souls out of joint and their dispositions in deep freeze.

Truly wise people know that if you are "alive and walking" any morning it is a fine day rain or shine. Be alive every minute of every day.

Inner illumination is that magic and priceless something that puts colors in the rainbow instead of "bunions on the soul." With all thy getting, get understanding, saith the Lord.

I can remember a thousand times at least, where I went into a strange store to get something I wanted and needed right now and encountered a total lack of interest in trying to do a little business.

Anything that inspires confidence in the integrity of a business is priceless and people will do business persistently with a dependable and agreeable institution

Lazy and ill-mannered sales people never build up any business; they just "ride the payroll."

There are just two kinds of employes in any business. Those who are "on the way up" and those who are on the way out.

The wrongers never blame themselves. They always blame the boss. Then when their "roof falls in," they think the world is agin 'em. It always will be until they get the clinkers out of their mind and souls.

Mr. Kennedy is constantly begging all of us to "get this country going." There is a way to do it. Go to work with a song in your soul instead of "a pain in your sawdust."

Old Mr. Barn Owl Proves He's Farmer's Best Trap

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

A few days ago I received a call from a man who had found a monkey-faced owl in a field that had apparently been shot by a hunter. He had no proof, of course, that it was shot, and I explained that barn owls hunt fields for rats and mice and that it could have died from natural causes.

In any case, the farmer who loses a barn owl, commonly called monkey-faced owl, has lost the best mouse trap that was ever built. These are perhaps the most beneficial birds of prey. Several studies have confirmed that 99 per cent of the diet of these birds is rats and mice.

Barn owls often take up residence in farm buildings, church belfries and the like. They fly on silent wings at night, and rarely are humans aware of their feathered neighbors.

Nests of barn owls are unusual affairs, for they are made out of the bones and fur of rats and mice—the remains of past feasts. You see, when an owl eats a rat or a mo' it does not just chew off the n and throw away the fur and bones. It generally swallows mice whole and large sections of rats whole, and strong juices digest the meat. The fur and bones are formed into little balls called pellets, which the owls cough up or regurgitate. Digestion is complete and the pellets break down to form rather soft nest material. The few nests that I have examined have all been made of these pellets.

Pellets are also important in helping scientists determine the food habits of owls. The tiny bones, usually skulls, of the prey animals are sorted out and identified. This is fairly easy for a trained biologist, and all the species of mice can be identifed by portions of their skeletons. Birds, reptiles and other animals can also be so identified should they occur in the pellets. Other kinds of owls have a much more varied diet than barn owls.

Strangely enough, we do a lot of owl watching on summer evenings. Lights at our window attract large moths and other flying insects. Several times we have seen screech owls fly out of the night and strike at a moth. It is all done so quickly that it is not usually possible to tell if they catch any or not. But usually the big moth does not return to the window, and we assume that the screech owl is dining.

Winter is the best time to see owls. With the leaves gone, you can often see them flush from hiding places in forests. I have even seen them out hunting on a clear moonlight night when there is a snow cover on the ground. Under these conditions you can see very well, and owls fly not swiftly but silently. When you see one drift out of the shadows, it makes you glad you're not a mouse.

'Trust Your Neighbor' Should Be Way Of Life

We have often heard the words, "Love Thy Neighbor" but we have not so often heard or put into practice the implication of this command, "Trust your neighbor." For if we truly love our neighbor we shall also carry out love to its logical conclusion so that we can be trustful to the place that true neighborliness exists between ourselves and all other people.

Rev. Buckley

In the Gospel according to Luke, chapter 10, verses 25 through 29 "a certain lawyer stood up and made trial of him saying, Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life? And He said unto him, What is written in the law? How readest thou? And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind: AND THY NEIGHBOR AS THYSELF. And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right; this do and thou shalt live. Be he, desiring to justify himself, said unto Jesus, AND WHO IS MY NEIGHBOR?"

Jesus answered the question of the lawyer by the parable of the Good Samaritan. The implications of this parable are that the true neighbor, the man who truly loves God and his neighbor is the one who trusts him. A priest went by and saw the man beaten by the robbers lying there but he failed to trust him enough to even stop and say a kind word to him. The Levite did the same thing, seeing the man in evident need, simply passed by on the other side.

But happily this is not the end of the story. Along came the Samaritan, just a common person not very high up in the social scale, and he didn't stop to think about what might happen to him, he had eyes only for the man in great need. And he ministered to him, went the "second mile." Jesus answered the question of the lawyer by asking him a question then, "Which of these three, thinkest thou, proved neighbor unto him that fell among robbers?" And he said, "He that showed mercy on him." Then Jesus said, "Go, and do thou likewise."

If you love your neighbor, you will trust him is the logical conclusion one must draw from this great passage from life given to us by Jesus.

Most people in our community and in our world are to be trusted and are worthy of our trust. There are far more good, honest people than there are the kind not to be trusted. If this were not the case our police force and law enforcement officers would never be able to keep evil from taking over.

Facts and practicality prove the truth of the parable that most people are worthy of our trust. We occasionally hear of a hitch-hiker who has violated a trust of someone who has tried to be a Good Samaritan to them. Fortunately these incidents are not so common. There are many, many more acts of trustworthiness that cause us to feel humanity is worthy of our trust than not as we go about daily living.

How much better it is to live in the trustful manner and always ready to be the Good Samaritan.

—Rev. H. W. Buckley, Pastor
Westgate EUB Church

Leftovers . . .

by John McPeek

The trouble with too many of us parents is we aren't fit to have children.

It's relatively easy to become a father or mother, but darn few of us, in the true sense of the word, become parents.

McPeek

Nurturing a child along the path to adulthood so that he develops fully all his inherent faculties —honor, integrity, intelligence, respect and perserverance — is a demanding, never-ending, full-time duty.

Most of us, at best, seldom come close to meeting this responsibility fully.

If it were not for our school teachers, Sunday school instructors, Boy Scout leaders, 4-H leaders, etc., taking up much of the slack in our parental obligations, the population of our already over-crowded penal institutions would be double or more.

I am no exception. Too often, much to my shame in moments of awareness, I fail as a parent. Frequently I impatiently brush aside my childrens' demands for attention—an attention which I could convert into moments of instruction and guidance.

I have no valid excuse. Laziness? Selfish with my time? Those are not excuses.

Like many, I'm big on lip service to education and self-improvement, but too often fall flat when it comes to action on behalf of my children.

Perhaps if all parents were to emulate the characteristics of Jewish and Chinese families we would do better by our children.

Both of those races, although dissimiliar physically and in cultural heritage, share a strong family trait —mutual respect between parent and child.

From infancy the children of our Jewish and Chinese Americans are taught to have unswerving respect and devotion for their parents. This is returned equally strong by the parents, who give maximum attention to the development of their children.

They imbue their children with a reverent love of learning and an intense, life-lasting dedication to the pursuit of self-improvement.

Perhaps that partly is why we often subject both of these groups to persecution—their superiority as parents probably make many of us uncomfortably aware of our shortcomings—and rather than attempting to erase these shortcomings we find it easier to castigate those who do better.

If by chance any bigots are reading this and are afraid to face the truth (all bigots are), take a look at the roster sheets of our penitentiaries—you'll find hardly enough Jews or Chinese in all of them to populate one cellblock.

On the other hand, it is not a secret that most of our institutions of higher learning have an unwritten rule to limit issuance of general academic scholarships for Jews because brilliant Jewish students are so numerous. Colleges and universities in areas which have heavy Chinese populations practice similar rules.

vant, ge that some operators have over others.

It is a similar situation to that of trading stamps. No honest business man can truthfully say that trading stamps have been good for our economy and 95 per cent of those giving stamps out today recognize that they merely have a yoke around their necks which they can't throw off.

Sunday operation of business can be made unprofitable and stores will revert to six day operations when those people who do not want Sunday operations will religiously follow this program: Do not buy from the store that is open on Sunday . . . anytime . . . Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday."

As we know business people we can well believe that this will concern them far more than any threat of law enforcement.

This is the language of the pocketbook. This is the language business people understand. Nothing so much disturbs them as a complaint from a customer. If those who want action on this matter . . . the church people, the union people, etc., will organize their campaign along these lines we predict a solution of the problem.

The present efforts to bring about wide-open Sunday operation appears to be a matter of some groups merely jockeying for position. But if the matter comes to a place where no store has an advantage over the other, then the economy of the situation comes to a place like that of trading stamps . . . a yoke around the necks of business and in the end the consumer pays.

ADVENT RITUAL SLATED SATURDAY

A public blessing of the Advent Wreath will be performed by Msgr. Francis Schwendeman, pastor of St. Leo's Church, Saturday, Dec. 1, 3 p.m. Sponsored by the Christmas Is Christ's Birthday committee, the event may be seen at the Columbus Public Library Grant at State, lower level.

Originating in Germany centuries ago, this custom is becoming a cherished one throughout our country. Many homes where the family is trying to "put Christ back into Christmas" have adopted the Advent Wreath.

Four low candle holders, surrounded by any circle of Christmas greenery, are placed on the dining table. In the holders are set three purple candles and one rose one. Though the colored candles are customary, four white ones may be subtituted.

These candles represent the four weeks of Advent, and each Sunday an additional candle is lighted.

Traditionally, the family gathers around the table at the evening meal daily, and the proper number of candles are lighted. The prayer of the week is said, further stressing the religious rather than the material side of Christmas.

At the ceremony Saturday, leaflets explaining completely the customs of Advent will be available, according to Mrs. Robert Fiztsimons, chairman of the committee sponsoring the event.

Miss Mary Boland, 2246 N. Fourth-st, is chairman of the hospitality committee. Assisting her are: Mrs. Raymond Capretta, 127 Haldy-rd; Mrs. W. H. Cline, 3263 Evans-dr; Grove City; Mrs. John Humphrey, 121 N. Princeton-av; Mrs. Howard Huntzinger, 4415 Rosemary-pkwy.

Mrs. Thomas Kenny, 371 N. Virginia Lee-rd; Mrs. Charles W. Lingo, 310 S. Broadleigh-rd; Mrs. Emanuel Lombardi, Rt. 1, Lockbourne, and Mrs. Robert Prindle, Rt. 2, Orient.

The United Council of Church Women of Columbus and Franklin County, and the Columbus Diocesan Councils of Catholic Men, Women and Youth, in 1952 formed Christmas Is Christ's Birthday Committee. Purpose was to bring public attention to the true meaning of Christian observance of Christmas.

DEMONSTRATING PREPARATION of a simple Advent Wreath are Mrs. Robert Capretta, 211 Guernsey-av, at left, and Mrs. Robert Fitzsimons, 433 Morrison-av. Mrs. Capretta is chairman of the Christmas Is Christ's Birthday Committee for the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women. Mrs. Fitzsimons is in charge of the Advent Wreath blessing to be held Saturday, Dec. 1, 3 p.m. at the Columbus Public Library, Grant at State, lower level.

Nine Attendants In Autumn Gold, Green Precede Arlene Lazaroff To Altar

East Columbus Church of Christ was decorated with bouquets of gladioli, mums and palms, and lighted by tapers in candelabra for the September wedding of Miss Arlene Lazaroff and Mr. Robert Bruce Kline.

Rev. J. Belacastro read the marriage service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lazaroff of 222 S. Harding-rd, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kline, 138 Coolidge-av.

The bridal gown of silk organza was designed with a buoffant skirt, caught at the hemline with a spray of Venice lace and featuring a five-tiered cathedral train; bodice of Venice lace accented with sprays of seed pearls and iridescents, and long tapered sleeves.

Five tiers of silk illusion veiling was caught to a crown of matching lace, iridescents and seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of white roses and orchids on a lace-covered Bible.

Mrs. Sherry Kline, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of autumn gold taffeta topped with a velvet bodice and elbow-length sleeves, and a cicular headpiece with a short veil.

Bridesmaids, Miss Shirley Bowler, Miss Martha Stefanov and Miss Mary Ann Milenkovich, and bridesmatrons, Mrs. Catherine Waldo and Mrs. Marlene Elioff, wore identically styled gowns in emerald green.

Junior attendants, Luba Anakioski and Debbie Ristoff, were gowned in autumn gold.

Each carried bronze chrysanthemums with accents of green and gold tulle.

MRS. ROBERT BRUCE KLINE

Mr. James Kline served as bestman for his brother, and guests were seated by Mr. Ted Elioff, Mr. James Waldo, Mr. Raymond Klein, Mr. John Hatfield and Mr. Bill Smith.

Tommy Stavroff was the ringbearer.

Dinner was served for more than 600 guests at the Desert Inn, and the reception was held at the Macedonian Hall, 795 S. Front-st.

The new Mrs. Kline is employed by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Mr. Kline served four years in the US Navy, and is now employed by F and R Lazarus and Co.

BEAUTY BATH
What's a shampoo to you and your hair? To some it's just another laundering chore. (Like sheets or towels.) To others, it's a prelude to troubles, snarls (in hair and mood), harshness (from too-strong shampoos), or haze (from soap curds that curdle and stayed). But to our regular salon customers, a shampoo is a "beauty bath." What's the big difference? We'll show you!
